

PATENT
MAY 16 1877

TRADE

MARK

MARK TWAIN'S

SCRAP BOOK

REGISTERED PATENTS

APRIL 23RD 1878

ENGLAND

UNITED STATES

FRANCE

MAY 16TH 1877

JUNE 24TH 1873

MAY 18TH 1877

JANU 25TH 1881

PUBLISHED BY

DANIEL SLOTE & CO.

NEW YORK

DIRECTIONS

USE BUT LITTLE MOISTURE AND ONLY ON THE GUMMED LINES

PRESS THE SCRAP ON WITHOUT WETTING IT

November 1889 to November 1891 -

INDEX.

INDEX.

INDEX.

M

Page

M

Page

M

Page

N

O

P

Q

R

R

intimate friend of Col. Ingersoll, and on account was asked to perform the cerem northern cities.

INDEX.

THURSDAY MORNING, NOV. 7, 1889.

GOLDEN WEDDING.

The Robbins Celebration at Rocky Hill.

Correspondence of THE COURANT.

ROCKY HILL, Nov. 5.

This afternoon, from 2 to 4, at the old brick tavern on Hartford avenue, built by Esquire and Captain John Robbins in 1767, his grandson Walter and his wife, born Abigail Sophia Wilder, celebrated their golden wedding. There was a large number of relatives and friends present, with them the six living children of Mr. and Mrs. Robbins, Fred W. Robbins, John R. Robbins and wife, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Prickett of Mt. Holly, N. J., Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Brainard of New Haven, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Stanley of New Britain, Miss Anne M. Robbins of Boston.

Mr. Max A. Plorme and Miss Marian Brainard, the grandchildren.

Relatives present were: Mr. and Mrs. J. Lyman Wilder and Miss Estelle Wilder of Essex, Mr. and Mrs. Nahum C. Wilder, Mrs. L. P. Daniels and Mr. and Mrs. Philemon Robbins, Jr., of Hartford, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Wilcox and Miss Martha G. Merriam of Rocky Hill, Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Havens of Wethersfield, Mrs. A. L. Peabody of New York, Mr. and Mrs. James Wilson of Bridgeport.

Among the other friends and guests were Mrs. Abram Brainard of New Haven, Mr. E. N. Stanley, Miss Carrie L. Stanley, Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Merwin and Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Williams of New Britain, Miss Susan Williams, Miss Susan Robbins, the Rev. John C. Kimball and wife, Miss Kate F. Ellis and Miss Edith Spencer of Hartford, the Rev. A. C. Adams and wife of Wethersfield, Mr. John Norton of Meriden, Mrs. Hulda Smith and daughter of Warehouse Point, Dr. and Mrs. R. M. Griswold, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Shipman, Mrs. F. Sherwood, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Belden, Mrs. F. Churchill, Mrs. H. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. S. Dimock, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Griswold, Mrs. M. Belding, Mrs. M. W. Williams, Mrs. Thomas Warner, Miss Amelia Chapman, Mrs. Emeline Goodrich, Mrs. M. A. Shipman, Mrs. Susan Baldwin, Mrs. Esther Cook and Mrs. J. B. Cook, all of Rocky Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. Robbins received numerous presents, the most conspicuous of which was a large and beautifully decorated wedding cake, completely dotted over with gold pieces from the children and near relatives. A tea set of Haviland china and a handsome lamp were the gift of the Ladies' Benevolent Society of Rocky Hill. There were also a number of gold pieces and various other gifts from other friends.

In the evening the relatives, to the number of about thirty, had a very delightful reunion.

The Robbins family in this line in Rocky Hill has paid due heed to the injunction—Increase and multiply. Mr. Walter Robbins has had eight children by his one wife, six of whom are living; his father, Frederick, having had three wives, had a family of fifteen children; and the grandfather, Captain John, with three wives, had a family of twelve, making thirty-five in the one line in three generations.

BROWN-INGERSOLL.

Colonel Robert G. Ingersoll's Eldest Daughter Married.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Miss Eva Ingersoll, aged 26, eldest daughter of Colonel Robert G. Ingersoll, was married to-day by Judge Barrett to Mr. Walsen Hill Brown, head of the banking firm of W. H. Brown & Brothers. The wedding occurred at Colonel Ingersoll's residence, 400 Fifth avenue, and was a quiet affair, only intimate friends being invited.

Judge Barrett is an intimate friend of Col. Ingersoll, and on his account was asked to perform the ceremony.

MARRIED IN BALTIMORE.

A Son of Railroad Commissioner Woodruff and a Baltimore Lady.

The Baltimore American of yesterday says:—

Miss Lucy Este Crawford, the niece of Mrs. Marshall P. Smith, of 1518 Park avenue, was married last evening at 6 o'clock to Rev. George C. Woodruff, son of Judge Woodruff, of Litchfield, Conn., and pastor of the Congregational Church, at Colorado Springs, Col. The wedding took place at the home of Mrs. Smith, and was quite a pretty one. Rev. Joseph Reynolds, Jr., of New York, officiated, and was assisted by Rev. William Durant, of Boundary Avenue Presbyterian Church. During the ceremony the bride and groom stationed themselves in the back parlor underneath a large floral bell, surrounded by small plants and tall palms. The bride's costume was of white satin, trimmed with orange blossoms. She wore a tulle veil and ornaments of diamonds and pearls. In her hand she carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums, tied with white moire ribbon. In a half circle around the bridal couple the ushers and bridesmaids were formed. They were:

Ushers, the Rev. Sherrod Soule, Boston; the Rev. William G. Thayer, Boston; James P. Woodruff, Amherst College, Amherst, Mass.; Lewis B. Woodruff, Yale; the Rev. Frank J. Goodwin, New York; Joseph E. Calhoun, Cornwall, Conn.; the Rev. Frank R. Shipman, Hartford, Conn., and Frank D. Pastorius, of Colorado.

The bridesmaids were Miss Smith, Miss Alexinia Smith and Miss Josephine Smith, of Baltimore; Miss Mary Reynolds, of Hagerstown; Miss Moore, of Brooklyn, and Miss Woodruff, of Litchfield, Conn. They were all attired in white silk gowns, with overdresses of white mull.

Mr. Edwin R. Tucker, of New York, was the groom's best man.

A reception followed the nuptials, at which there were present Mr. and Mrs. Crawford Smith, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Spence, Mr. and Mrs. George S. Brown, Miss Anna Turnbull, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Pleasants, Miss Mary Prouditt, Miss Fannie Albert and Mr. and Mrs. William B. Phillips.

BAYARD-CLYMER.

Wedding of the Ex-Secretary of State.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—The Hon. Thomas F. Bayard, ex-secretary of state, and Miss Mary Willing Clymer, were married at 1 o'clock this afternoon at the bride's residence, No. 1,617 H street, in the presence of a most distinguished company. The intention was to have the wedding as quiet as possible and the invitations numbering about 150 were confined to the relatives of the contracting parties and a few personal friends. Among the latter were ex-President and Mrs. Cleveland, ex-Secretary and Mrs. Fairchild, and Mrs. Dickinson, ex-Assistant Secretary and Mrs. Rives, who came to Washington for the express purpose of attending the wedding. The Bayard family were represented by Miss Bayard, Misses Florence, Louise and Ellen Bayard, Philip J. Bayard, James Williams, Jeremiah Smith and wife, and Miss Elizabeth Smith, all of Delaware, Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Warren of Boston, and Thomas F. Bayard, Jr., of New Haven, Conn.

The bride is a great-granddaughter of George Clymer, one of the signers of the declaration of independence and a relative of ex-Representative Heister Clymer of Pennsylvania and Mrs. Eila Dietz Clymer, president of the New York Sorosis. She was given in marriage by her brother, Dr. Shubrick Clymer of Boston. Among the other persons present were, General B. F. Beale and family, Hon. George Bancroft, Mrs. Story, Justice and Mrs. Field, Justice and Mrs. Lamar, Mrs. M. W. Fuller and Assistant Secretary Ade. A reception and breakfast followed the marriage, and soon afterward, the newly married couple left the city for a tour to New York and other northern cities.

At Philadelphia this afternoon Mr. Edward Williams Hooker of this city will be married to Miss Mary Martha Turner, daughter of Dr. Charles P. Turner of Philadelphia, and granddaughter of Mr. Roland Mather of this city. The groom is a lineal descendant of Thomas Hooker, and the bride of Increase Mather, two of the noted names of early New England history.

HOOKER—TURNER—In Philadelphia, Nov. 12, by Rev. Lewis Francis of Brooklyn, N. Y., Edward W. Hooker of Hartford, Conn., and Miss May M. Turner of Philadelphia. 1889

The marriage of Edward W. Hooker, of this city, and Miss Mary Mather Turner, in the West Spruce Street Presbyterian church, Philadelphia, last evening, was a society event in that city. The interesting features were the many ladies in evening dress, the great profusion of handsome plants, hiding the wall as high as the gallery back of the pulpit, and the presence of many guests out of the city. There has not been a prettier wedding in this church in many a day. Some handsome chrysanthemums were among the floral decorations.

The bride is a daughter of Dr. Charles P. Turner, one of the best known citizens of Philadelphia, a director of the Union Trust Company and other organizations, and one of the most active members of the Society of the Cincinnati, and a grand-daughter of Roland Mather, of this city. The bride is tall and looked very stately in a rich gown of white corded silk with a veil of old lace, a family heirloom. She carried a bouquet of orchids. The maid of honor was the bride's cousin, Miss Conyngham, of Wilkesbarre, and wore a gown of pale yellow and carried a bouquet to match. There were four bridesmaids besides—Miss Bessie Morris, Miss Helen Cumming and Miss Alice Trumbull, of Philadelphia, and Miss Margaret Sturgis, of New York, all in white striped mull gowns trimmed with white ribbons. The best man was George H. Williams, of Hartford, and there were four ushers—Leland Howard Hooker and T. William Hooker, brothers of the bridegroom; L. W. Francis, of New York, and Edwin H. Smith, of Brooklyn. The Rev. Louis Francis, of Brooklyn, a relative of the bride, performed the ceremony most impressively, using the Protestant Episcopal service with slight modifications.

The reception that followed at the home of the bride's parents on Walnut street was attended by many well-known people, nearly all of whom had been at the church, and including an unusual number of attractive young ladies in evening dress. The guests from Hartford included Mr. and Mrs. Roland Mather, B. E. Hooker and Miss Hooker, and Dr. and Mrs.

Bacon. After their wedding tour the newly married couple will make their home in this city at 95 Elm street, the house being a wedding gift from Mr. Roland Mather, the grandfather of the bride.

Hurlbut-Caswell.

On Tuesday afternoon Mr. Elmer G. Hurlbut was married to Miss Grace Emily Caswell at the residence of Mr. John N. Caswell, 45 Walnut street. The ceremony was conducted by the Rev. Floyd W. Tomkins jr., of Christ Church, and the ushers were Messrs. John Williams and Harry I. Norton. The bride was in traveling dress and the bridal pair stood under a floral horseshoe. There was a large number of guests, and a rich collection of wedding gifts. Mr. and Mrs. Hurlbut left for a wedding journey on the evening express north.

Births.

BISSELL—In Suffield, Nov. 14, a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Leavitt P. Bissell.

A Family Reunion.

In accordance with their custom, the members of the Denison family to the number of sixty will assemble at Mystic Bridge on Thursday, to eat their Thanksgiving dinner with Mrs. Lavina Denison of that place. This custom has been kept up without a break for fifty-three years. Mrs. Denison is now in her ninety-sixth year. Those from Hartford who will participate in the occasion will be Mr. J. L. Denison and family.

Dancing in the Barn.

Miss Judd of Highland street has issued invitations for Monday evening, November 18. The mystic legend, "Dancing in the Barn," fills each lucky recipient of a card with lively anticipations, for the barn parties inaugurated the past season at Newport and Lenox are a pleasing innovation upon the monotonous elegance of conventional dancing parties.

The Hartford Courant.

TUESDAY MORNING, NOV. 19, 1889.

A BEAUTIFUL SCENE.

Miss Jennie Judd's "Barn Party" Yesterday Evening.

One of the pleasantest and most elaborate social events of the season thus far was the "barn party" given by Miss Jennie Judd yesterday evening, at the residence on Highland street, of her father, Mr. H. C. Judd. The floor of the barn was covered with crash so that a very firm smooth surface was afforded for dancing. The floor was spacious, measuring 60 feet by 40. The whole interior of the building was so handsomely decorated as to entirely transform its appearance. From the center of the ceiling hung a huge pumpkin and, from the spot where it hung, streamers of red, white and blue were suspended and ran out to the corners and sides of the room. The lower portions of the walls were concealed by bunting and flags, tastefully arranged, while at various points upon the floor, and upon shelves, rested various potted plants, and blossoming chrysanthemums. Ears of corn suspended from the walls lent a very pretty effect, while around the edges of the floor were strewn costly rugs and robes. The room was also decorated with sleigh bells, shiny harnesses, and elegant saddles. A small L was fitted up, after the manner of a boudoir, with sofas and rugs. Through the glass doors at one end could be seen the horses' stalls, banked up neatly with straw, and resting in the small window at the head of each stall was a huge jack-o'-lantern, made from a pumpkin. Chairs for the dancers were arranged around the sides, and refreshments were served by Habenstein from an adjoining room. The coachman's room and the bicycle room were turned into dressing rooms, and supplied with all possible conveniences.

The scene presented was one of very genuine beauty. No expense had been spared in making the big rooms attractive, and the results achieved evinced great taste on the part of the decorators. The young people began to arrive soon after 8 o'clock, and after driving through the grounds, which were prettily illuminated by lanterns of various kinds, were received by Miss Judd at the barn. Dancing began speedily, and was continued till after midnight. Among those present were the following-named ladies and gentlemen:—

Miss Beckwith, Miss Knous, Miss Foster, Miss Goodrich, Miss Taft, the Misses Lincoln, Miss Arnold, Miss Hyde, Miss Pratt, Miss Hunt, Miss Sykes, Miss Robbins, Miss Marcy, Miss Preston, Mrs. Russell, Mrs. Deming, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Chase, Miss Bulkeley, Miss Smith, Miss Hart, Miss Howard and Miss Holbrook, all of Hartford; Miss Griswold of Cleveland, Ohio, and Miss King of New York. There were also present Mr. Redfield, Mr. Robbins, Mr. Holcombe, Mr. Daniels, Mr. Rathbun, Mr. Foster, Mr. Marcy, Mr. Arnold, Mr. Russell, Mr. Deming, Mr. Barton, Mr. Davidson, Mr. Hubbard, Mr. Kimball, Mr. Cooley, Mr. Stone, Mr. Dodd, Mr. Fish, Mr. Oakman, all of Hartford; Mr. Bissell of New Haven, and Mr. Kelley of New Haven.

A HUNDRED YEARS OLD TO-DAY.

Walter Haynes of Brimfield to Celebrate His Centennial Birthday in Good Health and Spirits.

Walter Haynes of Brimfield will celebrate his 100th birthday at the old homestead in that town to-day, and he looks forward to the gathering of his friends as practically as if it were only his 50th birthday. Mr Haynes is a remarkably well-preserved man for his years, and still reads the newspapers, although he begins to think that the type is getting bad or else his eyesight is perhaps failing just a little. He says he wants to live long enough to vote for Cleveland again, but has not much else to look forward to. Mr Haynes is the son of Daniel and Hannah Webber Haynes, and was born at Monson. When he was 18 months old the family moved to Brimfield. He lived with his grandfather, Jonas Haynes, on the place which has been in the family since the town was settled. His grandfather gave him his liberty when 18 years old, and young Haynes learned the clothier's trade. In this he was not successful, and to use his own terms he "was shipwrecked" at Norwich, now Huntington, and afterward at Swanzy, N. H. After a short residence in Vermont, he settled at Volney, Orange county, N. Y., where he spent 20 years. When he settled in Volney, it had less than 300 inhabitants, now it is divided into three towns with over 25,000 inhabitants. He took up 80 acres and built a log-house 16 feet square at first and larger as he could afford, carrying on his farm and carpentering for others. He says that deer were thicker there than sheep are here now. Bears were also plenty, and almost any day Indians were around. If they had schools, they had to build a log school-house and hire a teacher themselves. He helped build the Erie canal through what is now the city of Syracuse, and helped build the first block of buildings put up there. He also for a time had charge of a section of the Oswego canal. When he returned to Brimfield he settled on the place on Haynes hill which his grandfather, Jonas, first took up, and has lived there since.

Mr Haynes has been twice married, and his second wife is living at the age of 92. He married Sally, daughter of Oliver and Seba Rogers of Wales, in May, 1810. She died in 1830, and in 1843 he married Lucinda, daughter of Hezekiah and Hannah Ferry of Palmer. By his first wife he had seven children, three of whom are living, one at Brimfield and two in Volney, N. Y. The past summer it has been no unusual occurrence for him to drive to the village and transact business at the stores and once drove alone to Palmer. When asked if it was not unsafe for him to do so, he replied he did not feel that it was. At the 1888 election he drove to the town hall alone, and unattended walked into the hall, up to, and upon the platform and deposited his vote, and as he turned to leave was greeted with cheers. During his long life, Mr Haynes never has been under the necessity of calling in a doctor on account of sickness. He has always made it a rule to be up as early as the sun. He has never used tobacco but has taken liquor, although he thinks the world would be better off if both could be blotted out of existence. He loves a good dinner as well as ever, but enjoys bread and milk as well as anything. The family before him had long lives, few dying under 80.

power. One-half boiler-power would have been ample but for the need of additional power for the electric lighting and heating. Fresh water was maintained in the boilers throughout the trip, losses being made good by distilling. The crew of the worktown deserve credit for their seamanship and training. The health of the officers and men is excellent.

ESTATE OF THE PARSEE MERCHANT.

The Action Against Nathaniel Jarvis, Jr., to be Settled for $65,000.

The beginning of the end has been reached in the numerous legal processes against Nathaniel Jarvis, Jr., as trustee of the estate of the Parsee merchant, Bomanjee Bryamjee Colah. Surrogate Ransom at New York yesterday granted an order permitting President Hall Butler, the ancillary administrator of the estate, to settle the action upon the payment of $65,000, which, it is stated, friends of Mr Jarvis have collected to help him out of the trouble. Early in the '70's Colah, while traveling in this country, became insane, and his property, consisting mostly of gold, and amounting to early $100,000, was handed over to Mr Jarvis who was appointed trustee. Subsequently the lunatic was sent back to India, where he died, his property remaining in the custody of Mr Jarvis, who made unfortunate investments. After Colah's death Mr Butler was appointed administrator and found it necessary to sue Mr Jarvis, obtaining in 1886 a judgment of $76,076 against him. The case was appealed and several

WRITTEN BY HANDS 100 YEARS OLD.

Walter Haynes, the Brimfield centenarian, whose 100th birthday celebration was recently fully reported in The Republican, sends his compliments in an autograph letter, reproduced on this page. There are some errors in spelling, and the date November was probably intended for December, but Mr Haynes says his eyesight is growing a little poor, and that will probably explain why the chirography and spelling are not perfect. It is a pretty good letter for a man 100 years old, and readers of The Republican will undoubtedly unite in wishing Mr Haynes still more birthday anniversaries.

ARNOLD—In Hartford, Jan. 3, a daughter, Florence Diana, to Charles E. and Nellie E. Arnold.

A pleasant church wedding was that of Mr. Charles E. Arnold, of Hudson street, this city, and Miss Nellie Shannon, of Windsor, which occurred Tuesday afternoon, at the Methodist church, that place, the Rev. Mr. Bray officiating. The church was well filled with friends some 200 invitations being issued. There were no bridesmaids or best man. Mr. W. Tracy Teale, Fred R. Bill, of Hartford, and Messrs. Alonzo Pelton and James A. Stone, of Windsor, were ushers. After the ceremonies, a pleasant reception was given at the residence of the bride's parents. The presents were many and valuable. The groom's gift was a diamond set. The guests were not a little surprised when they learned that Mr. and Mrs. Arnold had quietly left the house and taken a hack to Hartford, where they boarded an express train for Brooklyn, N. Y. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Arnold will reside on Hudson street.

Died May 16, 1893.
Born April 19, 1789.
See Oct. Vol XX p. 1,

The Hartford Courant.

THURSDAY MORNING, NOV. 21, 1889.

MILLER-ROBINSON.

BRILLIANT CHURCH WEDDING LAST EVENING.

Miss Lucy T. Robinson of This City and Mr. Sidney T. Miller of Detroit, Mich., married in the South Church by the Rev. GEORGE A. MIX. 1900

Miss Lucy T. and Mrs. Henry and Mr. Sidney Mich., were married at 7 o'clock in the evening at the residence of E. P. Parker, Trinity in 1885 law in Detroit.

Admission to the wedding was by half-past full. From the bride's side was a steady stream of half of the middle relatives and friends of white and black which spanned the shape from one to the other. Among the present were Mrs. Nichols, L. Clemens, George Judge and Mrs. J. Hammon bull, the Hon. Mr. Mrs. Drayton H. liam B. Franklin and Miss Twiche W. Cheney, Mr. Misses Cheney, many others.

A few minutes before the wedding party marched up provided he married. In order that he might enjoy the annuity Mix married the first woman who would have him, a tulle veil. He and his wife turned out to be a good stars on her newwoman. The man retired to Ridge-wood, where he bought a $7,500 house grandmother, Mon a liberal credit scheme, and, an- the groom. Shnouncing himself a retired banker, pearls, the gift of joined the church. In March, 1898, Mrs. the wedding party Mix died of cancer, but the husband wedding march arranged that news of her death be played upon the kept from the executors of his father's estate, so that he might continue to enjoy the income.

In July Mrs. George W. Bull, whose husband had died in June preceding, visited Mrs. Sands, a neighbor to Mix, and two months later, just three months after her husband's death, married Mix. Then began a new career for Mix. His new wife raised the mortgage on the house, bought horses and carriages and supplied a bank account.

A butler and a gardener were added to the household staff and a round of entertainments began.

Mix is white-haired, courtly, and 56 years old. Mrs. Mix is about 38, her dark hair fast turning gray, and her never beautiful face drawn with care by the gifts of time and anxiety. The Mixes pose as the very best people in Ridgewood. They live in one of the handsomest villas, surrounded by seven acres of cultivated land. Their house is the most artistically decorated in the place, and their carriages are correct in style and appointment.

The presents were many and costly. Among the guests present from out of town were:—

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney D. Miller of Detroit, President and Mrs. Charles P. Clark of New Haven, Mr. and Mrs. Elizabeth Robinson of New York, and many others.

How the Noted Forger Duped Berkshire People—The Post-office Improvements—North Adams to Have Electric Street Lights.

From Our Special Correspondent.

PITTSFIELD, Saturday, November 23.

The sensation of the week here has been the discovery that the petted summer guest, George A. Mix, was none other than the forger and professional confidence man, Henry Martin. No one seems to know just how it was done, but he managed to introduce himself as a wealthy banker from Minneapolis, and soon became a figure in society. The story of the forger's short but brilliant career in this town has been well told, but there are many little things heard regarding him that may be interesting. At Maplewood hotel where he put up, Mix paid much attention to the women, and was constantly giving them presents. His actions in many instances were so strange as to almost raise doubts as to the man's sanity. He cautiously approached one young woman and handed her a package neatly done up. On opening the package was found a card saying, "With the tender regards of an unknown friend," and, perhaps, half a pound of cheap candy, such as sells for 20 cents a pound in grocery stores. Another day he sat at a table writing for several hours, and when he had finished he mysteriously announced to two men that he had been drawing his will and asked them to witness his signature which they did.

He seemed to be aiming to create an impression that he was mildly insane and he certainly succeeded as far as some persons were concerned. But Pittsfield aristocracy believed in him, and received him with open arms. With nothing to recommend him but an apparently ample supply of money and his own mythical tales of his far-away business connections, he was given the entree to the best circles, and was entertained and allowed to enter into his heart's content. These upper circles of this staid old town are supposed to be very exclusive, and certain it is that scores of men of certain antecedents are given the cold shoulder where such oily, smooth-tongued rascals as Mix are received with open arms. This is only one of several instances of this sort of thing, and those who are not admitted to the four hundred are much enjoying the situation. It is only another illustration of the old adage that "all is not gold that glitters." It is strange that Mix did not "work" this town, but he probably wanted it for a hiding-place or was preparing to ply his calling here at some future time. There are plenty of men in town who would have let him have money had he asked it, but he had some other plan and they escaped.

The Evening Post.

HARTFORD, TUESDAY, NOV. 26, 1889.
Markham-Goodrich.

At Trinity Church yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock occurred the marriage of Mr. Daniel A. Markham, lawyer of this city, and Miss Grace Upson Goodrich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Goodrich, and granddaughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. S. Butler. The wedding exercises were conducted by the Rev. Storrs O. Seymour, assisted by the Rev. Charles W. Holden of Willimantic, a classmate of the groom. Miss Annie W. Goodrich, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Miss Galaudet of Washington, Miss Goodwin, Miss Perkins and Miss Day of this city. The ushers were F. R. Cooley, F. L. Bunce, Francis Parsons and John Goodrich.

After the ceremony there was an informal reception to the relatives and family friends at the residence of the bride's father, corner of Asylum and Prospect avenues.

Trinity Theatricals- Notes.

The date of the Trinity theatricals has been fixed for Monday evening, November 25. "The Shakespearean Water Cure" will be produced with new scenery, new costumes, and music written expressly for the occasion. The cast is much stronger than that of last year, and a feature of the evening will be a minuet, which will be given after the banquet scene in the third act. A large number of prominent society ladies have consented to act as patronesses, and the affair will prove a very pleasant one. The curtain will rise at 8 o'clock and tickets have been placed at 75 cents each. The indications are that a very large audience will be present.

Following is the cast:

Portia.....	W. Pressey, '90
Juliet.....	H. S. Candee, '93
Lady Macbeth.....	H. Parrish, '91
Ophelia.....	T. Hayden, '93
Hamlet.....	G. N. Hamlin, '91
Macbeth.....	E. A. Pressey, '91
Shylock.....	P. Smith, '90
Romeo.....	L. W. Hughes, '91
Othello.....	H. H. Porter, '93

and GHOST..... ?

 Tickets will be placed on sale at Brown & Gross's during the week. The proceeds will be divided between the football and athletic associations.

The freshmen have appointed the following committee on the supper to be given to the juniors next month: Messrs. Carter, Parker, Horner, Collins, Porter, Hale.

This afternoon on the Ward street grounds the Trinity and Stevens elevens will meet for the second time this season. At the game in Hoboken last month the Trinity men suffered defeat by a very close score, and will endeavor to be revenged to-day. The admission will be 25 cents. The foot-ball games next week will be, Monday with University of Rochester and Thursday with Bowdoin. Both games will be played on the Ward street grounds.

There are twenty-one men in rehearsal in the glee club and seven in the banjo club. A public rehearsal will be given next month in Alumni Hall.

Seventy-five Trinity men have signified their intention of attending the Yale-Harvard game at Springfield next Saturday, and an effort will be made by the manager to secure a separate portion of the grand stand for them.

On Saturday, November 23, Wesleyan and Lehigh will play a game of foot-ball on the Ward street grounds.

Johnston-McKegg.

A pretty and exceedingly pleasant wedding took place yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, at the residence of Mrs. Elizabeth McKegg, 10 Affleck street. The contracting parties were Mr. John Johnston, of the Pratt & Whitney Company, and Miss Matilda, only daughter of Mrs. McKegg. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. Aspinwall Hodge, D. D. Mr. William Simonds, cousin of the bride, officiated as master of ceremonies. Among the many wedding presents were a beautiful etching representing "Life's Voyage," presented by the Shakespeare Club, of which the bride is a prominent member; also a beautiful etching from the employees of Pratt & Whitney; a set of solid silver spoons from Alderman Henney and wife; an elegant screen from Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Stockwell; an easy chair from Mrs. Simonds. The happy couple left on the 7:10 train for New York and will sail on the Umbria Saturday morning for a six weeks' wedding tour among the hills of "Bonnie" Scotland. Mrs. McKegg, the mother of the bride, will accompany them to Europe and will remain abroad all winter.

JOHNSTON-In this city, Oct. 14, Matilda M., wife of John Johnson, aged 27.

Funeral services from her late residence, No. 10 Affleck st., to-morrow (Thursday) afternoon, at 2 o'clock.

JOHNSTON-In this city, Oct. 12, infant son of John and Matilda M. Johnston.

Mr. Forbes's Annual Reunion in Burnside.

The annual Thanksgiving reunion and dinner of the Forbes family took place again this year at the old homestead in Burnside, and it was a noteworthy event. For forty-eight years have these annual dinners taken place in the same house and the same dining room has gathered the ever increasing family around its festive board. It is an event always looked forward to by all members both old and young, and is celebrated in true New England style, and the large rambling old mansion is filled from top to bottom with shouts and laughter of young and old, and one would go far indeed to see a more beautiful sight than the happy gathering about the long table, filled till it groans beneath its weight of Thanksgiving luxuries.

The mother, grandmother and great-grandmother, Mrs. Charles Forbes, is now in her 83d year, and is a wonderfully vigorous and active old lady. She personally made and prepared most of her delicacies, which were placed before her large family and nothing was done without her knowledge and oversight, and while many of the younger members of the family would be sitting around the large open fire, resting, she, the eldest of them all, would be bustling about here and there, seeing that all were enjoying themselves, and making every face brighten and glow with love and veneration.

Early in the forenoon the family began to arrive and long before dinner time they had all assembled. A count of noses brought out the fact that there were present twenty-three grandchildren and eleven great grand children, of whom five were under 1 year of age, four daughters and one honored guest. The absentees were only five in number, Charles Stempley, wife and three children, who are now living in Kansas. One loved face was absent, and many an eye was dim with tears as they missed his familiar face from among them: but he had only gone before. It would hardly seem possible to stow away so many over night, but with two or three exceptions all found sleeping room, and if now and then a shoe and slipper went winging its way through the darkness toward a sleeper getting in his [or her] bass work, only to bring up against the wall with a sounding whack, or a childish snicker broke the stillness, no one gave them a thought. The next day saw the happy gathering break up and the children had already begun to look forward to next year. The following is the register of "Hotel de Holdall":

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Sttstrong, Ned A. Strong, Daisy Strong, Louise Strong, Mrs. William Hamner, Miss Daisy Hamner of Hartford, Conn.; John R. Hamner, Boston; Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Hamner, Caroline Ellis Hamner, Burnside, Conn.; Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Eaton, Willis H. Eaton, Miss Ethel Eaton, Mr. and Mrs. Mark T. Robbins, Edward Hamner Robbins, Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Way, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Way, Carlson Shepard Way, Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Way, Arthur Camp Way, Hartford, Conn.; Mr. and Mrs. Percy S. Bryant, Florence G. Bryant, Percy Carleton Bryant, Josephine Bryant, East Hartford; Mrs. C. R. Forbes, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Forbes, Fred Randolph Forbes, Charles Douglass Forbes, Burnside; Miss May Stanley, New Britain; D. Owen Eaton, Boston.

The Hartford Courant.

SATURDAY MORNING, DEC. 7, 1889.

GOLDEN WEDDING.

An Event of Fifty Years Ago Felicitously Recalled Last Night.

The golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac P. Davis was celebrated last night at the residence of the aged couple No. 435 Capitol avenue, a large number of friends being present to rejoice in the festivities. Mr. and Mrs. Davis received under a bower of evergreens and flowers extending an old time welcome to the happy groups in attendance. The presents were interesting and valuable, including a purse of $50 from the associates of Mr. Davis at the Pratt & Whitney works, where he has been employed for the past fifteen years. The children of Mr. and Mrs. Davis are Mrs. Henry Chapin of Belden street, Miss Emily Davis and Mr. Walter Davis, the latter residing in New York state. The occasion was one of great delight to the many friends who were present.

RATHBUN—BEARD—In Brooklyn, N. Y., Dec. 11, at the residence of William H. Beard, 184 Clinton avenue, by the Rev. T. O. Frost, assisted by the Rev. J. H. Twichell, of this city, Ida Thompson Beard, of Brooklyn, and Frederick Dwight Rathbun, of Hartford.

A wedding of much interest to many Hartford people took place at the residence of William H. Beard, 184 Clinton avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., on Wednesday evening. Miss Ida Thompson Beard, niece of Mr. Beard, and Mr. Frederick Dwight Rathbun of this city, son of our townsman, Major J. G. Rathbun, were the principals. Rev. T. O. Frost of Brooklyn and Rev. Joseph H. Twitchell of Hartford officiated at the ceremony, which was solemnized in a room elaborately decorated with plants and flowers. The bride and groom stood between curtains of smilax and roses. Miss Edith Beard acted as maid of honor and Mr. Charles Merritt of Watertown was the best man. The ushers were William G. Dater of Brooklyn, B. Hares Hemingway and Harry W. Hemingway of Watertown and Charles G. Stone of Hartford. Many relatives and friends of the bride and groom were present from Hartford, New York, Brooklyn, Philadelphia and other places. The presents, of which there was a profusion, were of great elegance. The guests enjoyed a dance after the departure of the bride and groom on their wedding trip. At the conclusion of the tour, the couple will take up their residence in Hartford. Both are well known and popular in this city. The bride was formerly a favorite pupil at Miss Haines' school and the groom is a clerk in the office of the Orient Insurance company and a member of the City Guard.

RATHBUN—In this city, March 14, a son, Dwight Summerfield, to Frederick D. and Ida Rathbun.

The Hartford Courant.

THURSDAY MORNING, DEC. 19, 1889.

WEDDED AT WETHERSFIELD.

Mr. W. K. Lux Married to Miss Florence Wells Last Evening.

It seemed as if the entire elite of Wethersfield and a good representation of Hartford society people were assembled within the walls of the little Trinity church at Wethersfield last evening on the occasion of the marriage of Miss Florence M. Welles, daughter of Mr. Martin Welles of Wethersfield, to William Kasper Lux, son of Peter Lux of Hartford. The church was decorated very tastefully and with the elaborate costumes of the ladies presented a brilliant scene. Mr. Benjamin Loveland was the organist. Just at 6:30 o'clock, the bridal procession proceeded up the aisle. First came the ushers, Messrs. William Welles of Wethersfield, Edward de Blois of Hartford, Irving Treat of Hartford and Frank Neal of New York. Then the maid of honor, followed by the bride and groom and bridesmaids, Miss Mattie Van Scoy of Brewsters, N. Y., and Miss Alice Lux, sister of the groom. The party was met at the altar by Mr. George Lux, the best man. Rev. Mr. Bradin of St. John's church, Hartford, officiated at the ceremony. The bride's dress was of white faille francaise silk trimmed with duchesse lace and cord. Her veil was en train, fastened to the head by a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a white satin prayer book, a gift of the groom. Miss Lizzie Wood, the maid of honor, was dressed in a pink silk costume en train and dotted tulle. Miss Alice Lux wore a dress of blue silk and Fedora lace and Miss Van Scoy was in cream silk with Persian trimming. Each carried a fan. Mrs. Peter Lux wore a black silk and cream brocade costume with duchess lace and jets and Mrs. Welles, mother of the bride, was becomingly attired in black silk with lace and lavender trimmings. Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. A bountiful collation was served and a merry evening was spent. Mr. and Mrs. Lux took the midnight train for Washington. On their return they will reside at 1,339 Broad street.

The Republican.

SPRINGFIELD, THURSDAY, DEC. 19.

Mrs Celia A. Hawkins, mother of R. F. Hawkins, was 87 years old yesterday and the anniversary was pleasantly celebrated by a family gathering in the afternoon at her son's residence on Mulberry street. Mrs. Hawkins's two daughters, Mrs William C. Clark of Brooklyn and Mrs. S. B. Bartholomew of this city, were present with their husbands, and her other son, William Hawkins of this city, was there with his family. Mrs Hawkins, though so well along in years, is still active, and frequently goes out, occasionally even coming down town to do her own shopping. She has been a resident of this city since 1840 and has a large circle of friends and acquaintances here.

Mrs. Polly French, who lives with her daughter, Mrs. F. L. Sargeant, at East Templeton, expects to celebrate her 100th birthday New-year's day. She is looking eagerly forward to the event, and consented to climb two flights of stairs to have a photograph taken, a portrait from which is given above. She is as chipper and strong as the average woman of 70 and her memory is active. Mrs. French was born at Halifax, Vt., the first year of Gen Washington's administration as president. Her father, Benjamin Pierce, was a relative of President Franklin Pierce. Both her parents' families date back to the oldest American settlers in Vermont. Her uncle, John Sargeant, was born in that state December 15, 1732. He was taken captive by the Indians. When a mere child Mrs. French moved with her parents to Dummerston, Vt., where she spent her girlhood days. She was married December 7, 1809, to Stephen French and they had nine children, four of whom are now living. The children are Stephen French of Orange, Edwin French of Florida, Mrs. G. B. Sargeant of Brattleboro, Vt., and Mrs. F. L. Sargeant of East Templeton. After marriage Mrs. French moved with her husband to Northfield, where they managed a farm seven years. They then moved to her father's old homestead in Dummerston, Vt., where they lived until the death of her husband in 1858. Since 1860 she has lived with her daughter at East Templeton, although she makes frequent visits to her other children.

Mrs. French was early taught habits of industry and still keeps busy. She walks out without cane or village. She works, and used family wore. ren left the l

a "freedom suSPRINGFIELD, THURSDAY, AUG. 13. hands. Some of Mrs. Polly French, the centenarian, died interesting. She last evening at 9 o'clock at the home of was a girl people lights, and mad her daughter, Mrs. F. L. Sargeant, in remembers attenEast Templeton. Mrs. French was born Ward Beecher at Halifax, Vt., January 1, 1790. Just still a student atbefore her 100th birthday she climbed carefully preservtwo pairs of stairs to have taken the photo-she made at thgraph from which the above picture was active worker fonade. Mrs. French's father, Benjamin Pierce, voted member ofwas a relative of President Franklin Pierce. Her children areAs a girl she passed a number of years in celebration whicDummerston, Vt., and on December 7, address by her1809, she was married to Stephen French. Orange, with facThe couple at once moved to Northfield, tlers of Vermont where they lived for seven years. Then they

Mrs. Polly returned to Dummerston, Vt., and lived there until 1858, when Mr. French died. Since 1860 Mrs. French has lived with her daughter at East Templeton. She has borne nine children, four of whom are living, namely, Mrs. Sargeant, Mrs. G. B. Sargeant of Brattleboro, gent, her daugh Vt., Stephen French of Orange and Edwin home for the pas French of Florida.

the pleasing features was a historical address written and delivered by her son, Stephen French. Mrs. French retains her faculties to a remarkable degree, and recently climbed

The Republican.

HARRINGTON—HUNTINGTON—In this city, Jan. 1, 1890, by the Rev. J. H. Twichell, Miss Carrie B., daughter of H. G. Huntington, and Frank Harrington, of Cleveland, Ohio.

Miss Carrie Huntington, daughter of Mr. Henry G. Huntington of the Connecticut Fire Insurance Company, was married at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon to Mr. Frank Harrington of Cleveland, O. The ceremony, which took place at the family residence, No. 3 Forest street, was performed by the Rev. J. H. Twichell. Guests were present from Boston and Hardwick, Mass., from Providence and from Norwich. Mr. and Mrs. Harrington will live in Cleveland.

Miss Gertrude Morley was married on Thursday at the home of her uncle, H. R. Morley, to Mr. Henry C. Joy, of Shelburne Falls, Mass. Miss Morley graduated as a nurse at the Hartford hospital about three years ago and has been successful in her profession. Mr. Joy is a man of independent property, who made her acquaintance while she was attending a patient at Shelburne Falls.

JOY—MORLEY—In this city, Jan. 2, at the residence of the bride's uncle, Mr. H. R. Morley, 50 Kenyon st., by the Rev. J. Kittredge Wheeler, Henry C. Joy of Shelburne Falls, Mass., and Miss Gertrude E. Morley of Hartford.

LOOMIS—KINGMAN—Privately, at the residence of the bride's parents, Jan. 2, by the Rev. Frank Shipman, assisted by Dr. H. C. Hovey, Hiram B. Loomis of this city, to Carrie E. Kingman, daughter of S. C. Kingman of Bridgeport, Conn.

The Hartford Courant.

TUESDAY MORNING, JAN. 7, 1890.

ANOTHER CENTENARIAN.

Well Preserved and a Delight to Her Friends.

Mrs. Elizabeth Eaton Larned, who celebrated her hundredth birthday at Pawtucket, R. I., on Tuesday, is an aunt of Henry C. Bowen of Woodstock and New York, and he sent a letter to be read at the celebration in which, after speaking of his visit as a boy at her home and the games in the evening, he continued: "By and by, as all good things in this world must come to an end, our guardian angel, Aunt Larned, would gently appear at the half-open door and say: 'Now dear children, have you had a good time?' The responsive scream and clapping of hands at this strange question from the benignant face at the door nearly started the roof. Looking at us with a smile our good aunt would say: 'Well, children, it is very late. It is half-past nine o'clock, and it is time you were all in bed.' Our response to that solemn statement was: 'Oh dear! Oh dear! Oh dear!' but we were all good children of course; that at this late day will not be disputed. Our games were very unceremoniously ended." At the century celebration Miss Larned's five living children and about seventy-five later descendants were present. She was as pleased as a child with the arrival of the anniversary, and had a gentle greeting and a bit of reminiscence for every one. Mrs. Larned is the daughter of a country doctor of the style of long ago, John Eliot Eaton, who was a surgeon in the Revolutionary war. Her grandfather was the Rev. John Eaton of Spencer, Mass., who married Sarah Eliot, granddaughter of John Eliot. Mrs. Larned was born on January 7, 1790, at Dudley, Mass., a small town in Worcester County; and there she spent all but the past six or seven years. There is no doubt that during her young womanhood she was the belle of the village. She played havoc, so those who have slyly drawn her out on the subject have learned, with the hearts of the susceptible young medical students who collected for first-class companies.

GENERAL INSURANCE.

W. E. BAKER,

AND ALSO HIS MOTHER AND SISTER.

The Exigencies of the Reigning House of Spain.

The most interesting group of royalty in Europe just at present comprises Queen Regent Maria Christina of Spain and her two children, King Alfonso XIII, who will be ALPHONSO XIII.

King of Spain, Born May 17, 1886, Son of the Late King Alphonso XII and Queen Maria Christina, Now the Queen Regent.

four years old cedes, who tween her father birth of her brother again in ca
The disease infant king to enza, which de ingitis, complic epilepsy. Whi more favorable, in his recovery. T family are herewith given.

We print a picture of the 10-years-old king of Spain this morning as a sufficient comment on the dastardly tendency in some parts of this country to hang the little fellow in effigy.

FRIDAY, MARCH 10, 1896.—

The sprightly little fellow, who will go down in history as Alfonso XIII of Spain, has had thus far a very notable reign for one of his years. All Spain was filled with joy at his birth, May 17, 1886. All the church bells of the kingdom rang out the plaudits of the people, and the happy queen mother led her daughter aside in order that the son might mount the throne, so to speak. Most babies rule the house, but Alfonso ruled a kingdom as well from his first breath, a very unusual circumstance. Spain wanted a king, even if he were in his cradle. If the testimony of the royal nurses is to be taken, he developed into an irrepressible chap, and gave promise of a temper that would make short work of pretenders like Don Carlos, and republican outlaws like Ruiz Zorilla. The one is now, by the way, living at Venice making a study of infantile diseases, and the other was reported at last accounts lurking about the Pyrenees and watching his chances to fall on Spain with the cry of "Long live the republic." But the royal family has never felt quite secure about the king in consequence of the frequent recurrence of epileptic convulsions, which he inherited from his Bourbon father. If he recovers from his present attack, there is little assurance that he will live to take the responsibility of ruling the kingdom from his mother.

Princess Maria de las Mercedes, the sister of Alfonso, was born September 11, 1880, and ascended to the throne upon the death

At Philadelphia 7th, WALTER GEORGE SMITH and ELIZABETH L., daughter of the late Francis A. Drexel.

Mr. Wood's Career.

Mr. H. B. Wood, the optician who recently secured a divorce, and sued Captain William H. Lockwood for $10,000 for alienating his wife's affections, has married again. On Thursday evening he wedded in Meriden a widow, Mrs. Minnie Richard Wing, well known in musical circles throughout the state. It is understood that the suit against Captain Lockwood has been settled.

Hartford Daily Times.

Tuesday Evening, Feb'y 18, 1890.

A marriage license was issued to-day to William H. Lockwood and Emma A. Wood, both of this city.

Willard Eddy, who practices law in this city but resides in Haddam, has filed a petition for divorce from his wife in the Middlesex superior court, for intolerable cruelty. Mr. Eddy married Miss Minnie Hertel, a graduate of the Normal school and formerly a teacher of German in the public schools of this city. Mrs. Eddy has retained Chamberlain & White of this city to contest the case.

ING, JANUARY 2, 1890

A DOUBLE WEDDING.

The Marriage, at Essex, of Collector Hutchinson's Two Daughters.

The First Baptist Church, at Essex, was the scene yesterday of a very pretty double wedding, the occasion being the marriage of Collector Hutchinson's two daughters, Miss Helen M. and Miss Olive Hutchinson. The former was married to Mr. Perlee V. Jervis of Brooklyn, N. Y., and the latter to Mr. Charles E. McClure of this city. The officiating clergyman was the Rev. H. M. Gallaher, D. D., of Essex. The church was beautifully decorated.

JOHN BULL'S POST OFFICE.

To-morrow penny postage in England will be exactly fifty years and one fortnight old. The act of Parliament was passed August 17, 1839, but the reform went into practical operation January 10, 1840. The anniversary of week before last naturally called attention anew to the astonishing growth of the British post office's business during the half-century, and in a letter to the Philadelphia Telegraph Mr. James W. Aikten gives some of the figures for American edification.

In the year 1839, it appears, the inhabitants of the United Kingdom sent through the mails 1,600,000,000 letters, 200,000,000 postal cards, 415,000,000 book-packets and circulars, 150,000,000 newspapers, 41,000,000 parcels, and (nearly) 43,000,000 postal orders, representing in the aggregate about eighteen million pounds sterling. The reports from the post office savings-banks for the year show new deposits aggregating over twenty million pounds; deposits withdrawn, not quite sixteen million pounds; net gain over 1888, something more than four million pounds. "Not so bad," comments Mr. Aitken, "when the bad times are taken into consideration."

We have made some progress on this side of the water, too, since Postmaster Bon Franklin's day, but our postal service is very far yet from being what it might be, what it

The Hartford Courant.

TUESDAY MORNING, JAN. 14, 1890.

Mr. W. D. Hubbard and family left on the noon express yesterday for the west, where they intend to reside in the future.

KILBOURN-SHEPPARD—In this city, Jan. 15, at the residence of the bride's parents, by Rev. Kittredge Wheeler, Alonzo Kilbourn and Miss Hattie E., only daughter of William F. and Jennie A. Sheppard.

MOORE-STEPHENS—In this city, Jan. 15, by Rev. E. P. Parker, Geo. C. Moore of Hartford, Conn., and Eudora Stephens of Towanda, Penn.

CLARKSON-CALHOUN—In this city, Jan. 15, by Rev. W. DeLoss Love, Ralph E. Clarkson, of New York, and Miss Fanny R. Calhoun, of Hartford.

Marriage of Mr. Ralph E. Clarkson and Miss Fannie R. Calhoun Last Evening.

The marriage of Mr. Ralph E. Clarkson, the well-known artist, formerly of this city, and now of New York, to Miss Fannie R. Calhoun, daughter of Judge and Mrs. David S. Calhoun, occurred at the home of the bride's parents on Walnut street yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Rev. William De Loss Love of the Pearl street Congregational church officiated and the best man was Mr. David Calhoun, brother of the bride. Miss Christine Hart was the maid of honor and the ushers were Mr. Edward G. Welch of New York and Mr. H. Walter Scott of this city. Only the relatives were present at the marriage ceremonies and at the reception which followed, the intimate friends only were invited. Emmons's orchestra furnished excellent music and Habenstein was the caterer. From 4:30 till 7 o'clock during the reception the rooms were well filled with the many friends of the family and later Mr. and Mrs. Clarkson left on an evening train. The presents, arranged in one of the rooms, made a very handsome display.

WETHERSFIELD.

The Whiting-Hitchcock Wedding—Other News.

The Congregational church was well filled last evening to witness the marriage of Miss Lina A. Hitchcock, daughter of Mrs. K. E. Hitchcock, to Archie Lord Whiting. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William H. Teel. The chancel was tastefully decorated with rare and beautiful flowers. While the guests were assembling the organist, Benjamin W. Loveland, played a variety of selections, and at 7 o'clock the first notes of Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" announced the approach of the bridal party. The ushers were Messrs. Charles Robinson, E. R. Robinson, Henry Chapman, and O. O. Bechtell. The bride wore a dress of French casquette trimmed with brocaded silk to match, en-train, veil fastened with orange blossoms. After the ceremony a reception was held at the residence of Mr. E. N. Loveland, for the relatives and the bride's Sabbath school class. The presents were numerous and useful. At 9 o'clock the couple left.

An Amusing Local Advertisement.

One of the local manufacturing firms here, publishes the following advertisement in a trade paper this week. It is being read and talked about a good deal in business circles:—

CHUCKS. CHUCKS.

Of all the Chucks I ever saw chuck, I never saw a Chuck chuck as that Chuck chucks; is what a chuckle-headed Chuck maker said, when his Chuck was chuckingly chucked out of the shop into a chuck-hole, to make room for a Horton Chuck that was chucked in for the Chucking-Lathe. Then the Horton Chuck man chuckled, and chucked in more Chucks. Send for a fifty-two page Chuck catalogue, chuck full of Chucks, the Horton Chuck Company, Windsor Locks.

Thursday Evening, Jan'y 23, 1890.

The Bliss-Brainard Wedding.

Miss Eliza Day Brainard, daughter of Mr. I. E. Brainard, and Arthur W. Bliss, of Kansas City, Mo., son of Alderman Watson H. Bliss, were married at noon, yesterday, at the residence of the bride's parents, No. 35 Washington street. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Lucius Q. Curtis in the presence of about 100 of the intimate friends and relatives of the contracting parties. There were no bridesmaids. The ushers were E. C. Brainard, a brother of the bride, and F. J. Bliss, a brother of the groom. The wedding assembly enjoyed a splendid dinner immediately after the ceremony, which was made all the more pleasant by the music furnished by an orchestra. The presents bestowed upon the happy pair were of a substantial nature, and included many very useful as well as ornamental. Among the presents were a number of checks for various sums. Mr. and Mrs. Bliss left this city at 2:30 for Springfield, where they took a train for the West via the Niagara Falls, which point they pass at 6 o'clock this morning. Both the parties are well known in this city and have numerous friends here. Mr. Bliss was a member of the Foot Guard previous to his departure for Kansas City, where he has entered business and where he has been eminently successful. Miss Brainard is an estimable young lady, and her friends and those of her husband unite in wishing them many happy years of wedded "bliss."

He is a young man of great promise and will unquestionably win a place in the front rank of business men in the rapidly growing city of which he has become a resident.

JANUARY 24, 1890.

THE YOUNG-MANS-JOHNSON WEDDING

At Christ Church Last Evening—The Reception and Guests.

Ephraim Miller Youngmans of New York and Miss Martha Johnson, daughter of George Mitchell Johnson of 55 Harvard street, were married in Christ church at 8 o'clock last evening. It was a most impressive scene as the bridal procession moved slowly up the great aisle, while the deep-toned organ pealed forth the wedding march. First of all went the four-years-old bride-maid, little Bertha Skeels, clad in an attractive dress of mousseline de soie and bearing a cluster of marguerites, opening as she went the two gates of evergreen which closed the aisle, one at three-fourths the distance from the great door and the other at the chancel. Then came the ushers, marching by twos at a considerable interval, who, as they reached the chancel, stood facing about that the rest of the procession might pass through. They were marshaled by S. L. Weston, the head usher and cousin of the bride, the others being Miner Wellman of Friendship, N. Y., Minotie E. Osborn, Jr., of New Haven, B. S. Kohler of Akron, O., Harry Beecher of New York and Frank M. Coe of this city. Next came the father and mother of the bride, following the English form of the service, in which the mother generally accompanies the father as he goes up to give his daughter away. And still at a good distance behind followed the bride and maid of honor, the former wearing a gown of white crepe de Chine made over white faille, with the usual white veil and orange blossoms, and bearing white hyacinths, while the maid of honor, Miss Helen Hunt, a school friend of the bride, wore a white India silk and white veil and carried pink hyacinths.

Meanwhile the two clergymen, Rev J. C. Brooks and his assistant, Rev Mr Black, had advanced from the right to meet the head of groom and his brother, Vincent Youmans of New York, who acted as best man. Then came the solemn marriage service of the Episcopal church, and when all was over, the ushers formed at the sides to let the procession pass through, the little bridemaid leading off, while behind came the newly married pair, the best man and maid of honor, and the father and mother.

The interior of the church was brilliant with all the elaborate Christmas decorations which were put up at the beginning of the holidays, and the evergreen tracery of the gates in the great aisle was the only addition made for the occasion. The sanctuary was a perfect bower of green, and the finishing touch was afforded by the arch at the chancel, which sprang from the pillars of green that stretched across the front. The wedding march was composed for the occasion and dedicated to the bride by her cousin, E. A. Parsons of New Haven, who presided at the organ. Mr. Parsons is organist of the Dwight-place church at New Haven, and conductor of the men's choir there, which is made up almost exclusively of Yale students, and he was formerly the bride's musical instructor.

After the ceremony the wedding party drove direct to the Glendower, where an informal reception was given, the rooms being crowded with friends of the young people, who were on hand to offer congratulations and see them off on the 11 p. m. train, by which they started on a tour which will probably occupy about two weeks. Music for the occasion was furnished by the Philharmonic orchestra and the guests indulged in a little dancing toward the end of the evening. Prominent among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Daniel D. Youmans of New York, father and mother of the groom and others present from out of town are as follows: Miss Emma Balen of New York, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Parsons, Louis Parsons and Miss Kate Osborn of New Haven, Mrs. Snow of Northampton and Mrs. H. L. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Webster, Miss Webster and Miss Helen Webster of Easthampton.

The bride's family are comparatively newcomers to the city, their home having formerly been at Easthampton. The bride was educated at Miss Cady's school at New Haven, and it was there that she became intimate with her maid of honor, Miss Helen Hunt. Mr. Youmans, the groom, is also known in this vicinity, having been a student at Williston seminary, where he was graduated in 1884, and later at Yale, where he took his degree in the class of '88, being a classmate of his usher, Harry Beecher, the famous Yale quarter-back in football. Since his graduation Mr. Youmans has been prominent in athletics, being a member of the New York athletic club, and he is also known as a marksman. He is a son of D. D. Youmans, the New York hatter, and is associated with his father in the business. The young people will make their home at "The Lawrence," 101 West Seventy-fifth street, New York.

Annie M. Jewett of this city was granted a divorce to-day by Judge F. B. Hall, from George B. Jewett, formerly in the office of the street commissioners; cause, desertion.

MANNING-JEWETT—In this city, Jan. 27, at the residence of the bride's father, by the Rev. Dr. Parker, W. F. Manning and Annie M. Jewett, daughter of Edwin Merritt.

JANUARY 26, 1890

11

NELLIE BLY'S TOUR OF THE WORLD.

HER RECEPTION AT NEW YORK.

Thousands Cheer Her as She Makes Her Way to the World Office—The Trip Made in 72 Days and Six Hours.

Nellie Bly stepped on the platform in the Pennsylvania railroad depot, Jersey City, at 3.51 o'clock yesterday

NELLIE BLY, FAMED AS GLOBE TROTTER, DEAD

Newspaper Woman Made Trip Around World in 72½ Days.

New York, Jan. 27. — Nellie Bly, newspaper woman, who achieved fame by a spectacular trip around the world in record time, died today at St. Mark's Hospital. Pneumonia was the cause of her death. She was 56 years old.

Nellie Bly's trip around the world was made for the "New York World" to prove or disprove the possibility of Jules Verne's imaginative story, "Around the World in Eighty Days." She went Verne more than seven days better, finishing the circuit in a little more than 72½ days. At the time of her death, she was a member of the staff of the "New York Evening Journal."

In private life, Nellie Bly was Mrs. Elizabeth C. Seaman. She was the widow of Robert I. Seaman, a wealthy Chicago manufacturer, who married her at the age of 72. She was then not yet 30.

Fifteen years later Mr. Seaman died, leaving to his wife sole ownership of the Ironclad Manufacturing Co., and the American Steel Barrel Co. She attended to the management of these two concerns until their affairs became involved and they were forced into bankruptcy.

Miss Bly started 12 hours earlier by the Tidal train by way of Folkstone, and made a detour to Amiens, where she had a pleasant interview with Jules Verne. She then intercepted the India mail at Calais, and Brindisi was reached on time. November 25, Miss Bly sailed from Brindisi at 2 a. m., according to her itinerary, on the steamship Victoria, crossing the Mediterranean and passing through the Suez canal, arriving at Ismailia November 28, one day behind her schedule. From Ismailia her route lay across the Red sea. She sailed in Aden harbor December 2 instead of December 1, as on her card. The next point was Colombo, the chief city of the island of Ceylon, where she arrived December 8, two days ahead of her itinerary. Then the steamship from Calcutta was a day late, so Nellie did not bid good-by to the Cingalese till December 10. A stretch of 2000 miles of salt water lay between her and Singapore, the next important mile-stone in her journey. She had accomplished this voyage December 18 exactly on schedule time.

Hong Kong was next. She was due there December 25, but her good luck was with her, and she was in the Chinese metropolis on Christmas eve. Here she spent five days in sight-seeing and shopping. December 28, Miss Bly sailed away from Hong Kong on the steamship Oceanic, bound for Yokohama. This was also exactly on schedule time. Miss Bly made her bow to the Japanese January 2. The steamship was detained there until the 7th for mails to the United States. January 7 Nellie sailed away again, this time her vessel's prow being pointed straight for the Golden Gate. By the itinerary the Oceanic was due at San Francisco January

but at 7 p. m. of the 21st

sub-steamed into San Francisco harbor, and again let her foot on American soil. The joy of the flight across the continent is familiar to all. She started at 9.02 o'clock Tuesday morning over the Southern Pacific to Mojave, thence over the Atlantic and Pacific railway. Next morning she was reported at Peach Spring, Ariz. That night Albuquerque, N. M., was passed. Thursday found her flying through South-eastern Colorado, over the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe system. That evening she was in Kansas City.

She was tendered a reception and breakfast Friday morning by the Chicago press club, and left Chicago for the last stage of her journey. She reached Philadelphia at 12.48 yesterday afternoon, in season for a visit to the Ledger office and a lunch at the Bellevue. A great crowd was at the Broad street station at 1.25 o'clock. Here the traveler was taken in the arms of her mother. The mob catching sight of the voyagers at a window, shrieked for Miss Bly, but she remained in her car. The doors had to be locked though. Any semblance of order was impossible. The New York party passed into the car and nearly overwhelmed the plucky little woman with their greetings and congratulations. The meeting between Miss Bly and her mother was very affecting. The elder woman trembled violently and nearly fainted as her daughter caught her in her arms and folded her in a loving embrace. Nellie nearly broke down herself with emotion, and while the two mingled their tears of gladness at the reunion there was not a dry eye in the car. The train men all this time were attending strictly to business, and at 1.33 the bell was rung and the train rolled away for the last 100 miles of the most wonderful journey of modern times.

Miss Bisland on a Slow Steamer.

Miss Bisland, the Cosmopolitan magazine's round-the-world traveler, who started on the same day with Nellie Bly, is a passenger on the steamship Bothnia, which sailed from Queenstown for New York Sunday, January 19. The Bothnia is an eight or nine-day steamer and owing to the prevailing bad weather at sea, she may occupy an even longer time on this trip.

AROUND THE GLOBE.

Arrival of Miss Bisland on the Steamship Bothnia.

New York, Jan. 30.—Miss Bisland, the "globe trotter," who has made a circumlocution of the globe in the interests of the Cosmopolitan Magazine, having left this city on the same day as Nellie Bly, but going the reverse way to that lady, arrived here this morning on the steamship Bothnia.

The Hartford Courant.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, JAN. 29, 1890.

AT THE CHARITY BALL.

FOOT GUARD HALL FILLED WITH BEAUTY AND FASHION.

A Delightful Evening—Some of the Guests—The Sir Roger de Coverly.

Hartford's beauty and loveliness and fashion turned out in force, last evening, to attend the charity ball, at Foot Guard Hall, and for charity's sake the women looked their loveliest and the men put on their most chivalrous air. Rich and handsome costumes made fitting settings for fair faces and graceful forms, and gave a picturesque harmony and contrast of colors as the merry dancers whirled about the floor. Although not so well attended as some have been in former years, no charity ball here has been better comfortably filled, the costumes were rich and beautiful and the dancing graceful. It was interesting to watch from the gallery all the dances, but the most striking feature of the affair was the Sir Roger de Coverly quadrille, with which the ball opened, where the powdered hair of the dancers, and their slow and stately movements, made up a picture to be long remembered by the interested observers, as well as those who took part.

It was 9 o'clock when Dr. P. H. Ingalls, the floor manager, led upon the floor the procession of the forty couples, who were to dance in the old-fashioned quadrille. Next him came Governor Morgan G. Bulkeley and Mrs. Samuel Colt, followed by Mr. Clemens with Mrs. Warner, Mr. Warner with Mrs. Clemens, the Hon. John R. Buck, with Mrs. Buck, and the others whose names appear among the dancers. In time to a slow march, played by the Weed Military Band, stationed on the stage amidst a pretty summer garden setting, they marched around the hall, finally leaving each couple in the place they were to occupy in the quadrille. Then the strains of the march ceased and the music for the Sir Roger was heard. And the beautiful, stately dance began.

The following couples took part in the Sir Roger de Coverly quadrille:—

First Set—Governor Bulkeley and Mrs. Samuel Colt, Mr. Samuel L. Clemens and Mrs. Charles Dudley Warner, Mr. Charles Dudley Warner and Mrs. S. L. Clemens, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Buck, Major J. C. Kinney and Mrs. Jacob Knous, Mr. A. P. Hyde and Mrs. F. W. Russell, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin G. Whitmore, Mr. A. H. Olmstead and Mrs. S. S. B. St. John.

Second Set—Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Gross, Mr. Judson H. Root and Mrs. Cassius Welles, Mr. John H. Hall and Miss Lydia Brooks, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Day, Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Dunham, Mr. and Mrs. John S. Camp, Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Hyde, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Skinner.

Third Set—Dr. and Mrs. P. H. Ingalls, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Beach, Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Chapman, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Hooker, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Dwight, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Wilcox, of Middletown, Mr. Charles G. Stone and Mrs. J. J. Nairn.

Fourth Set—Mr. E. A. Stedman and Mrs. Cornwallis, Mr. Newton Barry and Miss Laura Dunham, Judge Samuel O. Prentice and Miss Robinson, Lieutenant Ames, U. S. N., and Miss Annie E. Trumbull, Mr. James P. Andrews and Miss Lulu Powell, Mr. F. L. Bunce and Miss Nellie Bunce, Lieutenant W. W. Kimball, U. S. N., and Mrs. Arthur K. Brocklesby, Mr. Arthur K. Brocklesby and Mrs. W. W. Kimball.

Fifth Set—The Misses Sperry, Taft, Brown, Bulkeley, Burnell, Beckwith, Beach, Williams, Harriet Cheney, Bessie Cheney, Buck, Jarvis and the Misses Browne; and Messrs. H. S. Redfield, Harry Robinson, Rice, Schütz, Cooley, Howard, Pratt, W. E. A. Bulkeley, Warner, McCook, E. B. Bulkeley, McKean, Hamlin, Hubbard.

Mrs. Morgan G. Bulkeley was prevented, at the last moment, from attending by the grip.

After the Sir Roger de Coverly quadrille Colt's Orchestra helped to furnish the dancing music. There were twenty numbers, and it was considerably after midnight when the end was reached. There was little thinning out of the crowd before the final dance. Charity balls come only once a year, and they must, therefore, be well treated when they do come. In all respects the charity ball of 1890 must be written down a complete success. Dr. Phineas H. Ingalls was floor manager. The assistants were Messrs. S. O. Prentiss, L. F. Robinson, Fred L. Bunce, Leland Howard, A. A. Welch and W. E. A. Bulkeley.

In addition to the eighty mentioned as taking part in the Sir Roger, some of those present were: General and Mrs. Lucius A. Barbour, Mrs. Nichols Beach and Mrs. Sheffield, Mrs. Nathaniel Shipman, Mrs. George C. Perkins, Miss Mary Dunham, Miss Reinhardt, Dr. and Mrs. Russell, Mrs. E. M. Bunce, Jonathan B. Bunce and Mrs. Bunce, Miss Augusta Williams, Miss M. C. Root, Miss Howard, ex-Lieutenant Governor Bulkeley and Mrs. Bulkeley, Mr. and Mrs. William B. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. G. Wells Root, Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Forrest, Mr. and Mrs. George Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. Seth Talcott, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Goodrich, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Post, Mr. and Elizabeth Bisland, the bright young woman who went around the world in as brief a time as possible for the Cosmopolitan Magazine, was married this week to Charles W. Wetmore at the church of the Transfiguration in New York. Mr. Wetmore is a lawyer.

THE CHARITY BALL.

A Magnificent Success at Armory Hall.

SOME OF THE COSTUMES.

Features of the Evening--Who Were There.

Fully five hundred of Hartford's "four hundred" attended the Charity ball for the benefit of the Union for Home Work at Armory hall last evening. Although the ravages of the prevailing malady were noticeable in the ranks as the dancers lined up for the opening quadrille, the affair was an undoubted success. What it lacked in patronage it made up in brilliancy and enjoyment to those who participated. Its many pleasant features will furnish themes for society gossip for many a day to come.

FROM THE GALLERY.

A Glimpse of the Ball Room—General Features.

The picture presented by the ball room from the gallery was truly beautiful. During the progress of a dance it was a perfect kaleidoscope of shifting life and color. The costumes of the ladies were particularly elaborate and as their wearers went through the various evolutions of the dances, made a dazzling effect. No attempt had been made in the way of decorating the hall, unless the setting of the stage be considered. It represented a woodland scene and was occupied by Colt's orchestra, who furnished the dance music. Special mention should be made of this feature of the ball. The music was excellent. The programme was made up of the very latest pieces, given in first class style. Weed's band from the upper balcony played for the promenades, and their share of the music is no less deserving of commendation. Every other detail of the ball was of uniform excellence. The floor was in good condition and after a few dances presented a surface as smooth as glass. Altogether the affair was intelligently planned, brilliantly carried out and splendid in all its multifarious effects.

SIR ROGER DE COVERLY.

Forty Couples Participate in the Old Fashioned Dance.

Of course the event of the evening was the Sir Roger de Coverly quadrille. Promptly at the conclusion of a concert by the orchestra, Dr. P. L. Ingalls, the floor manager, with Mrs. Ingalls entered the hall from the east stairway, keeping step to a slow march by Weed's band. Following them were Governor Morgan G. Bulkeley with Mrs. Samuel Colt and the rest of the participants in the dance. After marching once around the hall, the forty couples formed in five sets for the dance. The Sir Roger de Coverly is nothing more nor less than an old fashioned Virginia reel danced to terer Habenstein this portion of the entertainment passed off successfully, and was quite in harmony with the other pleasing features of the evening. The banquet hall in the basement was very tastefully set out. At one end was a long table surmounted with candelabra throwing a soft radiance upon the viands beneath. A handsome silver service also added to the glittering effect. There was no confusion in the supper room, so thorough were the arrangements of the committee and caterer. Everybody was served and with alacrity. The menu consisted of chicken and lobster salads, chicken croquettes, oyster patties, creams and sherbets.

THE LADIES' COSTUMES.

A Few of the Most Striking Briefly Described.

As has been stated, the extra elaborate costumes of the ladies were a marked feature of the ball.

Among the most brilliant in appearance were Mrs. Sanborn and Miss Lizzie Beach, the former in black tulle trimmed in Vandyck points of gold.

Miss Richardson of Boston looked lovely in white lisse and surah, carrying pink roses and wearing pearls as ornaments.

Miss Taft was charming in pale violet.

Miss Beach wore a white tulle costume with red ribbons and red slippers.

Mrs. W. C. Skinner was resplendent in pale blue and diamonds. She carried an immense bunch of roses, which added greatly to the effect of her costume and beauty.

Mrs. John Buck, in a marvelously pretty yellow dress, was a striking figure in the hall.

Miss May Sperry's gown of buff silk had an artistic trimming of daffodils. She also wore a wreath of the same flowers.

Mrs. Colt looked regal in a black velvet dress, with trimmings of white figured silk.

Miss Deming wore a cornelian silk with passementerie trimming.

Miss Zulette Goodrich was dressed in a lavender silk trimmed with pansies.

Mrs. George Day was attired in a dark green silk costume which, with her stately bearing and a lovely white wig, gave her a very imposing appearance.

Mrs. Ingalls was very effectively costumed in a yellow dress of a lovely shade, with brown velvet trimmings and a handsome ostrich feather fan.

Miss May Bulkeley's draperies of white muslin were caught at the skirt and the neck with sprays of white flowers.

Miss Huntington's beauty was admirably shown off by a striking costume of black lace with a broad red sash.

Mrs. Charles Gross's tall and stately figure looked particularly well in a gown of grey figured velvet and figured silk.

Mrs. Cassius Wells wore a very becoming gown of white silk, artistically trimmed with long shawl fringe.

Mrs. Frank E. Hyde's toilet was pos-

Alvan P. Hyde, Mrs. J. Morgan G. Bulkeley, C. Robinson, Mrs. Nathaniel Shipman, Mrs. John S. Jarvis, Erick W. Russell, Mrs. Richard Gatling, Mrs. George C. Perkins, William H. Palmer, Mrs. John B. Bunce, Mrs. William H. Bulkeley, Mrs. Martin Bennett, Jr., Mrs. Wells Root, Mrs. Henry T. Sperry, Mrs. James McManus, Mrs. Jacob Knous.

The floor manager was Dr. P. Ingalls assisted by S. O. Welch, Fred L. Bunce, A. A. Welch, Robinson, Leland Howard and W. E. A. Bulkeley.

Among those present, in addition to those mentioned in the Sir Roger de Coverly quadrille, were: General and Mrs. Lucius A. Barbour, Mrs. Nichols Beach and Mrs. Sheffield, Mrs. Nathaniel Shipman, Mrs. George C. Perkins, Miss Mary Dunham, Miss Reinhart, Dr. and Mrs. Russell, Mrs. E. M. Bunce, Jonathan B. Bunce and Mrs. Bunce, Miss Augusta Williams, Miss M. C. Root, Miss Howard, ex-Lieutenant Governor Bulkeley and Mrs. Bulkeley, Mr. and Mrs. William B. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. G. Wells Root, Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Forrest, Mr. and Mrs. George Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. Seth Talcott, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Goodrich, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Post, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Davidson, Mrs. F. R. Foster, Mrs. A. P. Hyde and Mrs. W. W. Hyde, Mr. and Mrs. James U. Taintor, Dr. and Mrs. James Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Bennett, Jr., Mr. William H. Goodrich and Miss Zulette Goodrich, Dr. and Mrs. Kellogg, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Dustin, Mrs. H. C. Judd and Miss Judd, Mr. Jacob L. Knous, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Glazier, Professor Samuel Hart, Mr. Louis F. Heublein, Messrs. F. C. Billings, Joseph Landman, G. W. B. Hubbell, Lucius F. Robinson, Frederick Foster, Frederick W. Arnold, Edward C. Talcott, James P. Andrews and H. B. Foster, Dr. and Mrs. C. C. Beach, Miss Stedman, Mr. and Mrs. George Roberts, E. K. Hubbard, Miss Shipman, R. H. Schultz, Miss Williams, Baltimore, Miss Price, Miss Barlow, Miss Barker, Miss Hills, W. B. Davis, Philadelphia, Henry L. Saltonstall, Mrs. Woodcock, Mrs. J. E. Strong, Charles Keep, T. W. Hooker, Miss H. Cummings, Philadelphia, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Hooker, K. D. Cheney, E. S. Cowles, L. C. Daniels, Fred Hoisington, Walter Pearce, Miss Grace Arnold, Mrs. J. W. Beach, A. C. Graves, E. W. Hotchkiss, West Haven, Ed. McCook, Miss Fanny Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Taintor, Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Waters, W. S. Wooster, Charles Hopkins Clark, Miss Clemens, W. H. Bunce, Miss Cora Andrews, Frank Pratt, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Keep, Lieutenant Colonel B. F. Blakeslee, Mrs. N. P. Hough, Miss Annie Deming, Miss Laura Dunham, William O. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Kimball, F. S. Kimball, Dr. and Mrs. McManus, Lyman Root, R. S. Gladwin, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Russell, Mrs. Wells, Miss Carrie Pratt, Ed. Bryant, G. Hamlin, Miss Charlotte B. Clark, Alice R. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. S. B. C. Clark.

HARTFORD, SATURDAY, MARCH 1, 1890.

A VERY BRILLIANT GATHERING.

Large Number of Society People Present —List of Patronesses and Guests.

The ball and cotillon given by the I. K. A. society in Alumni hall, Trinity college, last evening was the grandest of the kind ever given at the college, and the efforts of the gentlemen connected with the society were well rewarded by the success which they attained.

The guests began to arrive about 8 o'clock and at 8:30 the ball was opened with the quadrille D'Honneur, which occupied about half an hour. Those who participated in the quadrille were: Governor Morgan G. Bulkeley and Mrs. G. W. Smith, G. W. Beach and Mrs. W. C. Skinner, Dr. W. D. Morgan and Mrs. G. W. Beach, Mr. W. C. Skinner and Mrs. P. H. Ingalls, Dr. P. H. Ingalls and Miss Lapsley of New York, Mr. John Hall and Miss Louise Baldwin of New York, Mr. W. McConihe and Miss Scudder of New York and Mr. G. T. Warren and Miss Whitney of New York. The costumes of the ladies were very handsome, and as their wearers moved gracefully to the time of the music, it gave a very brilliant appearance to the hall.

Immediately after the quadrille, the regular dancing was taken up, which lasted till 11 o'clock. A feature of the evening's festivities was the absence of the dance card, usually used on an occasion like this. After the dancing the participants in the quadrille formed a procession and, headed by Governor Bulkeley and Mrs. Smith, Dr. Hart and Mrs. Colt, marched to the gymnasium where a most elaborate supper was served, which was provided by Habenstein, a special table being provided.

The cotillon which came next was greatly enjoyed by every one. Thirty-five couples took part in it. It was led by Mr. G. T. Warren of the I. K. A. society and Miss F. W. Brown. There was one round of favors, which were streamers of purple satin ribbon with the I. K. A. escutcheon daintily printed in gold on them. The cotillon continued until nearly 1 o'clock, when the assembly broke up. The hall was handsomely decorated by McClunie and presented a very beautiful appearance. Evergreen trees adorned the hall and stairways, the windows were draped with small flags, and over the main entrance to the hall and over the stage two large American flags were tastefully draped. As the light from behind shone through the green trimmings it produced a very charming effect. The handsome rugs and tall lamps brought from the rooms at the college also added to the effect. Emon's orchestra furnished the music for the dancers and won the praise of every one for their choice selections.

The patronesses of the ball were: Mrs. Samuel Colt, Mrs. G. W. Smith, Mrs. G. W. Beach, Mrs. Morgan G. Bulkeley, Mrs. W. C. Skinner, Mrs. Thomas McKean of Philadelphia, and Mrs. H. Casimir de Rham of New York. The out of town invited guests who were present during the evening were: Mrs. Henry J. Scudder, Miss Emma Scudder, Miss Lapsley, Miss Baldwin and Miss Bulkeley of New York, Miss Whitney of New Haven

A few of the old friends of Captain and Mrs. D. G. Francis of West Hartford, learning that yesterday was the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage, gave them a surprise party last evening. The trip to the home of the respected couple was made in chartered horse cars. After a pleasant evening, spent in drive whist and other amusements and the prizes were distributed, Mayor Root calling the company to order, in a very felicitous speech presented to Mr. and Mrs. Francis a beautiful silver coffee urn. The captain was too much overcome to more than thank his friends for their kind thoughts and elegant present. The party comprised:

His Honor, Mayor John G. Root, Mr. and Mr. Julius A. Kellogg, Harry Kellogg, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Strong, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Goodrich, Mr. and Mrs. Silas Chapman, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Seyms, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Marvin, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Gilbert, Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Way, Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Way, Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Robbins, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Burnham, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Northam, Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Moses, Mr. J. Allen Francis, Mrs. C. Hammer, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Hubbard, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Wallace, Mr. Franklyn Clark, Mr. W. R. Morgan, Mrs. E. E. Buck, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bid-

ALL PRIZE BABIES.

The Unique Party Given by Mrs. Gilman of Capital Avenue.

A most enjoyable affair took place yesterday afternoon at Mrs. Gilman's, Capitol avenue. Some half dozen babies with their fond parents and devoted followers were invited to meet the little Miss Marjorie Barbour and her friends. After an introduction of the little ones and a storm of admiration and appreciation of their respective merits, some light refreshments were served and the prize question discussed. It was most amicably settled by Mrs. Gilman, who came forward with the decision that every one of them was a prize baby and while Miss Marjorie would take her prize first, yet each would receive the same decoration of honor, an 1889 silver dollar appended to a bright colored ribbon. The wisdom of Solomon could not have been more satisfactory and each party left the field perfectly content with their own prize baby.

WEDDED IN FEBRUARY.

Marriage of Mr. G. H. Pitman and Miss Mathilda Luettgens.

The marriage of Mr. E. H. Pitman, for many years an efficient member of the clerical force of the Hartford Life and Annuity Insurance company took place at the residence of the bride's parents in Newark, N. J., Monday, February 3d, a brother of the groom acting as best man. The bride was Miss Mathilda Luettgens, oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rheinhard Luettgens. The presents were many and useful, among which were a very handsome Rochester lamp, an elaborate dinner set of Verona gray china and Ex-President Cleveland's Present to Witness the Marriage of His Old Law Partner.

ROCHESTER, February 7.—Wilson L. Bissell, of Buffalo, ex-president Cleveland's law partner, and Miss Louise Sturges, of Geneva, were married at the home of the latter last evening at 6 o'clock. The guests were limited to very near friends and relatives of the family, but the number of these reached over 100. The Rev. Samuel Hopkins, of the Auburn Theological Seminary, performed the ceremony in the main parlor of the Sturges mansion. The bride was attired in a wedding robe made by Worth of heavy brocade satin and wore diamond ornaments.

Among the guests were ex-President Cleveland and Mrs. Cleveland, who arrived at 11 a. m., in the special directors' car of the Lehigh Valley road. Mrs. Cleveland took an active part in the preparations for the wedding, and remained with the bride almost constantly until the hour for the ceremony arrived. She was the first to kiss her after the clergyman had concluded. Rooms had been especially prepared at the Franklin House for the ex-President and his wife, and during the afternoon many prominent citizens called and paid their respects. Mr. Cleveland appeared to be in good health, and only complained of a slight fatigue. At the wedding he appeared in full evening dress. Mrs. Cleveland was charmingly dressed in white with a corsage bouquet. The special car of Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland was attached to the bridal train, and the two couples will go together as far as New York. Mrs. Cleveland was a schoolmate of Miss Sturges at college, and was the one who introduced Mr. Bissell to her.

John Alexander Logan, Jr., was born at Columbus, O., on February 12 last. He is a grandson of the late General Logan, and his father, John Alexander Logan, Sr., is a captain in the Fifth regiment of the Ohio National Guard. At the request of the colonel of the regiment Adjutant-General Hawkins has issued to the youngest John A. Logan a commission as first lieutenant of the Logan Rifles. The commission bears the date of the little fellow's birth.

The Evening Post.

HARTFORD, WEDNESDAY, FEB. 12, 1890.
FENTON—WOODS.

Wedded at Christ Church at Noon To-day.

At Christ church, shortly after the hour of 12 to-day, Mr. William H. A. Fenton of this city, was united in marriage with Miss Flora Woods, daughter of Mr. J. C. Woods, also of this city. The ceremony was performed in the presence of a large number of friends, by Rev. Mr. Ball of Rockville, who was a classmate of Mr. Fenton. The ushers for the occasion were: Mr. R. T. Smith, Mr. J. J. Gates, Mr. C. H. Wickham and Mr. J. E. Gorton. The bride entered from the chapel on her father's arm and was ushered to the altar where she was met by the groom. After the service the couple were escorted out through the center aisle. The bride was attired in a traveling costume and wore a handsome bouquet of pink roses. After a short reception at the bride's home on Church street, they left on the express for New York. The bride is well known in this city, as is also the groom, who holds a position at the head of the registry department at the post office. The presents were many and costly; among others was a hand-

Baroness Halkett Divorced
London, June 16.—Baroness Halkett (formerly Miss Sarah Anson Phelps Stokes of New York) was granted a divorce this afternoon. The baroness left her husband in 1898 in consequence of ill treatment. The suit was undefended.

The Bride a Descendant of Old Hartford Families.

One of the most notable events of the season in New York society and one which will also interest many Hartford people, is the marriage in New York to-morrow, of Baron Halkett and Miss Sarah Phelps Stokes. Both the Stokes and Phelps families came from Puritan stock and trace their ancestry back chiefly to this city. Notwithstanding his title and his name, Halkett is said to be an Englishman whom Miss Stokes met abroad about a year ago. The ceremony will take place at the Church of the Heavenly Rest and will be followed by a wedding reception at the new house of the Stokes family at Thirty-seventh street and Madison avenue. The house is not yet entirely finished, but the rooms which will be used will be decorated, so that the fact that the remainder of the house is as yet incomplete will be lost sight of. The house is a very large one, occupying three or four city lots on Madison avenue and extending some distance down Thirty-seventh street towards Fourth avenue, and when it is finished it will probably be among the half dozen really handsome houses in New York.

The Stokes family is one of the oldest families in New York. There are four brothers and two sisters living in New York at present. That is to say, Anson Phelps Stokes, W. E. D. Stokes, James Stokes, Thomas Stokes, Olivia Phelps Stokes and Caroline Phelps Stokes. James Stokes married the daughter of Marcellus Hartley, Thomas Stokes married the daughter of Frederick H. Cossitt, and W. E. D. Stokes and the two daughters are still unmarried. Anson Phelps Stokes married the only daughter of Isaac N. Phelps, who was, indeed, his cousin. He is the grandson of Anson G. Phelps, who was a philanthropist in New York half a century ago or more and has been described as the George Peabody of America. He was the leading incorporator of the American Tract society, American Foreign Mission society, Bible society and American Temperance society. His house was on Pearl street, with a garden through to Cliff street. Pearl street at that time was the Fifth avenue of New York. Afterwards he moved up to Thirty-eighth street and Kip's Bay, and in association with George D. Phelps, John Jay Phelps, Isaac N. Phelps and William E. Dodge purchased a vast amount of estate on Murray Hill.

Young Men's Union.

At the annual meeting of the Young Men's Union of the South Church last evening, the following officers were elected: President, George B. Thayer; first vice-president, Lucius F. Robinson; second vice-president, Henry L. Morris; secretary, Philip D. Burnham; treasurer, Robert P. Parker; executive committee, George W. Baker, Joseph Ball, George H. Gilman, Robert S. Griswold and Emerson F. Harrington. There was a somewhat general discussion as to the plans of the Union for the coming season and the details were left to the executive committee. One plan proposed is to have regular meetings of the organization every two weeks, with a general entertainment each alternate meeting. Suggestions were made advocating the addition of physical culture and debate.

Blind and Deaf at Seven Years.

(Boston Advertiser.)

One of the most remarkable little children at Mr. Anagnos's kindergarten for the blind is Edith M. Thomas, sister in affliction to Helen Keller and Laura Bridgman. She is wholly blind, deaf, and only seven years. The diphtheria and scarlet fever were her scourge. The annual report tells most interestingly of the year's progress with her. Dr. Howe in Laura Bridgman's case inferred that vocal language is the natural language, and the first which entered Laura's thoughts. No such method of naming people has been observed in Edith, nor (although she evidently recognized her friends) does she seem to have had any distinctive signs for them in the interval (of about three years) between her practical loss of oral language and her acquirement of finger speech.

Her last intelligible word—"kitty"—was spoken long ago, and articulation now appears to have ceased. Her laugh remains perfectly natural, and is merry and pleasing in its tones; her cry resembles that of ordinary children. Occasionally she says, in finger speech, "Edith sing;" and then utters a succession of sounds, varying in tone, but never very loud, although she can scream lustily. As speech degenerated, she began to make use of another sound, which seems a remnant of oral language; and this she still uses, although at a sign from her teacher she immediately becomes silent.

The manual alphabet has now become so familiar that she uses it almost unconsciously; she talks to herself in finger speech, and even while falling asleep she is often spelling the passing thoughts. During the past year Edith has made considerable progress in language. The extent of her vocabulary is not exactly known, but it numbers at least 700 words; she understands the use of the singular and plural of nouns, the personal pronouns, and the comparison of adjectives, and uses prepositions with greater freedom. The use of the personal pronouns was a great trial to her. When her teacher began to address her as "you," instead of "Edith," the little girl evidently considered it an incivility, and would correct her teacher by spelling, emphatically, "Edith."

The word enough was recently given her, and an explanation of its meaning was supplemented by illustrations with a basket containing shells. After several ingenious trials to test her comprehension of the word, her teacher still remained in doubt. A few hours later, however, her doubt was dispelled, when Edith, being asked at dinner if she had had enough, replied "Yes!" then, quickly correcting herself, said, "No! more pudding!" Since that day she uses the word correctly.

Reading, which has been so irksome a task to her, has now become a positive pleasure, and she is especially interested in a little book she now has, because the short chapters into which it is divided make a continuous story.

In the early years of Laura Bridgman's education it was observed that she had a very correct idea of the lapse of time. The same is true of little Edith. She has not yet learned the hours of the day, but reckons time with reference to such periods as breakfast, dinner, supper, morning, evening, yesterday, today, to-morrow. She keeps account of the days of the week, and their distinctive features in connection with their duties. It is evident, too, that, though she has not yet been given the names of the hours of the day, she nevertheless recognizes each by its distinctive duty; and from hour to hour throughout the day, when notified that the bell has rung, she goes directly, without guidance, to the room in which her next lesson is to be given, or to prepare for the occupation assigned to the following hour.

Edith frequently asks permission to go to church, but it has not been considered wise to require the little girl to sit quietly through the length of time usually given to a church service until she is able to understand some of its character. One day, however, service. The pastor was a gentleman whom Edith knew, and she became much interested when her teacher told her that he stood in the pulpit and talked to the people. From that time she was so anxious to attend church with the other children that her teacher promised to take her. When Sunday morning came, the little girl said, "Edith put on best dress and go to church after make bed and fix room nice;" and she ran about the house in great delight, telling every one who could talk with her that she was going to church. When the hour came and she was ready to go, she asked for a penny to put in the contribution box, tied it in her handkerchief and put it in her pocket. She breathed hard, and seemed to be in a fever of excitement all the way. When her teacher attempted to caution her about keeping quiet and not making sounds with her lips, she withdrew her hand with an air which said plainly that such caution was unnecessary. And so, indeed, it proved; for she was perfectly quiet throughout the entire service.

Edith is a very industrious little girl and is capable of performing various household duties. She can set the table, wash and wipe dishes neatly, sweep floors and make beds. One day she found a headless rag-doll, and she immediately set to work to replace the lost member. Taking a piece of cloth, without pattern, she cut two slightly oval pieces, well shaped and fairly proportioned to the size of the body, sewed them nearly around, leaving an opening through which to put the stuffing. She turned them, so as to leave the seam on the inside, and, cutting small pieces of cloth, stuffed the head she had made; then

A SINGULAR MARRIAGE.

George J. Bolles of Hartford Weds a Lady Nearly Three Times His Age.

The following marriage notice, published in a Brooklyn newspaper, has caused some little comment among the friends of the contracting parties:—

BOLLES-CASE—On Thursday, February 20, at the residence of the bride, No. 333 Hancock street, by the Rev. A. Stewart Walsh, Matilda L. Case of Brooklyn to George J. Bolles of Hartford, Conn.

The bridegroom is 20 years old and the bride is over 50. She is the widow of the late R. D. Case, a New York tea merchant. He died about three years ago and left her considerable property. The bridegroom is an apprentice aboard the training ship Minnesota. He met the lady he has married through her son, who is two years his senior, and who is aboard the same ship. Many of the New York papers have represented him as the son of a wealthy Hartford manufacturer.

Mr. William C. Bolles, who lives with his family on Village street, in this city, was seen by a COURANT representative, yesterday, and from him it was learned that George J. Bolles was his son, and was born in Plainville in 1869. The boy came to Hartford in 1873 and made his home here till 1885. He left here four years ago to go on board the St. Mary's school ship. He remained there two years and graduated with honors. He then shipped for Japan in the sailing vessel "Undaunted." They carried a cargo of kerosene oil, and when in the West Indies were nearly wrecked and were obliged to put in for repairs. When off the coast of South Africa their cargo shifted and they were again obliged to seek land. They reached Japan finally and George got back last September. He then went upon the training ship Minnesota. Shortly after, his father received a letter from him asking for permission to marry, saying that the only obstacle was that his proposed bride was considerably older than he. Mr. Bolles wrote back to him that he could neither give his consent nor withhold it, because he knew nothing of the lady. He said, however, that he would like to know more of her, and that if she was a good woman and the boy loved her, he should not stand in their way. The next he heard was the announcement of the marriage. It was an utter surprise to him, and as may be imagined, not an entirely agreeable one. Mr. William C. Bolles lived in Hartford for over

The Celebration of the Fiftieth Anniversary of the Marriage of Nathan Perkins Bishop and Nancy Lee.

The fiftieth anniversary of the marriage of Nathan Perkins Bishop and Nancy Lee, then both of Hanover, Conn., was celebrated by a company of relatives on Monday evening, Feb. 17th, at their home on Oneco street, in Norwich.

There were present two brothers and two sisters of Mrs. Bishop—representatives of a family of eight, all of whom are still living; the only surviving sister of Mr. Bishop; the four children of the household—Nathan L. Bishop, Barzillai I. Bishop and Mrs. Charles W. Cary of Norwich, and Mrs. Nathan Witter of Hanover; and ten grand children.

After the generous wedding supper several poems, selected and original, were read, toasts responded to and delightful reminiscences of olden times and of incidents in the life of the worthy and loved host and hostess, were recalled by Rev. S. H. Lee of New Haven, the youngest brother of Mrs. Bishop, Rev. Charles L. Avery of West Stafford, the brother-in-law of Mr. Bishop, John B. Smith of New Britain and others.

It was a rare occasion when relatives of various degrees, brothers and sisters, children and grandchildren could rise up, without reserve and seemingly without one detracting memory after so long a life, and call them blessed, and when in the language of one tribute it could be said: "Christian integrity without flaw, generous hospitality without stint and loving service that sought no reward, have ever been the law of the home these two sweet souls have built and their Lord has blessed; and we bring them to-night not simply our love, but our homage."

It was a proud thing for the venerated father to be able to say, as he looked upon his children and grandchildren before him and then looked back in memory to fathers and mothers and grandparents on both sides of the family, "Not one has brought disgrace upon the house."

It was a noble and beautiful exhibition of "the outpouring power of the christian stock" when generation after generation of families, well known by name in Eastern Connecticut, whose lives converge in this family, were brought together in review and made to bear graceful tribute to the covenant-keeping God.

It was an inspiring object-lesson of the power of true christian homes, of godly fathers and mothers, of staid New England life, of what De Tocqueville characterized as the stability of this nation, of God's plan in "setting the solitary in families."

Blessings on such families! May our children enjoy the shelter of them, and our nation rest on their firm foundation!—[Norwich Bulletin.]

OSBORN—HALE—In this city, Feb. 20, 1890, by the Rev. J. S. James, George S. Osborn, of Kansas City, to Miss Lilla M. Hale, of Hartford.

Mr. George S. Osborn of Kansas City and Miss Lilla Hale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Hale of this city, were married on Wednesday, at the home of the bride's parents, No. 2 Linden street. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. S. James. Mr. and Mrs. Osborn will reside in Kansas City.

FEBRUARY 21, 1890.

WATSON-COLT WEDDING AT PITTSFIELD.

17

A pretty wedding took place at the home of Mrs. Judge James D. Colt on East Housatonic street in Pittsfield at 5.30 o'clock yesterday when her accomplished daughter, Miss Elizabeth G., was married to Frederick Watson, a leading attorney at Tacoma, Wash. The ceremony took place in the spacious library of the Colt mansion, the room being tastefully decorated with palms, laurel, roses and calla lilies. On the chandelier in the center of the room was an immense wreath of laurel and callas, and the chandelier was concealed with masses of smilax twined artistically about it. The Philharmonic orchestra of this city furnished the music, and played a wedding march as the bridal party entered the room. The bride was escorted by the groom and wore a beautiful dress of white cashmere with crystal and pearl and swansdown trimming. She wore a bridal veil of tulle, edged with point applique lace, and orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of bride's roses. She was preceded by her bridesmaid, Miss Dorothy Watson, a niece of the groom, who was dressed in a white China silk and carried pink roses. The bride was also attended by her sisters, Mrs. Frank W. Dutton and Miss Martha G. Colt. Mrs. Dutton wore a yellow and white brocaded satin dress and carried a bouquet of Marechal Neil roses. Miss Colt was attired in a dress of white, silver and tulle trimmings, and carried Jacqueminot roses.

The bride and groom took their positions in the center of the room under the large wreath, and the ceremony was impressively performed by Rev. J. L. Jenkins, pastor of the First Congregational church. Only relatives and immediate friends were present as witnesses. The reception took place at 6 o'clock, and the guests sat down to a banquet served by Caterer McElvaine of Albany, N. Y. The list of handsome presents included several checks, quantities of silver-ware, china and cut glass and other choice articles. Mr. and Mrs. Watson left on an evening train for an extended wedding trip. They will return to Pittsfield, and after a short stay there will leave for their new home at Tacoma. The bride comes from one of Berkshire's oldest and best families, and the good wishes of hosts of friends will accompany her to her new home. Among the prominent guests present were Mrs. E. P. Watson, Mrs. J. P. Hopkinson, the Misses Hopkinson and Mrs. Kuno Francke of Cambridge, J. D. Colt, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Denny, the Misses Sherwood, Miss Eleanor Guild, Benjamin E. Bates, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Dwight, Miss Fannie Dwight and R. H. W. Dwight of Boston, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Watson, Miss Dorothy Watson, Miss Carrie Hobart, Henry Lee Hobart, Richard Lawrence, Mrs. N. C. Chapman, Miss S. Frances Bates, R. W. Gilbert, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Brown and Mr. and Mrs. Fred T. West of New York; Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Gilbert, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Ecob, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Swinyard, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Harris, Miss Hannah Harris, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Cox, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rudd of Albany; James A. Rumrill and Robert Dutton of this city; Mrs. Samuel Colt of Hartford; Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Butler of Utica, N. Y., and George Murray and Samuel G. Colt of Andover.

Mr. George G. Hall, now of Cincinnati and formerly of this city, was lately married to Miss Virginia M. Farragut, also of Cincinnati. They will reside there.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Matson and daughter, Mrs. E. J. Bassett, Mr. George R. Goodwin and sister, Miss Mary Goodwin, sail from New York for Bermuda, to-day, in the steamer Orinoco, for a few weeks' stay.

The Hartford Conant.

FRIDAY MORNING, FEB. 21, 1890.

A Pleasant Home Wedding.

A charming home wedding occurred on "the Hill" at 7 o'clock last evening, the occasion being the marriage of Miss Amy Lee Howard, daughter of Mrs. Mark Howard, to Mr. Louis Bertrand Graves of Washington, D. C. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Joseph H. Twichell. Messrs. William Plummer Fowler of Boston, and Philip G. Gorton of Hartford, acted as ushers and the bridesmaids were the Misses Trumbull, Sisson and Woodward of this city, and Miss Amy Lee Wells of Bridgeport. The guests were confined to the intimate friends of the two families.

PRESTON—DOLE—In this city, Feb. 26, by Rev. Mr. Dearborn, Miles B. Preston and Miss Nellie F. Dole, all of this city.

Marriage of Deputy United States Marshal Preston and Miss Dole.

The marriage of Deputy United States Marshal Miles B. Preston of this city, and Miss Nellie F. Dole, step-daughter of Mr. Francis H. Richards, occurred yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the family residence on Farmington avenue. The wedding was a thoroughly delightful event and was attended only by the relatives and near friends of the bridal couple. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. H. Dearborn, pastor of the Church of the Redeemer. The bride was formerly a resident of Springfield, Mass., and Mrs. Richards is the owner of considerable property in that city. Mr. Richards, who is a solicitor of patents by profession, has an office in the Waverly building, and is engaged in a fine business here. Deputy Marshal Preston and his bride left for Philadelphia last evening and will be absent through the week. On returning to Hartford the newly married couple will have their home at the United States hotel, where handsome rooms have been arranged for them. The bridegroom is one of the most popular officials in this city. He is engaged in a large business here, being connected with the firms of Preston & Kenyon and of Bonner, Preston & Co. He is a prominent member of the Hubbard escort, being one of the founders of the organization, and is held in the sincerest regard by his business and official associates. All unite in wishing himself and bride the utmost happiness for the future.

The Hartford Conant.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, FEB. 26, 1890.

Married in California.

At Casa Piedra Ranch, Ojai valley, California, Miss Elizabeth Thacher, daughter of the late Professor Thomas A. Thacher, of Yale, will be married to-day to Mr. William Kent, of Chicago. After Professor Thacher's death, Mrs. Thacher and her family went to California to live and have resided there since. Mr. Kent's home is in San Rafael, Cal., and he is the son of the gentleman who gave Yale the Kent Physical Laboratory which stands at the corner of High and Library streets. He was graduated from Yale in 1887, with the reputation of being one of the brightest men in his class. He went immediately to Chicago to take charge of large properties there, and has been since very successful in business. Mr. and Mrs. Kent will reside in Chicago.

CARLETON—TRACY—In Hazardville Feb. 27, by the Rev. Nelson L. Porter, uncle of the bride, assisted by the Rev. Warren A. Luce, pastor of the Hazardville Methodist Church, Lawrence Clinton Carleton of Hartford, to Miss Emma H., eldest daughter of the Hon. Henry F. Tracy of Hazardville.

A Hazardville Wedding.

There was a quiet home wedding, Thursday afternoon, at the residence of the Hon. Henry F. Tracy in Hazardville. The contracting parties were his eldest daughter, Emma H., and Mr. Lawrence Clinton Carleton, son of Mr. A. Lawrence Carleton, foreman of the foundry of the Pratt & Whitney Company. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Nelson L. Porter, uncle of the bride, assisted by the Rev. Warren A. Luce, pastor of the Hazardville Methodist Church. Mrs. Carleton has a large circle of friends in Hartford, having lived since childhood with her aunt, Mrs. H. L. Arnold, on Trumbull street.

The Johnson Residence Sold.

Mrs. H. J. Johnson has sold her residence on Hamilton Heights, West Hartford, to Mr. Charles M. Williams of New York. Mr. Williams is a brother-in-law of Mr. Francis B. Allen of the Hartford Steam Boiler Inspection & Insurance Company. He expects to occupy his new home in May. Mrs. Johnson and family now reside on Sigourney street.

Mr. H. W. Conklin has sold the Tyler place, corner of Myrtle and Garden streets, lately the residence of Mr. E. S. Tyler, to Mr. Daniel Morrell of the Hartford Machine Screw Company. It is understood that the The Greatest Plague in Life and A Box of Monkeys at the South Congregational Church—Other Entertainments.

Last night was an evening of delightful entertainments in several places about the city. At the South Congregational church an entertainment for the benefit of the Young People's society was given and the church parlors were so completely filled there was standing room only. The stage arranged as a drawing room, upon a raised floor, was very tastefully furnished and the two plays went off without a hitch and with a snap that was very generally and favorably commented upon by the large number present. In the Greatest Plague of Life the part of "Mrs. Bustle" was taken by Miss Christina Glen, "Mary Bustle" by Miss Maud Bray, "Grandma Bustle" by Miss Julia Gilman, "Biddy O'Rafferty" by Miss Susie Thompson, "Kitty Clover" by Miss Marion Engelke, "Miss Moonshine" by Miss Alice Slate, "Miss Bridget McGuire" by Miss Adella Steel, and "Hazy Black" by Miss Effie Hills.

The Box of Monkeys was admirably given by Miss Lord as "Mrs. Ondo-Jhones," Miss Pratt as "Sierra Bengaline," Miss Barbour as "Lady Genevieve Landpoore," Mr. Harry Billings as "Edward Ralston," and Mr. Harry Morris as "Chauncey Oglethorpe." During the intermission Mr. Engelke gave a flute solo. The entertainment was such a complete success that its repetition is generally asked for. An even $50 was realized for the Young People's society.

Theater Party at South Manchester.

A party of four car-loads of Hartford people went out, last evening, by invitation of Mrs. Frank Cheney and Mrs. Frank W. Cheney, to attend a private theatrical entertainment in Cheney Hall. The play of "A Box of Monkeys" was most cleverly and enjoyably given by Miss Mary Cheney, Mrs. Walter B. Cheney, Miss Emily Cheney, Mr. Frank Cheney, jr., and Mr. Harry R. Cheney. After the play there was dancing and the Golden Wedding at the Brewster Homestead in Ledyard.

The Hon. John Brewster and Mrs. Brewster of Ledyard celebrated their golden wedding, at the Brewster homestead on Wednesday. Mr. Brewster has lived on the homestead seventy years, and the whole married life of the couple has been spent there. Mr. Brewster is 74 years of age and Mrs. Brewster 72. They are both hearty and show few traces of old age. All the children were present—John D. Brewster and wife of Norwich, Mrs. Thomas H. Geer and husband of Cleveland, O., Mrs. Benjamin F. Lewis and husband of Norwich, Frank W. Brewster and wife of Ledyard. The five grandchildren were also present, and helped to renew the scenes of the old homestead's youth.

The reception was purely informal, and therefore all the more enjoyable. Beside the

STEPHEN MASLEN.

Sketch of One of Hartford's Well Known Citizens.

The current number of The Stone published in Indianapolis, contains a very interesting sketch and likeness of Mr. Stephen Maslen of this city, president of the Wholesale and Retail Marble Dealers association of New England and the Provinces. Mr. Maslen was born in Wilshire, Eng., September 6, 1845, and came to this country in 1862. He commenced the study of the marble and granite business in Springfield, Mass. After spending one year in that city, he went to Boston and continued the same study. He then went to Worcester, Mass., where he studied two years under Mr. B. H. Kinney, a prominent sculptor.

For a time after this he was employed to superintend the monument works in Kingston, R. I. In 1870 he removed to Hartford, where he still resides.

Since his removal to this city Mr. Maslen has built and erected some of the finest monuments, both public and private, that can be found in this country. His skill as an artist, his judgment and taste, and his care and diligence, have placed him in the foremost ranks of his profession, while his genial nature and strict uprightness have won for him the favor and confidence of his ever-enlarging circle of acquaintances and friends.

Mr. Maslen was married September 4, 1872, to Miss Hattie L. Brown of Kingston, R. I., and is very happy in his domestic relations. He has four children, two sons and two daughters, the oldest 16 and the youngest eight. He owns a home on one of the pleasantest and best streets in Hartford, and his children give promise of usefulness and talent. On coming to this country, the sketch continues, Mr. Maslen early identified himself with religious workers. His gifts as a singer have made his services much in demand at religious conventions and associations, both as a leader of the music and a solo singer. He has taken a lively interest in Sunday school work, and for a long time has had the care and arrangement of a mission school in Parkville, a suburb of Hartford. He with the assistance of a few others, built a mission chapel in 1888 for the use of this school and for preaching services. He is a member of the South Baptist church in Hartford, and one of its deacons. He is large-hearted, every ready to aid the poor and suffering to the extent of his ability, and

The Hartford Courant.

19

SATURDAY MORNING, MARCH 1, 1890.

Dr. McManus's youngest son, Mr. Henry McManus, graduated with honors at the Philadelphia Dental College, yesterday. Over 300 alumni and visitors attended the class supper, Wednesday evening, and Dr. James McManus, class of '65, was among the speakers.

WILLIAMS—HUNT—In this city, March 3, by Rev. Geo. Leon Walker, George G. Williams and Miss Jeanette C., daughter of the late Dr. E. K. Hunt, all of Hartford.

Mr. George G. Williams, of Glastonbury, and Miss Jeanette C. Hunt were married, yesterday afternoon, at the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. E. K. Hunt, No. 16 Prospect street. There was a reception after the wedding, which was attended by a few of the immediate friends of the family. Mr. and Mrs. Williams sail for Europe this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Dimick and family of Scranton, and Mr. and Mrs. George G. Williams of this city sail to-day for Europe on the Red Star steamer Westernland. Mrs. Dimick and Mrs. Williams are the daughters of the late Dr. E. K. Hunt.

ADAMS—DICKINSON—In Springfield, Mass., March 1, by the Rev. L. H. Cone, Charles H. Adams and Bella F. Dickinson, both of Hartford.

formerly Miss Seidel

The Hartford Courant.

FRIDAY MORNING, MARCH 14, 1890.

SOMERS.

The people of this vicinity partly filled their ice-houses in the early part of the week with six-inch ice. As yet the creamery has gathered none.

Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Pease, with those of their children who could be present, celebrated the sixtieth anniversary of their wedding last Wednesday.

SENATOR WOLCOTT'S WEDDING.

There is much local interest in the marriage of United States Senator Edward O. Wolcott of Colorado, son of the late Rev Dr Samuel Wolcott of Longmeadow, and Mrs Frances Metcalfe Bass, widow of Lyman J. K. Bass of Buffalo, Wednesday. The senator was an intimate friend of Mr Bass and has long known the bride, who has been prominent in Buffalo, Washington and New York society. The wedding took place at St Paul's cathedral with full choral service. Rev Dr Francis Lobdell officiated. As the choir boys, chanting the processional, turned into the center aisle, they were followed by the ushers, George M. Porter, Thomas Carey, Carleton Smith and George Cary, the bride coming last, with her son, Lyman Metcalfe Bass. The best man was Henry R. Wolcott of Denver, and among the near friends who grouped themselves in the chancel were: James S. Metcalf of New York, Mrs Seeley and Miss Seeley of Elmira, Mrs Wolcott and the Misses Wolcott of Longmeadow, Miss Jane Meade Welch, Mrs C. C. Wyckoff, Mrs Edwin T. Evans, and Robert Cameron Rogers of Buffalo. The bride was given away by her mother, Mrs Metcalfe. The wedding gown was by Worth, of heavy cream brocaded satin en traine and mull, with the front embroidered with crystal. Rich point lace formed the Medici collar and decorated the elbow sleeves. A toque of point lace trimmed with cream-white ostrich tips and ornamented with pins in true lovers' knots set with large diamonds was worn. Pearls and diamond scarfpins caught the lace collar and a magnificent pendant set with a large solitaire surrounded by 10 large diamonds, the gift of the groom, was worn. The bride carried a bouquet of her favorite La France roses.

A wedding breakfast was served after the ceremony at the home of the bride's mother,

TUESDAY MORNING, MARCH 11, 1890

MRS. CANNON'S CENTENARY.

Celebrated by a Gathering of Relatives and a Tea Party.

Mrs. Sealy Smith Cannon of New Haven, whose 100th birthday, Sunday, was mentioned in Monday's COURANT, yesterday celebrated her entrance upon her second century of life with a tea party. There was a large gathering of her relatives present. Mrs. Cannon lives with her son, William T. Cannon, at No. 3 College street. She has nine grandchildren and seventeen great-grandchildren, nearly all of whom were present, yesterday, to offer the NEARING THE CENTURY MARK.

Saw the First Umbrella Brought Into the State East of Bridgeport.

Mrs. Sally Cannon will celebrate her 100th birthday Sunday, March 9. This remarkable old lady, who has survived the winters and summers of a hundred years is apparently as fresh as to-day as is the average woman of 50 years. Mrs. Cannon is not perhaps a remarkable woman in any sense of the word except that she has lived to be a hundred years old and has every prospect of living a decade longer. She was born in Wallingford in 1790 and married Lyman Cannon when in her 24th year. Of five children born as the result of this union two still survive, W. T. Cannon, who resides at No. 3 College street, New Haven, and with whom Mrs. Cannon lives, and G. L. Cannon, whose home is in Colorado. Mrs. Cannon has had a comparatively quiet life and to this is undoubtedly due the fact that she has lived to such an advanced age. She is truly a wonderful old lady and her memory is fresh regarding events that happened ninety years ago. Among other things Mrs. Cannon relates the circumstances of the showing of the first umbrella ever brought into the state east of Bridgeport. It was about the year 1800, when Mrs. Cannon, then a girl of 10 years, was living in Wallingford. One Saturday night Paul Noyes, a New York gentleman, traveling from New York to Boston, stopped over in Wallingford to spend Sunday. It rained on Sunday and Mr. Noyes walked to church holding a cumbersome red silk umbrella over his head. The event was so novel that, when church was over all the congregation gathered on the steps of the edifice to watch his departure. This is only one of the interesting reminiscences of by gone days, which Mrs. Cannon can relate. Unlike many old ladies Mrs. Cannon knows all about railroads and steamboats. When in her 90th year she made the journey to Tennessee and back and is as familiar with the different railroad systems as is a regularly employed official of the Consolidated system. In pleasant weather Mrs. Cannon goes down shopping and is well known at all of the large dry goods stores. She pieces bedquilts, knits fine lace and does all of the things that our grandmothers do, who are not more than 70 years of age.

This remarkable old lady's birthday will be celebrated March 9 with a dinner, at which it is expected there will be present her two sons, nine grandchildren and sixteen great-grand-

BIRTHDAY.

HE AGE OF ONE ONE.

rs. Sally Cannon ay, to-day, at the T. Cannon. Mrs. ford. Her health glasses. She re- lington, and, re. n a slip of a girl e teacher pinned of crepe in token I remember the e bit of crepe was as very proud of

New Haven wa and many of her ed on her during ay pass pleasant, and she is ent events of her f the war with er father was a and she recalls the igh it was with procure a suf- his trade. She Lafayette when tion of the conn-

"Aunt" Sally Brown of Granby, Ct., Who will Celebrate Her Centennial the 23d.

From Our Special Reporter.

GRANBY, Ct., Wednesday, March 12.

Since the opening of the new year, there have been no less than five women in Connecticut who have arrived at the 100th milestone of their lives,—all in that wonderful state of preservation peculiar to cente-narians. But none of these show a greater energy than "Aunt" Sally Brown of this township, who is represented in the above cut, and who will celebrate her centennial the 23d. She lives at North Granby, Ct., about eight miles from the solitary station, where the Consolidated road drops the traveler, forced to "foot it" if he would reach any of the little hamlets in this sparsely settled but picturesque region.

"Aunt" Sally's life has been as barren of events as it is rich in years. She was born at Windsor, Ct., just as the nation was beginning to be recognized in the "best society" of other nations, and the United States and "Aunt" Sally have grown together. Her career, however, has been in "the untrodden ways" of Granby. She came early to this town, living first in the eastern part, but has made her final home at North Granby. Here she lives, day by day, showing a surprising vigor, and always easing the household cares of her daughter, Mrs. Jane Latham, 70, by making beds, washing dishes and performing other small tasks. Those who know her well cannot observe that she is at all broken by her years; she says herself that she feels as young as she ever did, and the visitor will soon see that she retains her "hold" on the home government. And she receives many visitors now as the time of her centennial draws near. She gives a cordial greeting, extending her hand and shaking her caller's firmly; she then joins in the conversation and, as a story comes to mind, relates it with much snap and color. Her recollections go back through the generations to her childhood, but she talks more of her old friends now dead than of the stirring times of 1812 and of Washington. Yet she remembers when Washington went to Hartford, and tells an anecdote of a disappointed youth who, when his mother pointed out "the father of his country," exclaimed: "Why, he George Washington! He's only a man, mother!" "Aunt" Sally's greatest sorrow is that so many of her contemporaries are dead; she is of a social disposition and, although kindly treated at home and highly respected by all the people in this region, she declares it makes her sad to think that the young people she used to know are

Died July 6-91 aged 101 yrs 4mo 26da

She has been the mother of four children, but only two, her son, Wadsworth, and her daughter, Mrs. Latham, are alive. Four of five grandchildren are living, four of eight great-grandchildren and one of two great-great-grandchildren. Of the grandchildren three are in Massachusetts,—Mrs. H. and Mrs. Squires. Mrs. Haynes says the house-work ago. She reads in general as well as the young folks. Her health seems so good that she promises well to live a few years longer." And it is indeed certain that she possesses a wonderful fund of strength now. There is a brilliancy in her eyes and a quick intelligence of all that takes place about her, which marks her as a woman who is unwilling to lose her grasp on the world. No one takes a keener interest in the comfort of Sally. It will have been promised that a good shawl will turn out in person.

This village through the en-ager, and is a note save farm a sort of "happy live out more to men. Should come a center spot for a dwel-list of aged pe-haps destined given to "Aun-Holcomb, who the mill and to although he "Aunt" Sally Brown passed her 102d birthday at her home last Wednesday. Although she has had the grip this winter, she is smart and able to be about the house and attend to her usual duties.

GRANBY.

HOW MISS SALLY BROWN SPENT HER 104TH BIRTHDAY.

GRANBY, March 26.—A Post correspondent Friday called on Miss Sally Brown, who lives in the north part of Granby near the Hartland line. She was 104 years old Friday. He found her quite smart, able to make her beds and piece bedquilts. She is not broken in mind, neither does she live altogether in the past, like many old people. There is no doubt that she is the oldest person in this state. She was born in the town of Windsor March 23, 1750. Besides Miss Brown there are three very old men in this town: Allen Pettibone in his ninety-second year, Francis Clark in his ninety-fifth year, Chauncy Holcomb in his ninety-

THE OLD PEOPLE.

A Centenarian at Granby.—Others Getting on to the Same Limit.

"Aunt" Sallie Brown will be 100 years old Sunday, March 23. She lives at present at North Granby, in a quiet, little farmhouse with her daughter, Mrs. Jane Latham, a sprightly young lady of 70, who does her own work with the help of her mother. Mrs. Brown is as hale and hearty to-day as many women of 50. She retains all of her mental faculties perfectly, can see to read, with glasses, sings, goes up and down stairs, makes bed, swashes and wipes dishes, and can take a good long walk. She was born at Windsor, "Half Mile," March 23, 1790, and has lived there and at East Granby all of her life, with the exception of a few years, when she has lived at Granby. Her father was Jonathan Brown of Windsor, and her mother's maiden name was Roxey Combs, from Scotland. She had one brother and three sisters, one of whom, Keziah, was killed when a little over 70, at Bloomfield by having her head crushed by a heavy loaded wagon. In speaking of herself recently, she said: "I feel just as young as I ever did, but it makes me feel sad to think that all the young people whom I used to know are dead. There were Captain Bacon, Harlow Moore, who kept the tavern down at Rainbow, and his brother Orson, and Benjamin Case, who lived just this side of Harlow Moore's. They are all dead now. Then there was Square Horace Clark up at East Granby, Captain Joel Clark, Lawyer Bates and others of his family, besides Deacon David Sheldon and his father, who was a hundred years old when we lived with them at West Suffield. He died about a month after we moved away from there. Squire Niles used to be around there, too.

I remember first rate how the people from Turkey Hills and all around there ran their horses the night his paper mill burned over across the river in Poquonock. We used to have great times in those days at balls."

She then told about the war of 1812, and spoke of several people from Windsor and Poquonock who went to that war, and characterized those times as "exciting."

Mrs. Brown had the typhus fever about thirty years ago and has had the rheuma-

Granby's Frisky Centenarian Entertains Her Friends.
(Special to THE COURANT.)

GRANBY, March 24.

"Aunt" Sallie Brown's one hundred birthday was celebrated here, yesterday, by a large party, at the house of her daughter, Mrs. Jane Latham. Relatives from Hartford, Tariffville and Spoonville came in the early part of the day, and later the neighbors and friends called to congratulate "Aunt" Sallie on her present good health and excellent prospects for many additional years of life.

"Aunt" Sallie is a remarkably well-served old lady, possessing a memory wonderful in one of her age, and a voice without the least harshness in its tones. She seemed willing to do her part to entertain by relating old-time doings and customs and telling an occasional story. She excused herself from singing, however, saying that she was out of practice, though she did sing an old-time song to some friends, who called the evening before.

The old lady was escorted to the head of the dinner-table by Harvy Godard, and, when the others were seated, she seemed to regain her youth. She kept those assembled eagerly listening to her quaint descriptions of the styles of her youthful days, the quaint parties they used to have, etc. She spoke of "Conscience Town," a place near her old home at East Granby, and of different places as they were called in her younger days.

Letters of congratulation were read from persons in different states, who had known her in her younger days. Aunt Sallie is quite set in her way. When some spoke of having the party on Saturday instead of Sunday, she positively declined to allow it, saying that it must come on the anniversary of her birth or it would not be a birthday party.

The callers left substantial tokens of their regard, among them being an easy-rocking chair and sums of money.

Cards have been issued by Mr. and Mrs. Frederick S. Brown, announcing the marriage of their daughter, Kitty to Mr. J. Howard Morse, on March 12.

DESERVED PROMOTION.

Mr. John L. Way Appointed State Agent in Iowa and Nebraska.

Mr. John L. Way, who was appointed one year ago state agent for the Travelers Insurance company for Connecticut and Rhode Island, coming here from a special agency in the company in Iowa and Nebraska, is now on his way back to Omaha to assume the state agency of these two states. Mr. Way is a native of Hebron in this state. By praiseworthy diligence, perseverance, and energy he has worked his way up from "office boy" to an honorable and lucrative position. His friends and acquaintances Presentation to Captain Preston.

Members of Company K gave an entertainment at the armory last evening to a number of invited guests, and during the evening presented Captain De Witt P. Preston with an elegant gold watch as a token of respect for their past commander. Captain William B. Dwight made the presentation speech in a very graceful manner, and Captain Preston replied with much feeling. After refreshments had been served, short speeches were made by Major Thomas M. Smith, Lieutenant Colonel Charles E. Thompson, Major James H. Jarman, Lieutenant Slocum, Paymaster Cheney and others. Lieutenant Saunders also gave a humorous selection and the whole affair passed off

SPRINGFIELD, THURSDAY, MARCH 20
THE BILL-SPRAGUE WEDDING.

The weather seemed to be no obstacle to the members of the company which assembled at the residence of Maj H. G. Gilmore, 196 Pearl street, at 7.30 o'clock last evening to witness the marriage of his niece, Miss Ella Frances, daughter of Mrs L. J. Sprague, to Frederic Abbott Bill of the Springfield envelope company. The wedding party was a comfortably small one, including the relatives of both families, and a number of the young people's friends. The ceremony was performed by Rev Joseph Selden of Cleveland, O., a brother-in-law of Mr Bill, assisted by Rev E. G. Selden of this city. The front-room where the wedding took place was decorated with palms and potted plants, and the Philharmonic orchestra, which furnished the music, was shut in by itself in the front porch, the intervening window having been removed in preparation for the event. The bride, dressed in a heavy white brocaded satin, and with a veil, advanced through the parlors on the arm of her uncle, Maj H. G. Gilmore, who gave her away. The groom came through the hall to meet her in the center of the room, accompanied by his best man, Frank C. Pratt of Hartford, and the bridal party passed beneath the arch formed by the uplifted hands of the bridesmaids and ushers. The wedding followed, Miss Elizabeth Hubbard of this city being maid of honor. Among the bridesmaids were the groom's sister, Miss Jennie Bill of Norwich, Ct., and the bride's cousin, Miss Emma Billings of this city, the others being Miss Clara Dangler of Cleveland, O., Miss Annie Bailey, Miss Marion Kellogg and Miss Clara Emory of this city. The ushers were Charles A. Rogers of Hartford, Dr Wood and Elmer Silver of Boston, Mr Norton of Norwich, Ct., and Charles L. Hotchkiss and Irving Shuart of this city. A reception followed the ceremony. Some of the guests present from out of town were Mrs Joseph Selden of Cleveland, O., Rev E. A. Smith and F. A. Pratt of Hartford, Herbert K. Smith of Yale college and Miss Murray of Norwich, Ct. The groom is a native of Norwich, Ct., and a son of Henry Bill, the publisher of that city, who also came up with his wife to attend the wedding. He is also a nephew of Gurdon Bill, and has been connected with the Springfield envelope company during the four years that he has lived in this city. The bride is a daughter of the late Lorenzo J. Sprague. The newly married pair will enjoy a month's tour in the South and West, and on their return will make their home on Maple street.

The Evening Post.

HARTFORD, THURSDAY, MCH. 20, 1890.
MINNIE MADDERN MARRIED.

Harrison Grey Fiske, Editor of The Dramatic Mirror, the Lucky Man.

Mr. Harrison Grey Fiske, editor of The Dramatic Mirror and brother-in-law of Mat Hewins of this city, was married in New York yesterday to Miss Minnie Maddern, the well-known and gifted actress. None but the relatives and immediate personal friends of both parties knew that the marriage was to take place and none others were invited to attend it. The happy event was solemnized at Larchmont Manor at 3 o'clock. The bridesmaid was Miss Beatrice Hodge, a cousin of Miss Maddern, who has heretofore been known in private life as Miss Mary Augusta Davey, and the best man was Miss Annie Cheney, Daughter of R. O. Cheney, Makes Her Debut.

Of the many social events of South Manchester none have been more brilliant than the one held in Cheney hall last night in honor of the debut of Miss Annie Cheney, the third daughter of Mr. Richard O. Cheney. The cosy hall was most exquisitely decorated and the alcoves luxuriantly fitted up for an enjoyable tete a tete. The stage was handsomely trimmed and behind a netting of woven evergreen refreshments were served. A concert programme of music was rendered by Emmons's orchestra between 8 and 9 o'clock, during which time Miss Annie Cheney with her father and mother received in the middle of the hall in front of the stage. The two elder sisters, Miss May and Miss Florence assisted in the receiving. After the reception was a well arranged programme of dances. The party broke up about 1 o'clock when the Hartford guests left for home in a special train.

The list of invited guests included the most prominent society people in the state and of Springfield. The colleges were also well represented, a large delegation of Yale men being present and a number from Trinity. Among the ladies present from Hartford were: Mrs. P. H. Ingalls, Mrs. W. B. Dwight, Mrs. T. W. Russell, Mrs. F. W. Russell, Mrs. A. Bradley, Mrs. C. E. Chase, Mrs. C. A. Jewell, and the Misses F. W. Brown, V. Brown, Shipman, Conklin, Palmer, Parker, Marcy, M. Bulkeley, S. Bulkeley, Beckwith, Judd, Howard and the Misses Robinson.

Among the gentlemen present were: General L. A. Barbour, C. A. Jewell, H. C. Judd, E. C. Stedman, Dr. P. H. Ingalls, T. W. Russell, L. A. Robinson, S. B. Hubbell and the Messrs. Stone, Bliss, Penrose, Dwight, H. Robinson, Lanman, McCook, McConihe, W. Bulkeley and Warren.

ONE MONTH IN THE SOUTH.

Trip Designed for Health and Pleasure by Clerk Daniels.

Mr. Edward M. Daniels, chief clerk at the Allyn house, left for Pittsburg, Pa., Sunday, where he will be joined by his sister, Mrs. L. W. Murray of Chicago, and from that point they will proceed South, intending to be absent for one month. The health of Mrs. Murray, which has been impaired of late on account of the severe afflictions through which she has passed, necessitates the journey. Mrs. Murray is, with Mr. Daniels, the only survivor of her family, the mother and brother having died within a few months. The husband and son of the lady have also died within two years, the son's disease occurring very recently. She has a daughter, however, who is married in Chicago. During the absence of Mr. Daniels, one of the old clerks of the Allyn house, Mr. William S. Mead, will be located there, filling the vacancy in the clerical force of the house. Mr. Mead is connected with a prominent summer resort in the Catskills. His wife, who is here with him, was formerly Miss Thomas of this city.

HARTFORD, MONDAY, MARCH 31, 1890.

MISS KORN'S RETIREMENT.

Recognition of the Excellence of Her Services in the South Church.

Owing to the announcement in a Saturday evening paper that Miss Lottie Korn was to sing once more in the church, the South Congregational church was filled yesterday morning with Miss Korn's admirers. Miss Korn was obliged, however, at a late hour on Saturday to leave for a business trip to Hartford. Her excellent musical members of the church, the prevalent feeling throughout the city.

Miss Korn, the celebrated soprano, has brought her career to a close by the talent of Mrs. Rogers, a little difficult to start she gave of the whole who were jealous of her position.

drive out the memory of the past, soon felt that she was fully capable of filling the position to which she was called. With a voice of remarkable range and of most perfect beauty in the higher notes, she showed a musical ability which made her a worthy associate for such thorough musicians as Miss Keney and Messrs. Trask and Spencer.

Although living in Meriden, Miss Korn has always been ready to give her time and services in helping out the social meetings of the church here and so has come to be regarded by the congregation as one of their number.

THE NEW SOPRANO.

Miss Jessie Leigh's First Appearance in the South Congregational Church Choir.

The music at the South Congregational church yesterday at both the morning and evening services, was of the usual high order maintained by the excellent choir of this church and was listened to by an audience which completely filled the church, extra seats being placed in the aisles and about the altar, to accommodate those who could not find seats in the pews. Much interest centred in the first appearance in the choir of their new soprano, Miss Jessie Leigh and it is a pleasure to chronicle the fact that in spite of some nervousness incidental to a first appearance before such a large and critical audience, she acquitted herself in a manner which must have been most gratifying to her numerous friends. Miss Leigh possesses a voice of rare sympathetic quality, of good range and which has been carefully trained under such teachers of the vocal art as Henrietta Beebe and Alberto Laurence of New York and Jules Jordan of Providence. The South church are to be congratulated upon the new acquisition to their choir. It is sufficient to say that the remaining parts of the quartette were handled by such artists as Miss Keeney and Messrs. Trask and Spencer, all of whom have seen long and honorable service in this justly celebrated Hartford, Tuesday, April 1, 1890.

Mr. J. S. Lane Remembered.

Mr. J. S. Lane, the retiring roadmaster of the Hartford division of the Consolidated road, was kindly remembered by the roadway department, last evening. Mr. Lane was presented with a handsome gold watch and chain with a masonic charm, a beautiful gold-headed ebony cane, and a magnificent case of silver ware numbering 110 pieces. The presentation occurred about 8 o'clock, in one of the upper waiting rooms at the Union depot, in the presence of about thirty of Mr. Lane's foremen and a number of his personal friends. The presentation speech was made by Mr. S. B. Mallett, chief clerk in Mr. Lane's office. The recipient responded and made a feeling speech in which he thanked "the boys" for their kind-
OFF FOR EUROPE.

A Large Number of Friends Wish Mr. and Mrs. W. B. McCray Bon Voyage.

Mr. and Mrs. William B. McCray of 44 Gillett street, were wished a pleasant voyage by a number of their New York friends who met on board the Teutonic, Wednesday, April 30, at noon. There were flowers, bonbons, fruits and numberless letters of introduction, including one to both captain and purser of the Teutonic. Mr. McCray made a tour of the steamer with his friends and seemed to enjoy thoroughly the feminine "Ohs" as library, smoking room, and grand salon were visited. After an inspection of the McCray stateroom, which is "amidship," opening out into a large hall with tessellated pavement, all adjourned to the main deck, where an hour was passed in watching the arrival of flower laden passengers. Among Mr. and Mrs. McCray's friends were General and Mrs. Charles H. T. Collis, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Harvier, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Childs, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Tift, Miss May Tift, and many others. Mr. Edwin H. Low of the International Steamship exchange, gave Mr. McCray a card to his agent in London, marked "special attention," and there were many other pleasant things connected with this departure. It was a delightful day, and a very fashionable crowd of New Yorkers were on board. Among some of the distinguished fellow passengers were Mr. Paul Bonet, better known as "Max O'Rell," Major J. B. Pond, the manager of Mr. Bonet's lecture tour, Mr. and Mrs. Ralli, the leading people of the Greek social set in New York, and Sir Roderick Cameron and daughters.

At 2 o'clock the big gong sounded, warning friends of passengers to go ashore. Good byes were said and Mr. McCray so far forgot the insurance business as to submit to a good bye kiss from one of the ladies of his party. Mrs. McCray looked on approvingly and a minute later the gang plank was cleared, swung high in the air, the last means of communication was severed, and amid cheers and waving of handkerchiefs, hats and parasols from friends on shore and passengers on board, the Teutonic majestically glided out of her pier; as she turned the last seen of the McCrays they were still waving an adieu to their friends.

Mr. McCray, accompanied, carried

Only a few Springfield people were invited to the wedding of Miss Mary Thompson and Mr. S. T. Steele at Baltimore on Tuesday, and the only person who went from here was Mr. Henry S. Lee, who was the administrator of the Col. Thompson estate. The fact that Mrs. Thompson and her family but recently left this city gives our people more or less of a claim upon the wedding, which is of considerable interest locally.

From the report which appeared in the Baltimore Sun is taken the following extract: Miss Mary Thompson, daughter of Mrs. James Thompson, was married at 1 o'clock in Grace Protestant Episcopal church to Mr. S. Taggart Steele, son of Mr. I. Nevett Steele. The beautiful church was crowded, and long lines of carriages stood in the streets at the front sides of the building. The altar was decorated with Easter lilies, and from the chandelier over the center of the chancel was suspended a large floral bell of pink and white roses. Beneath this bell the ceremony was performed by Rev. I. Nevett Steele, assistant rector of Trinity church, New York, and a brother of the groom, assisted by Rev. Arthur C. Powell, rector of Grace church. The ushers were Charles H. Carter, Robert McLane, Lawrason Riggs, D. K. Este Fisher and John Glenn, Jr., of Baltimore, and Robert LeRoy of New York. The bridal party entered the church, led by the ushers, who were followed by Misses Bessie Shoemaker, Margaret McIntosh, Annie Harrison, Maud Thompson, Juliana Cutting of New York, and Genevieve Thompson, who acted as bridesmaids. Then came the bride, leaning on the arm of Capt. Cook, United States navy, who gave her away. The bride and her escort were met at the altar by the groom, with his best man, Mr. Henry Steele. The bride wore a gown of white faille, with front of lace, with high neck and puff sleeve and veil caught back with a spray of lilies of the valley. Miss Bessie Shoemaker and Miss Margaret McIntosh wore dresses of white crepe with yellow sashes, and carried bouquets of daffodils. Miss Annie Harrison and Miss Maud Thompson wore white crepe, with lavender sashes, and carried bouquets of lilacs. Miss Juliana Cutting and Miss Genevieve Thompson wore white crepe with Nile green sashes, and carried bouquets of mignonette and Marguerites. All the bridesmaids wore light straw hats, trimmed with flowers to match the bouquets. After the ceremony the wedding breakfast was served at the residence of Mr. James Thompson, on Cathedral street. The parlors were decorated with palms and Easter lilies. Mr. and Mrs. Steele stood beneath a bell similar to the one beneath which they were married, and received the congratulations of their friends. The reception lasted until 4 o'clock, at which hour Mr. and Mrs. Steele left Baltimore for a tour.

The description given by the Baltimore American goes more into detail, as the following extract shows: The chancel and altar of the church were handsomely decorated with flowers. A profusion of Easter lilies, arranged on either side of the altar, filled the church with their fragrance. From the chandelier just in front of the altar was suspended a large bell, made entirely of Marechal Neil roses, with a clapper made of dark red roses. Shortly after 1 o'clock, the hour named for the ceremony, the sweet strains of the wedding march from "Lohengrin" floated softly over the church, and the bridal party entered. First came the bride, leaning on the arm of her uncle, Captain A. P. Cocke, United States navy. She was handsomely attired in a rich white satin dress, with old point lace front, high neck and long sleeves. A tulle veil, caught in the hair by a wreath of lilies of the valley, fell in graceful folds, nearly touching the ground. She carried a handsome prayer book in her hand. Then came the ushers—Messrs. Charles H. Carter, Lawrason Riggs, John Glenn, Jr., Robert C. LeRoy of New York, D. K. Este Fisher and Robert M. McLane, Jr. They wore black cut-away coats, white vests, light checked trousers, large white puffed scarfs and a white rosebud in their buttonhole. After the ushers came the six bridesmaids, who were Miss Margaret McIntosh, Miss Bessie Shoemaker, Miss Annie Harrison, Miss Johanna Cutting of New York, Miss Genevieve Thompson, and

Mrs. James M. Thompson, whose eldest daughter is to be married in Baltimore next month, is going abroad with her family after the wedding; and the entire Thompson estate in this city, lying between the elegant Mulberry streets, and including the elegant house built by Col. Thompson, is offered for sale. Mrs. Redfield from the foreign trip upon which they started shortly after their marriage in April. They have been as far south as Naples, and have traveled in Italy, Switzerland, Germany, Belgium, France and England.

NEWTON—THOMPSON—In Worcester, Mass., April 17, by Rev. J. F. Lovering, Paul W. Newton of Hartford, Conn., and Annie A. Thompson of Worcester, Mass. No cards.

Dennis-Hatch.

Miss Emma Louise Hatch and Mr. James W. Dennis were married at the home of the bride, No. 77 Capitol avenue, at 2 o'clock, yesterday afternoon. Mr. Dennis is clerk at the hardware store of Francis & Co., and is a member of the City Guard. The Rev. James Bradin performed the ceremony, and the parlor, where it took place, was beautifully decorated with flowers. There was a large number of handsome wedding presents, including a black marble clock from the City Guard. After a brief reception Mr. and Mrs. Dennis started on a short wedding trip.

REDFIELD-TUTTLE—On Monday, April 21, at St. Mark's Episcopal Church, Brooklyn, by Rev. Spencer S. Roche, Caroline A., daughter of the late William Tuttle, of Brooklyn, to John R. Redfield, of Hartford.

At St. Marks Protestant Episcopal church, on Adelphi street, Monday evening at 8 o'clock, Miss Carrie A. Tuttle, daughter of the late William Tuttle, was married by Rev. Spencer S. Roche to Mr. John Rossiter Redfield of Hartford, Conn. Long before the hour set for the ceremony the great church, whose chancel bloomed with rare exotics, was filled with the friends and acquaintances of the family, and as the great organ pealed forth the joyous strains of the wedding march the bridal party entered through the main door and passed slowly to the chancel, where the ceremony was performed.

Mr. Henry Redfield, of Hartford, acted as best man to the groom, with Mr. Clifford H. Tuttle, Mr. Frank S. Freeman, Mr. E. A. Diney and Dr. James Warden of New York, as ushers. The bridesmaids, all attired alike in white mousseline de soie, with broad sashes confined at the waist with Rhine stone buckles, and carrying white roses and lilies of the valley, were Miss Tuttle, Miss Edith Tuttle, Miss Grovening of Philadelphia and Miss Plaisted of New York. The bride, who entered leaning on the arm of her brother, Mr. T. W. Tuttle, wore a gown of white satin brocade, elaborately trimmed with duchess point lace, with diamond ornaments. She carried a huge bouquet of lilies of the valley. Mrs. Tuttle, mother of the bride, wore pearl colored brocade, trimmed with duchess lace and steel, with diamond ornaments. At the close of the ceremony a reception was held at the residence of the bride's mother, 269 Clinton avenue, where the products of the florist's hot house were again displayed in profusion, transforming the handsome drawing rooms and halls into a fairy land of waving palms and blooming flowers. During the evening Marse served an elaborate wedding supper, and the orchestra, under the leadership of Professor Elliott, furnished music for the dancers. To-day Mr. and Mrs. Redfield will leave on the City of Berlin for an extended tour through Europe. Among those present during the evening were Mr. and Mrs. William Young, Dr. and Mrs. Porter, Mr. and Mrs. Silas Tuttle, Miss Ida Tuttle, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pratt, Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Pratt, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Fahys, Miss Fahys, Miss Freeman, Miss Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Nichols, Mr. and Mrs. James Hart, Miss Hart, Mr. and Mrs. James Bailey, Dr. and Mrs. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Beard, Miss

The James-Parsons Wedding at Northampton—A Fashionable Assemblage at the First Church.

Special Dispatch to The Republican.

NORTHAMPTON, Wednesday Eve. April 23.

The marriage of Arthur Curtis James of New York and Miss Harriet Eddy Parsons of Northampton, was solemnized before a large number of spectators at the First church this evening. Probably the city never before had a wedding of such splendor. For weeks the towns-people have been amazed at the elaborateness of the preparations, which have culminated in dazzling brilliancy to-night. The bride is well-known locally as a young woman of bright literary talents, a social favorite and an excellent singer. The groom is a graduate of last year's class at Amherst and only son of D. Curtis James, a wealthy New Yorker. The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion by New York florists with palms, exotics and costly flowers, and an awning was extended from the church to the sidewalk, under which the bridal procession moved from the carriages to the church. Long before the hour crowds gathered on the walks to catch a glimpse of the bridal party, or to secure a seat after the ticket holders were all in. The gallery was largely taken up by Smith college students, who vied with each other in catching the first sight of the guests. Preliminary to the arrival of the wedding party, Organist W. C. Hammond of Holyoke gave an organ recital, playing, among other numbers, a march by Aida, a festival march by Svendsen, a gavotte by Gluck and a festival march by Gounod.

As the bridal party entered the church a quartet, consisting of Mrs Jennie P. Walker of Boston, Miss Von Mitzlaff of Smith college, Walter Kennedy of Worcester and H. H. Chillson, sang most beautifully the wedding march from "Lohengrin." The procession was led up the main aisle by the ushers, two by two, who were William M. Kingsley, son of E. M. Kingsley of New York, a native of Westhampton, F. J. E. Woodbridge, W. F. Brush and Henry James of New York, Charles M. Clark of Waterbury, Ct., and Charles Ferry of Boston. Then followed the bridesmaids, Miss Gertrude Parsons, daughter of Isaac S. Parsons of Boston, Miss Lizzie Parsons, daughter of P. F. Parsons of Providence, Miss Edna Proctor Clark, daughter of Col Isaac Edwards Clark of Washington, D. C., and Miss Elsie Sawe of Brooklyn, a cousin of the bride. Two wore green and two pink gowns of soft crepe made with demi-trains, short puffy sleeves and V-shaped corsages. They also wore half wreaths of pink hyacinths and carried bouquets of Mernet roses.

Then came the bride's sister, Miss Maud Parsons, who was maid of honor, wearing an exquisite toilet of white gauze, and after came the bride on the arm of her uncle, Marcus Morton. She wore a gown of wavy white satin, the long train hanging in rich folds and the front covered with deep flouncings of Flemish lace, caught with spays of white French lilacs. Her tulle veil was caught back from her face and fell to the edge of her train. She wore no ornament save a magnificent diamond pendant, the gift of the groom. The procession was met at the altar by the groom, attended by the best man, Howard Wilson of New York. The nuptials took place under the symbolic floral bell, Rev H. W. Lathe, assisted by Rev Dr Charles H. Parkhurst of New York, officiating, and the Episcopal service being used in a modified form. The bride was given away by her uncle. The ceremony concluded, the procession moved down the aisle and out the door to music of the organ.

Later a brilliant reception was held at the bride's home on Henshaw avenue, which was attended by some 300 guests, mostly relatives and intimate friends of the two families. The house was transformed into a rich floral conservatory

A Notable Winsted Wedding—Many Out-of-Town Guests Present.

(Special to THE COURANT.)

WINSTED, April 22.

A wedding elaborate in all its details occurred in the First Congregational Church, in Winsted, this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Mr. J. H. Alvord, one of Winsted's merchants, and Miss Pauline B. Stevens, the daughter of the Hon. N. B. Stevens, the president of the Citizen Printing Company of Winsted, were married. The ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. Mr. Stanley, rector of St. James's Episcopal Church, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Kinney, pastor of the First Congregational Church. Professor Conkey was organist. The Episcopal service was used. The bride was given away by her father, ex-Senator Stevens. The wedding procession to the altar was composed of two pages, six ushers, a maid of honor, Miss Mary Phelps, the daughter of Jeffrey O. Phelps of Simsbury, and the bride, upon the arm of her father. The bridegroom, Mr. J. H. Alvord, with the best man, Mr. E. L. Mead, awaited the bride at the altar.

The bride was dressed in combination pink crepe and silk trimmed with white lilacs, pink bonnet, and she carried a bouquet of white lilacs. The maid of honor, Miss Phelps, was dressed in white crepe trimmed with pink velvet ribbons, white bonnet trimmed with pink roses, and she carried a bouquet of pink lilacs. The pages were Masters Arthur Alvord and Harry Munson, and the ushers were Messrs. Augustus Hayes and William Schaffer of Kingston, N. Y.; George Alvord, Mills Norton, Dr. W. S. Hurlburt and Arthur Clark of Winsted.

There were many guests, coming from New York, New Haven, Hartford, Meriden, Norwalk, Kingston, N. Y., Winsted and Norfolk, and many other towns and cities. The wedding presents, which were unusually fine, completely filled a large parlor of the Hotel Andrews set apart for their display.

The newly-wedded couple left for a wedding trip on the 4:50 train. Mr. and Mrs. Alvord will reside in Winsted and will be "at home" May 14, 21 and 28.

CHENEY—ROBINSON—In this city, April 16, at the residence of the bride's uncle, Hon. Henry C. Robinson, by Rev. Dr. E. P. Parker, Louis Richmond Cheney of New York, and Mary Alice Robinson, daughter of the late Lucius F. Robinson.

The marriage of Miss Mary A. Robinson to Mr. Louis R. Cheney took place last evening at the residence of her uncle, the Hon. Henry C. Robinson. The bridesmaids were Miss Annie E. Trumbull, Miss Josephine Barnard, Miss Lucy Powell and Miss Alice Cheney. The best man was Mr. Frank Cheney, jr., cousin of the groom. The ushers were Messrs. L. Clerc Deming, John Platt and Arthur L. Shipman of New York; George Herbert Cheney of South Manchester, James P. Andrews and Lucius F. Robinson of this city. The bride wore a simple gown of white, and carried a bouquet of white lilacs. The bridesmaids were dressed in pink muslin, and carried bouquets of pink roses. The house was profusely decorated with pink flowers. The ceremony was conducted by the Rev. Dr. E. P. Parker. The reception was small, being confined to her relatives and intimate family friends.

WADSWORTH—STEELE—In this city, April 16, at the Fourth Congregational Church, by the Rev. Graham Taylor, Adrian R. Wadsworth of Farmington and Charlotte B., daughter of Major William C. Steele of this city.

WHITE—K. BINSON—In this city, April 16, by the Rev. James W. Bradin, Frederick W. White and Mrs. Ella Robinson, all of this city.

Wadsworth—Steele.

The Fourth Church was filled with people at 6 o'clock, last evening, to witness the wedding of Miss Charlotte B. Steele, daughter of Major William C. Steele, and Mr. Adrian R. Wadsworth of Farmington. In recognition of the long connection of the bride's father with Colt's Band, the orchestra of the band furnished the music at the ceremony.

1890

25

1890

Fashionable Wedding in New Haven.

Last evening's New Haven Union says:—

The wedding of Mr. Godfrey Dunscombe, of New York, to Mrs. Jonathan Edwards, of New Haven, this afternoon, was the social event of the season. Trinity Church was filled with the relatives and friends.

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 29, 1920

BOSTON GIRL MARRIED IN MAINE

Wedding of Miss Kaiulani Sewell and John Winslow Williams a Notable Event in Bath

Boston was represented in the bridal group at the wedding of Miss Kaiulani Sewall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Sewall, daughter SHRD SHRD SHRD Sewall of Boston and Bath, Me., who was married on Saturday to John Winslow Williams of Baltimore, Md. The wedding was in the Episcopal Church in Bath, and the officiating clergyman was Rev. Albert McGay. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Camilla Sewall, one of this season's debutantes, as maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Miss Anne Williams of Baltimore, sister of the bridegroom; Miss Dorothy Sewall, cousin of the bride; Miss Virginia Paine and Miss Mary Baxter, all of Bath; Miss Clarissa Curtis of Boston, who in June is to be married to Prince

Judge Shipm
Wurts, Miss Wu
Mrs. Charles Fa
Hunt, W. W. W
P. Nichols, Mrs.
Mrs. E. Hayes T Ell Whitney, Mi
Miss Mary Calli
Dwight, Mr. W
E. J. Phelps, Mr ham, and a large

Mrs. Dunseo
Collins, is a dau
Collins, one of Company of C
the Misses Eij
Press dispatch f

Mrs. Edwards, 101 Donal dB. Percy and Douglas Dearborn oldes families in of New York. A reception was held at nearly $1,000,000 the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Sewall.
this noon had been a widow for four or five years. She has always been a leader in the most exclusive of local society. Mr. Dunscombe is a New York broker. The ceremony was witnessed by several hundreds of New Haven's ultra-fashionable people and many of them were present at the wedding breakfast at the home of Mrs. Dunscombe, which followed the ceremony.

Cards are out announcing the engagement of Mr. L. D. Mayer, son of Mr. David Mayer, to Miss Lyon of New York, daughter of President Lyon of the Third avenue railroad.

The Hartford Courant.

TUESDAY MORNING, APRIL 29, 1890

Sent to the Retreat.

Saturday afternoon Lawyer Charles D. Burrill was sent to the Retreat for the Insane. Drs. Knight and Howe granted an order of committal after an examination. Possibly the severe injuries of the head he sustained at the time of his fall in the county building two years ago, may have caused Mr. Burrill's mental troubles. He became demented last week.

News was received last week that twin daughters had been born to Mr. and Mrs. John Howard at Omaha, Nebraska. A report was also circulated that Mr. Howard had telegraphed to his mother, Mrs. Amasa Howard of this town, that his wife had subsequently died. Information has now been received that Mrs. Howard is living, and that the dispatch was erro-

FOSTER-WILLIAMS—In this city, April 30, at the South Congregational church, by Rev. E. P. Parker, D. D., N. Winslow Williams of Baltimore, to Anne Tyler Foster, daughter of Frederick R. Foster, of this city.

WILLIAMS-FOSTER.

A Brilliant Wedding—Many Guests
From Out of Town—Those Present.

The South Church was crowded last evening with a large and fashionable audience to witness the wedding of Miss Annie Tyler Foster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick R. Foster, to Mr. N. Winslow Williams of Baltimore, Md. Previous to the arrival of the bridal party, Mr. John M. Gallup, organist of the church, played Dudley Buck's "Triumphal March," selections from "Carmen," Raff's "Larghetto," Meyerbeer's "Schiller March," and selections from Rubenstein and Gounod.

The bridal party entered the church to the music of the "Bridal March" from Lohengrin. First came the groomsmen, then the bridesmaids and maid of honor, followed by the bride leaning on the arm of her father. They were met at the altar by the groom and his best man, and the beautiful ceremony of the Episcopal Church was performed by the Rev. Dr. E. P. Parker. The party left the church preceded by the bride and groom, to the strain of Mendelssohn's "Wedding March." The bride wore white satin with train, trimmed with embroidered gauze, and covered with a bridal veil. In her hair she wore a spray of orange blossoms, and a diamond ornament, the gift of the groom, and on her neck a brilliant diamond piece presented by her brother. The bridesmaids wore white chiffon trimmed with pink ribbons, wreaths of pink flowers in their hair and carried bouquets of pink roses. The maid of honor was dressed in pink chiffon and carried a bouquet of roses of the same color. Mr. John Williams, jr., brother of the groom, was groomsmen, and the ushers were Messrs. T. Swann Latrobe, W. S. G. Williams, Gerald Hopkins and Henry W. Williams of Baltimore; Lucius F. Robinson and Frederick R. Foster, jr., of Hartford. The maid of honor was Miss Laura W. Taft of this city, and the bridesmaids were the Misses Wallace of Brooklyn, N. Y., Miss Williams of Baltimore, Miss Mary Phelps of Simsbury, Miss E. H. J. Beach, Miss Jarvis and Miss Frances Brown of Hartford. Among the guests from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. John B. Williams (parents of the groom), Mr. R. Gordon Williams, Miss Deford, Miss Charlotte Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Howell Carroll, all of Baltimore. Mr. and Mrs. John R. Chadwick of Cleveland O., Mrs. Carey and Miss Love of Buffalo, N. Y., Mr. and Mrs. George B. Sanford and Mr. Samuel K. Sanford of Boston, Mr. Henry C. Ward and Mr. Van Schack of New York.

The church platform and reading desk were covered with lilies and ferns. After the wedding there was a brilliant reception at the home of the bride, 49 Wethersfield avenue, music being furnished by Emmons's orchestra.

Among those at the church were:—

Mayor Dwight, Hon. H. C. Robinson and Mrs. Robinson, Mr. W. B. Clark, A. H. Olmsted, C. C. Lincoln, the Rev. Frank E. Shipman, C. P. Lincoln, the Hon. A. P. Hyde and Mrs. Hyde, T. M. Lincoln, Frank E. Hyde, Mrs. Ellen T. Taft, William Waldo Hyde, Mrs. Samuel Coit, Mr. C. E. Gross, Mr. J. U. Taintor, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Day, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Post, Mr. J. M. Thompson, Mr. H. R. Recfield, Mr. C. E. Billings, Mr. F. C. Billings, Mr. J. D. Browne and Miss Browne, Mr. F. L. Bunce, Dr. and Mrs. P. H. Ingalls, Mrs. and the Misses Parker, Mr. George W. Beach, Mr. Jacob Knous, Mr. E. W. Hooker, Mr. W. W. Jacobs, General and Mrs. W. M. Charter, the Rev. John T. Huntington and Miss Huntington, Mr. H. C. Judd, Mr. and Mrs. G. Wells Root; Major E. V. Preston, Mr. Gilbert Calhoun, Mr. Hugh Harbison; General Alexan-

H. W. Fox & Co., carpenters and builders, have just completed the erection of a four-story brick block adjoining Fomenka street, and the first floor, tenements on two floors above, and the fourth floor will be for the carriage repository on Allynn street. The building is 22x60, with a store on the first floor, tenements on two floors above, and the fourth floor will be for the carriage repository. It cost about $10,000.

Mather-Charter.

Mr. Edward P. Mather was married yesterday at the Pearl Street Church to Miss Susie R. Charter, daughter of Mr. George D. Charter. The church was well filled with friends and relatives, and the church decorations were handsome. The pulpit and altar were surrounded with palms. The wedding march was played by Mr. N. H. Allen, organist of the Center Church. A very pretty feature of the wedding was the little maid of honor, Miss Adele Clark, a child of seven years, who followed the bride, bearing flowers. The bride was charmingly attired in white brocade silk. After the ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. W. De Loss Love, a reception was held at the home of the bride, after which Mr. and Mrs. Mather left on their wedding tour. On their return they will reside on Washington street.

MARRIED YESTERDAY.

The Rev. Philip A. Nordell and Miss Florence E. Gallup.

A very quiet and informal wedding took place yesterday afternoon at the house of Mr. John M. Gallup, 701 Asylum avenue, where the Rev. Philip A. Nordell, D. D., and Miss Florence E. Gallup were married, by the Rev. George M. Stone, D. D., of this city. The only witnesses present, aside from Mr. and Mrs. Gallup, were the father and mother of the bride.

Dr. Nordell is pastor of the First Baptist Church in New London, where he is greatly beloved and honored, not only by his own people but throughout the city. In addition to his work as a pastor, he enjoys an enviable reputation as a specialist in Hebrew scholarship and as a writer on theological and philosophical subjects.

Miss Gallup, whose home is at Poquonoc Bridge, has hosts of friends in this city, where she has spent several winters with her sister, Mrs. Gallup.

JEWETT—In this city, April 5, a daughter (Bessie Ely) to Fred D. and Alice Ely Jewett.
BRIGHAM—In this city, April 5, a son to Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Brigham.

MARRIED AT SALEM.

William S. Case of Hartford and Miss Elizabeth Nichols.

There was a quiet wedding at Grace church, Salem, Mass., yesterday noon, the uniting parties being Mr. William S. Case of Hartford and Miss Elizabeth N., daughter of Mrs. E. R. Nichols. None but the immediate relatives were present. The ceremony was performed by the rector, Rev. J. P. Franks. Emile Schultze, Jr., of New York, a classmate of Mr. Case in Yale acted as best man. There were no bridesmaids. Richard and Jacob Rogers, nephews of the bride, acted as ushers. After a brief wedding tour Mr. and Mrs. Case will return to Hartford, where they will reside.

AN OLD CERTIFICATE.

Printed by Paul Revere—It Suggests a Little Local History.

A correspondent sends to THE COURANT a curious masonic certificate, the first interest of which lies in the fact that it was engraved and printed by Paul Revere at Boston. It is adorned with emblematic figures, and the text sets forth that Ephraim Guiteau has been initiated into the second degree of masonry and is recommended as a true and faithful brother. It is dated May 10, 1777. Dr. Ephraim Guiteau lived and died in Norfolk and was a practicing physician for forty-nine years. His daughter, Louisa, married Dr. Benjamin Welch, who succeeded him at Norfolk, and the five sons of Dr. Welch were all in medical practice at the same time within thirty miles of him, viz: Dr. Asa G. Welch at Lee, Mass., Dr. Benjamin Welch, jr., at Salisbury, Dr. James Welch at Winsted, (all deceased), Dr. William W. Welch at Norfolk and Dr. John H. Welch (now of Hartford) at A Brilliant Affair at Foot Guard Armory Hall Last Evening.

WILLIAM S. CASE.

Elected To-day to Occupy the Bench of the Court of Common Pleas.

William Scoville Case, who was to-day elected judge of the Court of Common Pleas by the House of Representatives, confirming the nomination made in the Hartford county caucus, is a member of the law firm of Case, Bryant and Case, his father, William C. Case, one of the foremost lawyers in Connecticut, being the senior member of the firm. He was prepared for Yale College at the Hopkins Grammar School in New Haven. Mr. Case became a Yale Courant editor, and was chairman of the board.

JUDGE W. S. CASE.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, FEB. 10, 1897.

William Scoville Case is the eldest son of William C. Case, the criminal lawyer, and is a member of the firm of Case, Bryant & Case. He was born at Tariffville June 27, 1863, and fitted for college at the Hopkins Grammar School, New Haven. He was graduated at Yale in the class of '85 and after spending some time at the Yale Law School entered the law office of his father in this city. He was clerk of bills in 1887 and 1889, and in October, 1891, went to Washington, D. C., as law clerk for ex-Congressman Simonds, then appointed United States commissioner of patents. In 1893 he returned to this city. He was married April 8, 1891, to Miss Elizabeth Nichols of Salem, Mass. They have one child, Mary, 2 years old, and live at No. 4 Park Terrace. Mr. Case is the author of a novel, "Forward House," published in 1895.

Mr. William S. Case, nominated yesterday as Judge Calhoun's successor on the bench of the common pleas court, is one of the younger members of the Hartford bar, a son of ex-Speaker William C. Case, and a member of the firm of Case, Bryant & Case. He has a Yale sheepskin (now nearly twelve years old), quiet, unobtrusive manners, literary tastes, and an experience of the joys of authorship. Although the law is proverbially a jealous mistress, he has written and published a romantic novel of took place at afternoon and an occasion of were present. d many from plenty of room ries were well the evening, b watched the listened to the ge orchestra of the direction of stage was deco- other foliage beautiful group lunz at inter- ped to make the clock the misses es, and in the as occupied by ring the after- was the horn- ompson, Hyde, asters Taintor, Hale.

iful appearance the ladies' cos- beautiful. Mrs. ss of rich white in gold bullion, ny other hand- o mention, were he Misses Bar- Best, Goodrich, nter, Holcomb, sfall, Barnard, es Gron, Bissell, on, Burr, Stone, ses Belden, Bry- lsworth, Wilson us, Ellis, Judd, olcomb, Peck, rington, Root, Hall, Root, wles, Hunting- Perkins, Smith, Cadv, Howard, , Billings, Whit- Judd, Adams, sons, Roberts, Married.

Wedding bellsadore Thomas, and the an- in this city is a Chicago miss Rose Fay, ughter of the iscopal clergy- be old home- ay Hall, is a n. It is only arles Fay died ough he never icago he had porarily filled opal Church a members of

MARRIED.

Attended by a marriage of Thomas, the place this even-of the Episco- which was flowers and es of Chicago's from abroad. he church was Thomas and his "Wed- the "Melster- and Beethoven's n was given at brother, after left for Cincin- bout to conduct iss Rose Fay is Charles Fay of

MONDAY MORNING, MAY 12, 1890.

NINETY YEARS OLD.

General Hillyer's Birthday Last Week.

General Charles T. Hillyer, one of the few residents of Hartford born in the last century, was 90 years old last Thursday, May 8, and celebrated the fact by writing out with his own hand (and without the aid of glasses) his application for admission to the Sons of the Revolution. General Hillyer is literally a "son" of the Revolution. His father, Colonel Andrew Hillyer, who graduated at Yale in 1759, served through the Revolution, rising from lieutenant at Bunker Hill to the rank of colonel, and before that had been in the campaign against the French in 1780 and in the ill-fated expedition against Havana. Only two of those who went from Simsbury on this last-mentioned campaign returned alive—Andrew Hillyer and Dudley Hays.

General Hillyer gave up his business position of president of the Charter Oak National Bank some years ago, and recently his health has not been so uniformly good as previously, but he is still exceedingly vigorous for one of his age, alert, and able to manage successfully the large property that he has accumulated—currently reported to be the largest single fortune in the state.

A WESTERN WEDDING.

A Hartford Man to Be Married in Johnstown, O.

The marriage of Mr. William Farland Felch of this city with Miss Marie Helen Willison of Johnstown, O., will occur at the bride's home in that place, Thursday, May 15. Mr. Felch has been the private secretary of Major E. V. Preston, superintendent of agencies for the Travelers Insurance company, and during his residence of five years here he has won large numbers of friends in the city. Mr. and Mrs. Felch will reside at No. 24 Atwood street.

Trinity Students at the Theater.

The sophomore class of Trinity College entertained the seniors last night by a theatre party at the opera house. When the curtain rose in the first act of "Bootles' Baby" the actors were greeted with a rousing cheer by the college men, who occupied the first rows in the orchestra chairs and the two lower boxes. It is safe to say that the production of "Bootles' Baby" by the present company never met with a more enthusiastic reception. As each actor or actress appeared, decorated with the pink and blue colors of the senior class, or with the blue and white of the class of '92, a thundering cheer arose, and the players were frequently obliged to pause until the students had exhausted their surplus energy. Between the acts Trinity songs were sung by the students.

THREE MILLIONS.

A Trinity Student's Fortune.

Ernest Leon Dickinson of the freshman class of Trinity college is, to all appearances, a millionaire three times over. Late Sunday night he received a cablegram from Paris to the effect that his uncle, Leon de Couson, had recently died, bequeathing his valuable chateau and estates in France to his nephew Ernest. The news, both of his uncle's death and of his legacy, was a great surprise to Mr. Dickinson, who values the property at three millions. The fortunate legatee has not yet decided what he will do in regard to his newly-acquired possessions, but he will probably forego near future for France to lay claim to the fortune.

Mr. Dickinson will leave until the college year end, and then he will leave for France to lay claim to the estate.

SATURDAY MORNING, MAY 17, 1890.

Golden Wedding of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Clapp of East Windsor Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. John S. Clapp of East Windsor Hill celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage on Tuesday evening of this week. They were married in Glastonbury, May 12, 1840. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. James Smith, at that time pastor of the First Congregational Church in that town. His widow, a sister of the late Junius S. Morgan, sent a kind letter to Mr. and Mrs. Clapp, recalling her recollection of the event.

Mrs. Clapp was Miss Julia Talcott, daughter of the late Mr. Jared G. Talcott of Glastonbury, and in her honor was assembled the last of many bridal parties that had gathered in the parlor of the famous old Talcott house. This house was built in 1699-1701, by Benjamin Talcott (who then removed from Wethersfield), for the reception of his bride, Sarah Hollister. On the massive iron latch of the front door were engraved their initials. "B. and S. T., 1699."

After that many brides went forth from the family roof, and in each generation one alighted from her chaise and stood for a moment on the round stone steps to survey her new home. Colonel Elizur Talcott and Ruth Wright succeeded "Benjamin and Sarah." Their son, Captain George, brought hither Abigail Goodrich. Then, November 18, 1818, Mr. Jared Talcott journeyed from East Windsor with his wife, Electra Bissell. These two lived together sixty-four years. So, following such law and precedent, the only daughter of the old home, Julia, answered "yes" to the young man of good report from East Windsor, and another happy home was begun under the maples on "the Hill," fifty years ago. According to the old fashion, a bridal party accompanied the bride and groom on their way. Fourteen young people composed the bridal train, of whom ten are living and four were present at the fiftieth anniversary.

Mr. Clapp was born in East Windsor, and is one of five brothers, all of whom are living. The eldest, Mr. Spencer Clapp of Windsor, observed his golden wedding in 1882, and the other three brothers bid fair to continue these family parties. Mr. John S. Clapp has been always prominent in the affairs of his native town and in the church. He has held the office of selectman, was judge of probate for some time and represented the town of South Windsor in the Legislature in 1848. He has been senior deacon in the First Congregational Church for some years.

Mr. and Mrs. Clapp have four children and seven grandchildren, all of whom were present at the celebration. For chief among the many blessings granted to these friends is the fact that death has never entered their home. More than one hundred and fifty guests were invited, and fully one hundred were present, many coming from out of town. Among these were Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Hale from Newark, N. J.; Mrs. L. T. Welles from Hartford; Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Clapp and daughters from New Haven; Mr. Spencer Clapp and daughters, Windsor; Mrs. Brewer, Fairfield; Miss Annie and Mr. Henry Clapp, Boston; Captain Charles Talcott and family, Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Hollister and Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Bancroft, all from Glastonbury; Mr. and Mrs. Luther Wilcox, Portland; George I. Clapp of Clapp & Treat, and A. H. Charlton of Hartford.

The presents included two pairs of gold-bowed spectacles, "To father and mother," a gold-headed silk umbrella, Mr. Spencer Clapp; The Bible Gallery, illustrated by Doré, Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Clapp; large picture entitled "Diana or Christ," Mr. W. and Mr. and Mrs. Roswell C. Cook; large lamp, Mr. and Mrs. Cook; album, books, handsome rug.

articles of

29

JUNE 4, 1890.

The marriage of Miss Susan Hantington Manning, daughter of the late Rev Dr Manning, former pastor of the Old South church at Boston, and Rev George Gordon, present pastor of the church, was privately celebrated yesterday noon at the residence of the bride's mother on Gloucester street, Rev Dr Phillips Brooks officiating. At the reception President Eliot of Harvard, Dr Peabody, the officers of the Old South and many members of the parish were present.

The twenty-fifth marriage anniversary of General and Mrs. William B. Rudd will be celebrated at their residence in Lakeville on Wednesday evening, June 11, and at the same time and place their daughter will be married to Mr. Martin Cantine.

MISS RUDD'S WEDDING.

Brilliant Festivities at Lakeville This Evening.

The marriage of Miss Fannie Rudd, daughter of General William B. Rudd, with Mr. Martin Cantine, which will occur this evening at the residence of the late Governor Alexander H. Holley, in Lakeville, will be an event of great social interest in Litchfield county.

FESTIVITIES AT LAKEVILLE.

Marriage of Miss Fannie Rudd to Mr. Martin Cantine Last Evening.

Lakeville was invaded last evening by the cream of Hartford society, assembled to attend the marriage of Miss Fannie Rudd, daughter of General William B. Rudd, to Mr. Martin Cantine. The wedding took place at the old Holly mansion, Miss Rudd being the granddaughter of Governor Holly. The couple stood in exactly the same place as did the parents of the bride, when they were married twenty-five years ago. Dr. J. C. Goddard officiated, assisted by Rev. Edward Rudd of Albany, a cousin of the bride. After the ceremony the bridal pair and General and Mrs. Rudd, whose silver wedding it was, received their friends in a large parlor of the handsome house. The room as well as several others was decorated tastefully with ferns and wild flowers. A collation was served during the evening in a large tent on the oval in front of the house. At a little after 9 o'clock, the newly married couple drove off on their honeymoon tour amidst a shower of rice and old shoes. The presents displayed were something magnificent and included, besides the regulation silverware, many valuable articles of China. Several fine paintings and etchings were also in the collection. The presents to General and Mrs. Rudd proved not the least part of the display, one in particular, a silver bowl from the governor and his staff, being of unusual elegance. Those present, besides the Hartford contingent which was fully detailed in yesterday's Post, included many society people from New York and Massachusetts.

Mrs. Havemeyer of New York city, daughter of ex-Lieutenant-Governor Loomis of New London, has leased the William R. Cone residence on Washington street for a term of years and will make it her home in the fall.

A divorce has been granted in the case Havemeyer v. Havemeyer. Mrs. Havemeyer is a daughter of ex-Lieutenant-Governor Loomis of New London.

A Wedding at the Pearl Street Church and Reception at Hotel Capitol.

Yesterday witnessed many weddings in this locality, but none that passed off with more brilliancy than that of Miss Minnie Louise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Tomlinson of this city to Mr. George Ellsworth Brown of Boston. The ceremony was solemnized in the Pearl street Congregational church at 8 o'clock in the evening, Rev. W. DeLoss Love officiating. The church was handsomely decorated, one particular feature being a flower rope stretched across the front of the center aisle. This rope was removed by Master Harry Rapelye and Miss Adele Clark who preceded the bridal party as they marched up the aisle. The bridesmaids were Miss Caroline B. Shaddock of Boston and Miss Della Stanley Peck, daughter of Mayor Peck of New Haven. The groom's best man was Mr. Benjamin P. Sherman of Boston. The ushers were Messrs. David Calhoun, James N. Stanley, A. L. Bliss and Arthur B. Champlin, mayor of Chelsea, Mass.

A reception followed the ceremony at the Hotel Capitol. The whole first floor of the hotel was given over to this event. The bride and groom received in one of the parlors, while the others were occupied by the large number of guests. The receiving room, naturally elegant, was made doubly so by the introduction of rare flowers and tropical plants. Back of the newly married couple was a huge bank of flowers, adding beauty to the scene and fragrance to the air. The hall and other rooms were equally prettily decorated and Proprietor Swan is to be congratulated for his share in making the wedding a brilliant one. A collation was served in the large dining hall during the evening.

BROWN-TOMLINSON—In this city, June 11, by the Rev. W. De Loss Love, George Ellsworth Brown of Boston and Miss Minnie L. Tomlinson of Hartford.

BILL-WARNER—In this city, June 11, by the Rev. W. De Loss Love, Fred. R. Bill and Miss Minnie J. Warner, both of Hartford.

MCNAMARA-DOWLING—In Jersey City, June 11, Dr. J. H. McNamara of this city and Miss Lizzie Agnes Dowling of Jersey City, Very Rev. James Hughes, V. G., of this city, officiating.

Mr. Anthony F. Bolan and Miss Nellie Kenefick of this city were married at St. Patrick's Church, yesterday, by the Rev. Father Dullard. A wedding breakfast was served at the residence of the parents of the bride.

Miss Annie F. Martin and Mr. Joseph A. Johnson were married, yesterday, at St. Patrick's Church, by the Rev. Father Leddy. The friends of the bride at the Case, Lockwood & Brainard Company, where she was formerly employed, made a present of a handsome steel engraving, and the members of Colt's Band, in which Mr. Johnson plays, gave an elegant French clock. The couple left on a brief wedding tour and will reside at No. 23 Walnut street on their return.

Wedding Yesterday at West Winsted.

A very pleasant home wedding was that of Mr. Nathaniel W. Hayden of Windsor Locks and Miss Alice E. Welch, daughter of Mr. James H. Welch of West Winsted, at the residence of Dr. E. H. Welch, uncle of the bride, at 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the Rev. Mr. Kinney officiating. The bride wore a rich white silk gown, with diamond ornaments. She was attended by her little niece, Miss Louise Welch, as maid of honor. The ushers were Mr. Arthur D. Coffin, Windsor Locks, Mr. Sam Hayden of SPRINGFIELD, WEDNESDAY, JUNE 11.

THEIR PUPILS' GIFT TO THE MISSES HOWARD.

The pupils of the Misses Howard during the quarter century's fortunate existence of their girls' school, anticipating the reunion next week Wednesday, have given them a rich and beautiful token of their affection in the shape of a tea service of solid silver, wrought by Bigelow, Kennard & Co of Boston. The service consists of a pivoted urn, with a novel hinged cap as extinguisher for the lamp, a sugar bowl, cream ewer, tea caddy and slop-bowl, all in good, old-fashioned shapes and devoid of fantastic ornament, as solid ware should be. The only decoration is a simple fluting. On the bottom of each piece are engraved the words: "From pupils, from 1863 to 1890," and in the central depth of the slop-bowl is—not a monogram, but what may be called a trinogram—the initials C. L. S. and H., standing for the Misses Lucinda, Sophia and Catharine Howard. The names of the 405 givers are inscribed in a Russia-leather-bound book; the names being all inscribed on the left-hand pages, and the married names of those that have changed their estate placed on the corresponding lines on the right-hand pages. This constituency of pupils and friends extends over all the country and into Europe and the isles of the seas. The incommunicable charm of the gift lies in the love, as serious as it is cordial, which all these hundreds of girls and women feel for friends and guides so faithful, so genuine and so gracious.

THE DOINGS IN LOCAL SOCIETY

And Some Personal Gossip.

June is proverbially a gay season socially in Springfield, and there is no exception to the rule this year. The novel and especially interesting event this week will be the reunion of the pupils of Miss Howard's school at the Howard homestead on Union street, Wednesday afternoon and evening. Some 450 to 500 invitations have been sent out to the old scholars, but if any have accidentally been omitted they are earnestly urged to attend, by the committee in charge. The committee, whose names appear on invitation, are Misses Lucy A. Morton, Lucy O. Pratt, Anna M. Dakin, Emily B. Hedden and Clara M. Shurtleff. One of these, Miss Dakin, is to be married the day before the reunion, at the home of her uncle, Ephraim W. Bond, on Maple street. The wedding ceremony will be witnessed only by the families of the bride and groom and their most intimate friends, but it will be followed by a reception, to which a larger circle of friends are asked. This wedding will have a peculiar interest for many old residents because it will be the last social occurrence in one of Springfield's oldest and, in earlier days, finest mansions, at least in its present location. The Day house, which has been occupied by Mr Bond's family for a number of years, has been the scene of many festive gatherings since it was built, some 70 years ago, by Capt Orne, who came here from Salem. This last event promises to be as happy and auspicious as any of the series.

THE BOND-DAKIN WEDDING.

George R. Bond, cashier of the Pynchon bank, and Miss Anna M. Dakin, were married last evening at the Maple-street home of their uncle, Ephraim W. Bond. From the prominence of the parties in Springfield's social life, the occasion was one of unusual interest and the newly-wedded pair received congratulations from a large company of friends. The bride is the eldest daughter of Francis E. and Emily H. Dakin, the latter a daughter of the late Col A. G. Hazard of New York and Enfield, Ct., and sister of Mrs W. Bond. Since the death of both parents, her early life, the bride's home has been her aunt and uncle in this city. The bride being the nephew of Mr Bond. The wedding was solemnized at 5.30 o'clock. As the Philharmonic orchestra, stationed in the broad hall at the head of the stairs, struck the strains of the wedding march from "Lo-hengrin," the bridal procession was started toward the back parlor. The parlors were separated by rustic gates of white birch trimmed with daisies. By these stood members of the party who accompanied the Misses Dakin on their recent European trip, Mrs Jouroldmon, Miss M. L. Dunbar, Miss F. B. Dow and Miss Kellogg. The party were loaded down with daisies as they sailed away a year ago, and from the display made of these June flowers, they took the name of the "Daisy party," and this pretty feature of the ceremony appropriately emphasized those associations. The members of the "Daisy party" carried large bunches of white daisies, and Mrs Jouroldmon and Miss Kellogg opened the flowery gates. First came the maid of honor, Miss Emily Hazard Dakin, sister of the bride, wearing a dress of white Marguerite lace over satin. Then came the bridesmaids, Miss Fannie L. Bond, sister of the groom, wore primrose gauze over a silk dress of the same color, while the other bridesmaid, Miss Elvira Bartlett of Boston, a cousin of the bride, wore white gauze over satin. The bridesmaids and maid of honor carried bouquets of La France and Luizet roses. The bride came last on the arm of her uncle, E. W. Bond. As the gates were opened the groom met the party, attended by Arthur H. Dakin of Boston, brother of the bride, as best man, and the ushers, C. D. Bond, E. W. Bond, 2d, Edward Pynchon and F. H. Gillett.

The ceremony was performed by Rev Dr Buckingham with his favorite form of service, and two rings were used. As the wedding march changed to the softer notes of Schuman's "Traumerei," the couple took their stand under a large arch of white birch, festooned with laurel blossoms, a huge wedding bell of La France roses directly over them. At their feet was a beautiful Angora rug, which harmonized well with the rich white folds of the bride's dress. She wore an ivory white peau de cygne trimmed with point D'Alencon lace. Lilies of the valley were sprinkled over the dress and veil, and she carried a bunch of the same flowers in her hand. About 60 of the relatives and intimate family friends witnessed the ceremony, and as it closed and the livelier strains of Mendelssohn's march were heard, offered their congratulations to the couple.

The reception followed from 6 to 8 o'clock, and was attended by about 300 guests. The

THE HOWARD SCHOOL REUNION

Two or Three Hundred of the Pupils Join in the Family Love-Feast.

The reunion of the pupils of the Misses Howard's school on Union street last evening was all that it should have been, and indeed could not help being. All their "girls" were engaged in its interest, and a committee of those who live in Springfield took all the arrangements into their hands, Mrs Henry M. Phillips and Miss Lucy Morton being active members of this committee. All the pupils for these 27 years that could be were reached, and there were but few who were not heard from. The old house, as interesting as it is unpretending, was filled with flowers and ferns. The gate posts began it with masses of crimson peonies; over the front door daisies in green read the inscription "1863-1890"; mountain laurel, from the hillsides of Huntington, adorned every nook and corner of the hall, beside the ancient tall clock, beneath the ancestral portrait of Dr Bezaleel Howard, some time minister of the First church of Christ in Springfield, and clambered up the banisters of the stairway; the parlor was a rose garden, profuse with jacqueminots and many other kinds; rose-peonies held a place in the dining-room; daisies and ferns abounded in the school-rooms, where the refreshments were served, and all was bloom and fragrance.

In the afternoon, after 3 o'clock, the pupils began to assemble, those that dwell in the city, from the matrons, girls of earlier classes, down to the young things of this present year, and those from out of the city likewise, all coming together like a delightful family party, and greeting Miss Lucinda, Miss Sophia and Miss Catharine as precious friends. There was nothing of formality about the affair, but all was natural and friendly ease. In the afternoon the yard was occupied by groups of girls in bright dresses, and it was a charming sight to behold such a group enjoying their ice-cream and their lemonade under the shade of a great parasol. Many a "detective" camera was there, its owner taking snap shots here and there; and often did the Misses Howard have to pause in a sunshiny spot and be "taken." In the evening the strings of Chinese lanterns across the yard were lighted, and the company, changing somewhat in its personnel between day and dusk, but the same in spirit and cheer, continued to wish the Misses Howard a happy life in their new freedom from the cares of school—pleasurable cares to remember, especially when they could look upon so rare an array of fine countenances as these representative pupils bore. Some of these had come from long distances, from the old West, for instance, on purpose to be present at this reunion; and then there were dispatches from many others, a cable from Paris among the rest.

Late in the evening there was a surprise in the reunion,—the Orpheus club, 42 strong, at whose concerts the Howard school has been largely represented ever since their organization, came up and began a serenade with the strains of "Auld Lang Syne." Everybody was in the secret except the honored ladies to whom the compliment was paid. Afterward the Laughing song was sung, and then Abt's "A May Night," with its lovely tenor solo; then a waltz song. At this point the club made themselves part of the party,—and the few favored men who, because of their wives having been pupils, or from other good reasons, had been allowed in the charming company of women, were made to feel somewhat less exceptional. The club partook of ice-cream and coffee, and thereafter continued their serenade with Storch's "Reveries," a Lullaby, and last the noble "Pilgrim's Chorus" from "Tannhäuser." If for the Misses Howard there were a little sadness mingled with the gracious joy and privilege of so beautiful a farewell to their useful and faithful career as teachers, it would be no wonder. But it was an event never to be forgotten by the three sisters or their scholars; an event rare in the history of the old town, where their family has for generations held a position of high esteem, such as befits an ancient New England house.

All pupils attending the reunion wrote their names in a book, which will be a memento of the occasion. We give a list very nearly, if not quite complete, of those from out of town, accompanying the names of those who have married with their maiden names, as follows:—

Miss Bessie Allen and Miss Marion Allen of Greenfield.

Miss Margaret Bucklin of New York city, Mrs Robert M. Burnett (Miss Margaret Hall) of Southboro, Miss Annie Bacon of Northampton, Miss Fanny Bristol of New London, Ct., Mrs E. H. Bannister (Miss Lillie Dikeman) of Northampton, Miss Elizabeth Brush and Miss Sarah Brush of New Haven, Ct., Mrs F. H. Brown (Miss Mary Wood) of Boston, Miss Elizabeth Brooks of Concord, Miss Laura Brewster of Plymouth, Miss Augusta Bradley of Brattleboro, Mrs M. B. L. Bradford (Miss Florence Hoar) of Providence, R. I.

Mrs Harrison H. Child (Miss Rebecca Bird) of East Walpole, Miss Edith Child of Newport, R. I., Mrs Frederick Clark (Miss Belle Talbot) of North Billerica, Miss Anna Caldwell of New York city.

Mrs William Davis (Miss Ellen B. Warner) of Cambridge, Mrs Whitney Dalzell (Miss Helen Stearns) of Cambridge, Mrs Charles S. Davis (Miss Lydia Russell) of Plymouth, Miss Louise Devens of Boston, Mrs Eugene Davis (Miss Carry Smith) of Northampton.

Robert (Miss Lucy Marsh) of Rochester, Miss Lucy Emmons of Kittery Point, N. H.

Mrs Thomas W. Fitch (Miss Carrie Morris) of St. Paul, Minn., Mrs George Griggs (Miss Nora Ball) of Brookline, Miss Cora Fellows of Belchertown, Mrs Farley (Miss Mary Wells) of Longwood, Mrs Charles Farlow (Miss Minnie Harris) of Boston.

Miss Mary Gifford of Duxbury, Miss Elizabeth George of Pittsburg, Pa.

Mrs Thomas Hooker (Miss Sally Bowles) of New Haven, Ct., Miss Katherine D. Hubbard of Washington, D. C., Miss Annie Harter of Mansfield, O., Mrs M. D. Harter (Miss Hitty Brown) of Mansfield, O., Miss Emily Howard of Boston, Mrs J. W. Hayward (Miss Sally Howard) of Roxbury, Miss Margaret Hayward and Miss Emily Hayward of Roxbury, Miss Mabel Hussey and Miss Clara Hussey of Pittsburg, Pa., Mrs Dr Haviland (Miss Sally Johnson) of Vermont, Mrs Dr Hubbard (Miss Mary Stowe) of Holyoke, Miss Clara Hoar of Concord.

Miss Grace Ireland and Miss Mary Ireland of New York city.

Miss Maria Knapp of Plymouth, Miss Lucy Kingman of Orange, N. J.

Mrs Lane (Miss Hatty Winslow) of Norwood, Miss Levantia Livingstone of Cherry Valley, N. Y., Miss Rose Loring of Newton.

Miss Georgina Moore of Waltham, Miss Louise Macomber and Miss Anna Macomber of New Bedford, Mrs James Mansfield (Miss Julia Wood) of Gloucester, Mrs M. D. Montague (Miss M. Jennie Bangs) of Birmingham, Ala.

Miss Elizabeth Perkins of Brookline, Miss Pauline Phillips of Connecticut, Mrs Hamilton Perkins (Miss Bessy Bliss) of Boston, Mrs Ernest Pfarrius (Miss Emma Parsons) of New York.

Mrs Frank Olmsted (Miss Gertrude Holley) of New York city, Miss Clara Orne of Philadelphia, Miss May O'Brien of Boston, Miss Helen Osborne of Auburn, Miss Norah Oliver of Pittsburg, Pa.

Miss Mary Robbins of Lakeville, Ct., Miss Mary Ricketson of Pittsburg, Pa., Miss Sarah Robinson of Lexington.

Miss Mary Spencer of Fitchburg, Miss Sarah Sherburne of Boston.

Miss Harriet Smith of Roxbury, Miss Abby Stearns of Waltham, Miss Mary Soule of Brookline, Miss Elizabeth Simmons of Cambridge.

Miss Elizabeth Thurber of Plymouth, Miss Ray Tod and Miss Charlotte Tod of Cleveland, O., Mrs Samuel E. Turner (Miss May Moore) of Cambridge, Mrs William A. Tomes (Miss Julia Hall) of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Miss Azalea West of Minneapolis, Minn., Miss Ella C. Walker, Miss Elinor B. Wheelock and Miss Kate U. Walker of New York city, Miss Charlotte B. Winsor of Northboro, Miss Sophia Wheelwright and Miss Julia Worthington of Roxbury, Mrs Alfred Worcester (Miss Bessy Hill) of Waltham, Mrs Nathan Warren (Miss Lottie Bacon) of Waltham, Miss Kate Wendell of Quincy, Mrs Leonard Ware (Miss Laura Foot) of Roxbury, Miss Bertha Upham of Quincy, Ill., Mrs Ward (Miss Emma Chapin) of New York, Miss Louise Ward of New York.

There were 19 members of the Charles Howard family at the church of the Unity yesterday, and at the family gathering Christmas day every living member was present except one grandson. The reception given by the Misses Howard to their friends among the old families of the town on Saturday evening was a delightful affair.

The Charles Howard Family Reunion.

The tea party or reception given by the Misses Howard early last evening, at their hospitable home on Union street, was an interesting and unusual gathering. It was not a general company but was restricted rather to the old family friends and descendants of those who were associated with the Howards in the earlier society of the town, 40 or 50 years ago. It gave these friends a welcome opportunity to share in the pleasures of the complete family assemblage which the Howards have enjoyed for the first time this week, and to meet again the members of the house who live elsewhere and are too rarely seen here. Rev and Mrs Thomas D. Howard of Charlestown, N. H., Mr and Mrs William S. Tiffany and their son of Brookline, Mr and Mrs A. E. Andrews, Mr and Mrs J. W. Hayward and their children of Roxbury, and Miss Emily Howard. Miss E. R. Simmons of Cambridge, who was so long a member of the household and a teacher in the school, which has made it famous outside of Springfield, was naturally included in the reunion and helped to entertain the guests last evening. It was a pleasure to see the three sisters, Misses Lucinda, Sophia and Kate, who are so thoroughly identified with the social life of Springfield, surrounded by all of their DONAGHUE—WELDON — In Manchester, June 17, P. Donaghue, of Hartford and Miss Kate Weldon, of Manchester.

Cards have been issued by Mrs. Mark Howard of Asylum avenue, announcing the marriage of her daughter, Myra Lee, to Mr. Kirk Hart Field, at Colorado Springs on Wednesday, June 18, at half-past 12 o'clock. Miss Howard has been teaching at Colorado Springs for some time.

SNEATH-CAMP.

A Middletown Wedding and Largely-Attended Reception.
(Special to THE COURANT.)

MIDDLETOWN, June 19.

Miss Anna S. Camp, daughter of John N. Camp, president of the First National Bank, was married at her home on Crescent street at 5:30 o'clock this evening to Mr. E. H. Sneath, instructor in Miss Porter's school at Farmington. The service was conducted by the Rev. P. M. Snyder of the South Church, assisted by the Rev. I. W. Sneath of Cambridgeport, Mass., brother of the groom.

Miss Lillian P. Mansfield was maid of honor, and the ushers were Livingstone W. Cleaveland and W. L. Phelps of New Haven, Seward V. Coffin and Herbert L. Camp of this city. Music was furnished by the Germania Orchestra of Boston, Emil Mollenhauer leader. Habenstein of Hartford was caterer. Only the immediate relatives of the parties were present at the ceremony, but immediately after a reception was held, which was attended by a large number of friends. A great many were present from out of town. The bride was the recipient of many elegant and costly presents.

It is expected that in the fall Mr. and Mrs. Sneath will make their home in New Haven.

Governor Hill Entertained.

After the democratic mass meeting at Allyn Hall last evening Governor Hill and Colonel J. S. McEwan, A. A. G., of his staff, with other visiting democrats, were entertained at the Hartford Club by Collector Frederick S. Brown and several prominent citizens.

OFF FOR EUROPE.

Mr. Theodore Clark and wife, of this city, Frank E. Brown, wife and daughter, of Redlands, Cal., L. M. Holt and wife, of San Bernardino, Cal., State Senator James Graham, Dr. H. Steven and Wilbur F. Day, of New Haven, A. P. Kitching, of Boston, Mass., and Professor John E. Sinclair, of Worcester, Mass., have engaged passage for Europe on the steamer City of New York, which sails June 18. The entire party had expected to start for California to-day, but concluded to first take a short trip to Europe. Mr. Clark, whose name has been before our readers in these columns for the past twenty-five years, expects to make his future home in California, where he has made large investments. He has been a thorough business man widely esteemed in business and social circles, and the qualities to heart and mind which gave him popularity and success in this city cannot fail to do the same for him under the sunny skies of California.

A Hartford Boy Married.

The Rev. Arthur S. Phelps, Hartford High School, '82, Yale, '86, was married in Colorado last Tuesday. The ceremony was performed by his father, the Rev. S. D. Phelps, D. D. The wedding trip includes Fort Worth and New Orleans, and the young couple will reach Connecticut next week. Mr. Phelps was ordained, June 5, as pastor of Immanuel Baptist Church at Denver.

Springfield friends were interested in the marriage at South Bristol, Me., the 21st, of Miss Susie H. Calhoun to Rev Charles N. Ransom, under appointment as missionary of the American board in Africa. Miss Calhoun is the daughter of Rev Simeon H. Calhoun, the veteran missionary at Mount Lebanon, and niece of the late W. B. Calhoun, once mayor of this city. The ceremony was performed by Rev Dr Strong, editor of the Missionary Herald, assisted by Rev A. C. Sewall of Schenectady, N. Y. Mr and Mrs Ransom will sail for their new field of missionary work on the Pavonia, which leaves Boston Saturday, September 6.

THE WESTON SILVER WEDDING.

A BRILLIANT EVENT AT DALTON

Commemorating 25 Years of Wedded Life—Friends From Near and Far Through the Beautiful Home—An Occasion of Congratulation and Merrymaking.

JUNE 28, 1890.

The reception given by ex-Lieut-Gov Byron Weston and Mrs Weston at Dalton, yesterday afternoon and evening, was one of the most brilliant society events which Berkshire county has seen in many years. The occasion was the 25th wedding anniversary of Mr and Mrs Weston and they celebrated their silver wedding in royal style, bidding their friends welcome from far and near and entertaining them with a lavish hand.

"Westonholme," the beautiful residence of the "Governor," as everybody calls him, was elaborately decorated for the party, and during the afternoon, from 4 until 6 o'clock, and in the evening, from 8 until a late hour, the spacious apartments were thronged with guests. Over 1200 invitations were issued, and everybody who could attend did so. The grounds were illuminated by hundreds of gay lanterns, and rows of them stretched on either side of the drive-way and paths, while the silvery moon in the zenith lent still greater enchantment to the scene. The piazzas were festooned with bunting and flags, with glowing lanterns here and there and palms and plants in profusion.

The interior decorations by Florist White were more elaborate and confined entirely to flowers and green plants. Mr and Mrs Weston received their guests in the reception-room in which the colors, pink and green, were everywhere mingled. Mrs Weston wore a becoming costume of gray and pink silk, heavily trimmed with lace, and carried a huge bouquet of pink roses. The mantel in the room was banked with smilax and green and upon this background were the dates "1865—1890" in pink roses. Huge baskets of roses were in every nook and corner and towering palms lined the walls. The decoration of this room was done by Gale of this city and was very creditable. The music was attained in palms, daisies and

brother of Mrs George Ellis.

PARADISE-FELLOWES—In this city, June 30, at Trinity Church, by the Rev. Storrs O. Seymour, assisted by the Rev. Paul Birdsall, of St. Paul's Church, New Haven, and the Rev. Harry Nichols, of New Haven, the Rev. Frank Ilsley Paradise, of Boston, Mass., and Caroline Wilder, daughter of Charles E. Fellowes, of this city.

PARADISE-FELLOWES.

Married in Trinity Church Yesterday.

The wedding of Miss Caroline Wilder Fellowes, daughter of Mr. Charles E. Fellowes of this city, and the Rev. Frank Ilsley Paradise of Boston, took place at Trinity Church yesterday at noon, the Rev. Storrs O. Seymour, rector of the church, officiating, assisted by the Rev. Paul Birdsall of St. Paul's Church, New Haven, and the Rev. Harry Nichols of New Haven. The ushers were the Messrs. Edward C. Fellowes of New Haven, Yale '88, brother of the bride; Frank R. Shipman, Yale '85, and Frank R. Cooley, Yale '86, of this city; William H. Seward, Yale '88, of Auburn, N. Y.; Frederick W. Wallace, Yale '88, of Ansonia; Ernest Carter, Princeton '88, of New York. The best man was Mr. Franklin Carter, Yale '88, of New York. There were no bridesmaids. The ushers were with one exception (Princeton) Yale men, and wore boutonnières of college blue. Mr. Paradise was in the class of 1888 at Yale.

The bride wore a gown of pigeon gray crape trimmed with Vandyke points in silver and white, short train, Medici collar, puffed sleeves, round neck filled in with white crape. The costume was completed by grey shoes with silver buckles, grey gloves, fan of white ostrich feathers and large hat trimmed with pale, pink roses. She carried a white prayer book, from which the Rev. Mr. Birdsall began the service. The father of the bride gave her away.

The Rev. Mr. Paradise has already assumed charge of St. Peter's Church at Milford, Conn., to which he was unanimously called.

A Queer Robbery.

The Rev. Frank I. Partridge and Miss Carrie E. Fellowes of this city were recently married and removed to Milford in this state, where he was rector of the Episcopal Church. A few days ago their house was entered by burglars and robbed of their many wedding presents. The same night a horse and wagon were stolen from that neighborhood. Next day the horse appeared at its stable with a harness (a new one) but no wagon. A search was made and finally the wagon was discovered. It had broken down, the horse had either broken loose or been released, and the thieves had decamped. In the wagon were the articles stolen from the Partridge house. They were taken home and are enriched now by this bit of history that attaches to them.

The many friends of the Rev. Frank I. Paradise and Mrs. Paradise were surprised to read of them in yesterday's COURANT as Mr. and Mrs. Partridge.

WOODSIDE.

Miss Haines to Retire and Go Abroad—Her Successor.

Miss E. H. Haines, who has conducted the school for young ladies at "Woodside," on Asylum avenue, for a number of years, has made arrangements to retire from the management of the school, in order to go abroad, probably in September, with her assistant, Mrs. Mary Holland Lee, for an indefinite period. The school will be continued under the management of Miss Sarah J. Smith, who has bought all the school furniture from Miss Haines, and who will lease the buildings and grounds from the Goodwins as heretofore. She will be assisted by Mrs. R. M. Lathrop. Miss Smith was for a number of years teacher of drawing in the Hartford public schools, and has since conducted a young ladies' school at "Lakeview," in Litchfield. She will take charge of "Woodside" on July 1.

Inspection by Dr. Seward Webb.

A Property Which Would Be Highly Prized by the Historical Society.

Dr. Seward Webb of New York city, one of the sons-in-law of the late William H. Vanderbilt, spent to-day in company with Postmaster Kinney. It is believed that his object in visiting Hartford was the inspection of the old Webb property in Wethersfield, which was owned originally by one of his ancestors. The house is one of the old-fashioned gambrel roof buildings built more than a century ago and is located on the principal thoroughfare in the town. Thirty years ago it was owned by Judge Martin Wells of this city, who was well known in legal circles. The northeast front chamber was occupied by Washington when he visited Wethersfield with Count Rochambeau while the latter was on his way from Lebanon to the Hudson river. Mrs. Wells always kept this chamber as that of the most distinguished patriot of the Revolution. The house has been changed of late years but in the main it is the same as it was one hundred years ago. It stands next to the famous Chester residence. It was often visited during the Revolution by noted American patriots and is one of the most interesting historical places in the town. Should this property come into ownership of the Historical society either by purchase or presentation it would be one of the most highly prized of their possessions.

General Alexander S. Webb, president of the College of the City of New York, Dr. William Seward Webb, president of the National Society of the Sons of the Revolution, with three younger brothers, (all sons of the late General James Watson Webb) stopped over in Hartford, yesterday, long enough to visit the old cemetery at Wethersfield, to examine the Webb lot. Incidentally they visited the historic Webb mansion, and secured a number of photographs. They lunched at the Hartford Club and took the 3:25 train for New York. Dr. Webb had been spending a few days at his summer home, on Lake Champlain, near Burlington, Vt.

SALE OF A BURIAL PLACE.

Action Taken by the Wethersfield First School Society.

The First School Society in Wethersfield held a special meeting, yesterday afternoon, at Academy Hall. Mr. Simeon Hale was elected chairman and Mr. Ellis D. Adams clerk. The Hon. E. D. Robbins explained the object of the meeting, which was that the Webb families of New York desired to buy a triangular piece of land containing about 5,000 square feet, adjoining the spot where their ancestors were buried, for the purpose of making it a burial place for their families.

Mr. T. G. Adams introduced the following resolution, which was unanimously carried:—

Voted, That the prudential committee of the First School Society be empowered to sell a portion of the cemetery grounds, being that portion included in the lines bounded westerly by land of Martin S. Griswold; northerly by lots of the Webb, Chester, Marsh and Williams families; easterly and southerly by that portion of the driveway adjoining, also by lots Nos. 101, 102, 110, 112, 114, 117 and 118, partly by each, on such terms as they deem expedient, but at a sum not less than one thousand dollars, reserving a portion bordering on the above-mentioned lots sufficient for a pathway, not exceeding three feet in width.

The meeting then adjourned.

A Hartford Boy Honored.

The freshman class at Yale have just elected John T. Robinson of this city, son of the Hon. Henry C. Robinson, as their "fence orator." It seems that the custom of giving away the fence at Yale still lives, though the old fence does not. The freshmen are not allowed to sit on the fence till June, but in that month the sophomores present the youngest class with the coveted privilege. The freshman "fence orator" is a man elected by his class to make a speech when the class accepts the fence. He is usually chosen for his wit.

Mr. James Goodwin of this city, son of the Rev. Francis Goodwin, was ordained a deacon, last week, by Bishop Williams at the Holy Trinity Church in Middletown, and has taken the position of assistant to the Rev. Dr. Satterlee at Calvary Church, New York City. Mr. Goodwin took the degrees of A. B. and A. M. at Trinity College in this city, and has recently graduated at the General Theological Seminary in New York. He was one of three out of a class of twenty-seven to read an essay, and was one of twelve entitled to the degree of Bachelor of Sacred Theology.

The historic house at Mansfield owned and occupied by Mrs. C. D. Southwick, is being newly painted. This house was built in 1812 for the Rev. Moses C. Welch, then pastor of the Second Congregational Church. The house owned by his father, the Rev. Daniel Welch, and standing on the same site was burned to the ground. The property was owned in the Welch name for many years. The pastorate of father and son above mentioned covered a period of nearly three-quarters of a century, and a great grandson of the first Welch, the Rev. Moses C. Welch, late pastor of the same church, was also born there, and the name of the "old Welch place" is known far and wide. It has been owned by the present occupants about forty years.

BROWN UNIVERSITY.

Hon. James G. Batterson Elected a Trustee.

Hon. James G. Batterson of this city was unanimously elected a member of the board of trustees of Brown university, yesterday afternoon, the position being one of great responsibility and honor. The conferring of this distinction on Mr. Batterson is a like creditable to the donor and the recipient. In 1870, Mr. Batterson received the honorary degree of A. M. from Yale college. Two years prior to that time, he received the same degree from Williams, and has been in accord with the educational institutions of New England during his entire career. He is a man of broad education even from the scholastic point of view, though not a graduate of college. His knowledge of the classics is much more thorough and exhaustive than that of most students who have spent years in the study of them. Mr. Batterson prepared for Yale at the academy in Warren, Litchfield county, but was not matriculated, choosing an active business life instead. He was born at Bloomfield in this state, February 23, 1823, and studied law in the office of the late Chief Justice Origen S. Seymour of Litchfield. Dr. Horace Bushnell, who was a native of Litchfield county, was one of Mr. Batterson's firmest friends and it was through his influence that the degree from Williams was conferred on the distinguished business manager. The story of Mr. Batterson's business life is widely known throughout the country. His friends in this city will rejoice in the new honor that has been so deservedly conferred upon him.

Resignation of the Principal of the Lawrence Street School—Changes in Teachers.

Miss Nellie J. Stevens, for eight years a teacher at Lawrence street school and for four years the principal, has resigned, to take effect at the end of the present school term, this week. Miss Stevens has been a very successful teacher and principal and has endeared herself to the teachers and scholars. The committee have promoted her sister, Miss Clara A. Stevens, for seven years a teacher at the Wadsworth street school, to be principal at Lawrence street, and other teachers will be promoted in regular order; Miss Price taking Miss Stevens's room. Miss Anna B. Geer, daughter of the late Charles G. Geer, will be the new teacher at the Wadsworth street school.

Miss Nellie J. Stevens, formerly principal of the Lawrence Street School, is to be married to Mr. Thomas B. Wilcox of Portland, Oregon, next Wednesday. The ceremony will take place at Westfield, Mass.

Theodore B. Wilcox of Portland, Or., and Nellie J. Stevens of Hartford, Ct., were married yesterday afternoon at the Franklin-street residence of the bride's uncle, Liberty Stevens. The newly wedded pair will take an extended trip before going to Portland, where Mr. Wilcox has for some years been engaged in the banking business. The bride was formerly principal of the Lawrence-street school at Hartford.

Mrs. W. E. Baker, after an absence of three months in Arizona and Colorado, has returned to this city fully restored to health.

The Rev. Dr. E. P. Parker and Mrs. Parker, Alderman C. E. Billings and Mrs. Billings, Mr. and Mrs. I. B. Davis, and Mrs. George S. Gilman and daughter left yesterday for New York and will sail for Glasgow at 9 o'clock this morning, in the steamer Furnessia.

Alderman Billings Home Again.

Alderman C. E. Billings and Mrs. Billings were passengers on the Majestic, which arrived at New York yesterday forenoon from Europe. They arrived home last evening on the express at 6:50, and received many congratulations from their friends and neighbors. The steamer made a quick passage, making the run from Queenstown to Sandy Hook in five days, twenty-two hours and three minutes. Her best run was on Sunday, the 24th, when she made 502 miles during the twenty-four hours. Both the Alderman and Mrs. Billings are in good health—the latter having greatly improved during her three months' trip abroad. They found their house on Buckingham street illuminated, the piazza decorated with Chinese lanterns, and gathered in the parlors a pleasant party of friends, neighbors and relatives assembled to welcome them home.

Mr. James J. Goodwin and family arrived in New York yesterday on the Teutonic and will come to Hartford to-day.

The engagement of Miss Grace Bulkeley, daughter of General William H. Bulkeley, to Mr. David Van Schaack, Trinity '91, of Kinderhook, N. Y., is announced.

JULY 21, 1890.

Nathan Lounsbury and wife, the parents of ex-Gov. P. C. Lounsbury of Ridgefield, celebrated the 62d anniversary of their marriage last week. The ex-governor gave them a dinner.

WINTER-DOWNER—In Columbia, July 29. L. Eugene Winter, of Richmond, Va., son of the Rev. Alpheus Winter, and Georgiana, youngest daughter of James L. Downer, of Columbia.

Signor Foli Heard There Yesterday— A Reception to Him Next Wednesday.

In place of the usual chant preceding the Scripture lesson at the South Church, yesterday morning, the Ave Verum, by Lützen, was sung by a quintette, the obligato solo being rendered by Signor Foli. The members of the quintette were Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Huntington, Mrs. C. E. Wilson, Messrs. N. H. Spencer and H. F. Trask. For the offertory Signor Foli sang the great air, "It is Enough, from 'Elijah,' and at the close of the service gave the well-known bass song from Mozart's "Magic Flute." After the service Signor Foli sang the Pro Peccatis, from Rossini's "Stabat Mater." It was perhaps in this last selection that his rich voice was heard to the best advantage. It is of great range and power, rich, full and strong, and no one hearing him yesterday could wonder at the great success he has attained in Europe. The church was crowded, and after the service many persons in the congregation, formerly acquainted with Signor Foli, renewed their acquaintance.

In the quintette were all the members of the old quartette in which Signor Foli sang at the church, except Mrs. Pease, whose place was taken by Mrs. Wilson.

Colonel C. A. Jewell will give Signor Foli a reception at his residence on Washington street on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, to which the old church choir and many musicians have been invited.

RECEPTION TO SIGNOR FOLI.

A Delightful Occasion at Colonel C. A. Jewell's Residence.

Last evening, from 8 until 11 o'clock, Colonel and Mrs. C. A. Jewell gave a reception to Signor Foli at the family residence on Washington street. During the evening Signor Foli sang "Il Monaco," by Meyerbeer; "I'm a Roamer," by Mendelssohn; a German drinking song, a Bedouin song, by Pinsuti, and "Father O'Flynn," displaying the remarkable compass and power of his rich voice to great advantage and to the manifest delight of the persons present, some of whom had never before had an opportunity to hear this celebrated performer. The Mitchell quintette sang, as did also the South Church quartette and the German male quartette. There were solos by Mrs. Lancy, Miss Jessie Leigh, Mr. H. F. Trask, Mr. Huntington, Miss Ahern and Colonel Jewell.

Among those present were:—

Mr. H. F. Trask, N. H. Spencer, L. Gundlach, H. Maercklein, William Wander, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Woodbridge, Miss Bryan, Miss Foley, G. E. Thorp, Miss Dewey, General and Mrs. L. A. Barbour, Mr. and Mrs. Rowland Swift, Mrs. Henry Andrus, E. N. Emmons, Professor Irving Emerson, N. H. Allen, W. H. Jones, Miss Jessie Leigh, Miss Hyde, Mrs. Lancy, S. C. G. Crane and Miss Hattie Crane, Miss Ahern, Mr. G. H. Mitchell, Dr. N. Mayer, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Cooke, Miss Marion Keeney, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Huntington, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Wilson, Mrs. Strickland, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Parsons, Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Jewell, Mr. and Mrs. A. Marwick, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Childs, Ludlow Barker, Jacob Walz, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Smith, Julius Gilman, Judge D. W. Pardee, and many others prominent in society and musical circles.

Mr. John W. Gallup acted as accompanist on the piano, playing all of Signor Foli's accompaniments. The reception was made the occasion of a very attractive musical entertainment. Near the close the Ave Verum by Lutgin was sung by the quintette which sang at the South Church last Sunday morning, Signor Foli rendering the obligato solo.

Signor Foli will sail for Europe this week and will take with him his niece, the daughter of Mr. W. R. Foley of this city, for an education in music abroad. Miss Foley has been studying at Smith College, Northampton. Signor Foli is booked for a six-weeks' concert tour in Melbourne, Sydney, Adelaide and other Australian cities. He resides in London.

HENRY M. STANLEY'S ENGAGEMENT to marry is one of the surprises of his career. Only a few months ago in Africa he told Thomas Stevens, the New York World's correspondent, that he was never at his ease in the company of a woman, and could not "sit still a moment when anything that approaches love comes on the tapis." Yet it seems he was even then betrothed to Miss Dorothy Tennant, a London artist, and one of the best-known figures in the literary and artistic society of the great city. She is not a young woman, being probably about 10 or 12 years younger than Stanley, who will never see 50 again. Miss Tennant possesses beauty of a noble, intellectual and high bred type, as every one may perceive who remembers the engravings of one of the most celebrated pictures of Millais, "Yes, or 'No?'" which represents a young woman standing, holding in her hands clasped behind her a photograph, and meditating with earnest face the fateful answer. The portrait is in profile, showing a head of classic LONDON, July 13.—The marriage of Mr. Henry M. Stanley and Miss Dorothy Tennant took place in Westminster Abbey Saturday afternoon. The ceremony was performed by the Very Rev. George Granville Bradley, D. D., Dean of Westminster; the Very Rev. Frederick William Farrar, D. D., F. R. S., Archbishop of Westminster, and the Right Rev. William Boyd Carpenter, D. D., Lord Bishop of Ripon. A large crowd gathered about the Abbey and loudly cheered Mr. Stanley and Miss Tennant and the wedding guests on their arrival.

Mr. Stanley entered the Abbey at 1:50 p. m. He walked erect up the transept, showing no signs of his illness, and took a seat near the altar. He wore a frock coat, with a white flower in the buttonhole, and white kid gloves. Count d'Aroche, the representative of King Leopold of Belgium, and the groom's best man, Mr. Myers, a brother-in-law of Miss Tennant, and Dr. Parke, Mr. A. M. Jephson, Captain Nelson, and Lieutenants Stairs and Bonny, who were with Mr. Stanley on his last expedition into Africa, grouped themselves around him.

Five minutes later Miss Tennant, accompanied by her brother, Mr. Charles Coombe Tennant, entered the Abbey. The bridesmaids were Miss Sylvia Myers, the bride's niece, and Miss Finlay.

The bride's costume was a petticoat and long court train of white duchesse satin and corded silk, and a bodice of white satin trimmed with lace. The front of the skirt and the corsage were embroidered with white silk and pearls, and the edge of the petticoat and train was trimmed with garlands of orange blossoms. The bodice was set off with a high Medici collar embroidered with pearls. A tulle veil was fastened in her hair with diamond stars, and this was surmounted by a wreath of orange blossoms. Around her neck was a superb diamond necklace, the gift of Sir William W. Mackinnon, chief of the English East Africa Company, from which depended the diamond-set miniature of the Queen presented by her majesty as a wedding gift. Miss Tennant also wore a diamond aigrette and diamond brooch, the gifts of Mr. Stanley.

While moving toward the altar the bride stopped, broke the line of the procession, and walked slowly to the tablet under which lies the dust of Livingstone and placed thereon a wreath of white flowers in the center of which was a scarlet letter "L." Then, resuming her place, she walked to the altar.

Mr. Stanley arose to receive her, and both took their places at the altar, when the service was performed.

After the service the party proceeded to the residence of the bride's mother, in Richmond Terrace, where a reception was held.

LONDON STREET ARABS. By Mrs. H. M. Stanley (Dorothy Tennant). Cassell & Company, London and New York: $2.00 (Brown & Gross.)

The wife of the famous traveler in Africa was widely and admiringly known in London and in England, as Dorothy Tennant; the artist who produced such vivacious and life-like pictures of the careless little street ragamuffins of London. This large-page book contains thirty-nine pictures.

Mrs. Stanley was born and brought up in London. In a very bright and entertaining Introduction to the pictures she says:

"I cannot remember my first ragamuffin drawing. There has always been a strange affinity between me and the London 'gamin.' Born in London, fond of walking through its streets, parks, and squares, the first interesting object I must have seen was doubtless some dear little child in tatters; and as I loved drawing, even more than I loved the ragamuffin, it was quite natural for me to try and 'make a picture of him.'"

She first essayed the unsavory region of "Seven Dials." Afterwards she took her subjects wherever she happened to find them. She says:

"Most of the pictures I had seen of ragged life appeared to be false and made up. They were also deplorably piteous—pale, whining children with sunken eyes, holding up bunches of violets to heedless passers-by; dying match-girls, sorrowful watercress girls, emaciated mothers clasping weeping babes. How was it, I asked myself, that the other side is so seldom represented? The merry, reckless, happy-go-lucky urchin; the tomboy girl; the plump, untidy mother dancing and tossing her ragged baby; who had given this side of London life?"

She began by hiring ragged and unkempt boys to come to her studio for sixpence, and for sixpence more to bring one still more ragged; but whenever such a one was brought, he was spoilt by being washed before he got there, his towzled hair combed and soiled, and some borrowed decency of dress assumed for the occasion:

"It is disheartening to find Joey Brown who promises to bring Tommy Gedge—describing him as 'raggedy all over'—a boy 'wot never washes himself'—after two hours' waiting—arrive triumphant, dragging reluctant Tommy, shy and overcome by his own magnificence and cleanliness, in a 3s. 6d. suit, stiff sailor hat, face shining with soap and cocoanut oil which drips from his smoothed hair. Joey walks 'round his friend in the deepest admiration, trying to soothe his envy by remarking that 'them sort of boots don't wear,' and that 'the buttons look well enough at first, but the tops drop off that there kind, only leaving the shanks.' Here, if you have by you a good supply of old 'cords' (corduroy trousers) and a very ragged shirt, a length of worn or 'chewed' string for braces, and an old boot, Tommy can be made to look himself again; he will probably weep, but that helps to make his face dirty, and it is therefore to be slightly encouraged. The hair is the chief drawback, but it can be worried up into a mop again, if vigorously shampooed by his friend. And there you have your model quite ready!"

Her old piano was always a great attraction for the ragamuffins. She let them poke away at it till the ivory keys were smudged all over with the dirt of small fingers, and the ivory in many instances picked off the notes, while the pedals are no longer responsive:

"Ragamuffins are almost always loyal; they invariably ask to play 'God save our gracious Queen.' Tommy or Jimmy, Hetty or Betsy, may I be learned 'God save our gracious Queen?'" The process of teaching is simple though monotonous. You take the ragamuffin's forefinger, which is unduly stiffened, and

At the Manchester Second Congregational Church Yesterday.

A double wedding took place in the Second Congregational Church at Manchester, at half-past five o'clock yesterday afternoon. Miss Mary Williams, daughter of Mrs. Charlotte Williams of Manchester, was married to Mr. William Herbert Corbin, Yale '88, of this city, the famous athlete, and Miss Annie Laura Corbin, sister of the latter, was married to Mr. James Allen Wiley, also of this city.

A large party of friends and relatives of the young people left Hartford on the 4:50 train for Manchester, and with those from that town and elsewhere, comfortably filled the church, which is one of the handsomest of its size to be found anywhere. The space in front of the pulpit was filled with potted plants and flowers of many varieties and colors. While the people were being seated, Mr. Benjamin W. Loveland, the organist at the Church of the Good Shepherd in this city, played a number of beautiful selections, several of which were from Stradella. The joyful notes of the Lo-hengrin wedding march were the signal for the entrance of the two bridal parties. They approached the pulpit by the two center aisles, the bride and groom being preceded in each case by four ushers and a maid of honor. The ushers were H. W. Scott, A. N. Williams, Henry S. Robinson, J. Benjamin Corbin, Henry S. Corbin, C. H. Wiley, Frank Pierpont, and Charles Otis Gill. Miss Corbin's maid of honor was Miss Fanny Denison of this city, who was dressed in pink silk and carried a bouquet of sweet peas. Miss Williams's maid of honor was Miss Jennie Hill of Manchester, who was dressed in yellow silk and carried a bouquet of yellow roses. The dresses of both brides were of fine white wool with veils, and each bride carried a bouquet of white roses. Miss Corbin wore a wreath of orange blossoms and her dress was trimmed with them, while Miss Williams wore a wreath of daisies with similar trimmings. The Rev. C. H. Barber, pastor of the church, read the marriage service, and then wedded Mr. Corbin and Miss Williams, after which the Rev. Joseph H. Twichell of this city performed the same office for Mr. Wiley and Miss Corbin. The two couples left the church to the music of Mendelssohn's wedding march. Mr. and Mrs. Corbin will live at Dobbs' Ferry, N. Y., where Mr. Corbin is teaching in Mr. Cushing's school, and Mr. and Mrs. Wiley will reside in this city.

Among those present at the church beside the families and relatives of the young couples were noticed: The Rev. Dr. George O. Stone, Mr. and Mrs. Sawyer, Miss Edith Sawyer, Charles W. Holt, Miss Meader, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Worthington, Miss Alice Worthington, Charles A. Worthington, Fred. L. Worthington, E. C. Frisbie, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Denison, Learned B. Denison, Mrs. S. M. Capron, Miss Bertha Capron, Mrs. Clark, Miss Frances Clark, Miss Hattie Clark, Mrs. Francis B. Allen, Edwin S. Allen, William C. Pond, William C. Prescott, Albert N. Prescott, the Misses Very, Mrs. J. P. Lewis, Mrs. H. E. Blakeslee, Miss Leila Blakeslee, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Thompson, M. Bradford Scott, Edward E. Moseley, Miss Carrie Moseley, Mr. Hayden, Lucius F. Robinson, Mrs. Isaac White, Isaac R. White, Mr. and Mrs. De Witt P. Preston, Miss Bond, Mr. Newton, Mrs. Newton, Mr. Barrows, Dr. J. W. Harper, C. Dexter Allen, A. L. Hunt, Mr. Case, Mr. and Mrs. L. Pinney, Miss Burnham and many others.

The following members of Mr. Corbin's class at Yale were present:—

Charles Otis Gill, Horace Sheldon Stokes, William Adolphe McQuaid, Herbert Wetmore Wells, Samuel Herbert Fisher, Joseph Ralph Ensign, Robert Watkinson Huntington, Jr., Henry Seymour Robinson and others.

LAWRENCE—FILAN—In this city, July 22, in St. James's church, by the Rev. John T. Huntington, Clark Lawrence and Miss Mary A. Filan.

Col Homer Foot celebrated his 80th birthday yesterday in such a manner as all genuine New Englanders delight in. There were gathered about the family board his sons and daughters who had gone forth from the old home years ago and marked out careers for themselves, and returned on this festal occasion to do honor to him who occupied the foremost place in the household. In a certain sense yesterday's celebration was more than a family event, for Homer Foot, for almost 60 years past, has occupied a prominent position in our local life. Men have been led to watch with interest and pleasure for the straight, active form, the kindly, handsome face, with snow-white hair fringing the smooth, dome-like head and bordering the firm mouth and chin, as he goes daily through Maple and State streets to the block where he has managed a successful business for more than half a century. Perhaps no man in the city could gather about the table just such a family as Homer Foot did yesterday. There were Emerson, who is engaged in business in New York; Homer Foot, Jr., who is a partner in Homer Foot & Co, hardware merchants in this city; Cleveland, who is a broker in railroad supplies in New York; Miss Maria Foot, Francis D. Foot, associated with his father and brother in the business here; James D. Foot, who is president and treasurer of the Kearney & Foot manufacturing company of New York, Miss Delia Foot and Sanford, the youngest, who is engaged in business with his brother James in New York. The third daughter, Mrs Laura D., wife of Leonard Ware of Boston, was unable to be present, and Mrs Foot, the honored wife and mother, was also unfortunately absent at Maguolia. All felt and mourned especially the vacancy left by the death of Edward, the oldest son, which occurred five years ago. A happy incident of the day was the announcement to the family of the marriage engagement of James D. Foot to Miss Louise E Burgess of New York. The lady is the daughter of Henry Burgess, a retired manufacturer and an Englishman, whose brother was knighted for special services to the crown in India.

Col Foot himself, however, was the center of interest yesterday, and so he must be to all who would congratulate him on the attainment of an age so much beyond the proverbial three-score and 10 years. Homer Foot was the son of Adoniram Foot, master armorer at the government works in this city. He was born on the armory grounds July 27, 1810, his mother being Clarissa Woodworth Foot, who was the daughter of Jesse Woodworth of Montville, Ct., while his father was a native of Stafford, Ct. Mr Foot began life for himself by becoming in 1825 a clerk for Dwight, Day & Brewer in their store at the corner of Main and State streets, where the savings institution now stands of the place at that time. The partners were James S. Dwight, father of the late George Dwight and a famous family of other sons and daughters, Benjamin Day and James Brewer. There Mr Foot stayed as clerk until 1831, when he bought out the interests of the several partners, and became sole proprietor of the business. This grew beyond its quarters, and about 1840 he built the present block, occupied on the lower floor by Homer Foot & Co. Soon after his purchase of the business Mr Foot took George Dwight into partnership and later, John B. Stebbins.

When the Western railroad was started between this city and Worcester Mr Foot became a large stockholder, as he did also in the Connecticut River railroad company when that was organized. The furnishing of the supplies for the new railroads at once became profitable and so Mr Foot took a large interest in the old car and engine works, which were started about 1850 and were afterward sold to T. W. Wason. These works are perpetuated as the present Wason car works. Another local enterprise in which Mr Foot was prominent in starting was the Hampden watch company.

In his earlier days Homer Foot was conspicuous in all the social festivities of the town. At the age of 12 years he took a position in the choir loft of the then new Unitarian church, which was located on the site of the present Olmsted & Kirkham building on State street. He sang there for 35 years continuously, and the last five years he led in the congregational singing. When he retired he was presented with a silver dining set by those connected with the church, showing their appreciation of his musical abilities and long service. Indeed, Mr Foot has always been permanently connected with this church, holding every office in the parish and church organizations. Rev Dr W. B. A. Peabody, first pastor of the church, married him in May, 1834, to Miss Delia Dwight, daughter of James S. Dwight. The ceremony was performed in the old Dwight homestead at the corner of State and Dwight streets, and was a double wedding, another daughter of the house, Lucy, marrying William W. Orne. Soon after their marriage Mr and Mrs Foot took up their residence on Maple street in the house now occupied by Dr J. H. Carmichael, which Mr Foot bought of Simon Sanborn soon after it was built. In 1844, however, he erected his present fine home at the junction of Maple and Central streets. The place at that time was hardly more than a sand hill, and Mr Foot has himself developed it into its present beautiful character.

During his 60 years of active life Mr Foot has steadily refused to take public office; but soon after the incorporation of the city he was elected an overseer of the poor and administered the trust conscientiously for three years. In 1856 he ran for lieutenant-governor on the whig ticket and was defeated by a small majority. About this time too Mr Foot was chosen colonel of the light guards, a crack military organization, in the command of which he succeeded the late Col J. M. Thompson. Col Foot also held a similar position in command of a state militia regiment a short time afterward. A great matter of pride to him is the fact that he was an intimate friend of the famous artist, Chester Harding, who painted the portrait of Daniel Webster now hanging in the halls of Congress, and various other pictures of the great statesman as well. In producing one of the most important of these portraits Mr Foot assisted by posing for the body of the great orator when he was unable to be present at a sitting.

TRACY—SWIFT—In this city, July 31, by the Rev. J. F. Lenahan, Louis A. Tracy and Mary Emelia Swift, at the residence of the bride's mother.

The marriage of Mr. Louis A. Tracy, secretary of the Security Company, and Miss Mary A. Swift occurred at the residence of the bride last evening. None but members of the family were present. The ceremony was performed at the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. J. F. Lenahan, at the corner of State and Central streets, where the bride's mother resides.

Special Dispatch to The Republican.

Boston, Thursday, July 31.

The First church of Boston, corner of Marlborough and Berkeley streets, was opened at high noon to-day for the celebration of the wedding of Miss Annie Balch Edes, daughter of Dr Robert T. Edes of Washington, and George Clarence Gardner, junior member of the firm of Gardner, Pyne & Gardner, architects, of Springfield and Atlanta, Ga. The ceremony was performed by Dr Edward Everett Hale, who returned to town for this purpose from his summer home in Rhode Island. Arthur Foote, who presided at the organ, departed from the conventional Lohengrin, and the wedding party entered the church to the strains of bridal music from Tschalkowski. The ushers, Messrs Arthur R. Swan of Boston, cousin of the bride, George W. Wheelwright, Jr., of Boston, Richard E. Edes of Washington, the bride's brother, and Whittemore Dodd of Boston, led the way, followed by the bride, daintily attired in white crepe, with tulle veil and orange blossoms, and leaning on the arm of her father, Dr Edes. There were no bridesmaids. They were met at the chancel by the groom, accompanied by Walter Owen of Springfield. The bride was given away by her father, the Episcopal ceremony being impressively performed by Dr Hale in clerical vestments, the organ playing a soft accompaniment throughout the ceremony, and swelling into the triumphal strains of the march from the first suite of Lachner at its close.

An informal little reception followed in the cool vestry of the church, where intimate friends of the two families extended congratulations to Mr and Mrs Gardner. They leave to-day for an extended tour, after which they will make their home in Atlanta, Ga., where Mr Gardner will pursue the duties of his profession. Dr Edes, father of the bride, was formerly a resident of Boston, but for the past two years has been practicing his profession in Washington. Mr and Mrs E. C. Gardner of Springfield were of course present.

SONS AND DAUGHTERS.

Connecticut Valley cities, by the chance of location, are closely interested in each other; relationship strengthens and friendship cements such ties. Many Connecticut people visit Brattleboro and vicinity, and the people here are closely bound to those who have cast their lot in "down-stream" places. Their interests intermingle. Among Brattleboro's greatest gifts to her sister cities is Dr. George Leon Walker, the pastor of the First Congregational Church, Hartford. Dr. Walker was born in Brattleboro, lived and preached here for many years, and still retains a home here, to which he comes occasionally. He has just returned from a short European trip, much benefited in his general health by the rest and change of surroundings. He is honored alike in the places of his earlier and later labors.

The sons and daughters of the town make up an old-fashioned family (in point of numbers), counting only those who have won laurels from their countrymen at large. A short time since the generosity of a public-spirited citizen established and equipped the Brooks Free Public Library. At the present time a drinking fountain of handsome design is being built on the town's main street, the gift of William Henry Welles, now of New York, whom the town honors as a "Brattleboro boy."

LARKIN G. MEAD, JR.

It was on the spot where this fountain is being built that on a New Year's eve, along in the fifties, "the spirit divine" breathed into a mere lad, and as his handiwork there appeared in the morning the glacial purity and snowy outline of a "recording angel," moulded from the softly-falling snow and crystal water. In after years the genius of that night, Larkin G. Mead, jr., the sculptor, embodied in marble the angelic vision of his

LENOX is a great loss to that summering-place of rich New Yorkers, for it was the show place of the town, and yet only a little red house, with an old-fashioned well in the yard whose bucket was lifted by a sweep and pole,—not at all the fashionable style of cottage or villa. But there Nathaniel Hawthorne lived in 1850 and for three years after; there he wrote "The House of the Seven Gables," "The Wonder Book," "Tanglewood Tales," and last, "The Blithedale Romance." There Julian Hawthorne was a venturesome boy, and there Herman Melville, (who wrote "Typee" and "Omoo" and "Moby Dick,") visited him, and so did Fanny Kemble, who lived in Lenox and galloped up to Hawthorne's door astride of her horse; and G. P. R. James, the English novelist, who then dwelt in Stockbridge. The magician looked from his door-way over lovely Stockbridge Bowl and to Baldhead mountain, where he often rambled, and enjoyed the summer much, but found the winters of Berkshire far too cold. The little red house was owned by W. A. Tappan, who had a pride in keeping it just as it used to look, repainting it red when it needed a new coat; and he preserved the front room where Hawthorne wrote, just as the author left it, with his mahogany table and chairs. The fire was caused by a bad flue, and only the table and one chair was saved. The table is placed in the library at Lenox; and Hawthorne's writing-desk was given by Mr Tappan some years ago to the Athenæum at

A Very Rash Step.

President Charles Kendall Adams of Cornell university is a venturesome man. His marriage to the widow of the late A. S. Barnes will not render him less popular in the role of Ulysses at rock-girt Ithaca, and it may enable him some time to add to the collection of rocks which makes Cornell what it is. But nevertheless for a college professor or president, or even the principal of a public school to marry the widow of a text-book publisher, is in some measure a parallel to that mythical but always presumable trade alliance between doctors and undertakers.

People generally have an idea that text-books are sold largely through teachers, that the importance of changes is exaggerated, that no chance is missed to compel the purchase of new books, and they have a reasonably well grounded suspicion that a percentage of the profits of such factitious changes goes into the pockets of the teachers who recommend them.

President Adams will have to tread gently on this thin ice. The moment he recommends a book for use in Cornell, which is published by A. S. Barnes & Co. the sword of justice will fall on his devoted neck. The moment he writes a book for A. S. Barnes & Co. to publish, his reputation will be in danger. The moment it appears that his alliance with a rich widow has been for the purpose of either swindling the parents of Cornell students or boring the general public, he is a goner.

Maybe President Adams imagines that his safety is assured by the school book trust, that his motives are thereby rendered impregnable to the charge of mercenary taint. But the school book trust is only temporary and may be dissolved at any time. His union with the Widow Barnes is indissoluble. He has taken a rash step and the world will await the result with

A COUSIN GOOD ENOUGH FOR HER.

Description of the Ceremony and Sketch of the Young Woman's Character.

The country around the little town of Ischl in upper Austria presented a scene of great beauty, Wednesday evening, when the 38 peaks of the mountains within sight from this enchanting city were illuminated with colored lights and fires. Bonfires were burning on every prominent height, and from the roofs of the houses and villas of the surrounding country there waved the colors of Austria in flags and in bright lanterns. On the morning the archduchess Marie Valerie, the favorite daughter of emperor of Austria, was to be married to her cousin, the archduke, Franz Salvator. The town was overcrowded many times with hundreds of royal guests and thousands of sight-seers who had come great distances.

The tiny parish church at 8 o'clock Thursday morning was found decked from floor to roof with rare flowers and exotic plants. In accordance with the emperor's wish, 40 married couples from the town were present at the ceremony, dressed in their national costume of bright colors. Members of the imperial family and the ministers of state awaited the emperor at the door of the church. As the imperial couple arrived, escorted by a detachment of the body guard, they were met by the bishop, who sprinkled their path with holy water and muttered prayers for their long life. The organ, of course, gave forth a "joyful peal." Two rows of girls dressed in blue and white stood on either side of the nave and strewed flowers before the wedding party. The bride wore a dress of white drap d'Esposition. Her veil was of lace point d'Aiguille. The train was two yards long, looped with bouquets of myrtle and orange blossoms, with trimmings, and the same kind of flowers were used in the bodice and skirt. The groom was dressed in the uniform of his regiment. Then the emperor and empress took their places on the left of the high altar, while opposite to it sat the parents of the bridegroom and his uncle, Archduke Ferdinand, chief of the house of Tuscany. Between them knelt the bridal pair, facing the altar in silent devotion, as one of the officiating clergymen performed the ceremony of consecrating the rings.

After the long ceremony, which was performed by the bishop of Lenz, attended by the entire court clergy, the bride and bridegroom kissed the emperor and empress. The bishop and assistant clergy descended the altar steps, making a profound obeisance to the emperor and empress and the newly wedded pair, after which the entire company left the church. The wedding breakfast followed and then the couple left for Offensee castle, where they will spend the first few weeks of their honeymoon. They will then take up their permanent residence in the castle of Lichenegg, in upper Austria. The next day was opened by the emperor distributing marks of distinction to all who had rendered services to Valerie during her girlhood and then the little town of Ischl became quiet again.

The bride is 22 years old, has a graceful figure, a face full of intelligence, but not beautiful, although her eyes are dark and her nose delicately modeled. She has been highly and carefully educated. Her teachers all speak in the warmest praise of her goodness, her amiability, and her literary abilities. Of the last quality she has given evidence by the production of several charming poems and admirable essays, which found a publisher and enjoyed a sale. Wheresoever she goes she plays the part of a fairy godmother to the poor children, strewing gifts and bestowing bounty where she feels they

A former lady in waiting to the empress says concerning this marriage that it is of unusual interest, not only in her father's dominions, but also abroad, by reason of the fact that her imperial highness has since her birth been the favorite child of her parents, the living token of the reconciliation which was brought about between them by the statesmen of the dual empire on the eve of their coronation as king and queen of Hungary in 1867. Moreover, the young archduchess, concerning whose unaffected ways and kindly heart innumerable anecdotes are current among the people, has all along been the constant companion of her still beautiful mother and her loving comforter and consoler at the time of the terrible tragedy at Meyerling, when Crown Prince Rudolph took his own life.

The archduchess was educated by the talented Bishop Ronay, who had previously been the tutor of the ill-fated Archduke Rudolph. Bishop Hyacinth Ronay belonged many years ago to the ancient order of Benedictine Monks, and he took an active part in the Hungarian insurrection. In 1871 the position of Hungarian tutor to Crown Prince Rudolph was offered to him by the emperor, who desired his son to be made thoroughly acquainted with the intricate questions of Hungarian nationalism in its relation to the dual empire, and that, too, from a Magyar point of view. His majesty placed no restrictions whatever on Ronay, urging him, on the contrary, to speak always to his pupil according to his own convictions. "We want our son to hear the truth, the entire truth," said the monarch to the prelate. "Keep this in mind and follow your impulses, regardless of what our beliefs and inclinations may be." Bishop Ronay did so with regard to Crown Prince Rudolph, and also later on with Archduchess Marie Valerie. The result is that Valerie possesses a remarkable rectitude of judgment and knowledge of the intricate problems of the imperial policy.

Marie Valerie delights in outdoor life. She swims like an otter, rides almost as well as her mother, fences and shoots with great skill, and is a sure-footed mountaineer. Late in the autumn she has often donned a furlined riding habit, and mounting a pony well used to the hills, she has wandered on the frozen paths of the Glockner range. That her popularity throughout the empire, therefore, is unbounded is most natural.

A PRETTY WEDDING.

Archduchess Valerie to Archduke Francis Salvator.

(Cable Letter to New York Sun.)

One of the prettiest and least ceremonious of royal weddings which Europe has witnessed for many years took place at Ischl on Thursday morning, when Archduchess Valerie, the beloved daughter of the Austrian emperor and empress, was married to young Archduke Francis Salvator of Tuscany. The union was purely a love affair, and ere it could be permitted the bride had solemnly to renounce all right in the succession to the Austrian crown. Military pomp was dispensed with, which in Austria was alone sufficient to make the wedding remarkable, and the route from the royal villa to the church was lined by hundreds of little girls clad in white and flowered dresses, who carried each a basket, whence rose leaves were strewn as the bridal party passed. The simplicity of the affair, however, did not keep royalty away, for princes and princesses in gorgeous raiment were there by the score. Two train loads of them left Vienna on the previous day, and many of Ischl's leading citizens had to seek temporary lodging while royalty occupied their modest villas. It had been arranged that the bride should ride in the historic gala coach adorned with paintings by Titian, but this was used by the late Crown Prince Rudolph upon the occasion of his marriage, and as at the last moment the widow of that most unhappy prince decided to be present, the state carriage was used in its stead.

Charles Webster, Stockbridge high school, '89, entered the United States naval academy at Annapolis Thursday.

The preliminary arrangements for the annual Ice glen parade by torch-light have been pushed by the board of managers, Messrs VanRensselaer, Owen, Rood and Doane, and the unique affair will come off this evening, weather permitting. The procession, headed by the local cornet band, will form at the railroad station and march to the entrance of the glen near Mr Winthrop's place. There will be some 100 paraders, bearing torches, dressed in grotesque costumes. They will enter the rocky gorge at 7.30 o'clock and after spending an hour in the romantic place will return to the village where dancing around a huge bon-fire will be indulged in.

A coaching party from New York have been at the Stockbridge house for a week making daily trips into the surrounding country.

AUGUST 23, 1890.

THE STOCKBRIDGE BOAT PARADE.

The annual boat parade at Stockbridge last evening was a picturesque sight and attracted a large number of society people, including delegations from Lenox and Pittsfield. The night was perfect, the river was like glass, while the crescent moon was dipping toward the western hills. The banks of the river were brightly illuminated and the Stockbridge band played merry airs. Fifteen boats appeared in line, headed by Augustus Van Cortland, Van Rensselaer, admiral of the fleet in a birch-bark canoe gay with lanterns. Messrs Van Rensselaer, Owen and Stetson were moving spirits in the affair and there was much praise for the excellent arrangements. All the boats were brightly hung with Chinese lanterns of all shapes and colors and many bore decorations of golden rod, sunflowers, ferns, etc. Following the admiral's canoe came among others the boats of Miss Weyman, which was particularly elaborate, John Inman's family, Edward B. Owen, Miss Karrick, Mr Brooks, W. E. Doane, Mr and Mrs Roelker, Philip Pfare, Mr Clark and the Choates. The reflection of the lights in the still water made the scene particularly effective. Each boat contained a merry party of young people and the procession started from Tuckerman bridge, moved up the river half a mile, turned the stake and back to the starting point. Herman Rood had charge of the shore decorations, which were very creditable. After the parade a dance was given at the Casino, which was handsomely decorated by Mr Doane, Miss Weyman and Mrs Winthrop. Flags of all nations were profusely shown, and the decorations included a canoe on the stage filled with golden rod and other wild flowers, and saddles, oars, etc., in the foreground.

OVERBOARD AND RESCUED.

A Strange Story of Adventure in the Sound.

The Connecticut Press Association, which has furnished a number of thrilling stories from Stony Creek this season, throws in another as follows:—

STONY CREEK, Aug. 23.—Yesterday afternoon an adventure occurred here which came near proving fatal for Miss Emma L. Green, whose life was saved by the heroism of Captain Cooper of the catboat Pioneer. James G. Batterson, Jr., of Hartford engaged Captain Cooper to take himself and Miss Green sailing, to experience some of the big seas rolling outside, the effect of the recent gale. Near the Branford beacon the Pioneer was plunging fiercely along under a close reefed mainsail. The seas were huge and the spray flew incessantly. Miss Green was standing forward of the catboat's mast and Mr. Batterson was near her. A sea bigger than the rest struck Miss Green, she slipped, was washed overboard, and the boat going swiftly passed directly over her. Batterson, in his excitement, also fell off the boat and was soon battling for his life. Captain Cooper, with great presence of mind, hove his boat to, and just as Miss Green was sinking for the last time, jumped into the boiling sea and grasped her. Then he fished out Mr. Batterson and turned the boat towards the Island View House from where the party started. Miss Green was unconscious, but was finally resuscitated and, excepting bruises, to-day is little worse for the danger she passed. She belongs in Meriden, where she has been teaching in one of the public schools.

Tschernichofsky has been pardoned by the czar. Such is the news that comes from St Petersburg. Twenty-five years ago he was sent to the salt mines of Siberia, and there he labored in irons until 1884. He has lived since then in one of the penal settlements. He is 60 years old, broken in health and in intellect, dependent on charity. His crime was that he wrote eloquent articles in advocacy of socialism. For these articles and the effect they produced he was placed in the dungeons of the fortress of Sts Peter and Paul, and while there he managed to write that intensely anarchistic book, "What is to be done?" and succeeded in getting one copy to his friends. It was published and Tschernichofsky was sent to Siberia. That was the czar's answer to the question of his book. Such are the acts that make the socialists of Russia dangerous. This man had done some service to the state for his

PHILIP J. A. HARPER.

The Retirement of a Member of the Famous Publishing Firm.

(New York Times, Wednesday.)

The membership of the publishing firm of Harper & Brothers has been reduced by the retirement of Philip J. A. Harper, who had been connected with the house for forty-eight years. Mr. Harper's work was in the financial department of the house, and he retired because he felt that his health demanded that he should be entirely free from business cares. In the hope of recovering his health, he intends now to take a trip to California and possibly to spend several years in travel. During almost the entire period of his connection with the house he was a resident of Hempstead, L. I., where he was married when a young man, and where the family of his wife lived. He is now sixty-eight years old, and for nearly thirty years it was his habit to come in to business daily from Hempstead.

His retirement reduces the membership of the firm to six—Joseph W. Harper, the son of Joseph Wesley Harper; John W. Harper, the son of John Harper; J. Henry Harper, the grandson of the original Fletcher Harper; John Harper, the son of J. Abner Harper; James Thorne Harper, the son of James Harper, and Horatio R. Harper, the son of John W. Harper. Mr. Philip Harper is the son of James Harper, one of the original firm, and now only himself and J. Abner Harper are living on the retired list of the house. All of the other members of the house who have passed away were retired by death while in the harness.

Mr. Harper's life at Hempstead has been quite interesting. He always took a lively part in the affairs of that village, and for many years he has occupied the honored position of village trustee. His purse has ever been open to public needs at his home, and among the other enterprises which owed their existence there to his endowment is the hook and ladder company, which bears his name and of which he is still personally a member. Through his efforts also a fire engine was secured for the village and a fire department was organized. In return for what he had done in this field the department and the villagers presented him with a beautiful silver cup, and he reciprocated by extending most generous hospitalities to all the members of the department and the leading citizens of the village.

Although always unostentatious, Mr. Harper has long been regarded as one of the most public-spirited residents of Hempstead, and his private benefactions have been bestowed there with the most liberal hand. One of his latest gifts was of two beds in the Children's Home at Minneola. He has also been quite active in the affairs of the Methodist Church, and is regarded as a strong and val-

Miss Mary Isabelle Kellogg and Rev. Andrew Leonard Parker.

Miss Mary Isabelle Kellogg, daughter of Mrs. Edmund B. Kellogg of this city, was married at Omaha in Trinity Cathedral at noon on Wednesday, September 3, to the Rev. Andrew Leonard Parker of Seattle, Washington. The Very Rev. C. H. Gardner officiated. The Omaha papers contain interesting accounts of the wedding. The cathedral was beautifully decorated with flowers and plants, and the full vested choir of fifty male voices intoned, singing the wedding march from Lohengrin. The Omaha Bee says:—

Following the choir came W. C. Webber and N. H. Campion, the ushers, and immediately behind, the maid of honor, Miss Clara May Kellogg, sister of the bride, and the bridesmaid, Miss Carrie Filley, daughter of James A. Filley of Philadelphia. Then came the bride, resting upon the arm of her maternal uncle, Mr. Rodney D. Wells, late postmaster of St. Louis, now of Philadelphia. The bridal party was met at the chancel rail by the groom and his best man, Mr. C. W. Chadwick of Seattle, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Chadwick of this city. And the strains of the beautiful wedding chorus had hardly died away among the niches and nave of the cathedral when Dean Gardner began the impressive marriage service of the church of England. Upon the completion of the service, which occupied but a very short time, the choir sang, as a retrocessional, that very beautiful hymn, "the Voice that Breathed O'er Eden," retiring to the crypt through the south transept, the bridal party marching down the right aisle led by the newly made bride and groom, followed by the bridesmaid, the maid of honor and the best man.

The bride wore an exceedingly handsome gown of white satin, en traine, having a solid front of duchesse lace, with a high Medici collar. She wore the conventional bridal veil crowned by orange blossoms and carried a beautiful bouquet of lilies.

The maid of honor, Miss Clara May Kellogg, was costumed in a handsome pink French faille, made walking length; set off by a pink crepe hat and carried a bouquet of pink roses.

Miss Carrie Filley, a very pretty girl, wore a gown of pink crepe, made walking length, trimmed with a broad sash of pink ribbon, the whole relieved by a pink crepe hat of the latest mode, and carried a bouquet of pink roses.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the residence of Mr. Chadwick, 1604 North Nineteenth street, an uncle of the bride.

The bride was a daughter of the late E. B. Kellogg of this city, who was of the firm of E. B. & E. C. Kellogg, and resided on Wethersfield avenue. The family have many friends here, and many and valuable wedding presents were sent from Hartford.

HART-GALLAGHER—In Farmington, Sept. 10, by Rev. Geo. L. Clark, Thomas S. Hart and Miss Katie Gallagher.

ARMSTRONG-FORD—On Wednesday, Sept. 10, at the residence of the bride's aunt, the late Mrs. Martha Scoville of Montpelier, Vt., by the Rev. G. W. Gallagher, assisted by the Rev. H. B. Frissell, Samuel C. Armstrong of Hampton, Va., and Mary Alice Ford, daughter of Mr. S. P. Ford, of Lisbon, N. H.

HANMER-TALCOTT—In Wethersfield, Sept. 10, at the residence of the bride's parents, by the Rev. L. Lanpher, Mr. Alfred W. Hanmer and Miss Nellie L. Talcott.

There was a very pretty wedding at the house of Mr. Frank Talcott in Wethersfield yesterday, the occasion being the marriage of his daughter, Miss Nellie Talcott, to Mr. Alfred W. Hanmer. The bride was dressed in white figured India silk, with white velvet trimmings. The Rev. Louis Lanpher performed the ceremony. The newly wedded couple received many valuable presents. They left on an afternoon train for a short wedding tour.

Miss Daisy Frances Barbour, eldest daughter of Mr. Joseph L. Barbour, leaves this week for Poughkeepsie, where she will enter Vassar College for a year's special course. Miss Barbour graduated from the high school last spring, taking the highest honors for prize reading.

FORBY-ROBBINS—In this city, Sept. 10, at the residence of the bride's parents, No. 85 Buckingham street, by the Rev. Dr. E. P. Parker, William Francis Forby and Miss Mary Sedgwick Robbins, all of this city.

Wedding in Buckingham Street.

The marriage of Miss Mary Sedgwick Robbins to Mr. William Francis Forby was solemnized at the residence of the bride, No. 85 Buckingham street, at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the Rev. Dr. Parker performing the marriage ceremony. The bride wore an exceedingly handsome gown of white faille francaise, en train, trimmed with duchesse lace, and a bridal veil crowned with orange blossoms. She carried a beautiful bouquet of white rosebuds, and wore a handsome pair of solitaire diamond earrings, the gift of the groom. Mr. Charles S. Robbins, brother of the bride, gave the bride away, and officiated as best man.

A company of about seventy-five were witnesses of the marriage ceremony, and offered their congratulations at its conclusion. Mr. and Mrs. J. Stanley Scott, parents of the bride, assisted in the receiving. It was the general expression of all present that the bride and groom were a remarkably nice-looking couple, and the best wishes of the company were showered upon them for a long life and a most happy and prosperous one.

The house was handsomely decorated and lighted from top to bottom. The parlors bloomed with rare exotics and palms, and in every room, in fact, were potted plants and beautiful flowers and greens. Refreshments were served in the diningroom.

The presents, which were displayed in one of the rooms above, were numerous and many of them quite valuable.

The newly-wedded pair left on the evening express for New York on a short wedding tour, and were showered with rice as they went from the house, the best wishes of a host of friends accompanying them. On their return they will spend a few days in Hartford, and then remove to Fort Worth, Texas, where they will reside. Mr. Forby holds a good position as cashier in one of the prominent banking-houses in that city, and has excellent business prospects in the future.

Owing to the recent severe affliction in the loss of their beloved boy, Mr. and Mrs. Scott decided to make the wedding a very quiet affair, and only the immediate relatives and neighbors were invited to be present. It was a well-managed and very pretty wedding all the same.

MELLERSH-MALLORY—In Fairfield, Sept. 11, at St. Paul's church, by the Rev. George S. Mallory, D. D., assisted by the Rev. W. Strother Jones and the Rev. C. M. Pyne, Helena Cruger, daughter of the officiating clergyman, to Wilfred Duke Mellersh, of Petersfield, Hampshire, England.

A Pretty English Wedding at Fairfield.

Miss Helena Conger Mallory, daughter of the Rev. Dr. George A. Mallory, editor of the Churchman, and Wilfred Mellersh, an Englishman, were married in the old English style in St. Paul's Church, Fairfield, Thursday. The bridesmaids were Miss May Mallory, sister of the bride, Miss Hilda Mellersh, sister of the groom, Miss Jones of Middletown, Miss Maude Mallory of Bridgeport, Miss Ogilvie of New Rochelle and Miss Parsons of New York. The best man was Mr. Jones of New York. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Mallory, father of the bride, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Jones, rector of the church, and the Rev. Charles M. Pyne of Washington, D. C. The wedding gifts were especially handsome and costly and came from Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Hartford, Bridgeport and other places.

Cards are out announcing the marriage of Dr. Samuel B. Childs of this city to Miss Henrietta Willett, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Willett of West Hebron, N. Y. The ceremony will take place at the home of the bride on Wednesday, September 24. After a short wedding trip Dr. and Mrs. Childs will reside at 18 Pratt street. Dr. Childs is well known as a rising physician of this city. He is a son of the late Dr. Seth L. Childs of East Hartford and a brother of Mr. Childs of the high school.

PIERSON-GLAZIER-In this city, Thursday, Sept. 18, by the Rev. Dr. Stone, Mindwell Hastings Glazier, daughter of Homer Hastings, to Stephen Condit Pierson. No cards.

A Very Pleasant Wedding on Sigourney Street Last Evening.

A pleasant company were gathered last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Hastings on Sigourney street to witness the union in marriage of their daughter, Miss. Nina Glazier, to Mr. Stephen C. Pierson of Meriden. The ceremony was performed by the pastor of the bride, Rev. Dr. George M. Stone. The bride was remembered with many gifts of beauty and service for her new home. They received congratulations from relatives of the bride both from this city and from Suffield. Among the friends of the groom who were present, was his sister, Miss Pierson from China, where she has been a missionary, Rev. and Mrs. Crofts of Simsbury, Rev. Mr. Curtiss of Suffield, Miss Antoinette Phelps and Dr. Fuller of Hartford, were also among the guests. The newly married pair are to reside in Meriden.

Mrs. E. J. Bassett and Mrs. Gillette (the latter a daughter of Mr. Rowland Swift) arrived from Europe in the Noordland Wednesday night, and reached their homes in this city yesterday noon. They sailed from Antwerp, and had a very pleasant voyage, making the journey across in eleven days.

NINETY YEARS OLD.

A Visitor at Hartford Yesterday.

It is not often that a man of 90 years of age is seen on the streets hale and strong, but that sight was one of the interests of yesterday. Mr. Lester Pasco of Ellsworth street, who will be 90 years old, September 28, was up town looking as well and comfortable as ever. He is one of Hartford's oldest residents. His son, the late Major Henry L. Pasco of the Sixteenth Connecticut, was one of the bravest men who served from this state in the war. It is just twenty-eight years ago to-day since the Sixteenth left the dock at the foot of State street for the front. Major Pasco was then at the head of Company A, and his first lieutenant was Captain William H. Lockwood of this city, who subsequently became the son-in-law of the aged citizen, who was seen and greeted on Main street yesterday. The history of a century has been made since the days of thirty years ago. The son and daughter of Mr. Pasco have been dead a number of years, but the noble lives which they led will not be forgotten in this city.

All the old women of Germany have believed for a long time that the present empress is to have seven sons and no daughters. Now that number six has come the rest of the world may as well be convinced too.

Queen Victoria's family circle now numbers fifty living descendants, including sons and daughters, grandsons and granddaughters, great-grandsons and great-granddaughters. Besides these, she has four sons-in-law, four daughters-in-law, five grandsons-in-law, and one granddaughter-in-law. The queen has lost one son and one daughter, five grandsons, one granddaughter, one great-grandson, and one son-in-law. If these were living, her family circle would numvements, such as hot and cold water. 22.

ABBOTT-ADAMS.

A Pretty Church Wedding in the Old Town of Quincy.

Special Dispatch to The Republican.

Boston, Tuesday Evening, September 30.

The old town of Quincy put on its brightest aspect to-day to do honor to a descendant of its long line of Adamases, Miss Mary, daughter of Charles Francis Adams, whose marriage to Grafton L., son of Judge Josiah H. Abbott, took place at noon in the stone church. The church itself, with its white tablets inscribed with the virtues of John Adams and Abigail, "his beloved and only wife," with those of John Quincy and many more of that distinguished family, was beautifully decorated for the occasion. The galleries were festooned with graceful garlands of laurel; golden rod trimmed the chandeliers and tied with broad white ribbon decorated the pews. Against the dull red of the chancel curtains, white and gold of chrysanthemums and asters blazed, and the mass of brilliant colors was relieved by groups of palms and ferns. The air was sweet with the spicy fragrance of autumn. In the body of the church the guests began to gather early. The mellow noonday light brought out the charming effects in coloring of the dainty autumn gowns and bonnets. The galleries were filled with an enthusiastic crowd of towns-people, anxious to witness the wedding of Quincy's distinguished daughter. A few minutes before the entrance of the bride, her mother, Mrs. Charles Francis Adams, entered, escorted by her two sons, Master Jack and Harry Adams. Mrs. Adams was handsomely attired in heliotrope brocade. At 12.45 o'clock the strains of the wedding march from "Lohengrin" began to peal forth and the bridal party entered. The ushers, George E. and Charles F. Adams, cousins of the bride, Sigourney Butler, A. W. Longfellow, Gardner M. Blaine and Frank W. Abbott came first, followed by the bridesmaids, the Misses Lulu and Elsie Adams, both dressed in white crepe de chene, looped with pink velvet and wearing white Gainsborough hats trimmed with pink. The bride, leaning on the arm of her father followed, and was met at the chancel by Mr. Abbott and his best man. She was attired in white satin and carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and orange blossoms. Her long tulle veil was caught with orange blossoms. Rev. D. W. Wilson, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony. The bride was given away by her father.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Adams. Among the many present at the ceremony and reception were Mr. and Mrs. John Quincy Adams, Mrs. Hull Adams, Miss Elizabeth Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bowditch, Mr. and Mrs. Josiah P. Quincy and Miss Quincy, Josiah Quincy, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Butler, Dr. J. A. Gordon, Mrs. George Dana, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Higginson, Dr. William Everett, Luther Anderson, Judge and Mrs. Horace Gray, Judge and Mrs. Bumpus, Moorefield Story, Gen Francis A. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Tyler, Mr. and Mrs. George S. Hale, Miss Sallie Loring, Miss Elsie West, Mrs. Franz Zerrahn, Dr. George E. Ellis, Mr. and Mrs. S. Parkman Blake, Miss Ogden of Newport, Mr. and Mrs. Ogden Brooks, Gordon Dexter, Benjamin Dean, E. P. Whitney, William Wadsworth, Commodore E. C. Hovey, John T. Wheelwright, Charles Mer-

Childs-Willett.

Dr. Samuel B. Childs of this city and Miss Henrietta Willett, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Willett of West Hebron, N. Y., were married at the residence of the bride's parents on Wednesday. Dr. and Mrs. Childs will receive their friends October 15 and 22 from 3 to 5 o'clock at No. 18 Pratt street, where they will reside.

Among the many elegant presents contributed by friends of the groom is a handsome French mantel cloak with side ornaments, the gift of Dr. Childs's former associate officers.

William Mosley Hall Celebrates His Golden Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. William Mosley Hall, who now reside in New York, but who have lived many years in Connecticut, Mr. Hall being a native of this state, celebrated their golden wedding at their home on West Thirty-third street Saturday night. A throng of friends called to see them and the occasion was one of great interest and pleasure.

Mr. Hall was born in Hebron, the son of Major George Hall, and, as a lad of fifteen, he went to New London and shipped before the mast on a vessel bound for the west coast of Africa. Returning after two years, he attended Bacon Academy at Colchester, where he was a schoolmate of Chief Justice Waite. In 1830 he again took to the sea, shipping on the Minerva for New Orleans. The vessel was wrecked in the West Indies, and the water slackened the 1,300 barrels of lime that constituted the cargo, forcing the sixty-nine passengers to take to rafts. After several hours of exposure, during which the overladen rafts were submerged a foot beneath the surface of the water, they were taken off by a Spanish brig, but not until two women had died of exposure. The survivors were taken to Havana, and there Mr. Hall was stricken with yellow fever and after three days removed to the dead-house for burial. There he was discovered by Dr. Shaler, nephew of the American consul, who pronounced him not dead, and carefully nursed the adventurer back to health. After many years of life both in the North and South, in 1853 Mr. Hall opened the first railroad office in Broadway, New York. It was that of the Michigan Southern & Northern Indiana Railroad. He was at last disabled from active work and came back to Stamford, where he has lived twenty years. He took up his residence in New York three years ago.

Mr. Hall has been prominent in Chicago affairs, having resided there for some years after his marriage, and it was through his efforts that the river and harbor convention which did so much for the development of Chicago was held. He was born in Hebron, Conn., April 20, 1812, and his wife who was Miss Caroline Hayden, was born in this city eight years later. They were married at New Haven by the Rev. Dr. John Moore, who was a Universalist minister of this city, and died about thirty years ago. Mrs. Hall was the daughter of General William Hayden, a prominent man here in the early years of the century, and as well known to the old residents as any man of his time. She is the sister of Daniel L. Hayden, Mrs. L. L. Snodgrass, Mrs. S. T. Bissell, Mrs. William Tuller, and the late George W. Hayden, and aunt of ex-Alderman George A. Hayden. A sister also lives with her in New York. Mr. and Mrs. Hall lived in Stamford for some time previous to removing to their present residence in New York.

WILCOX-WHITTLESEY.

Fashionable Wedding at Middletown.
(Special to THE COURANT.)

MIDDLETOWN, Oct. 1.

Mary C. Wilcox, daughter of William W. Wilcox of this city, was married to Heman C. Whittlesey of Newton at the bride's home at 5:30 o'clock to-day, by the Rev. P. M. Snyder assisted by the Rev. Dr. A. W. Hazen. The ushers were Messrs. Bliss and Hubbard of Hartford and Butler and Smith of Middletown. Miss Miriam Hills of Stonington, Miss Tetwilder of Philadelphia, Miss Molly Bunce and Miss Anna Smith of Middletown were the bridesmaids. A reception was held after the ceremony.

Another physician will soon be added to the already long list in Springfield society in the person of Dr. W. Norwood Suter, who has been attached as army surgeon to the 9th United States cavalry. Mrs. Suter will be remembered in this city as Miss Mary Benton, daughter of the late Col Benton, formerly in command of the armory. Dr. Suter has been in the regiment under Col Henry, whose daughter, it will be remembered, married Col Benton's son, James, somewhat more than a year ago. Dr. Suter has taken the Maple-street house recently vacated by Dr. H. E. Rice and will soon move to his new home.

The wedding and Miss Mary Benton. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Joseph H. Twiss. A large number of friends were present. After the ceremony the wedding party went to the residence of the bride's father, where a reception was held.

It is announced that Miss Anna Cate of Bridgeport, daughter of Stephen M. Cate, Jr., president of the S. M. Cate, Jr., Transfer company, is engaged to Mr. Frank A. Thompson of this city, general agent of the Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance company.

THOMPSON-CATE—In this city, Oct. 1, at the residence of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Dr. J. D. Johnson, by George M. Stone, D. D. Frank A. Thompson of this city, to Miss Anna I. Cate of Bridgeport, Conn.

Mr. F. A. Thompson of this city and Miss Anna Cate of Bridgeport were married at 1 o'clock this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Johnson, aunt of the bride, No. 41 Niles street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Stone. The wedding was a quiet one, none but relatives and intimate friends being present.

MARRIED AT MERIDEN.

Mr. Edward J. Pearson and Miss Daisy Dean.

Miss Daisy Dean of Meriden and Mr. Edward J. Pearson of this city were married at half-past 6 o'clock yesterday evening in the First Congregational Church at Meriden. It was a very pretty wedding, and the church was filled with the friends of the bride and groom, among those present being many people from Hartford. The Rev. Asner Anderson performed the ceremony, using the Episcopal service. Miss Collins of New York was maid of honor, and Mr. E. A. Wadsworth was best man. The ushers were Charles L. Tolles, H. O. Warner, Frederick Belden, Philip Rand, Dr. Southmayd and Mr. Wilcox. Some of those present from Meriden were:—

Mrs. Pearson, Charles H. Jewell, George L. Best, Miss Best, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Newton, Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Wilson, Miss Tollis, Mrs. Charles E. Wilson and Miss Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Van Schuer, Mrs. Gilbert, Mrs. Bodwell, Mrs. Butler, Miss Butler, Mrs. Blakeslee, Frederick Blakeslee, Miss Blakeslee, Miss Wadsworth, Miss Danforth and Mr. Danforth, Mr. Charles Pease, Mr. A. W. Butler, W. H. Kelsey, Jr., Mr. Harry Heckard, E. H. Bingham, Charles Rogers, A. D. Newton, Benjamin F. Loveland, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Whittlesey, Mr. and Mrs. Titcomb, Joseph W. Danforth, Captain and Mrs. Preston.

The Hartford Courant.

SATURDAY MORNING OCT. 4. 1890.
SILVER WEDDING.

Mayor Dwight's Twenty-Fifth Anniversary.

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the marriage of Mayor H. C. Dwight and Mrs. Dwight was celebrated last evening at the family residence on Charter Oak Hill in a very pleasant, entirely informal manner. Many neighbors and friends called to pay their respects and extend congratulations. A delegation of the Wide Awakes, after their meeting, called on Mr. and Mrs. Dwight and met with a hearty reception.

At Shelburne, Vt., 4th, in Trinity church, by Rev John C. Brooks, assisted by Rev George H. Bailey, MARY LOUISE BENTON, daughter of the late Col James G. Benton, United States ordnance department, to DR WILLIAM NORWOOD SUTER, United States army.

The marriage of Miss Mary Louise Benton, daughter of the late Col Benton of this city, to William N. Suter, surgeon in the army, took place in Shelburne, Vt., Thursday. Trinity church, which has recently been remodeled, was prettily decorated for the occasion, Lieut J. W. Benton, the bride's brother, was best man, and the ushers were Louis Webb and A. S. Webb, Jr., of New York city, while Miss Frederica, the young daughter of Dr Seward Webb, strewed flowers in the aisle in advance of the bridal party. The ceremony was performed by Rev Mr Brooks of Christ church, the bride's former pastor in this city, assisted by Rev George W. Bailey of Burlington. After a reception at Shelburne Farms, the wedding party returned to the city.

A cablegram from China dated September 1, was received yesterday, the 2nd, by W. W. Wilcox, Jr., of this city, announcing the birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Whittlesey. The latter is the daughter of William W. Wilcox, who, with Mrs. Wilcox, arrived at Foochow, China, August 20, in time to welcome the happy event.

Sept 4

The Republican.

SPRINGFIELD, SATURDAY, SEPT. 6.

A MILITARY WEDDING AT WILLIAMSTOWN.

The marriage of Lieut James Watson Benton of the United States army, and Miss Sarah Wharton Henry, took place at 2.30 o'clock yesterday afternoon in Williams-town at the summer home of Edward Courtland Gale, a cousin of the bride. Lieut Benton is a son of the late Col Benton who for 17 years had command of the United States arsenal in this city, and the bride is a daughter of Col Henry, who now is in command of the 9th United States cavalry, to which Lieut Benton is attached. The wedding was a very pretty and unique affair. The house was elaborately draped with a profusion of red, white and blue, and every thing about the ceremony bore a military aspect. At one end of the parlor was a large canopy of red, white and blue, in the dome of which were two crossed swords and beneath it hung a beautiful bell of white roses under which the couple stood. The best man was Dr W. Norwood Suter, to whom Miss Benton, a sister of the groom, was recently married, and who is also attached to the 9th cavalry. Both the groom and the best man were in full military uniform. The Episcopal ceremony was used, Rev Dr Enos of Albany officiating, and the bride was given away by Mr Gale. Only a few relatives and intimate friends were present, but among those from out of town were Mrs Col Benton and Miss Leonard of this city and Dwight W. Bowles of New York city. After a short wedding trip Lieut and Mrs Benton will make their home at Fort McKinnie, where Lieut Benton is now stationed.

OCTOBER 3, 1890.

THE MORSS-PELHAM WEDDING.

A wedding after the Church of England form and at the thoroughly English hour of noon, took place in the South church yesterday, the bride being Marie Louise Pelham, daughter of Henry C. Pelham of 160 High street, and the groom Charles Leonard Morss of Boston. The ceremony was performed by Rev E. G. Selden, the Episcopal service being used by request, and Rev Dr Buckingham also graced the occasion with his presence. The church was handsomely decorated with autumn leaves and potted plants. Organist Batchelder played the wedding march from Lohengrin as the bridal party came up the main aisle, the four ushers leading. They were William Marsh, Leander White, Harry Robinson and the bride's brother, William F. Pelham. The four bridesmaids, all sisters of the bride, came next, and then the bride herself upon her father's arm. She wore a cream pean de soie, cut en traine, a veil of white tulle with cream tips and orange blossoms, and carried a bunch of bridal roses. The bridesmaids were dressed alike in cream-colored mousseline-de-soie, with India silk sashes, and they carried bunches of pink roses tied with cream ribbons. The bride's mother wore black silk and lace with a gray velvet bonnet.

The party was met at the chancel by the groom and his brother, who acted as best man, and the solemn service was read, the bride's father giving her away. Mendelssohn's wedding march was the joyous strain that pealed forth as the married pair departed down the aisle, and the most intimate friends of the young people hastened to the bride's home on High street, where the wedding breakfast was served. The out-of-town guests present were Miss Amy Jewell of Montclair, N. J., and Mr and Mrs Knowlton, Mr and Mrs Carruthers and Miss Blanche Car of New York. Mr and Mrs Morss took the 4 o'clock train for a short wedding trip and they will be at home to their friends in their Somerville residence on and after the 15th. Mr Morss, who has just returned from abroad, is interested in Boston shipping interests.

BARKER-NORTHROP.—In this city, Oct. 7, by the Rev. George E. Sanborne, Ludlow Barker and Miss Lena S. Northrop, all of this city.

Barker-Northrop.

Mr. Ludlow Barker, the well-known music dealer, was married at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon to Miss Lena S. Northrop, daughter of Mr. E. G. Northrop. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. George E. Sanborne. The wedding was a very quiet one, only the immediate relatives of the families being present. The many friends of the newly wedded pair will extend their hearty congratulations.

Johnson-May.

Miss Nellie May, the daughter of Mr. Wyman J. May of this city, was married last evening to Mr. Harmon Johnson of New Britain. The ceremony took place at the Asylum Street Methodist Church at 6 o'clock, in the presence of a very large gathering of friends of the bride and groom, about 500 invitations having been issued. Mr. Fred H. Arnold of New Britain was groomsmen. After a short bridal tour Mr. and Mrs. Johnson will reside in New Britain, where Mr. Johnson is engaged in business.

The Hartford Courant.

THURSDAY MORNING, OCT. 9, 1890.
RIPLEY-CASWELL.

Marriage Ceremony at the Park Church Last Evening.

The Park Congregational Church was the scene of a large gathering of the friends of the contracting parties last evening at the marriage of Mr. George W. Ripley of the firm of Ripley Brothers of this city, to Miss Anna Luella, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Caswell. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Lester L. Potter. Mr. John S. Camp played Mendelssohn's Wedding March as the bridal party approached the altar. The ushers were Irving C. Treat and George I. Clapp of this city, Welles Loomis of Westfield, Mass., and William H. Stevens of Cromwell, Conn. The maid of honor was Miss Millie Pitkin of this city. The bride wore a dress of white French faille cut en train and trimmed with Duchesse lace, and a bridal veil, with a wreath of orange blossoms in her hair. She carried a handsome bouquet of white roses. The maid of honor wore the same material trimmed with point lace, and carried a bouquet of pink roses. Among those present at the church were Seth Talcott and Mrs. Talcott, Lieutenant-Colonel Charles E. Thompson and Mrs. Thompson, Dr. Gideon C. Segur and Mrs. Segur, Major Alexander Allen and Mrs. Allen, John D. Candee and Mrs. Candee, Lieutenant Everett L. Morse and Mrs. Morse, Solomon E. Brewer, William Caswell, and many members of the City Guard with ladies.

After the ceremony there was a reception at the home of the bride's parents, No. 42, Imlay street, where the presents were displayed. They were numerous, useful articles and costly. From the groom the bride received a pair of elegant pearl earrings and the maid of honor presented the bride with an elegant Japanese card case of unique pattern and design recently imported direct from Japan. The bride remembered Miss Pitkin with a handsome pin. The City Guard, of which Mr. Ripley was until recently a member, presented a handsome Italian marble mantel clock, and the ushers gave a dinner set of Haviland china, 150 pieces.

Mr. and Mrs. Ripley left soon after 9 o'clock on the Central New England & Western road for a short wedding tour in western New York and Pennsylvania, and will reside at Washington, D. C., where they will receive after November 1 at 804 10th street N. W.

City Personals.

Mr. Clyde Fitch, the author of Mr. Mansfield's new play, "The Man of the World," is the son of Captain W. G. Fitch, formerly of this city, but now living in Boston. The young author lives in New York, where he has an artistic apartment at the Sherman Studio Building. Mr. Fitch has already completed a comedy for Miss Rosina Vokes, and has other commissions.

BORN.
At Fort Myer, Washington, D.C., 9th, son to Lieut JAMES W. BENTON, and grandson to the late Col J. G. Benton, U. S. ordnance department.

Wedding On Farmington Avenue Last Evening.

At a few minutes after 7 o'clock last evening, at the home of the bride's parents on Farmington avenue, Miss Alice Cleaveland Browne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Browne, was married to Francis Rexford Cooley of this city, a son of Mr. and Mrs. HANDSOME HOMES. of the firm

MBER 1, 1909.

Cooley and Henry Roberts

the Domiciles in West-part of Hartford.

Plans for handsome residences have been issued to Robert Porteus, builder. The houses are to be built for Francis R. Cooley and ex-Governor Henry Roberts, and represent a total value of more than $100,000. Mr. Cooley's house is to be erected on the west side of Woodland street, near Niles, and just south of the present residence of Professor M. W. Jacobus. It will be three stories in height, of light faded brick, and the ground area will be 89 by 45 feet. The trimmings will be of limestone. The residence will be fire-proof throughout, and will cost approximately $70,000. The architect is Benjamin Wistar Morris.

Ex-Governor Roberts's home will stand on the east side of Prospect Hill, where he purchased a lot some months ago. It will be two and one-half stories, of frame construction, from plans made by Andrews, Jacques & Rantoul, architects, of Boston. The ground area is to be 81 by 42 feet and the building will cost, complete, approximately $32,000. Work on both structures has begun.

assisted by the Rev. Frank R. Shipman, Alice Cleaveland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Browne, and Francis R. Cooley, both of this city.

McPHERSON-DUNBAR—In this city, Oct. 15, at the Presbyterian church, by Rev. J. Aspinwall Hodge, D. D., Mr. Don Shelton McPherson to Miss Mamie Andrews Dunbar, both of Hartford.

McPherson-Dunbar.

A large party of friends gathered in the First Presbyterian Church last evening to witness the marriage of Mr. Don Shelton McPherson to Miss Mamie Andrews Dunbar, sister of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Dunbar. The church was prettily decorated by McClupie, the pulpit being heavily banked with flowers, while over the heads of the bridal party hung a snow-white dove. Mr. B. W. Loveland played the wedding march as the bridal party entered the church. Mr. James Gray was best man and Miss Emma Carson bridesmaid. The ushers were Messrs. A. E. Snow, F. D. Oakey, John Gray and Fred Westwood. The Rev. Mr. Hodge performed the ceremony. After the ceremony there was a reception at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Margaret McMillen, at No. 449 Capitol avenue. Mr. and Mrs. McPherson left on the 9:30 train south for a short wedding trip. Among the many handsome presents were an onyx clock from the clerks at Brown, Thomson & Co.'s, a piano lamp from Mr. McPherson's fellow clerks at Fox's, a set of Gorham silver spoons from Mr. and Mrs. M. Fox, and a landscape engraving from Mrs. McPherson's companions in the Presbyterian choir.

Greene-Sexton.

At 7 o'clock last evening, Miss Carrie Woodruff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George K. Sexton of Windsor avenue, was married

Saturday Evening, Oct. 18th, 1890

THE EVENT OF THE SEASON
BOOT GUARD ARMOY HALL

The First Baptist church was the scene last evening of a very pleasant wedding ceremony, the occasion being the marriage of Miss Fannie J. Sloane to Mr. Herman L. Bolles. Rev. J. S. James was the officiating clergyman, Miss Jennie Bolles, sister of the groom and Miss Susie Sloane, sister of the bride were bridesmaids, and Messrs. Clarence Shumway, Dwight Chapman and Edward Hutchinson of this city, and Herbert Twitchell of New York were the ushers. A reception followed at the home of the bride, No. 22 Williams street.

YATES-OAKES—In this city, Oct. 15, by Rev. J. Aspinwall Hodge, D. D., assisted by Rev. John T. Huntington, D. D., Charles E. Yates to Miss Mary A. Oakes, both of Hartford.

The Hartford Convent.

THURSDAY MORNING, OCT. 16, 1890.
GALLAUDET-SHERMAN.

A Notable New York Wedding.
(New York Herald, Wednesday.)

A pretty white and gold wedding was celebrated yesterday at noon in the St. Ann's Church for Deaf Mutes, Eighteenth street, near Fifth avenue. Miss Sarah Morse Gallaudet, daughter of the rector, the Rev. Dr. Thomas Gallaudet, was married to the Rev. Richard Sherman, rector of St. Peter's Church, Dansville, N. Y. The ceremony was performed by the bride's father, aloud, and in the sign language for the benefit of the deaf mutes present.

The bride entered the church with her brother, Dr. Born B. Gallaudet, who gave her away. She wore a princess gown of ivory white faille, made with full train. The Medici collar was made of point lace and her long veil was of the same exquisite lace. In her corsage she wore white carnations, and she carried a Watteau fan.

She was attended by Miss Edith Gallaudet, her sister, as maid of honor. She wore a Grecian draped gown of gold-colored crepe de chine, made with demi-trained skirt. The V shaped corsage was outlined with gold-colored ribbons, and she wore a poke bonnet of gold crepe trimmed with ostrich feathers and ribbons.

The bridesmaids, Miss Ethel Sherman, the groom's sister; Miss Jennie Washer, Miss Frances Withers, Miss Mabel Shaw, the bride's niece; Miss Bertha Gillman and Miss Alice Trumbull, wore gowns of white crepe de chine, trimmed with gold-colored ribbons, and white bonnets trimmed with ostrich feathers. They each carried a bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums, tied with ribbons. William Ely of Providence, R. I., was best man and Edward Fales Coward, George M. Tuttle, James Bleeker, jr., Edson F. Gallaudet, the bride's cousin; William L. Mauran of Providence, and William W. Moier, were the ushers. They wore diamond scarf pins, the groom's gift.

At the foot of the altar the bride and groom were betrothed; then they entered the white and gold trimmed chancel, followed by the bridesmaids and maid of honor, and there the service was concluded.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served for the bridal party at the rectory, No. 9 West Eighteenth street.

The bride's mother wore a gown of black silk, trimmed with white and black brocade; Mrs. Alexander D. Shad of Staten Island, the bride's sister, wore a gown of old rose silk combined with mahogany-colored brocade; Miss Virginia Gallaudet, the bride's sister, wore brown and pale blue brocade; Miss Bessie Gallaudet wore black moire antique, with corsage bouquet of pink chrysanthemums.

Among those present were—Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Shaw, Munson Shaw, Mrs. C. A. Budd, Mrs. B. L. Budd, Mrs. O. D. Budd, Miss Comstock, Mrs. Trumbull, Misses Annie and Katie Trumbull, Miss Sherman, Miss Brayton, Mr. Field, Mr. and Mrs. P.

GRAY-In James N. Gray, assisted by the Rev. William A. Hallock, assisted by the Rev. E. B. Burrows, J. William Morris, M. D., of Jamestown, N. Y., and Miss Mary, daughter of Henry Gray, M. D., of Bloomfield, Conn.

HOLT-MEADER-At Chicopee Falls, Mass., Oct. 15, by the Rev. J. H. Twichell. Charles Wolcott Holt, of Hartford, Conn., to Grace Wilbur Meader of Chicopee Falls.

Mr. Charles Wolcott Holt, who is with the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance company, was married at Chicopee Falls, Mass., yesterday to Miss Grace Wilbur Meader of that place. Rev. Joseph H. Twichell of this city performed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Holt will be at home December 2 and 9 at No. 2 Atwood street.

The Republican.

SPRINGFIELD, THURSDAY, OCT. 16.

PHILO P. HAVEN-MISS CLARA T. ST. JOHN.

The wedding of Miss Clara T. St. John of this city and Philo P. Haven of Bridgeport, Ct., took place at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the residence of the bride's brother-in-law, J. T. Bowne, on Clarendon street. The ceremony was performed by Rev David Allen Reed, assisted by the groom's uncle, Rev Dr E. P. Parker of Hartford, Ct. Miss Molly Long of Richmond Hill, L. I., and Miss Edith Bowne were the bridesmaids and the ushers were Jesse Reynolds of White Plains, N. Y., and J. W. Cooke of Boston, assistant state secretary of the Young Men's Christian association. The bride wore a handsome cream white surah silk and carried a bunch of bridal roses. The rooms were handsomely decorated for the occasion and a large number of the family's friends were on hand for the ceremony. Those from out of town were Rev Dr Parker and daughter of Hartford, R. M. Bowne of Glen Cove, L. I., his daughter, Mrs Smith of Plainfield, N. J., and Mrs John A. Fowle of Boston. Mr and Mrs Haven took an early train for the south. They will make their home in Bridgeport, where Mr Haven is connected with the Holmes & Edwards silver manufacturing company. He was a member of the first class to graduate from the school for Christian workers—that of 1887—and it is a significant fact that he is the seventh out of the 15 members of his class to find a bride in this city.

The Evening Post.

HARTFORD, SATURDAY, OCT. 18, 1890.
WELCOME HOME.

Captain and Lieutenant Newton Return—
Complimentary Dinner Monday.

Thirty or more members of the Hartford City Guard, were at the Union station at noon to-day to welcome home their beloved comrades, Captain George B. Newton and Lieutenant Charles W. Newton, who have been on a tour of Europe. As the brothers stepped from the train they were received with a vociferous company cheer which was followed up with cordial hand shaking and words of welcome.

The travelers were brown and hearty, and while they had thoroughly enjoyed their experiences abroad, admitted that they were glad to see Hartford and Hartford people again. The Messrs. Newton left this city September 2. The trip over was a remarkably good one, the weather being perfect and the sea like a "mill pond" as the captain expresses it. The trip back, however, on the City of Berlin, was not so uneventful. There was considerable rough weather experienced and the voyage covered nine days.

The marriage of Miss Annie, daughter of Mr. Marshall Harris, to Ferdinand N. Weildon of Hartford occurred last evening at Trinity Church in Wethersfield at 7:30 o'clock. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Louis Lanpher amid a large gathering of friends and relatives. While the guests were assembling the organist, Mr. Benjamin Loveland of Hartford, played a variety of selections, and at 7:30 the first notes of the wedding march announced the approach of the bridal party. First came the ushers, then Miss Hattie Carpenter of Ellington as maid of honor, then the bridesmaids, Miss Lillian Cowden and Miss May Royce, each carrying a basket of roses, after which came the bride. They were met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Mr. George Weildon of Springfield, his brother.

The ushers were members of the City Guard, Messrs. George Lee, William Talcott, George Smith and Harry Harris, brother of the bride.

The bride's dress was white faille francaise, trimmed with duchess lace, en-train. The bride carried in her hand a bouquet of white roses. The maid of honor's dress was blue surrah silk, trimmed with lace. The dresses of the Misses Cowden and Royce were white India silk. They carried in their hands a basket of flowers.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride. The rooms were tastefully trimmed with flowers. The happy couple received the congratulations of their friends in the north parlor. After the reception Mr. and Mrs. Weildon left on a wedding trip to Vermont, and on their return will take up their residence at 105 Park street, this city. Among those present were the following members of the Hartford City Guard, of which the groom is a member: Captain Newton, Lieutenant Newton, Captain Wickham, L. H. Hutchinson, F. H. Smith, Sergeant N. H. Stevens, George W. Stuart, Corporal F. D. Chamberlain, L. S. Knoek, Secretary Ellison H. Ycung, Sergeant L. N. Mansuy, Corporal G. I. Clapp. Several of the gentlemen were accompanied by their wives.

Chapman-Keasley.

A quiet home wedding occurred last evening at 45 Jefferson street, the residence of the bride's mother. The contracting parties were Frank H. Chapman, bookkeeper for the William Rogers Manufacturing Company, and Miss Carrie Lenoir Keasley, the Rev. H. M. Thompson of the Memorial Baptist Church performing the ceremony. The wedding took place at 7:30 o'clock, and the couple left on the train for New York at 9:35 on a wedding trip. The ushers were Henry H. Chapman, brother of the groom, and H. R. Durant of Waterbury. Many very pretty and useful presents were received.

Merry-Pierce.

The marriage of Miss May Pierce, daughter of Mr. J. B. Pierce, Secretary of the Hartford Steam Boiler Inspection and Insurance Company, and Mr. Arthur H. Merry of Augusta, Ga., took place yesterday at 12:30 p. m. at the Fourth Congregational Church. The Rev. Graham Taylor performed the ceremony. After their marriage there was a pleasant reception at the home of the bride's parents. The presents were many and handsome. The bridal couple left on an afternoon train for the South, where they will live.

MERRY-PIERCE-In this city, Oct. 22, at the Fourth Congregational Church, by Rev. Graham Taylor, Arthur Holmes Merry, of Augusta, Ga., and May, daughter of Joseph B. Pierce, of Hartford.

Mary Anderson's wedding in London yesterday was marked by that admirable good sense which she has always shown in her affairs. It took place at St Mary's chapel in Hampstead, without the least display, with no music but that of the organ, and with none present but friends of herself and seen June 17, 1890.

One of the greatest bargains in this Connecticut and horse-cars and steam cars often to Springfield.

See Vol XIX p 140

A Wedding in Which Connecticut People Are Interested.

A wedding of interest to Connecticut people occurred in the Memorial Presbyterian Church, Brooklyn, last Thursday evening. The contracting parties were Mr. Edgar C. Winchester of South Windham and Miss May Wallace. The Rev. Dr. Thomas Nelson and the Rev. William Greenough were the officiating clergymen. There were eight bridesmaids—the Misses Myra Lee, Ernestine Paine and Varian of Titusville, Pa.; Miss May Taintor, Staten Island; Miss Helen Woodward of Hartford; Miss Elizabeth Wallace and the Misses Ethel and Nan Stoddard of Dayton, O. The ushers were: George Taintor, William Buck, Charles Carter and George Scott of this city; Henry and Everett Moulton of Boston, Mass.; William H. Benson and Alfred Gratz of Philadelphia, Pa. The groom was attended by Arthur Winchester, his brother, as best man. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Woodward of this city, Colonel John Carter and Mrs. Guilfield Smith of South Windham, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Chappell and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Chappell of New London. There were also guests present from Washington, Detroit and other places.

OCTOBER 10.
THE HURLBUT RECEPTION.

Dr and Mrs J. Searle Hurlbut celebrated the 22d anniversary of their marriage last evening by giving at their beautiful home on School street a reception to 600 of their friends, principally from this city. The affair was made the more notable by the presence of Gov Brackett and the members of his council, on their return from Holyoke.

The directors of the Boston and Albany railroad have petitioned the superior court to appoint a commission to decide on a grade crossing at Wilbraham. The petition states that the highway crosses the railroad at two points, one just east of the station at grade and north Wilbraham and again a few hundred feet further east, where it passes under the tracks, and it is desired that the crossing be made by disconnection of the tracks so as to avoid the crossing under the railroad. A hearing will be held on the petition this afternoon at 2 p. m.

LAST EVENING'S GAY RECEPTION

Dr and Mrs Corcoran Entertain a Large Company at their Maple-Street Residence.

Dr and Mrs Luke Corcoran threw open their spacious Maple-street residence to several hundred friends last evening and fully sustained their reputation for charming hospitality. Guests were received at the carriage door on the north side of the house, the front entrance being closed for the convenience of the dancers who occupied the hallway and adjoining rooms. Every nook was filled with flowers, ranging from the verdant bank of ferns and palms that contrasted finely with the oak paneling about the big hall fire-place, to the bright glow of the carnation pinks on the refreshment table and the more delicate bouquets in the drawing-room. The veranda at the south side of the house was completely closed in with canvass, thick rugs and robes being so arranged on the inside that the chill night air was scarcely perceptible. This space, furnished with luxurious sofas and rest-inclining appliances, had such a decidedly Turkish air that it was designated as the "eastern room." Here the young people had matters very much to themselves, the apartment being but dimly lighted by swinging lanterns.

From the east end of the veranda opened a large tent, arranged for the refreshment table. The inclosure was lighted by electricity and heated by steam, while its wooden flooring spread with canvas and brilliant decorations gave it an enchanting appearance. Autumn boughs and variegated hydrangeas encircled the sides and supporting posts, while the candelabra contrasted vividly with the large bouquets of warm-hued flowers upon the table. Mrs Corcoran received the guests, assisted by her niece Miss Brewer, in the drawing-room at the left, the floor of which was spread with white duck, several exquisite bouquets of roses being scattered about. The art-room, library and dining-room were also surrendered to the guests and were adorned with the same taste that characterized the other parts of the house. Baldwin's cadet orchestra of Boston furnished music for the dancing, the pleasure of which was witnessed by only a few of the more sedate. About 500 guests were present, including many from out of town, among whom were H. U. Taintor, James P. Moore, Charles B. Gross and Mr Hyde of Hartford, Miss Young of Staten Island, Miss Hopkins of Worcester, Walter Bennett of New York, Frank Weston and Miss Nellie Weston of Dalton, Mr and Mrs J. G. Mackintosh, Miss Mackintosh and R. M. Fairfield of Hingham.

A very pleasant home wedding was that of Mr. Charles E. Day of Utica, N. Y., to Miss Alice McClunzie, daughter of Thomas McClunzie, at the home of the bride's parents, No. 2 Wadsworth street, last evening. The Rev. W. De Loss Love officiated, using the full Episcopal marriage service. The presents were many, choice and appropriate. The house was well filled by friends of the families, among whom were Mr. D. R. Howe, Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Day, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Burt, Mr. and Mrs. Watson Bliss and many of the family relatives. Mr. and Mrs. Day will reside in Utica, N. Y., where the bridegroom is engaged in the hardware business.

Bishop Nichols Now.

Tuesday morning, the Rev. William Ford Nichols, formerly of this city and recently elected assistant bishop of California, was consecrated in St. James's Church, Philadelphia, of which he has been for several years past the rector. Bishop Williams of this diocese presided. Bishop Scarborough of New Jersey preached the sermon, and Bishops Potter of New York, Littlejohn of Long Island, Whittaker of Pennsylvania, Lyman

This is a portrait of Graf Helmuth von Moltke, about as he looked when he commanded the Prussian army and its auxiliaries in the war with France in 1870-71, when he was 70 years old. His 90th birthday is to be celebrated all over Germany and by Germans in this and other countries, next Sunday, the 26th inst. He was born in Mecklenburg, of an ancient family of that region, was educated at a military school in Copenhagen, and at the Prussian military academy at Berlin, and entered the army as a cornet. There he devoted all his time free from the demands of the service to study, and thus acquired a knowledge of several modern languages. As a member of the general staff he passed several years in Turkey, and wrote several books about it anonymously. In 1858 Von Moltke, having been advanced through the several grades, was made chief of the grand general staff of the Prussian army, and was appointed a lieutenant-general in 1859. He laid out the plans for the war with Denmark over the Schleswig-Holstein difficulty in 1863-4 and the war with Austria in 1866, which ended with the rout of the Austrians at the battle of Sadowa. For this he was given the order of the Black Eagle, and the title of graf, or count, was given him in 1870, while in that same year Russia decorated him with the order of St George. Of his supreme importance in the Franco-German war there is no need to speak particularly. After the war Emperor William conferred on him the grand cross of the order of the Iron Cross, and made him chief marshal of the German empire. He retired from service but a year or so since, and has been succeeded by Count Von Waldersee. Von Moltke is a member of the Reichstag, where, however, he is seldom seen. He has been a considerable writer in his day, as well as the greatest strategist of this age.

Von Moltke's Birthday.

It pleases his imperial majesty, William of Germany, to keep the greatest statesman of Europe an exile and in disgrace, while honoring with unusual pomp the birthday of the greatest soldier. The man who united Germany, and whose plans have remade the map of Europe, is coolly bidden to take his place among the other guests, assembled in honor of the man who made the German army execute its portion of those plans. The contrast is a striking one, and is perhaps the most interesting feature

A Monster Torch-light Procession, Parade, Receptions and a Banquet—The Aged Count Receives Many Gifts and Congratulations.

Nearly 20,000 persons took part Saturday night in the torch-light procession at Berlin which inaugurated the celebration of the 90th anniversary of the birth of Field-Marshal Count von Moltke. All classes of the people were represented. The participants were artistically grouped by prominent painters and sculptors. Upon arriving at the residence of Count von Moltke, the president of a committee previously appointed, presented to the venerable soldier a congratulatory address. Count von Moltke in his reply thanked the citizens for the brilliant manifestations in his honor, and said that the foundation of the empire, which had made Berlin great, was the work of the mighty Emperor William I. If a share in this result was attributed to him (Von Moltke) his hearers must also remember his faithful companions and the brave men who had sealed their loyalty to the fatherland with their death.

The celebration was continued yesterday. At 9 a. m., the count was serenaded by the Teachers' choral society and he received the congratulations of his relatives. At 9.30 he received army officers, officials and the members of the general staff, who came in a procession. At 11.30, in the presence of the emperor, the guards and cuirassiers, with their colors, paraded before the offices of the general staff, where Count von Moltke is residing. The veteran stood bareheaded on the balcony. The colors were afterward taken to his room. Then all the German and foreign generals, including Chancellor von Caprivi, Gen Kutussow of Russia and the Austrian deputation bearing an autograph letter from Emperor Francis Joseph, assembled in the great hall, where they were greeted by the emperor. Count von Moltke, led by Count Waldersee, now entered, followed by the staff officers, and there was a general offering of congratulations to the old general. In the afternoon the municipal council, headed by Burgomaster Forckenbeck, presented a municipal testimonial and 50,000 marks as a gift in Count von Moltke's name to the late Emperor William's almshouses. In thanking them the count described this as the most valuable of his gifts. Deputations from the municipal councils of Munich, Breslau, Koenigsberg, Chemnitz and Memel presented addresses conferring upon Count von Moltke the freedom of their respective cities. Dresden and Magdeburg presented illuminated addresses. Cologne sent a splendid field marshal's baton artistically wrought in gold in the style of old Cologne. Mecklenburg presented a sum of money subscribed for the purchase of the house in which Von Moltke was born at Parchim, and a portfolio of views. The czar, the king of Sweden, the sultan, Prince Bismarck and the prince of Wales telegraphed their congratulations.

In the evening the count went to Potsdam by the imperial train, and was greeted on arrival by an enthusiastic crowd. A banquet was given in the hall of Shells in honor of the veteran. The king of Saxony sat at the count's right, and on his left was Empress Augusta Victoria. Emperor William sat opposite the count. There was a large number of guests. Beside the members of the royal family, the ministers and generals, there were present the four nephews of Count von Moltke. The emperor touched the count's glass and drank to his prosperity. The count returned to Berlin at 9.15 p. m. in a special train. Count von Moltke has sent a personal note to a private soldier thanking him for verses which he had sent, and saying that an army in which privates are able to write such verses he had sent must be well ordered.

In presenting the field marshal's baton the emperor, referring to the count's deeds of glory and renown, said he was proud to be

Oct 26
1891

THURSDAY MORNING, OCT. 30, 1890.
A VANDERBILT WEDDING.

The Bride's Gown and Jewels, the Bridal Gifts, Etc.

In New York City, Tuesday afternoon, Miss Frank Vanderbilt Crawford, whose aunt was the Old Commodore's second wife, was married to J. Frederick Talcott, a graduate of Princeton College in the class of 1888, now studying for the ministry. The wedding took place in the Church of the Strangers, where the bride had been baptized twenty years before, and the same clergyman, the Rev. Dr. Deems, officiated. There was a maid of honor, Miss Anna L. Easton, and four bridesmaids, while Mr. Seth Robinson attended the bridegroom as best man. The Sun says:—

Beautiful flowers and tall green plants decorated the space about the pulpit. It was just half past 3 o'clock when the bride attired in a rich gown of heavy white satin, made with a full court train three yards long, entered the church with her father. The front of the skirt was almost completely covered with exquisite point lace, which was caught up with clusters of natural orange blossoms. The V-shaped corsage was made with a point lace Meil collar, and had elbow sleeves. A dazzling diamond tiara, a gift from the bridegroom, with several small diamond pins, fastened the point lace veil to the head. Her other ornaments were a necklace, pendant, and brooch of diamonds, which, with the lace, were once worn by the bride's aunt, Mrs. Commodore Vanderbilt. Miss Crawford wore no earrings, and during the ceremony her young brother, Master Everett Lake Crawford, dressed in a suit of black silk velvet, with collar and cuffs of point lace, and Lord Fauntleroy sash, held the bridal bouquet, which was of lilies of the valley. The Mail and Express publishes a partial list of the wedding gifts, in which figure a silver punch bowl from Mr. George H. Vanderbilt, silver tea set from Mr. William H. Vanderbilt, a silver tea caddy from Mrs. Frederick Vanderbilt, a silver tray from Mrs. Elliott F. Shepard, and a silver coffee pot from Miss Louise Shepard. The young couple are passengers on the Majestic, which left New York yesterday morning. Mr. Talcott will pursue his theological studies in the new nonconformist college at Oxford, England.

Mrs. James Woolworth and daughter, and Miss Ella Taylor, all of Sandusky, Ohio, were guests over Sunday of Mr. James P. Taylor. Mrs. Woolworth and Miss Taylor are sisters of Mr. Taylor. The three ladies, with Mr. Woolworth, have just returned from a two years' tour in foreign lands, three months of which were spent in Japan.

White-Gleason.

Last Tuesday evening Miss Mary W. Gleason was married to Henry S. White at the residence of the bride's mother, on the corner of Willard street and Asylum avenue. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Havens of Middletown, assisted by the Rev. J. H. Twichell of this city. The house was profusely decorated with flowers and there was a very handsome display of presents. Miss Gleason is a sister of Mr. Fred Grant Gleason, the composer. Mr. White is a professor in Clark University at Worcester. The bridal couple left on the 9:30 train for Worcester, where they will reside.

Ex-Congressman Vance Married.

The New Britain correspondent of THE COURANT writes:—

The announcement of the marriage of ex-Congressman Vance to Miss Matilda O'Connor, daughter of Judge O'Connor of Alabama, was quite a surprise to his friends here, who extend congratulations. He was married in Baltimore on Wednesday, by the rector of Grace Church.

SPRINGFIELD, FRIDAY, OCT. 31.
THE LAWTON-HOMANS WEDDING.

The South church was the scene of an unusually pleasant wedding last evening, when Sanford Lawton and Miss Bessie Homans were married by Rev. E. G. Selden, assisted by Rev. Dr. Buckingham. The church was simply but prettily trimmed with laurel and chrysanthemums, the glossy foliage and radiating snowy blossoms contrasting effectively with the finished woods that formed a glistening background. Clusters of green surmounted each of the pew arms on the main aisle, while branches of the same depended from the gilded gas brackets at each of the four corners. Over the pulpit similar decoration prevailed, and also at the foot of the platform, while the rows of chrysanthemums on the stairs at each side harmonized most happily with the other decorations. The railing of the front seats had been taken out, thus affording plenty of space to the bridal party. The ushers, W. C. Marsh, F. H. Gillett, C. L. Hotchkiss, W. H. Selvey, F. H. Sturtevant, George D. Pratt, Edward Pynchon and Paul R. Hawkins preceded the couple to the altar, there forming a semicircle with the bridesmaids, Misses Anna Marsh, Helen Morgan and May Southworth of this city, Misses Amy and Kate Hunnewell of Brookline and Miss Helen Homans of New York. W. C. Lawton, a brother of the groom, was best man, and Miss Nannie Homans, a sister of the bride, was maid of honor. The ceremony was with a ring, the special form of service used somewhat resembling the Episcopalian. The bride's dress was of white silk with chiffon trimmings and tulle veil. The music was a feature of the occasion. Before the entrance of the bridal party Organist Batchelder played a nocturne from Mendelssohn's "Midsummer Night's Dream," a march and also a bridal song. As the participants reached the broad aisle the familiar notes of the bridal chorus from "Lohengrin" pealed out, while at the exit as the bridal couple, followed by their attendants, moved toward the door, the selection was one of Mendelssohn's appropriate marches. The last number was Meyerbeer's coronation march, taken from "The Prophet."

A reception followed at the Maple-street residence of the bride's aunt, Miss Susan C. Manning, which was attended only by the bridal party and relatives. The reception room was decorated principally with ferns and other forest foliage, with just enough of bright autumn hues to form acceptable contrasts. The other rooms were trimmed in much the same way, while in the center of the refreshment table was a pyramidal bouquet of chrysanthemums and fruit. Prominent among the long list of presents was an onyx clock and two landscape etchings from the canoe club, and a silver water set from the league of American wheelmen. The other gifts included several banquet lamps, etchings and other framed art work, silverware, china, glass, linens, etc. The church was nearly filled with guests, mainly from this city. Those from out of town included: Dr. Cleveland, Mrs. Charles L. Seeger and Mrs. E. Homans of New York, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Butler and John Butler of Boston, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Fullerton of Brooklyn, Misses Tibbetts and Reynolds of Milford, Miss Storrs of Longmeadow, Mrs. Bull of Terryville, Ct., and Miss Bird of Orange. Mr. and Mrs. Lawton left for the West on a late train, and upon returning from their short wedding trip, will reside at 30 Maple street. Mr. Lawton was for several years employed at the Agawam bank, resigning there as teller about two years ago to become associated with his brother, William C. Lawton, in the management of the Talcott axle works at Brightwood. He has been prominent in the bicycle and canoe clubs and a number of other organizations and has attended the

A social tea will be given in the parlors of the Asylum hill Congregational church this evening. Rev. Mr. Twichell and Mrs. Twichell will receive, the occasion being the eve of the twenty-fifth anniversary of Mr. Twichell's installation as pastor of the church.

The Hartford Post.

HARTFORD, SATURDAY, NOV. 1, 1890.
TWENTY-FIVE YEARS MARRIED.

The Rev. and Mrs. Twichell Celebrate Their Silver Wedding.

The Rev. and Mrs. Joseph H. Twichell gave a very pleasant and well-attended reception at their home on Woodland street from 3 to 6 on Saturday afternoon, and from 7 to 10 in the evening. The rooms were prettily decorated with flowers and autumnal foliage. A large maple branch covered with brilliant leaves in the dining-room attracted much attention, and groups of chrysanthemums and roses made the house bright with their colors. The tables were presided over by ladies of the congregation. Few among the many friends who attended the reception were aware, before their arrival, that it took place upon the twenty-fifth anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Twichell; but those of the parishoners and neighbors who had found it out sent in many valuable and beautiful gifts appropriate to the occasion, among them being a large sum of money, an elegant silver tea set, a set of silver orange knives with pearl handles, an ornamental lamp, a silver asparagus fork, a set of silver teaspoons and many choice flowers.

The Furlong-Graves Nuptials To-day—Other Marriages This Evening.

Frank P. Furlong and Lillian Elizabeth Graves were married in the Asylum Street M. E. church to-day, a large attendance of friends and beautiful display of costumes and flowers combining to make the ceremony a brilliant social affair. Miss Graves was dressed in a pearl grey traveling suit, and carried a large bouquet of white chrysanthemums. Her sister, who was maid of honor, carried a bunch of yellow chrysanthemums. The platform was hidden with the same flowers, but white. It was a chrysanthemum wedding throughout. The ushers, C. E. Robbins, J. W. Turner, A. W. Dodd and W. C. Cheney, fellow members with Mr. Furlong in Company K, took positions at the head of the party and the march was made to the altar to the music of the conventional selection. There, Rev. J. E. Holmes of the North Methodist church, and Rev. David G. Downey, formerly of this city, but now of Mamaroneck, N. Y., were waiting. The ceremony was brief and simple. At its conclusion the bride and groom left on an afternoon train for the South. Mr. Furlong is one of the best known and most respected young men in the north part of the city. He is a member of the grocery firm of Furlong & Howard, and is a councilman from the Seventh ward. Mrs. Furlong is the daughter of Colonel Graves and is equally well known and well liked.

Allen-Clark.

Mr. Charles Dexter Allen and Miss Frances Louise Clark were quietly married yesterday evening at half past six o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, on Asylum avenue, in the presence of a few relatives and intimate friends. The bride and groom, preceded by the ushers and bridesmaids, were met in the large bay window by the Rev. Joseph H. Twichell, who performed the ceremony. Miss Hattie Clark, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, the other bridesmaids being Miss Thoma-sine Haskell, Miss Kittle Spencer, and Miss May Newton. The ushers were Messrs. Arthur Coffin, the best man, John S. Clark, Dr. J. Warren Harper and Water Bliss. From 7 until 9 a reception was held, at which hosts of friends were present to congratulate Mr. and Mrs. Allen. The wedding gifts were in great abundance. On their return to Hartford Mr. and Mrs. Allen will reside at No. 149 High Prescott-Denison.

At the Asylum Hill Congregational Church at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Mr. William C. Prescott and Miss Hattie G. Denison were married by the Rev. Joseph H. Twichell. The center of the church was filled with friends and relatives of the bride and groom. The bridal party entered the church to Guil-mant's nuptial march, played by Mr. Lord, the organist of the church. The bride wore a handsome dress of white duchesse satin, with tulle veil and white rosebuds, and carried orange blossoms. The maid of honor, Miss Nellie S. Hull, wore a pink surah silk dress and carried white chrsanthemums. The ushers were Messrs Albert N. Prescott, William C. Pond, W. F. Parker and J. D. Arms. Mr. Prescott is teller of the Mechanics' Savings Bank, and his bride is the daughter of Mr. George E. Denison of Laurel street. They left last evening on a wedding trip.

Robins-Williams.

In Portland, Conn., yesterday, Mr. Charles H. Robins, clerk in the office of the internal revenue collector, was married to Miss Jennie R. Williams. They started on a wedding tour to Boston and New York, after which they will reside in this city.

The Hartford Post.

HARTFORD WEDNESDAY, NOV. 12, 1890

Miss Carrie Pratt of Farmington avenue gave a very pleasant tea in honor of her friend, Miss Swan of Bridgeport, at her home last evening from 7 to 9 o'clock. Music was furnished by Emmons' orchestra and refreshments were served by Habenstein. The evening was spent very pleasantly by a large number of guests.

The wedding of Miss Georgia Moulton of Windham to Mr. Charles Parsons, son of Mr. Walter Parsons of the Standard Cement company of this city, occurred this afternoon at Windham. A very pretty wedding was held at the bride's home in the presence of a large number of personal friends, including several from this city. The ceremony was followed by a reception.

WRIGHT-ABBE—In this city, Nov 12, at the home of the bride's parents, by Rev. Dr. G. L. Walker, Miss Elizabeth, daughter of B. R. Abbe, and Rev. Ric and Wright.

Rev. Richard Wright, the present pastor of the Congregational church, was married last evening to Miss Elizabeth Abbe of Hartford. The bride is a daughter of B. R. Abbe. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. G. L. Walker at the home of the bride's parents.

NOVEMBER 16, 1890.

Assistant Postmaster-General and Mrs. A. D. Hazen will celebrate the 25th anniversary of their marriage at their home in Washington on Thursday. Mr Hazen is one of the most efficient and valuable department officers we have had in Washington for years, and he has many friends all over the country, including the Connecticut valley, who will wish to congratulate him upon this happy occasion.

RICHMOND—In this city, Nov. 24, a son to Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Richmond.

The latest news in European royal circles is that Prince Christian of Denmark, son of the crown prince and 21 years old, will soon be betrothed to Princess Margaret of Prussia, youngest sister of the German emperor. Let us hope the young man is as good as his name.

They say in Berlin that Prince William of Nassau, heir to the throne of Luxemburg and $1,500,000 a year, is going to marry the Kaiser's youngest sister, Princess Margarethe, who will be nineteen years old next April.

As coming marriage of the Princess Victoria is said to give much satisfaction in Berlin court circles, for the lady has a will of her own and is quite capable of taking the social bit between her teeth and running off the conventional track. Prince Adolf, her fiancé, is not her first love, it is true; her heart but shed its outer leaves to give him all the rest. Its outer leaves were embodied in the person of Alexander of Battenberg, but Alexander was a laggard in love as well as a shrewd fellow, and had no idea of stirring up a political tempest by making a runaway match. Adolf of Schaumburg-Lippe is one of the richest royalties in Europe, is thirty-one years old, handsome, dark, and intellectual, a splendid shot and a brave soldier. Miss Victoria might take a place as a cook or housemaid or a teacher of languages to-morrow, and fill it with satisfaction. She can sew, and play all sorts of games, ride, drive, dance, swim, and talk intelligently on every known subject. She has a dowry of $200,000 to which it is said her brother will add $20,000 a year. Sixteen of the most practised female weavers in Greece will weave four of the silk dresses for her trousseau, and her wedding veil and gown will be wrought by the National Art Lace School at Schmiedebach, Silesia. The marriage will take place at the Chapel Royal of the Berlin Palace on the 20th of November, and the principal royal families of Europe will be represented at the ceremony. Meanwhile Prince Alexander and his actress wife will hereafter be known as Count and Countess Hartenan, he having just been gazetted to an active colonelcy of the Twenty-seventh Infantry of the Austrian army.

A ROYAL WEDDING AT BERLIN.

The Marriage of Princess Victoria and Prince Adolphus of Schaumburg-Lippe.

The civil marriage of Princess Victoria of Prussia, sister of Emperor William, and Prince Adolphus of Schaumburg-Lippe was celebrated at Berlin at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the palace of Empress Frederick. Emperor William and Empress Augusta Victoria, Empress Frederick and the parents of the bridegroom were present. At the conclusion of the ceremony the whole party, escorted by the queen's dragoons, proceeded to the royal castle. In the chapel of the castle the religious ceremony was performed, Dr Dryander, the court chaplain, officiating. In the chapel were assembled all the royalties now in Berlin, besides the court officials and many illustrious guests. There were nearly 60 members of royal families present, among them being the duke of Connaught, the duke of Clarence, Prince and Princess Christian, the duchess of Edinburgh and the duke and duchess of Sparta. When all had assembled the chapel presented a most brilliant spectacle. After the ceremony in the chapel there was a grand banquet, at which Emperor William offered a toast in honor of the bride and groom. The emperor referred in feeling terms to his father, and assured the newly wedded couple of his protection and friendly care.

The Hartford Courant.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, NOV. 19, 1890

John Russell Young, Mr Bennett's right hand man on the New York Herald, was married to Mrs Mary D. Davis, yesterday. This is Mr Young's second marriage, his first wife being a niece of Marshall Jewell, and her death occurred in Paris some years ago. Mr Young has been seriously indisposed for a week, and the ceremony was quietly performed at the Astor house.

New York papers report that Colonel Charles A. Jewell and Miss Charlotte Jewell were at the wedding of John Russell Young in New York on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Fiege started Monday for an extended trip across the continent, visiting at Washington, New Orleans, San Francisco, Denver, Chicago, etc., and will be

The Hartford Post.

HARTFORD, THURSDAY NOV. 20, 1890.

Marriage of Miss Sperry and Mr. Scranton—Other Social Events.

The Pearl street church was the scene last evening of one of the prettiest and best managed "church weddings" that have ever taken place in this city. The occasion was the marriage of Miss Helen Sperry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Sperry, and Robert Meylert Scranton of Scranton, Pa.

The ceremony, which occurred at 8 o'clock, was performed by Rev. W. DeLoss Love, pastor of the church. The bridesmaids were Miss May Sperry, sister of the bride, Miss Lidi Scranton, sister of the groom, Miss Hettie Jarvis of this city and Miss Alice Skinner of Guilford, Conn. Montrose Barnard of Scranton acted as best man and the ushers were: L. Randolph Snowden of Philadelphia, Dr. Albert H. Ely of New York city, William F. Whiting of Holyoke, Mass., W. A. Simpson, Jr., of Lock Haven, Penn., Lewis Seymour of Binghamton, N. Y., and F. W. Dalrymple of Bradford, Penn.

The bride wore a gown of white corded silk trimmed with point lace and carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley tied with a white ribbon. In her hair, partly concealed by the veil, was a half-wreath of orange blossoms which her mother had worn on her wedding day. The bride's only ornament was a diamond pendant, the gift of the groom's parents.

The four attendants of the bride were gowned in pink crepe chiffon with pink feather trimmings. They all wore pink velvet ribbon fillets in their hair and carried bouquets of pink roses tied with ribbon of the same color.

The ushers led the bridal procession followed by the bride on the arm of her father. The chancel was beautifully decorated.

The "Bridal Chorus" from "Lohengrin" was played by Mr. Gallup while the procession moved up the aisle, and Mendelssohn's wedding march on the return from the altar. During the half-hour previous to the arrival of the bridal party, Mr. Gallup played the following selections: Euryanthe Overture, Von Weber; Cavatina, Raff; Marche Triomphale, Dudley Buck; Hungarian Dances, Brahms; Ballet Music, Gounod.

Following the ceremony came a delightful reception at the family residence on Winthrop street.

The candles which were used in the room in which the bride received were lighted and partially burned at the wedding of her grandmother in 1836. In this connection it is worth noting that the bride is a lineal descendant of Roger Wolcott and Roger Newberry.

The house was handsomely decorated with a wealth of pink, white and yellow chrysanthemums and pink roses. A large number of Hartford people were present.

Mr. Scranton's party comprised his parents, Congressman and Mrs. J. A. Scranton, his maternal grandmother, Mrs. General A. M. Meylert of Staten Island, N. Y.; his aunt, Mrs. F. L. Rodewald and her daughter, Miss Anna; his uncles, Messrs. O. S.

r. Malin of Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Platt of Scranton, Pa., and Miss Meta Skinner of Guilford, Conn.; Miss Mary Eliza Scranton of New Haven; Mr. C. W. Scranton and daughters, the Misses Minnie and Alice Scranton of New Haven; Mrs. C. L. Frey of Scranton, Pa.; Miss Mary H. Lynch of Wilkesbarre, Pa.; Major T. F. Penman of Scranton, Pa.; Mr. Lyman Pratt of Staten Island, N. Y.; Messrs. Samuel Hines of Scranton, Pa., Hon. William Whiting, Mr. Ray Whiting and Mr. E. Lovering of Holyoke.

Other Social Happenings.

To-day's social events include a ladies' tea this afternoon given by Miss May Conklin and the third at home reception of Mrs. George G. Williams, the latter occurring at the residence of her mother, Mrs. E. K. Hunt on Prospect street.

To-morrow afternoon Mrs. Seth Talcott is to give a tea at her residence on Asylum avenue.

331
 SCRANTON-SPERRY-In this city, Nov. 19, by Rev. Dr. W. De L. Love, Mr. Robert Meylert Scranton, of Scranton, Pa., to Miss Helen Louise, daughter of H. T. Sperry Esq., of this city.

A Charming Wedding at the Pearl Street Church Last Evening.

A large and fashionable audience assembled at the Pearl Street Church yesterday evening at 8 p. m. to witness the marriage of Miss Helen Louise Sperry, daughter of Mr. Henry T. Sperry, and Mr. Robert Meylert Scranton, Pa. The bride, who was given away by her father, was dressed in white corded silk and veil and carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley. The bridesmaids were dressed in pink chiffon and carried bouquets of pink roses. They were Miss May Sperry, sister of the bride, Miss Lida Scranton of Scranton, Pa., Miss Alice Skinner of Guilford and Miss Hettie Jarvis of Hartford. The ushers were Messrs. L. Randolph Snowden of Philadelphia, W. A. Simpson, jr., of Lock Haven, Pa., W. F. Whiting of Holyoke, Mass., Louis Seymour of Binghamton, N. Y., F. W. Dalrymple of Bradford, Pa., and Dr. A. H. Ely of New York. Mr. Montrose Barnard of Scranton was best man. Dr. W. De L. Love of Hartford officiated.

After the ceremony at the church there was a pleasant reception at the house. The floral decorations were very fine, consisting of wreaths and masses of pink, white and yellow chrysanthemums and pink Mermet roses. The presents were handsome, numerous and costly.

The floral decorations in the church were a present to the bride from Mrs. Pliny Jewell. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Knous, Miss Knous, Miss Louise Knous, Mrs. Colt, Mrs. Nichols Beach, Miss Beach, Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Coffin of Windsor Locks, Mr. and Mrs. N. D. Sperry of New Haven, Mr. and Mrs. Scranton of Scranton, Penn., Governor and Mrs. Bulkeley, Miss Grace Bulkeley, Colonel W. E. A. Bulkeley, Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Cooley, Miss Virginia Browne, Miss Fannie Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bradley, Judge as RECEPTION AT SCRANTON, PA.

Brilliant Entertainment in Honor of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Scranton.

An elegant reception was given by the Hon. J. A. Scranton and Mrs. Scranton, parents of the groom, at the family residence on Madison avenue, Scranton, Pa., last Friday evening, upon the return from their wedding tour of Mr. R. M. Scranton and Mrs. Scranton nee Sperry. The receiving party included Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Scranton, Miss Scranton; Mrs. H. T. Sperry and Miss Sperry of this city; Miss Skinner of Guilford, and people from Wilkesbarre and Binghamton, Pa., Holyoke, Mass., and Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Sperry wore a white silk gown brocaded with bunches of pink roses and trimmed with point lace, and Mrs. R. M. Scranton an empire dress of brocaded green satin, with trimmings of pink chiffon and slippers to match. The Misses Scranton, Sperry and Skinner (bridesmaids at the wedding) wore gowns of pink crepe chiffon with trimmings of pink feathers and pink fillets in the hair.

The reception rooms, which consisted of the reception room proper, parlor, library, and the dining room, elegant in their finish, appointments and furnishings, were brilliant with floral decorations in great profusion. The parlor is finished in Louis XVI. style in cream and gold, the library in black walnut and red West India wood, the reception room is of light woods, and the dining room is finished in San Domingo mahogany. After refreshments, which were served in the breakfast room, there was a large dancing party in the dining room. The halls and upper rooms were decorated with chrysanthemums. The guests, over one hundred in number, comprised a brilliant company of the young people of Scranton and the event is described as one of the most elaborate ever given in the

The Scranton Republican announces the engagement of Captain Montrose Barnard of that city to Miss Hettie Jarvis of Hartford.

NOVEMBER 25, 1890.

WILD REJOICING AT CAMBRIDGE.

13

Harvard Students Celebrate with Red Lights and a Bon-fire.

The enthusiasm aroused by Harvard's victory over Yale in this city Saturday, and which the former succeeded in keeping under restraint over Sunday, burst its fetters last night and as a result Cambridge was the scene of wild rejoicing and jubilation. The arrangements were under the direction of a committee of 30, representing all classes and departments, and their program was carried out with that spirit and vim for which the Harvard men are noted. The college dormitories were all illuminated, stores and residences in the vicinity of the college were decorated and brilliantly lighted, while the statue of John Harvard, in the college yard, was ornamented this time not with a coat of red paint, but with a fillet and roseate toga. Early in the evening the students gathered in large numbers in front of Beck hall where a procession was formed, the members of the victorious eleven being mounted in state upon a tally-ho coach and followed by a wagon loaded with fireworks and red lights, the line being headed by a band and a fife and drum corps, the latter composed of Harvard students. Through streets lined with crowds of applauding spectators the enthusiastic college men marched, stopping at the residence of President Eliot and Prof. Hart, where short congratulatory speeches were made. After their triumphal march the paraders repaired to Jarvis field, where a mammoth bon-fire was lighted, the faculty having consented to provide the fuel provided it be burned at that place. As the tally-ho containing the players drew up at the entrance to the field the men were vociferously cheered, both collectively and individually, and Cumnock, Trafford, Lee, Dean and others of the team were compelled to say a few words in response to loud calls. Many private parties were given and altogether the celebration reflected great credit upon the participants who, although aroused to the highest pitch of enthusiasm, did not allow themselves to be carried to unlawful limits.

It is reported that A. G. Cumnock of Lowell, Mass., the father of Captain Cumnock of the Harvard foot-ball team, has given his son $5,000 for defeating Yale. This recalls the gift of the father of an old Yale athlete. Mr. Carter, United States minister to the Hawaiian Islands, promised his son, George Carter, a member of Yale's famous record crew of 1888, $100 for every length by which Yale should beat Harvard on the Thames. The crimson was twenty-four lengths behind in that year's procession and Mr. Carter made good his word.

Reception on Prospect Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Sanborn gave a very handsome reception at their residence, corner of Highland and Farmington avenues, yesterday evening. The house was handsomely decorated with flowers, especially the supper-room, which was a mass of scarlet carnations. After 10 o'clock there was dancing. Among those present were: Governor and Mrs. Bulkeley, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dudley Warner, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Skinner, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Russell, William H. Goodrich, Mr. and Mrs. John Holcombe, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Knous, Mrs. George Beach, Dr. and Mrs. Ingals, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cooley, Mrs. A. H. Olmstead, Mr. and Mrs. John Mann, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bradley, Miss Taft, the Misses Knous, the Misses Twichell, Miss Conklin, Miss Cooley, Miss Sisson, Miss Grace Plimpton, the Misses Johnson, Miss Judd, the Misses Freeman, Miss Gallaudet, Miss Gay of Farmington, Mrs. Dustin, Mrs. and Miss Wells, Mr. Lucius Robinson, Mr. Harry Robinson, Mr. C. H. Talcott, Mr. E. B. Fiach, Mr. George Hamlin and Mr. Robert Huntington.

NOVEMBER 26, 1890.

The marriage of David H. Coolidge and Miss Harriet Sears Crowninshield at the home of Gen Casper Crowninshield on Commonwealth avenue at Boston Tuesday was one of the leading social events of the season. The Episcopal service was read by Rev Dr Phillips Brooks and only a few representatives of the families interested were present. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Elsie Crowninshield, and these acted as ushers: F. S. Coolidge, C. A. Coolidge, T. S. Sedgewick, G. E. Adams and C. F. Adams. The bride and groom will return from a trip to the South to a home on Marlboro street.

GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY AT CONCORD

Of Judge and Mrs E. Rockwood Hoar.
Special Dispatch to The Republican.

CONCORD, Wednesday, November 26.

In response to invitations issued by Mr and Mrs Samuel Hoar to a large circle of friends, to unite with them in celebrating the 50th anniversary of the marriage of Mr Hoar's father, Judge Ebenezer Rockwood Hoar and Miss Caroline Downes Brooks, their Main-street residence was this evening crowded with 350 people who had accepted the invitation. The reception, which lasted from 4 to 7 o'clock, was entirely informal and altogether delightful. The receiving party stood in the spacious parlor of the host, which, as well as the other rooms in the house, was tastefully decorated with potted plants and flowers—and there Judge and Mrs Hoar received the congratulations of the distinguished company who had gathered to do them honor. They were aided in receiving by Mr and Mrs Samuel Hoar and Miss Amelia Pritchard of Concord, who was bridesmaid at the ceremony half a century ago. All the children and grandchildren were present, six of the former and five of the latter. Among them were Mr and Mrs Samuel Bowles of Springfield, and their two children, Samuel Bowles and Sherman Hoar Bowles. Of the near relatives there were also present, Senator George F. Hoar, Mrs Hoar, Miss Hoar and Col Rockwood Hoar of Worcester, and Mr and Mrs Edward Hoar of Concord. The guests were presented to Judge and Mrs Hoar by Congressmen-elect Sherman Hoar and Col Rockwood Hoar, respectively son and nephew of the happy couple.

Among those present were Chief Justice Walbridge A. Field and Justice Charles Devens of the supreme court, ex-Gov William Claflin, Gen N. P. Banks, Col Charles R. Codman, George O. Shattuck, George Putnam, Moorfield Storey, William G. Russell and other distinguished members of the Suffolk bar, C. C. Beaman of the New York law firm of Everts, Choate & Beaman, President Eliot of Harvard university and Mrs Eliot, Mrs W. D. Whitney and daughter of New Haven, ex-United States Senator Bainbridge Wadleigh, Edward Atkinson, Judge John Lowell of Boston, Rev Dr A. P. Peabody of Cambridge, and Mr and Mrs Bradford of Providence. Among the Concord people present were Rev Grindall Reynolds, for many years Judge Hoar's pastor, Rev Benjamin Reynolds Bulkley, his present pastor, and Mrs Bulkley, W. W. Wheelton, the veteran journalist, and Miss Carrie Wheelton, Mr and Mrs George M. Brooks, George Heywood, Col Richard F. Barrett and wife, Edwin S. Barrett and wife, Maj James B. Wood and wife, Mrs Ralph Waldo Emerson and Miss Ellen T. Emerson and Edward W. Emerson and wife.

Many beautiful presents were received and were displayed at Judge Hoar's own residence. One of the things which touched the judge and his estimable wife most deeply was an engrossed memorial signed by nearly 100 business men and residents of Concord. Letters and telegrams were received from many distinguished men with whom Judge Hoar had been associated in public life. A special car at-

DEUM.

It is our pleasant privilege, now and then, as occasion is given, to record new works accomplished or new honors received by our distinguished townsman, Mr. Dudley Buck. His great work, "The Light of Asia," is to be performed this season by the Hosmer Hall Chorus, we believe, and would it not be a suitable and graceful thing, to arrange with Mr. Buck to conduct the performance or some portion of it, and so give him personal honor in his native city.

We have just received from Mr. Buck a copy of a new "Festival Te Deum" (No. 8, in C) composed by him, which possesses several distinct features of interest. It is dedicated "To My Wife," and bears the following inscription just above a sprig of blossoms bound with a ring,— "Per conjugium annos XXV feliciter servatum. Deum laudandum."

Mr. Buck has made this magnificent Te Deum a memorial of his twenty-fifth wedding anniversary. And since he has thus himself mentioned and testified of his wife in this most modest way of publicity, his friends in Hartford may be pardoned for somewhat publicly congratulating both him and her, and expressing their most cordial wishes for the long continuance of their united happiness and prosperity.

This Te Deum we have advisedly called magnificent. It is based upon the eighth Gregorian tone, and yet exhibits abundant originality both as respects the organ and vocal score. It requires, in addition to the ordinary church choir, good solo voices for soprano and tenor. Indeed, it needs a chorus with first-class solo voices to each part. We regard it as one of the ablest of Mr. Buck's church compositions. It is proposed to give it in the South Church on the ensuing Christmas eve.

The Hartford Courant.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, NOV. 26, 1890.

The Rev. Dr. C. B. Crane, formerly pastor of the South Baptist Church in this city, celebrated his silver wedding last Saturday at his home in Concord, N. H. The celebration was got up by Dr. Crane's parishioners, who made it a great affair. Guests were present from churches in Hartford and Boston over which Dr. Crane had been settled, and there were many gifts. Mrs. Crane was assisted in receiving by her sister, Miss Day, her two daughters, Miss Grace Barker of Hartford and Miss Hazard of Concord.

Capt Merritt Post and wife of Westbrook celebrated the 60th anniversary of their wedding in a notable manner a few days ago at their home. They had a big dinner at the old homestead, and at the table were seven sons, four sons' wives, a daughter and seven grandchildren.

Last week Mr. and Mrs. Rufes Moses of Cape Elizabeth, Me., celebrated the seventieth anniversary of their wedding. He is 95; she is 88; both are described as " hale and hearty."

The pre-Raphaelite mansion described in the Holiday Harper by Mr. Child, is the home of Mr. Leyland, whose eldest son, Captain Naylord Leyland, married the beautiful Miss Jennie Chamberlain of Cleveland, Ohio. A friend told the Observer the other day that she saw her lately dispensing hospitalities in the peacock room. Mr. Child describes her exquisite beauty sympathetically lending itself to Mr. Whistler's harmonies in color in a peacock and gold tea gown and a turquoise and gold arid.

EASTERN MASSACHUSETTS.

Dea Elijah Ames and wife of Marshfield celebrated their golden wedding last week, and about 200 friends and relatives enjoyed their hospitality. The festivities took place beneath the same roof that sheltered

NOVEMBER 28, 1890.

The golden wedding of Mr and Mrs Nathaniel Hitchcock was the conspicuous event in Deerfield yesterday. Friends were present from Cleveland, O., and several valuable presents graced the tables. The house in which the festivities took place was built by Mr Hitchcock's grandfather 113 years ago, and has been occupied by descendants ever since. In the year 1860 the golden wedding of the father was celebrated in the same room. But the house cannot go down in the family any further, as the only son was one of the victims of Andersonville prison in the war. Mr Hitchcock is a nephew of the late President Hitchcock of Amherst college.

Mr and Mrs L. M. Francis of Hinsdale celebrated their golden wedding Wednesday evening at their home on Maple street. Many invitations were sent out and about 45 people were present. Many gifts and congratulations were left with the aged couple. Mr Francis's father and mother were married over 50 years and he has had two brothers who celebrated their golden weddings.

The golden wedding of Cyrus Jerome Tirrell and wife of Worcester, Wednesday, brought forth a large assemblage of the leading society people of the city. The gifts represented gold coin amounting to several hundred dollars and many articles of value. The reception was given by Rev and Mrs H. A. F. Hoyt of Philadelphia, the latter being a daughter of Mr and Mrs Tirrell.

Miss B. R. Warner of Vernon street is being congratulated on the arrival of a grandchild, the child of her daughter, Mrs Dana Bartholomew of Ansonia, Ct. Mrs Bartholomew won distinction as the bride whose wedding reception the groom did not attend, being snow-bound at New Haven during the blizzard of 1888.

The engagement is announced in the New Haven papers of Alfred Cowles (Yale '86) to Miss Elizabeth H. Cheney, daughter of Knight D. Cheney of South Manchester. Mr. Cowles was a victorious crew captain. He is the son of the late business manager of the Chicago Tribune, who left an immense estate, and the young man is deservedly popular.

Ver COWLES-CHENEY. 28
A Pleasant Wedding in South Manchester.

Miss Elizabeth Cheney, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Knight D. Cheney of South Manchester, was married last night to Alfred Cowles of Chicago. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Parker of this city. The bride was dressed in heavy white satin and carried a bunch of lilies of the valley.

The bridesmaids, who appeared in white chiffon and carried bouquets of chrysanthemums, were: Miss Ellen W. Cheney, Miss Harriet B. Cheney, and Miss Helen Cheney, sisters of the bride; Miss Emily Cheney, a cousin of the bride; Miss Fanny Cowles of Chicago, a sister of the groom, and Miss Elizabeth Dearborn of Boston. Philip B. Stewart of Boston, a classmate of the groom in Yale, '86, was the best man. The ushers were: Knight Dexter Cheney, Jr., a brother of the bride; William H. Cowles of Chicago, a brother of the groom; Arthur L. Shipman of this city, Charles W. Pierson of Florida, N. Y., and W. Percy Knapp of New York, classmates of the groom at Yale; Edson Keith of Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Cowles left at 10 o'clock on their wedding trip. They will live in Chicago.

Among the guests from this city were: Judge and Mrs. Nathaniel Shipman, A. C. Dunham and Mrs. Dunham, Mrs. Samuel Colt, Mrs. C. Nichols Beach, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Bunce, Miss A. K. Bunce, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dudley Warner, Mrs. Ira C. Cabell, Miss Price, Mrs. George C. Perkins, Miss Lucy Perkins, Arthur Perkins, Miss Louise Perkins, the Rev. Joseph H. Tenchall

NOVEMBER 28, 1890.

The Party at the Chapin Homestead. 5

The old Chapin homestead on Chicopee street receives within its walls every Thanksgiving day a bevy of young people who enjoy to the full the feast of the day and the dance of the evening. Such an occasion was enjoyed Thursday, when the green paneled doors were thrown open and many of Springfield's young society people entered to enjoy the festivities. Mr and Mrs Chester W. Chapin were host and hostess and joined with them to receive the guests were Miss Chapin, Miss Pauline Chapin, Mr and Mrs James A. Rumrill, Miss Rumrill and Miss Anna Rumrill and Mr Burns and Mr Hennessy of New York. At 7.30 o'clock there were gathered at the Rumrill house on Chestnut street about 50 young society people who were loaded into barges and driven to the scene of the festivities. They met a cordial welcome at the house which was strikingly decked out. The piazzas were lighted with weird and uncanny rays from jack-o-lanterns and in the house the guests found every old-fashioned room was decorated with evergreens and huge fires were blazing and snapping in every big broad fire-place. All flocked to the ball-room in the upper story—a characteristic feature of old mansions—and there the dancing began, all joining in the whirl. The music was furnished by the Philharmonic orchestra. In the German led by Miss Chapin and F. H. Gillett the favors were especially pretty, the young women receiving Dresden china plates and little pitchers and creamers, silk scarfs embroidered in gold and silver, Japanese parasols covered with smilax and roses, and fans. For the men there were silver pin-cushions, heavy walking-sticks, on which hung ribbons and other handsome tokens. After the dancing the party enjoyed a supper, served on long tables in the dining-rooms and the hallways. They left for home soon afterward and arrived at 3 o'clock. The guests included Mr and Mrs Chester W. Bliss, Miss Ames, Miss Harris, Miss Brewer, Miss Thompson, Miss Leech, Miss Marsh, Miss Bryant, Miss Pratt, Miss Wardner, Miss Louise Morgau, Miss Holbrook, the Misses Crocker, Miss Flagler of New York and Miss Chapin of Chicopee. The young men present were George D. Pratt, W. C. Marsh, Paul R. Hawkins, Roger Morgan, Henry D. Marsh, Philip C. Powers, Oliver A. Marsh, Harry C. Haile, Homer Foot, 3d, Russell S. Foot, Joseph Pynchon, George E. Holbrook, Jr., William Bryant, Frank and Clarence Coe-

Castle Ronalds Rebuilt. 91 "BURNED."

Speaking of the rebuilding of Castle Ronalds the Newtown Bee says: "He (Mr. Ronalds) has arranged his ancient armor and implements of war about the room, which also answers as a reception and drawing room, with an elegant Chickering piano, recently arrived from New York. The walls are to be hung with paintings, though many of the more valuable pictures in Mr. Ronalds's collection were destroyed in the fire. Besides the masons and carpenters, eight or ten laborers and three or four plasterers are still at work on the castle, the plasterers finishing the rooms in the upper story of the east wing. The wooden building used as living rooms by Mr. Ronalds during the summer, on the west of the court, where will stand the swimming bath, is to be moved soon to rear of barns, and a fence will be built to protect the court from wintry blasts. Eventually, this court is to be one of the beautiful things about the castle, protected on the north by an ornamental wall of stone or one story high. The stone buildings, overlooked by both open conservatory and closed balconies on the main building and the wings. Though somewhat disheartened by the fire, which robbed the castle of treasures not to be replaced, Mr. Ronalds views with pleasure the approaching completion of his plans for a breezy summer resort, where he may enjoy nature in all its glories."

"Newtown Par-oyed."

Fire this morning at the Ronalds, situated in the village center. The castle was well known and well built by P. Ronalds, a by and eccentric, shed and contained a-a-brac, oil painttly after 8 o'clock der company were they could with, y procured pails, ug vigorously the premises, while lled with water to the building who the lower portion. and the flames d to that quarter hich was blowing Mr. is the whole build- the loss sustained in the proinstructor. Besides a number of people

Cyrus W. Field's Princess. —
NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus W. Field celebrated to day the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage, which took place at Guilford, Conn., December 2, 1840. The well-known house on Gramercy Park was thronged.

The golden wedding of Mr and Mrs Cyrus W. Field at their home on Lexington avenue, New York, Monday evening, was, as all such rare events are, very interesting. The three other celebrated Fields, Justice Stephen of the United States supreme court, David Dudley, the jurist, and Rev Henry M. of the Evangelist, were present, and among other guests of note were Hamilton Fish (Grant's secretary of state), Gen Sickles, Rev Dr Thomas Gallaudet, Abram S. Hewitt, Edward Cooper, Dr Fordyce Barker, R. B. Roosevelt, Gen Sherman, Bishop Potter, Murat Halstead, Rev Arthur Brooks and William Allen Butler. Among the gifts was a solid gold punch-bowl, and the most interesting congratulation was a letter dated at London and signed by Mr and Mrs Gladstone, the duke of Argyll, Archdeacon Farrar, Lord Monck, Douglass Galton, Jane Cobden, Baron Reuter, George W. Smalley, Mr Shaw-Lefevre, W. Leatham Bright and others numbering 63 in all. Mr Field was 71 years old on Sunday. Fifty years ago he and Mary Bryan Stone of Guilford, Ct., were married by Rev Dr David Dudley Field, his father, and excepting his father all the other persons present at the ceremony helped celebrate the golden wedding—a party which can seldom be paralleled.

The Hartford Courant.

THURSDAY MORNING, DEC. 4, 1890.
Blake-Hart.

The marriage of Miss Edith Woodruff Hart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Hart, to Mr. Charles R. Blake of Taunton, Mass., took place at Christ Church yesterday afternoon at 1 o'clock. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Floyd W. Tomkins, jr. The ushers were F. W. Sudgen, Gershum B. Hubbell, John A. Clark, W. H. Bruce, E. Hart Pember and Richard Bourn. There were no bridesmaids. After the ceremony there was a pleasant reception at the home of the bride's parents on Ann street. Mr. and Mrs. Blake left on an afternoon train for a brief wedding trip, after which they will reside in this city.

Again another of America's fair daughters has chosen a husband from across the waters, and Miss Helene Forbes Beckwith has become the wife of Hon. Francis Dudley Leigh, eldest surviving son of Lord and Lady Leigh. The loss is a real one to the social world in this country, where Miss Beckwith was known. Since the time of her debut in society, Miss Beckwith has been unquestionably a reigning belle and beauty in America and also abroad. In London on the 29th of November, the marriage ceremony was performed at St. George's church, Hanover square. Mr. Leonard Beckwith gave his sister away; the Viscount Dungarvan was the best man, and the bridesmaids were the Hon. Agnes and Hon. Cordelia Leigh, sisters of the bridegroom; Hon. Violet and Alice Leigh, Miss Margaret Leveson-Gower, Miss Beckwith, Miss Rose Cholmondeley and Miss Martin. The bride's dress, which was made by Worth, consisted of white satin trimmed with lace and orange blossoms, and the bridesmaids wore embroidered white Sicilienne, and large white felt hats with long ostrich plumes. Mr. Leonard Beckwith entertained the guests at breakfast after the ceremony was performed, and the bride and groom left shortly afterwards for Font Hill Abbey,

The Hartford Post.

HARTFORD, SATURDAY, DEC. 6, 1890.

The engagement of Miss Isabel Church, the daughter of Alfred Church, the artist, is announced, to J. D. S. Black, Princeton's foot-ball player. Miss Church has many friends in this city.

At noon to-day Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dudley Warner and Mrs. I. C. Cabell sail for Havre on the steamer La Champagne. While they are abroad THE COURANT will have letters from Mr. Warner and also from Mrs. Cabell, whose regular contributions to the paper have for some years been one of its especially entertaining features.

OUR SOCIETY COLUMN.

Wednesday morning the sky was overcast and the air began to fill with light feathery flakes of snow, which increased in density as the day advanced. Gradually a soft, white covering was laid over the hard frozen ground, and the first real snow storm of the season reigned with undisputed sway. As the shades of night began to fall—which happens early on a stormy afternoon of a New England winter day—the residence of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Cutler on Washington street was aglow with lights. The delicate scent of flowers pervaded the atmosphere of the rooms, and large bunches of pink roses adorned the drawing rooms and the tea table. Though the snow still continued falling fast and thick, guests soon began to arrive, and the murmur of voices mingled with low, merry peals of laughter, was heard. In the drawing room at the right of the entrance, Mrs. Cutler, assisted by her sister, Miss Dennis, and Miss Matthewson, received her guests, with a word of welcome to all. Standing conversing in different groups and around the teatable, were Mrs. Samuel Colt, Mrs. Frederick Fitzgerald, Mrs. Lucius Barbour, Mrs. John Russell, Miss Webster, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Chamberlin, Mrs. C. Nichols Beach, Miss Shipman, the Messrs. Shipman, Miss Fannie Brown, Mrs. Valentine, Miss Porter, Mrs. E. M. Bunce, Dr. St. John, Mr. and Mrs. Keller, the Misses Lincoln, Mrs. Charles Jewell, Miss Emily Barnard, Miss Robinson, Mr. Rodney Dennis and others. Miss Virginia Brown, in a gray dress with white chiffon in soft gathers about her neck, presided at one end of the tea table, which was adorned with pink roses and candelabra with pink shades on the candles.

—Addison L. Green and Miss Maud Bennett were married by Rev J. C. Wellwood at St Paul's Episcopal church soon after noon. Among the invited guests were Prof F. S. Woods of the Boston institute of technology, Mrs M. H. Holcomb of Southington, Ct., Mrs George B. Congdon of Providence, R. I., and the Misses Fenn, Denning and Barbour of Hartford. The party entered the church to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march and marched down the main aisle. The bride, attired in a simple traveling dress made of light gray princess and trimmed with passementerie and beniolene lace, leaned on the arm of her brother, Frank F. Bennett of Hartford. They were followed by Miss Lena Green, the maid of honor and sister of the groom, dressed similarly to the bride, and the best man, Charles H. Beach of Westfield. The church was tastefully decorated with potted plants and tapestry, the seats of the boy's choir being literally covered with them. After the impressive service, the party filed out to the march from "Lohengrin" and the couple were driven to the Windsor hotel, where an informal reception was held and a wedding breakfast served. Mr and Mrs Green then left on their wedding trip and on their return will have rooms at the "Maplewood."

Dec 10, 1890

DALE-ARNOLD-In this city, Dec. 10, by Rev. Nelson L. Porter, brother of the bride, assisted by Rev. Allan MacRossie, William Hudson Dale, formerly of Collinsville, and Mrs. Jennie Porter Arnold, of Hartford.

Mrs. Jennie Porter Arnold to William H. Dale-Barber-Schlesinger.

Jennie Porter Arnold, the well-known story writer, was married at her home, 47 Russ street, last evening, to William Hudson Dale, formerly of Collinsville. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Nelson L. Porter, brother of the bride, assisted by Rev. Allan MacRossie. Only the intimate friends and relatives of the bride and groom were present.

Mr. Dale is at present employed by the Pratt & Whitney company. He came to Hartford only a short time ago from Collinsville. During the twenty years he resided in that place he occupied several important town and district offices. Mrs. Dale has given up the business she has conducted on Trumbull street and will hereafter devote more time to her literary work. For the past few months she has been writing stories almost exclusively for the Chicago News. In the future, however, she hopes to be able to supply in better measure the demand for her work.

She is at present engaged on a novel which is nearing completion.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale will reside at 47 Russ street.

BOSTON, Dec. 11.—John Pierpont Morgan, jr., of New York City, a son of the well-known banker, was married to-day in the Arlington Street Church to Miss Jane Norton Grew, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sturgis Grew of this city. The bride wore a rich gown of heavy white gros grain silk, with court train, edged with white ostrich tips, her bridal veil being fastened with a coronet of orange blossoms. She wore head ornaments and carried in her hand a large bouquet of brides' roses and maiden-hair ferns. The bridesmaids wore each a gown of white silk mull and carried a bouquet of pink roses. Mr. and Mrs. J. Pierpont Morgan, jr., left town this afternoon for a bridal trip, and will afterward take up their residence in New York. Among the large party who came from New York to attend the wedding was the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. J. Pierpont Morgan, superb in gray and silver brocade and wearing a magnificent necklace of pearls; Miss Anna Morgan, in white silk; Miss Rhett, in red velvet and diamonds; Mrs. George Morgan and Miss Morgan, who are in mourning, in black gowns. The bride's mother, Mrs. Henry S. Grew, wore a gown of olive satin, and diamond ornaments.

DECEMBER 13, 1890.

Capt Augustus P. Cooke of the United States navy, a brother of Mrs James M. Thompson of this city, was married in New York on Thursday, to Miss Maria Jeannette Kemp. The wedding took place at the home of the bride's mother on Fifty-second street, and was attended by Secretary Tracy, Admiral Gherardi and many naval officers and society people. Mrs Thompson and her son were among the guests. Capt Cooke is now stationed in New York as president of the board of inspection of merchant vessels, and is considered one of the most efficient officers in the navy.

The marriage of Henry Raynor of this city to Miss Ella Walkley of Higganum is announced to take place in the Methodist church, Higganum, Christmas day.

The marriage of James A. Smith, son of the late Rev. J. Morgan Smith of Grand Rapids, Michigan, to Marguerite Adelaide, daughter of Major and Mrs. W. C. Ransom of Lansing took place in that city on Thursday

A Brilliant Church Wedding at Warehouse Point, Ct.

Special Dispatch to The Republican.
WAREHOUSE POINT, Ct., Wednesday Eve, Dec. 9.

The marriage of Frank Schlesinger, a wealthy New York business man, and Miss Margaret Louise, the youngest daughter of William T. Barber, in St Paul's Episcopal church this evening was one of the most brilliant social events this quiet village has ever seen. The church doors were not opened until the time for the invited guests to arrive, and no others were allowed to enter until they had all been given seats. The ample interior was completely filled to the very doors. The church was beautifully trimmed with flowers and potted palms. The super altar was made of one huge bank of laurel, with an artistic design in white calla lilies, while the chancel rail was wound with ground pine. From the apex of the chancel roof diverged four large ropes of flowers and roses to support the huge marriage bell, nearly six feet in diameter at the rim. The bell was composed of rare flowers, calla lilies and roses, while the tongue was of white carnations. At the chancel steps was ground pine tied with white satin ribbon. The floral decorations at the church were designed and made at New York city at a cost of over $1000.

At precisely 7.30 o'clock the wedding party walked up the south side of the church while Prof Ira P. Allen of Enfield played a wedding march. The bride and groom and best man were escorted by five ushers, there being no bridesmaids. The ushers were J. Warren Lawton, Isaac F. Roe, Frank B. Hubert, Robert L. Reade and Charles Schlesinger, brother of groom, all of New York. The best man was Alfred Schlesinger of New York, also a brother of the groom. The bride and groom stood beneath the wedding bell. The bride's dress was of white brocade silk trimmed with iridescent drops and round-point lace and lilies of the valley. The bridal veil was held in position by a diamond star. The ornaments were a diamond necklace and bracelet, the latter a gift from the groom. The ceremony was performed by Rev Arthur Wright, the rector, with a ring, in the full Episcopal service. The bishops' chairs in the chancel were occupied by Bishop Williams of the state diocese, Bishop Jagger of southern Ohio, a former rector, Bishop Cox of western New York and Bishop Niles of New Hampshire. The bishops took no part in the ceremony. After the wedding a reception was held at the residence of the bride's father on Bridge street, from 8 to 12 o'clock. On every hand throughout the spacious rooms were placed beautiful flowers and potted plants, and on the chandeliers were hung globes of roses, while the mantles were banked with pillows of flowers. An annex had been built on the east side of the house where the wedding supper was served by Habenstein of Hartford. Emmon's orchestra of Hartford was stationed there. Prominent among the guests were these:—

William Post, Mrs J. J. Post, Mr and Mrs E. J. Herrick, Mr and Mrs Joseph Walker, Mr and Mrs Kearney, Mr Schlesinger, father of the groom, Mr and Mrs J. Hude Beekman, Mr and Mrs E. H. Schell, Mrs William B. Kip, Mr and Mrs George Schlesinger, Mrs Henry Cesar, Mr Balthazar, the eminent banker, all of New York city; Mr and Mrs E. Drowbridge Hayes, Mr and Mrs Willis B. Tilton, Mrs J. J. Flannigan, Mr and Mrs Charles Phelps and Mr and Mrs Stanhope Phillips of New Haven; Mrs Watson Beach, Mr and Mrs George Day, Mr and Mrs Charles E. Gross, Mr and Miss Steadman and Mr and Mrs William H. Bulkeley of Hartford; Mr and Mrs Thompson Grant of Enfield; Mr and Mrs Allen Grant of Torrington, N. Y.; Mr and Mrs C. P. Burdette and George S. Sanford of Stamford.

At the close of the reception a special train

LAC QUI PARLE, Minn., Dec. 14.—Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Salisbury, probably the oldest married couple in the United States, to-day celebrated the one hundred and third birthday of Mr. Salisbury. His wife will be one hundred and one years old on Christmas Day. On January 12 they will have been married eighty years. Until quite recently they lived alone in a comfortable log house on the Yellow Bank River, Mrs. Salisbury doing the cooking and general housework, while Mr. Salisbury chopped the wood and attended to the chores about the home. On his last birthday Father Salisbury saw a hawk attack a hen, and, grasping his old flintlock musket, shot the bird of prey dead and saved the hen. On his one hundredth birthday he walked seven miles, to Billingham and back home again, the same day.

Griggs-Cooke.

Miss Annie S. Cooke and Mr. John C. Griggs, Yale '90, were married yesterday afternoon at 1:30 at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. C. W. Cooke of Yalesville. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Griggs of Ivoryton, the groom's father, in the presence of relatives and a few near friends. Mr. and Mrs. Griggs will live at Norwich.

Mr. Griggs graduated from the Hartford High School in '85, and was the orator of his class. He has been the assistant principal of the Norwich Academy since his graduation from Yale. He was a very popular man in college, and he was one of the leading bass singers in the glee club for three years. He was a member the Lit. board, a junior exhibition speaker, and took various class honors.

Admiral Porter's Daughter's Wedding.

(New York Tribune.)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15 (Special).—Miss Eleanor Porter, daughter of Admiral Porter, and Charles H. Campbell were married in the Church of the Assumption at 8 o'clock this evening. The week was marked by two weddings of marriage service more than ordinary interest to official circles. So much was said about the wedding of Admiral Porter's daughter that now it is over there is little left to write about. Eight well-known bridesmaids, 12 ushers, a brilliantly lighted family, added church filled with guests in full dress could not fail to make a beautiful wedding. And off of university her more youthful days, than when she wore there were two her wedding gown. Elena Porter was one and hosts of port of Nellie Grant's eight bridesmaids in the Major Turnbull East room of the White House. She has been bridesmaid often since that time, and has been one of the favorite young women in official society. Naturally during her 10 years' engagement to Mr Campbell her constancy to him and patient waiting for her father's consent to her marriage, there has been a general feeling of sympathy for her as well as approval of her course. There is no doubt whatever that her father would have given his consent long ago, had he not been influenced by his sons, who bitterly opposed their sister's choice of a husband. It is quite true that Capt Campbell had the misfortune to leave the army under a cloud, but it is just as true that through malice and jealousy, the circumstances were greatly exaggerated, and these really pursued him to the extent of injustice. If every young officer were to fare likewise for a similar fault, I fear there would not be a surplus of handsome uniforms, as there are now, in the service. However, be that as it may, Mr Campbell has redeemed himself in civil life, and all through his engagement to Admiral Porter's daughter, he has been above reproach and criticism. But at the last the admiral gave his consent, and also gave his daughter her wedding "outfit." The wedding went off in the presence of many friends, but not a relative of the bride entered the church.

Which Transformed a New York Girl Into Lady Frankland.

(New York Sun, Thursday.)

The wedding of Miss Charlotte di Zerega, only daughter of John di Zerega, and Sir Frederick William Francis George Frankland, baronet, of Thirkleby, took place yesterday afternoon in the Episcopal Church of the Incarnation, at Madison avenue and Thirty-fifth street. Mistletoe and holly, brought across the ocean from the Earl of Warwick's estate in England, and other Christmas greens were unsparingly used in the decoration of the chancel. The ceremony, which was fully choral, was conducted by Bishop Henry C. Potter, assisted by the rector of the church, the Rev. Arthur Brooks. Programmes on which were printed the hymn and the anthem were handed to the guests as they entered.

The bride's father gave her away. Her wedding gown, a creation of Wallis of Paris, was copied from an old Venetian portrait. The skirt and demi-train of white satin were trimmed with flounces of old point lace, alternated with panels embroidered in an emblematic design of orange blossoms and lilies of the valley. The high bodice was made with a rolling Venetian collar of silver, enriched with gems and elaborately trimmed with slashes of crêpe de Chine and point d'aiguille. The long sleeves were slashed at the shoulder and elbow with crêpe de Chine, embroidered with brilliants, pearls and silver. The full court train fell from the shoulders. It was of white velvet, on which was an embroidered vine of brilliants, pearls, silver and lilies of the valley, caught up by Renaissance bows and bordered with white fox fur. Two pages, Masters Richard Berry and Victor di Zerega, cousins of the bride, in Venetian costumes of white satin, tunics, jewelled girdles and white silk hose, carried the train. Miss di Zerega's veil was of point lace, and was caught up with several ornaments, including a diamond crescent, a gift from the bridegroom; a diamond tiara, a present from Mrs. Augustus di Zerega, the bride's grandmother, and a diamond ornament, a gift from Mrs. del Monte.

Instead of a bouquet the bride carried a silver-bound prayer book. The bridesmaids were Miss Grace Snelling, Miss May Furman, Miss Madge Clarkson, and the bride's cousin, Miss May Barron. They wore gowns of the Venetian style, of turquoise blue and crêpe de Chine, the corsage being trimmed with pale pink coral chiffon and Venetian point lace. They wore sashes of chiffon of the same color and broad-brimmed hats of blue velvet dressed with pink ostrich plumes. Each carried a silver-bound prayer book presented by the bride, and each displayed her gift from the bridegroom, a pink coral and diamond scarfpin.

The bridegroom was attended by Mr. E. T. Swann of England as best man. The ushers were: Messrs. Edward De Peyster Livingston, Harry LeGrand Cannon, Richard di Zerega, brother of the bride; John C. Furman, Augustus Clarkson, and Lloyd Warren. They received jewelled scarfpins from the bridegroom. After the ceremony there was a reception at the home of the bride's parents, 38 West Forty-eighth street. Although the invitations for the church numbered over 2,000, only the relatives of the bride and a few intimate friends were invited to the house. Among the presents, which were shown in one of the drawing rooms, were several tea and dinner sets of silver, a silver traveling dressing-case and a pink and pearl diamond pin from the bridegroom; a pair of moonstones, diamonds and pearls, with a coronet in brilliants, from Mrs. Duncan Pell; a gold inlaid sugar set from Miss Barron, silver bonbon dishes from John C. Furman, silver game dishes from Mrs. Theodore di Zerega, and a silver tea service from Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Berry, which formerly belonged to the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Berry. The honeymoon will be passed in Canada, where the bridegroom has a number of relatives. The young couple will sail for England next month.

Mr. Charles E. Pearl and Miss Lizzie M. Hoxie were married at the Asylum Street Methodist Church at half-past five o'clock yesterday afternoon, the Rev. C. B. Pitblado performing the ceremony. Miss Grace Hoxie, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. The ushers were: Messrs. George B. Dix, P. H. Carroll and A. E. Sisson of Hartford, and W. L. Barnard of New Britain. The bride wore white satin, with train, and a bridal veil. R. O. Phelps was organist, and gave selections from Beethoven, Auber and other composers. The wedding march from "Lohengrin" was played as the bridal party approached the altar.

Mr. William A. Ayres, managing editor of THE COURANT, and Miss Elizabeth Lee Sluyter were married at half-past four o'clock yesterday afternoon, at the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth L. Sluyter. The Rev. Thomas K. Beecher of Elmira, N. Y., performed the ceremony. Besides the two families there were present only a few intimate friends.

AYRES-SLUYTER—In this city, Dec. 16, by the Rev. Thomas K. Beecher, Elizabeth Lee, daughter of the late Stephen G. Sluyter, and William Augustus Ayres.

CONGER-ROOD—In St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 27, Stephen B. Conger and Alice C. Rood, formerly of Hartford, Conn.

GAINES-MYERS—In Springfield, Mass., December 18, by Rev. William Rice, Charles E. Gaines and Miss Lulu Myers, both of Hartford.

The marriage notice of Charles E. Gaines and Miss Lulu Meyers was published in the papers yesterday afternoon. The marriage occurred in Springfield the day before. An out-of-town minister was selected to tie the knot, because the young people feared interference from the lady's parents, who did not sanction the match. Mr. Gaines is 22 years old and his wife is 18. They are cousins. The father of the bride is the sexton of Warburton Chapel and lives at No. 9 Kinsley street. The happy couple returned to this city Thursday afternoon and are now living at the home of Mr. Gaines's mother.

Mr. John H. Hall, vice-president and general manager of the Colt's Patent Firearms Manufacturing Company, has bought the house of the late Franklin Glazier, No. 41 Wethersfield avenue, upon private terms, and will occupy it about April 1.

Governor Bulkeley in Brooklyn.

The Brooklyn (N. Y.) Standard-Union of Thursday says:—

The rain that fell in torrents through the day and late into the evening yesterday had no effect upon the large crowd that gathered in the Twenty-third Regiment Armory last night to witness the review of the regiment by Governor Morgan G. Bulkeley of Connecticut. The galleries were bright with pretty dresses and prettier faces. Governor Bulkeley and his staff were brought from the Murray Hill Hotel, in New York, yesterday afternoon and taken to the Brooklyn Club, where they dined. Immediately upon the arrival of the party at the armory the regiment formed for dress parade under the command of Lieutenant-Colonel Smith. The governor sat in the western gallery, surrounded by his staff, and was an interested spectator of the drill. When the review was announced he was escorted to the drill floor. Colonel Partridge commanded the review, which was of an exceptionally fine character. After the review Governor Bulkeley held a short informal reception in the council of officers' room, and then he was taken to Company G's room, where another informal reception was given to him. The room was prettily decorated with laurel and evergreens, and a number of old veterans of the company were there to receive their former comrade in arms. Governor Bulkeley was a member of the Brooklyn City Guard, which is now Company G, of the Twenty-third Regiment. He served through the war as first sergeant, and went to Hartford at the close of the conflict. The Brooklyn City Guard was formerly in the Thirtieth Regiment, but was transferred to the Twenty-third in 1874. Governor Bulkeley's whole staff accompanied him, with the exception of Colonel Henry C. Morgan.

The Republican.

59

SPRINGFIELD, FRIDAY, DEC. 19.
CHURCH WEDDING IN BOSTON.

Lawrence Barrett's Youngest Daughter is Now Mrs. Marshall Williams.

The wedding of Miss Edith Barrett, youngest daughter of Lawrence Barrett, and Marshall Williams of Roxbury at Emanuel church, Boston, yesterday morning was one of the prettiest of the season, and the presence of so many leading society people, with whom the lovely bride has been so great a favorite, lent much brilliancy to the occasion. The floral decorations of the church were on an elaborate scale. Up and down the pews of the center aisle were bushes of holly, the red berries shining amidst the dark, glossy leaves. There were great festoons of evergreen above the altar and suspended from them was a star of mingled leaves and red flowers. The platform was handsomely set with palms and hot-house plants, and about the altar were snowy calla lilies. The ushers at the wedding were George L. Clark, William A. Gaston, John T. Burnett, B. E. Brewster, A. R. Tisdale, C. L. Crehore, Edwin Bartlett and George Hopkins. The bridesmaids were Misses Williams, Fairchild, Henshaw and Dresser. The maid of honor was Miss Wrisley, and the best man was James Otis. At 11.30 the officiating clergyman, Rev. Leighton Parks, entered the chancel, followed by the bridegroom and his best man. The eight ushers at the same time passed down the side aisles and met the bridesmaids, who entered the church from the side door. The latter came up the center aisle, while the ushers advanced through the side aisles as before and received the bride, who was accompanied by her father, Lawrence Barrett, and her maid of honor, Miss Wrisley. As the bridal procession advanced to the altar the entire congregation rose. The ceremony was impressively performed according to the marriage service of the Episcopal church, and at its close the happy pair came down the aisle to the strains of the priest march from Mendelssohn's "Athalie."

The bride wore a superb gown of white brocade, with garniture of rare lace. The gown was made en train, with high puffed sleeves and high corsage, clasped at the throat with a diamond star. Her tulle veil was fastened with large diamond stars, and she carried in her hand a prayer-book bound in pearl. The maid of honor, Miss Wrisley, wore a beautiful gown of white-dotted muslin with a tiny jacket of white and silver brocade, made over white silk, with garniture of Venetian lace. Her flowers were the pink Catherine Mermet roses. The four bridesmaids wore dainty gowns of lemon-colored tulle over lemon-colored silk, with garniture of Venetian lace and lemon-colored ribbon. Their flowers were Cornelia Cook roses knotted with ribbon. Mrs. Lawrence Barrett, the bride's mother, wore an elegant costume of heliotrope silk and velvet, with tiny bonnet to match. Following the ceremony in church, a reception was held at Hotel Vendome, where the Barretts are residing this winter. The state apartments, which were used for the reception, were made into a perfect bower of roses, orchids, laurel, holly and tropical plants. The bride and groom stood to receive their friends in the large bay window, which was filled with palms and festooned and draped with garlands of Mme. de Water.

ERS. DRESS SHIRTS

Y PRESENTS,

BEAN-CHAPMAN-In this city, Dec. 23, at Christ Church chapel, by the Rev. Floyd W. Tomkins, Jr., Howard D. Bean, of New York city, to Louisa B., daughter of Charles R. Chapman of this city.

The Bean-Chapman wedding which took place last Tuesday afternoon, at 3:30 o'clock at the Christ church chapel, was an unusually pretty one. Ropes of evergreen were festooned from the ceiling of the chapel, and masses of green and drooping vines decorated the altar and chancel railing. Two large bunches of white roses were tied at the chancel gate where the bride knelt on a white satin cushion embroidered with gold colored silk, and calla lilies bedecked the altar. Two choristers in their white robes guarded the part of the chapel which was assigned to the relatives of the bride and groom. Owing to the recent death of Mrs. Thomas Holland, an aunt of the bride, the number of invited guests was limited, though the chapel was nearly filled with many of the prominent people of Hartford and others from elsewhere. Promptly at 3:30 o'clock, the organ pealed forth the wedding march, and the bride, leaning on the arm of her father, Charles R. Chapman, and preceded by a single maid of honor, the young daughter of Mrs. Leavitt of Stamford, moved up the aisle. At the chancel the bride was met by the groom, who was attended by his brother as best man. After the ceremony an informal reception was held at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Chapman on Laurel street. The bride and groom received the guests under a canopy of green foliage in which bunches of pink roses were placed. The bride's dress was of white satin brocade, the front covered with a deep lace flounce. Mrs. Charles Chapman, the bride's mother, wore a heavy corded black silk, and Mrs. Cornwallis, the sister of the bride, was dressed in a black and white brocaded silk. Among the guests were Mrs. Leavitt of Stamford, Mr. Brownell Burnham of New York, Mr. Holland of Montreal, Mr. Dinsmore of New York, Mrs. Samuel Colt, Mrs. William Collins, Mrs. Andrew Clark, Miss Clark, Mrs. Frederick Fitzgerald, the Misses Fitzgerald, Mrs. Watson Beach, Mr. and Mrs. George Day, Dr. and Mrs. Ingalls, Mrs. C. M. Beach, Miss Beach, Miss Taft, Mrs. Beckwith, Mr. and Miss Stedman, Mrs. Charles Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. T. Chapman, Mrs. and Mrs. William Post, Mrs. John Jarvis, Miss Jarvis, Mrs. Frederick Russell, Miss May Russell, Mrs. Frederick Haight, Mr. Sanford, Mr. and Miss Terry of Brooklyn, F. Grenville Russell and George Beach. A very handsome supper was served, and in the dining room a rosy light was shed from candles with pink shades which adorned the table. At the four corners were large bunches of pink roses tied with ribbon of the same shade and the low, oblong center piece consisted of similar roses and maiden hair ferns. The bride and groom left about 5 o'clock, in the midst of a shower of rice and the good wishes of their friends.

FOWLER-BELL.

A Wedding at Exeter, N. H., of Interest Locally.

Special Dispatch to The Republican.

EXETER, N. H., Tuesday, December 23.

The residence of ex-Gov Charles H. Bell was the scene of a brilliant wedding at 4 o'clock this afternoon, the contracting parties being the governor's daughter Helen and Prof Harold North Fowler of the faculty of Phillips Exeter academy. The ushers were Prof Stone and William P. Chadwick. Prof Fowler is the youngest son of the late Samuel Fowler of Westfield, Mass., and brother of Samuel J. Fowler, superintendent of the Springfield gas-light company. He graduated at Harvard college in 1880 at the head of his class and was appointed instructor in Latin at Phillips Exeter academy in 1888. In June, 1890, he was promoted to full professorship in his depart-

ONE HUNDRED YEARS OLD.

Mrs. Emily Talcott Will Reach That Age Christ.

A CHIPPER CENTENARIAN.

Mrs. Emily Talcott of She Rides from West Hartford be 100 years old on Christmas. This City and Back Again.
very amiable old lady Mrs. Emily R. Talcott of West Hartford esteem by her neighbors who reached her one hundredth birthday was born on Wolcott last Christmas, took a carriage ride Her maiden name was Saturday last to this city.
bers distinctly the even her daughter, Mrs. C. C. Strong, she ago and many people turned home. She had not been away from talk over old times. At home before for more than five years. She fell and broke her hip, enjoyed the ride so much that she intended in her chair and be what to go out soon again. Her general health Her mind is clear and he is good and she retains her faculties to a eyesight is somewhat impaired degree.

She has lived alone with her husband, who has been in recent return of her son, who has been in Colorado and elsewhere. There are four of Mrs. Talcott's children living. One of them being

WEST HARTFORD.

Mrs. Ansel Talcott of West Hartford since the death of Miss Mehitable Dayton in Glastonbury is doubtless the oldest person in this part of the state. She was born December 25, 1790 and will therefore be 102 next Christmas. Mrs.
Talcott distinctly remembers hearing the church bell toll upon the death of George Washington; she also remembers when she was a girl in Wethersfield the draping of the church in black and the services incident to the occasion. She has lived in West Hartford over twenty-five years and has now living four children, three grandchildren, and nine great grand children. She seems very well and comfortable although since a fall she had a year or two since she has little use of her limbs and has been nearly blind for some years. She hears well and is pleased to talk with her friends who call and whom it is hoped she will be able to receive for years yet.

SMITH-NICHOLS-
Harry A. Smith of Christine Nichols, d of this city.

Dec 30. GARFIELD

James R. Garfield late President Garnison, night to Helen Newman, daughter of John Newell of the Southern railroad. The wedding was strictly private and took place at 5 o'clock in President's room on Ontario street at the Episcopal church. The wedding supper ception, for which were issued.

BUDGE-

YOUNG AT 102.

The Marriage of Mrs. Emily Talcott, the West Hartford Centenarian.

The marriage of M The women's prayer meeting was held the assistant secret Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Emily Tal-Young Men's Christia cott, who is 102 years old. She came to
A. B. Hopkins, took West Hartford in 1877, being then an old Wednesday at the lady of 76. To-day she looks no older. Her Oakville, Conn. fair skin is not much wrinkled, and though formed in the presen her sight is gone, her eyes retain their exa few intimate friend pression. Her mind is still clear and it is a Stoddard of New Brit pleasure to talk with her. She received her guests cordially.

The sister of the bride When the familiar hymn, "Blest be the and Mr. Albert H. Cr Tie," was given out, she repeated the re-best man. The weddi mainder of the stanza. After the Lord's numerous and very prayer in closing, she said: "It seems as if is an accomplished the rest ought to be repeated that I used known in the musical always to say at my mother's knee before Mr. and Mrs. Budge saying 'Good-night, mother,' and she re-street in this city and peated the child's prayer: "Now I lay their friends Wednesd me." She said that her mother used to repeat whole chapters of the Bible; not only the familiar ones, but long ones from Kings. That was before the days when the authenticity of the books of the Old Testament was questioned, she remarked brightly. On leaving she wished all her visitors joy and peace, which seemed a fitting benediction from one who had so much experience of life.

The engagement of repeat whole chapters of the Bible; not only bun, daughter of Ma the familiar ones, but long ones from Mr. Charles G. Stone Kings. That was before the days when the authenticity of the books of the Old Testament was questioned, she remarked brightly. On leaving she wished all her visitors
joy and peace, which seemed a fitting benediction from one who had so much experience of life.

The engagement is announced of Miss Lucy
Lucy H. Karriek, a niece daughter of Mrs. J. Walter Karriek of South Clarke of Beacon street Lee, Mass.
joy and peace, which seemed a fitting benediction from one who had so much experience of life.

The engagement is announced of Miss Lucy
Hurlbut Karriek of South Lee, Mass., daughter of Mrs. James Walter Karriek, and Mr. Henry Lincoln Morris of this city.

The engagement is announced of Miss Ada
J. Sprague, youngest daughter of the Hon.
Joseph H. Sprague, with Mr. Frederick F.
Kramer, Trinity, 1889, at present in the senior class of the General Theological Seminary, New York City.

See Vol VI page 63
She died April 20. 1896 105 yrs
4 mos.

Dec 1890

MONDAY MORNING, DEC. 29, 1890.

Mathewson-Coyle.

A quiet home wedding occurred at the Sigourney House, No. 554 Main street, Saturday morning. The contracting parties were Mr. Charles Peck Mathewson and Miss Clara Melvina Coyle, daughter of Mrs. N. J. Coyle. Only the immediate relatives of the bride and groom were present. Dr. George Leon Walker performed the ceremony, which took place at 11 o'clock in the private parlor of the hotel under a spray of mistletoe.

Mr. and Mrs. Mathewson left on the 2:24 train south and will be away two or three weeks. They will be at home at 554 Main street Tuesday evening, February 24, from 8 to 11. Although the marriage was a quiet one, many very handsome presents were received. Among the presents were a pretty Mexican onyx clock, an unusually handsome stand and lamp, etchings and a quantity of silverware. During the winter Mr. and Mrs. Mathewson will live in Hartford.

A SUCCESSFUL TRIP.

GEN. FRANKLIN AND PARTY BACK FROM THE WEST.

Visiting the Soldiers' Home—Itinerary of the Travelers.

General William B. Franklin of this city, accompanied by Mrs. Franklin and Miss Brace, have returned from an extensive trip west. General Franklin, as president of the board of managers of the national soldiers' homes, is called upon to make periodical visits to the various homes. He was accompanied on this occasion by his private secretary, Major Birmingham, of this city, and the following members of the board: General Martin T. McMahon, secretary of the board, General Thomas Hyde of Bath, Me., General Sewell of New Jersey, General John C. Black of Chicago and Colonel Brown of Santa Monica, Cal. Mrs. and Miss Hyde, and Mrs. and Miss Black were also of the party and General Averill, assistant inspector general, with his wife, joined them in California.

The party traveled in the elegantly appointed Pullman hotel car "Celtic" and enjoyed every comfort en route.

They first visited the home at Dayton, Ohio, which contains 5,500 veterans. The next home visited was that at Milwaukee, where over 2,000 old soldiers are quartered. From there the party went to Marion, Ind., and inspected the home at that place. The state home at Quincy, Ill., and the national home at Leavenworth, Kan., were also visited. At Denver, as well as at other points where the party halted, they received much attention at the hands of the local military men and civil authorities.

The trip over the mountains to San Francisco was greatly enjoyed and every opportunity was afforded the party to view the remarkable scenery.

From San Francisco they went to the home at Santa Monica, which place is called the "Coney Island of the Pacific coast". Here they enjoyed the novelty of a dip in the sea on Thanksgiving Day.

On the return trip a stop was made at the Las Vegas hot springs in New Mexico, which have an elevation of 7,000 feet above the sea. Thence they went to St. Louis, where the party

On Wednesday afternoon of this week at 5 o'clock the Hapgood-Smith wedding took place. The ceremony was solemnized in St. John's Episcopal church in this city and the edifice was filled with invited guests. Long garlands of evergreen hung from the center of the ceiling above the chancel and were attached to the side walls; from the middle was suspended an enormous wedding bell which was likewise of green. The altar was decorated with evergreens and two large bunches of white roses, and the body of the church was adorned with wreaths of green appropriate to the season. Punctually at the stated hour, the wedding procession moved up the aisle, the ushers preceding the six bridesmaids and the maid of honor who was followed by the bride leaning upon the arm of her father, James A. Smith. At the altar the bride was met by the groom who was attended by the best man, W. C. Pearse. The bride wore a heavy white satin dress which was laid in plaits in front, a little at the side, and drawn in loose folds to the other side. The sleeves were very bouffante, the neck cut in a point, and a long tulle veil fastened in the hair floated over the shoulders, and graceful train. The bride carried a white prayer book and the bridesmaids bouquets of pink roses. The latter wore white tulle dresses which hung straight from ceintures of pink ribbon; tulle veils and garlands of pink roses adorned the hair. The maid of honor, Miss Alice Smith, a sister of the bride, was similarly dressed, though in pink. The other bridesmaids were the Misses Smith, sisters of the bride, Miss Wadsworth, Miss Bertha Taylor, Miss Ada Taylor and Miss Danforth. Among the persons assembled at the church to witness the ceremony were Mrs. James Smith, Miss Smith, Rev. Francis Goodwin, James Goodwin, Miss Terry, Mrs. Samuel Colt, the Misses Barnard, Mrs. Frederick Russell, Miss Russell, the Misses Fitzgerald, Mrs. C. Nichols Beach, Miss Beach, Mrs. Edwin Taylor, Miss Lincoln, Mrs. John Jarvis, Miss Jarvis, Miss Robinson, Miss Trumbull and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Chase.

Monday evening of this week Mr. and Mrs. John Taylor gave a charming dancing party at their residence on Garden street for their son, Emerson Taylor.

Mrs. Thomas Van Buren has returned to her home in New York and Mrs. Frederick Haight left for Brooklyn on Wednesday of this week.

Miss Lincoln went to New Haven on Thursday, to spend several days with Miss Winchester.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Bund have been in New York several days this week.

Invitations have been issued by Bishop and Mrs. Knight for the marriage of their daughter Miss Margaret Knight to Charles S. Forseth, the ceremony is to take place at All Saints cathedral in Milwaukee at 11:30 a. m., on Wednesday January the 14th. As Bishop and Mrs. Knight and family were formerly residents of Hartford, the approaching marriage of Miss Margaret will probably be of much interest to many people in this city.

It has been unfortunate of late that the afternoons which have been appointed for teas have proved to be disagreeable ones. On Tuesday of this week at 4 o'clock, which is the usual hour for teas, the snow was falling, but in spite of the weather a number of persons responded to the invitation issued by Miss Helen Kellogg on Washington street. Miss Terry and Miss M. Fitzgerald received with Miss Kellogg. The tea table was decorated with red roses and maiden hair fern, and smilax was festooned on the sides of the cloth. Miss Smith and Miss Anna Fitzgerald poured the coffee and chocolate. Among the guests who were present were Mrs. John

61

Dec 31
1890

W. WALKER. R. WALKER.

EMIL HUBER, OF ZURICH NOW VISITING IN HARTFORD.

A Fearless Scaler of Cliffs and Crags—At Home in the British-American Rockies.

Many of Hartford's citizens will remember with pleasure Emil Huber of Zurich, Switzerland, who visited this city a year ago, and was at that time the guest of Frederick H. Chapin. Mr. Huber is an engineer and has spent some time in looking into the manufacturing industries of this country, but aside from that he is famed as an expert mountain climber. Few amateurs or even Swiss guides are his equal as ice or cragsman. The mountains that attracted him to America were the Rockies of British Columbia and the Selkirks. With his friend, Mr. Sulzer, also a member of the Swiss Alpine club, and Mr. Topham of the English Alpine club, he made many interesting expeditions, especially in the Selkirks. Mr. Topham was one of the Mt. St. Elias explorers in 1889, but Messrs. Huber and Sulzer made the ascent of Mt. Sir Donald, the striking and seemingly inaccessible peak which is the wonder of tourists, who cross the Selkirk ranges. Mr. Huber is a skillful photographer, and his views will add much to the knowledge of this comparatively unknown and rugged mountainous country. Mr. Topham was in the Selkirks in the interest of the Royal Geographical society, and now awaits the photographs of Mr. Huber before compiling a map for that society's journal. Mr. Huber has been staying in Hartford for some weeks working at his pictures and the Camera club has cordially placed their rooms at his disposal. Mr. Huber will lecture before the Appalachian Mountain club before his return to Switzerland in March.

THE INCOME TAX.

UPS AND DOWNS OF HARTFORD BUSINESS LIFE.

What a Quarter of a Century Shows in the List of Monied Men.

During the late war, citizens were compelled to pay what was known as the "Income tax," a very necessary but obnoxious tax, but funds were needed to prosecute the war and in the majority of cases it was cheerfully paid. At first the exemption taken out was $600, but in March, 1866, the law was amended, increasing the exemption to $1,000, the tax being 5 per cent. on the amount sworn to, before the Internal Revenue officers.

As is the case with the city and town taxes the sworn statements did not always give a correct idea of the income of many a rich man who was the owner of bank, insurance and other stocks, where the tax was paid by the corporations.

The increase of exemptions, together with the re-action in trade and profits consequent on the ending of the war, reduced the amount of money received from the Income tax from $260,091.55 in 1865, to $135,677.55 in 1866.

But it is an interesting study to go over the lists as made up and sworn to

Many of these whose incomes were added up into four and five figures, have died poor, or are still struggling for existence or dependent on friends for subsistence, while on the contrary, many who were blessed with large incomes derived from profitable business during the four years of the war, have added to it, have prospered and if gone have left behind handsome provision for their families.

It would be surprising to see how many, whose income as reported (always bearing in mind the exemption) was less than $200, in some instances less than $50, are at the present time among the solid and wealthy men of Hartford, some of them by inheritance, but a large number who have earned their money by the sweat of the brow.

It may interest many readers of THE POST to see a list of a few of those who were heavy tax-payers during the time mentioned and the income of a few will be quoted, those over $10,000:

T. M. Allyn	$29,125
G. B. Barnes	12,110
George P. Bissell	17,476
Benjamin Bliss	11,728
E. A. Bulkeley	18,169
G. P. Barber	16,512
H. E. Beach	15,039
J. Watson Beach	25,128
Erastus Collins	30,725
W. H. D. Callender	11,400
F. B. Cooley	21,902
O. D. Case	10,717
Leonard Daniels	22,385
Albert Day	36,355
Charles G. Day	14,337
Austin Dunham	55,099
E. H. Fenn	24,013
George A. Fairfield	12,337
James Goodwin	66,422
Wareham Griswold	11,064
Charles I. Hills	12,847
James L. Howard	24,410
Milo Hunt	16,478
Lawson C. Ives	69,793
Marshall Jewell	48,634
Pliny Jewell, Jr.	41,703
H. J. Johnson	24,538
Nelson Kingsbury	69,143
Edward Kellogg	37,361
E. N. Kellogg	19,206
Henry Keney	26,539
William T. Lee	22,799
George S. Lincoln	15,975
Roland Mather	25,184
George W. Moore	25,524
M. M. Merriman	16,313
E. H. Owen	36,872
Daniel Philips	18,657
G. Wells Root	30,342
J. B. Russell	12,906
Elisha T. Smith	15,595
Daniel F. Seymour	23,414
Thomas Smith	44,162
L. Stebbins	15,865
S. J. Tuttle	11,925
O. G. Terry	12,916
S. S. Ward	15,311
Archibald H. Welch	25,568
Henry A. Whitman	26,608
Henry C. White	10,248
Samuel Woodruff	15,799
Robert Watkinson	22,949

Those familiar with the names of leading merchants and business men will see that 25 years has caused many remarkable changes.

Were it wise to print a list of such as reported a very small income at that time and who are now among the wealthy men of Hartford, it would show still greater changes.

Mr. Charles G. Stone of this city officiated as one of the ushers at a brilliant wedding in New York Wednesday noon, Miss Nellie Redington Adams of Greenwich, in this state, and John David Barrett of New York being the contracting parties. The ceremony took place in the eyes of Heaven's Rest, and a reception was given.

Chief Justice Fuller's Daughter Married.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Miss Mildred Fuller, daughter of Chief Justice Fuller, was married to-night at the St. John's Episcopal Church to Hugh Campbell Wallace, of Tacoma, Wash. A fashionable audience was present.

THE FULLER-BROWN WEDDING.

A Daughter of the Chief Justice Married at Washington.

Miss Grace Weston Fuller, the eldest daughter of

and Arch

cago were evening

Episcopal

rector of bridemaids

save the w

and the chu

the altar were tropic with cana

lilies grace fully inter woven, while twined around the chancel

rail and the posts on either side of the altar bore ropes of smilax and running cedar. Miss

Janie Fuller,

the youngest sister of the bride, acted as maid of honor to her sister, and Mr Barnum

of Chicago, an intimate friend of the groom,

was best man.

The ushers were

Colin Manning

of South Carolina,

Prof Alger

of the navy, Charles

L. Frailey of Wash ington and Mr

Mendonca of the Brazilian legation.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father, preceded by the maid of honor and at the chancel

rail they were met by the groom and his best man. The absence of choral music

made the services un usually im pressive. The chief justice gave his daughter

MISS GRACE FULLER MARRIED

The Eldest Daughter of Chief Justice Fuller—Ceremony at Washington.

WASHINGTON, March 30. — Miss Grace

Weston Fuller, the eldest daughter of Chief Justice and Mrs. Fuller, and Archibald

Lapham Brown of Chicago, were married

this evening at 8 o'clock in St. John's Epis copal Church by the Rev. Dr. Douglass, and the church was decorated with canna lilies gracefully interwoven, while twined around the chancel rail and the posts on either side of the altar bore ropes of smilax and running cedar. Miss Janie Fuller, the youngest sister of the bride, acted as maid of honor to her sister, and Mr Barnum of Chicago, an intimate friend of the groom, was best man. The ushers were Colin Manning of South Carolina, Prof Alger of the navy, Charles L. Frailey of Washington and Mr Mendonca of the Brazilian legation. The bride entered the church on the arm of her father, preceded by the maid of honor and at the chancel rail they were met by the groom and his best man. The absence of choral music made the services unusually impressive. The chief justice gave his daughter away. The bride was becomingly attired in a Worth gown, having a skirt of white satin with a long court train of the same material. In her hands were a large bouquet of lilies of the valley and maidenhair fern, while a diamond pin held the wedding veil in place. The many distinguished guests who witnessed the ceremony included Postmaster-General Wanamaker, Sir Julian and Lady Pauncefote, Minister Guzman of Nicaragua, the Chinese suite, the Korean ministers, Justices Harlan, Brown, Lamar, Bradley and Brewster, Senators Cullom and Cockrell, and others well known in official and civil life. After the wedding a large reception was held at the home of the chief justice on Massachusetts avenue, to which Washington society was invited to congratulate the young couple. After the reception Mr and Mrs Brown left for New York on a brief tour and thence will go on a trip abroad.

JANUARY 8, 1891.

CHARLES PUTNAM BACON.

His Marriage at London Yesterday.

A London dispatch yesterday said: "At the old church of St. Martin-in-the-Fields in Trafalgar square, the marriage of Mr. Charles Putnam Bacon, law partner of Governor Hill of New York, to Mrs. Emma Edith Mitchell, widow of a well-known New Yorker, was celebrated to-day. The United States consul-general, the Hon. John C. New, gave the bride away. Mr. Edward Moffat, the vice-consul for the United States and resident agent of the United States agricultural department acted as best man."

[Mr. Bacon is a native of Hartford, was formerly on the staff of THE COURANT, and at present has his home in Elmira, N. Y. He conducted to a successful issue for Professor Fiske, the famous Fiske will case, in which millions of dollars claimed by Cornell College were involved, and made a reputation on what was almost his first suit after admission to the bar.]

Mr. Rodney S. Dennis has resigned his position with the Hartford Trust Company, and will leave Hartford this coming Thursday for Memphis, Tenn., where he has a place with the Memphis City Bank.

LITTLE-DENNIS—In this city, Wednesday evening, Jan. 7, at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. Thomas Little of Philadelphia, to Miss Charlotte Wolcott, daughter of Mr. Rodney Dennis of Hartford.

On Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock Miss Charlotte W. Dennis, daughter of Rodney Dennis of this city, was married to Thomas Little of Philadelphia. The home of the bride was tastefully decorated with flowers, and the wall back of where the wedding couple stood to receive, was a mass of green foliage, interspersed with bunches of pink carnations and roses. The bride was attired in white satin trimmed with lace, and wore a veil of white tulle. The maid of honor was Miss Breha Dennis, sister of the bride, and the best man was the groom's brother, Frederick V. Little. The bridesmaids were Misses Mary L. Brainard, Virginia Brown, Alice W. Smith, Lucy S. Taintor, Elizabeth M. Davis and J. W. Stone. The ushers were Messrs. Ellery of New York, Dennis of Hartford, Caven of Philadelphia and Dr. Martin of Trinity college. The bridal procession was very picturesque as the bridesmaids were attired in pink and white empire dresses with short waists and puffed short sleeves, and the large bouquets which each carried where attached by festoons of smilax. The Chief Justice Fuller's daughter, Mary, did not elope with young Lawer Manning. She was married to him in Europe last autumn, while on a sick bed, with the consent of her parents, and the public announcement would have been made very soon in Washington had not this wretched fabrication reached the public's ear first. It's a quick-gaited truth that gets the start of old Mother Gossip.

Chief Justice Fuller's eldest daughter, Mrs. Mary C. Manning, has sued her husband, Colin C. Manning, United States Consul at Fayal, for divorce, alleging non-support and alcoholism.

THURSDAY MORNING, JAN. 8, 1891.

An interesting dramatic entertainment was given in Ives Hall, at the Retreat, last night by some of the young people of the South Church. "Tea at Four O'clock," a one-act comedy, was given by Miss Parker, Miss Northam, Miss Hills, Miss Grace Hills, and Messrs. Morris Penrose, Howard Penrose, Stillman, Morris, Gilman, Ball and Harry Billings. A comedietta, "Sugar and Cream," had in the cast Messrs. Gilman, Howard Penrose, Miss Northam and Miss Grace Hills. Both the plays were very well done. At the opening and during the intermission the audience was entertained with violin duets by Misses Peck and Holbrook, accompanied by Miss Tiffany. The same programme was given the previous evening for the pleasure of patients.

Mr. Charles A. Dwight, the second son of Mayor Dwight, leaves to-day with Assistant Judge James S. Thompson, of the city court of New Haven, for Phoenix, Arizona, in the Salt River valley. Judge Thompson is interested in fruit-farming there, and Mr. Dwight will engage in that business if the venture appears promising.

Miss Hattie Langdon, only daughter of Mrs. W. W. Langdon, manager of the Farmington Avenue Hotel, was privately married at that house on Saturday afternoon to Mr. W. E. Wallace, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. C. S. Nash of the Theological Seminary. Mr. and Mrs. Wallace left town directly after the ceremony for California, where Mr. Wallace intends to settle and engage in nursery gardening, which was his occupation in this city.

Judge Taintor has bought of Atwood Collins the lot and house, 112 Woodland street.

Mary C. S. Glazier, Mary A. Glazier Chapin and Charles E. Chapin have sold to Sarah G. Hall the lot and buildings 61 Wethersfield avenue.

Mrs. E. Josephine Lester has sold Edward C. Ward a lot and house on the south side of Asylum avenue, 32x150.

Daniel a Hundred Years Old.

Dwight Jefferson Williams, who recently celebrated his 101st birthday at Saratoga Springs, was born in Hartford, Jan. 12, 1790. He comes of a long-lived family, his father having died at the age of 113, and his grandfather was 126 years and 11 days old when he died. Mr. Williams served two years in the war of 1812. In 1815 he married Miss Hester L. Swart of New York. They had nine children, none of whom are now living. Mrs. Williams died in 1844.

Another Spry Centenarian.

(Newark, N. J., Advertiser.

Mrs. Hickey, 103 years old, lives with her son-in-law, near Kirkwood, Camden county. She is in excellent physical condition, and a few days ago walked from Kirkwood to Haddonfield, a distance of five miles. She has the rare experience of seeing her sixth generation.

The Hartford Post.

HARTFORD, SATURDAY, JAN. 17, 1891.

At Barr, Vt., Mrs. Lucy Wood, who was born in Starling, Mass., in 1786, yesterday celebrated her 105th birthday.

Smith-Barnett.

Mr. George N. Smith of Boston, formerly of this city, and Miss Grace Church Barnett, daughter of Mr. James S. Barnett, were married at half-past eleven o'clock yesterday morning at St. Thomas's Church, by the pastor, the Rev. George R. Warner. There were no bridesmaids. The ushers were: W. H. Bunce, A. E. Lathrop, Austin M. Bond, J. H. Kincaid, I. W. Hughes and W. C. Talcott.

SMITH-BARNETT—In this city, Jan. 14, at St. Thomas' church, by the Rev. George R. Warner, George N. Smith of Boston, and Miss Grace C. Barnett of this city.

PEASE-DANFORTH—In this city, Jan. 14, by Rev. J. W. Bradin, Charles Austin Pease, and Mary, daughter of the late John W. Danforth.

SPENCER-FITTS—In this city, Jan. 21, by Rev. L. L. Potter, Elmer E. Spencer of Meriden, and Alice P. Fitts of Hartford.

Pretty Wedding of Miss Alice Fitts and Elmer E. Spencer.

At 6 o'clock last evening, at the home of the bride on Sumner street, occurred the wedding of Miss Alice Parker Fitts and Elmer E. Spencer, Rev. Lester L. Potter, officiating. Miss Fitts is a daughter of Henry E. Fitts of the Travelers', and the groom is assistant postmaster at Meriden.

The bride's gown was of white faille francaise, and that of her maid of honor, Miss Flossie Fitts, of white silk and tulle. Miss Miranda Clark, one of the bridesmaids, wore a gown of Nile green faille, en traine, and Miss Andrews, the other bridesmaid, wore yellow crepe with feather trimmings. The ushers were Albert Miller, W. A. Hall and Bert Hilliard of Meriden and W. H. Bruce of this city. A reception followed the ceremony.

HENDEE-GREEN—In New York city, Jan. 21, by the Rev. J. W. Bradin of this city, Abner Hendee of New Haven and Miss Nellie Green of New York.

The Republican.

SPRINGFIELD, THURSDAY, JAN. 15.

THE SCHAUFFLER-HAWKS WEDDING

Takes Place in South Church Before a Large Company.

Dr William Gray Schauffler and Miss Eleanor Russell Hawks, daughter of Rev Dr Theron H Hawks, were married in South church at 3.30 yesterday afternoon, in the presence of a large company of friends and relatives. Dr Schauffler is under appointment as professor in anatomy at the Syrian Protestant college in Beirut, and will leave New York with his bride the 28th, to begin his duties as teacher, for which he has made careful preparation. Dr Schauffler is a grandson of Mrs Charles Merriam, and son of Rev Dr Schauffler, formerly missionary in Austria. He was graduated at Amherst college in 1886, and at the college of physicians and surgeons in New York in 1889. Since then he has been house surgeon at the New York hospital. The bride is well known in Springfield society, and there will be widespread regret at her departure.

South church was prettily trimmed with green for the ceremony. In the bridal procession, first came the six ushers, Dr W. C. Woods, Dr H. A. Griffin and Dr A. B. Hobbs, all classmates with Dr Schauffler in the medical college, while Dr Woods was also his classmate at Amherst, Rev A. E. Cross of Manchester, N. H., also of Amherst, '86, H. P. Schauffler, a brother, and member of the sophomore class in Amherst, and David Hoadley, Harvard, '93, cousin of the bride. Next in the procession were Master Howard Mitchell, the bride's little nephew, and Rachael Lawton, cousin of the groom. The little couple separated at the head of the aisle and waited for the bride to pass. The bridesmaids, who came next, were Miss Hawks, sister of the bride, Miss Schauffler of Cleveland, O., the groom's sister, Miss Tilton of Laconia, N. H., and Miss Olyphant of New York city. They were all dressed in blue and carried Papa Gontier roses. Next came the bride, escorted by her brother, T. H. Hawks, Jr., of Duluth, Minn. She wore white faille, high in the neck and with long sleeves, and trimmed with orange blossoms. As the notes of the bridal chorus from Lohengrin ceased, the party was arranged in a semi-circle at the altar, where the groom, accompanied by his brother, Charles joined them. The Rev Dr Hawks, the Rev Dr H. A. father, offered prayer, which ceremony, which evening at their home, No. 720 Prospect avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Pease received alone, but those assisting were Miss Ella Danforth, Mrs. Alfred H. Pease, Miss Helen E. Pease, Mrs. John W. Danforth of East Orange, N. J., Mrs. William R. C. Corson, Mrs. Henry E. Rees, Mrs. Morris Penrose, Mrs. A. E. Rankin of Wellesley Farms, Mass., formerly of this city, Miss Sarah Hendee, Miss Ada L. Taylor and Miss Mary C. Taylor, Mrs. Robert A. Wadsworth, Miss Butler, Miss Taylor of Wethersfield, Mrs. Joseph B. Hall, Miss Mabel W. Wainwright, Mrs. Ira C. Peck, Miss May Field, Mrs. Helen P. Bronk. Mr. and Mrs. Pease were married in this city by Rev. James W. Bradin, rector of St. John's Church. Mrs. Pease was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Danforth of this city.

Mr and Mrs Cleveland Dodge, Mrs William Osborne, Mrs Dr Lincoln and Miss Lincoln, Miss Anna H. Tyler, Dr Foote and Dr Clarke and Superintendent G. P. Ludlam of the New York hospital, Miss Suthiff, the Ardagh and Miss Dwight of New York city, Mr Barber and Miss Barber, Mrs Hoadley and Miss Hoadley of Englewood, N. J., Mrs Nitchie and sons of Brooklyn, N. Y. Mrs Died Jan 9 1891 aged 107 yrs 8 mos 104.

 64
 Died Dec 18 1890

FRIDAY MORNING, JAN. 16, 1891.
FIFTY YEARS A MEMBER.

A Tribute to the Hon. James L. Howard.

The weekly prayer meeting at the First Baptist Church last evening was of more than ordinary interest. The attendance was large, and after listening to the profitable and interesting talk by the pastor, the Rev. J. S. James, Mr. J. G. Batterson advanced to the platform and, addressing the Hon. James L. Howard, read to him a testimonial prepared by a committee of which he was a member, expressing to Deacon Howard the congratulations of the church and congregation on his reaching the fiftieth anniversary of his connection with that church, which will occur on the 17th inst., to-morrow. The paper gave a brief review of the noble and valuable work Mr. Howard has done in building up the church and Sunday School, and was a hearty and fitting acknowledgment of the obligations which all felt was due to one who has so heartily engaged in Christian work not only in Hartford, but work that has become national in character. Besides being of invaluable assistance to the Baptist denomination in this city and state, Mr. Howard has occupied with fidelity and credit various responsible positions in the great societies of the denomination in the country, and it was very fitting that a life work of such character should be recognized by his immediate church connections. Mr. Batterson supplemented the testimonial with remarks of a personal nature, giving Mr. Howard the honor of having given him an invitation to attend the First Baptist Church forty-five years ago, which he accepted, and the friendship then formed has been more and more firmly cemented as years have rolled on. After further remarks from the pastor Mr. Howard replied in his pleasing characteristic manner, attesting again the great love he bears to the cause so dear to him and to the church which has so long been his home.

The testimonial was adopted in a hearty rising vote and ordered placed on the church records.

It was stated by Mr. Batterson in his address that during this year forty-four persons will have arrived at anniversaries of membership in this honored church of periods ranging from forty years to seventy-five years. The names were afterward read by the pastor. Mr. J. W. Dimock, one of our active, trusty and honored business men, has been a member of this church for seventy-five years, and Mr. Batterson is also included in the forty-four.

A hearty vote of thanks was also passed to the pastor for his work in preparing the Centennial Memorial volume, which has just been issued.

JANUARY 24, 1891.--

Married an Earl's Son.

A Baltimore telegram says: Miss Virginia Schley, only daughter of Captain Winfield Scott Schley, commander of the man-of-war Baltimore, and Mr. Ralph Granville Montague Stuart-Wortley of England, the second son of the Earl of Wharmcliffe, and vice-president of the Atlantic and Danville Railroad, were married Thursday in Christ Protestant Episcopal Church. The Rev. R. R. Graham officiated. The church was decorated with tall palms and potted plants. Miss Schley entered the church leaning on the arm of her father, who was in full-dress uniform. She wore a rich corded silk costume, cut high neck and long sleeves, trimmed with old point lace. She also wore a white tulle veil, caught in her hair by orange blossoms, and carried a bunch of lilies of the valley. The bridal couple left for Florida in the afternoon, and in a few weeks will sail for England.

TUESDAY MORNING, JAN. 27, 1891.

Mr. W. Tracy Teale, for the past six years connected with W. E. Baker's insurance agency, has been appointed assistant manager of the New England department of the American Insurance Company of Boston, with headquarters at the home office. Mr. Teale will reside in Boston and will begin the duties of his new position about the middle of February.

An Engagement in High Life. (New York Mail and Express.)

The engagement is announced of Miss Louisa Shepard, daughter of Colonel and Mrs. Elliott F. Shepard, to Mr. William Jay Schieffelin.

Mr. Schieffelin is the son of William H. Schieffelin, Esq., and partner in his father's great chemical and drug firm of W. H. Schieffelin & Co., whose warehouses are in William street, at the corner of Beekman street, and laboratory in Front street. Next year this house will celebrate its centennial, it having been established by the great-grandfather and great-great-uncle of its present young scion in 1791.

His grandfather, Samuel B. Schieffelin, is still a silent partner, 80 years of age and appearing to be only 60.

All four of his grandparents are living, as well as both of his parents. Mr. William H. Schieffelin and her daughter, Miss Eleanor, are traveling in England with Mrs. Schieffelin's brother, Colonel William Jay, and family. His grandparents, the Hon. and Mrs. John Jay, are at their country seat at Bedford, Westchester county.

He is a graduate of Columbia College School of Mines, and is a Ph. D. of Goettingen University, and a fellow of the Chemical Society of London. He is an active member of the Seventh Regiment. Both of the young people have been the objects of many congratulations from both sides of the Atlantic.

He is 25 and she is 20. He is 6 feet 1 inch and she is 5 feet 11 inches, and every one says they have always been meant for each other.

The Hartford Courant.

SATURDAY MORNING, FEB. 7, 1891.
Shepard-Schieffelin.

Miss Louise, daughter of Colonel Elliott F. Shepard and granddaughter of the late William H. Vanderbilt, was married Thursday noon to William J. Schieffelin, grandson of Mr. John Jay. The reporters mention that pretty nearly all the Vanderbilts and their connections were present; that the colonel paid "exactly $2,500" for the floral decorations; and that the wedding gifts "are worth, at the lowest computation, $500,000."

FLAGG—ROOT—Feb. 13, by the Rev. H. B. Roberts, George Edward Flagg and Nettie E. Root, both of West Hartford.

Miss Lilian L. Green, daughter of Alexander M. Green, and Mr. Alfred E. Snow were married at the South Park M. E. Church yesterday evening, at 7:30. The Rev. Alan MacRossie performed the ceremony, using the full Episcopal service. After the wedding a reception took place at the home of the bride's parents, No. 21 Congress street.

The wedding to-morrow evening at Trinity Church, New Haven, of Miss Anne May Farnam to Frank Lincoln Woodward, will be an important social event. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Farnham and the family have many friends in this city. Mr. Woodward was a prominent member of Yale '88, graduated from the Yale Law School last year, and is now practising law at his home in Denver, Colorado.

FEBRUARY 11, 1891.

The Wharton-Lay Wedding.

W. F. Wharton, assistant secretary of state, and Miss Susan Lay, were quietly married at the residence of the bride's aunt, Mrs Hobson, 1742 N street at 2.30 o'clock this afternoon. Rev Dr McKim, rector of Epiphany Episcopal church of this city, performed the ceremony. After the marriage a reception was held from 3 to 4.30 o'clock, when Mr and Mrs Wharton left for the North to be absent 10 days. Only the immediate friends of the couple were present at their marriage. Miss Lay is a daughter of Col Richard Lay, United States consul-general to Ottawa and is a niece of Mrs Morton.

THE CRAM-WIMAN WEDDING.

Miss Mattie Wiman, youngest daughter of Erastus Wiman, was married yesterday afternoon to Jacob Cram of New York. The ceremony took place in Christ Episcopal church, New Brighton, N. Y. and was performed by Rev Dr Rainsforth of St George's church in New York assisted by Archdeacon Johnston of Christ church.

Catherine Drexel Takes the Veil.

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 11.—Catherine Drexel, the Philadelphia heiress, who two years ago entered a convent here, will take her final vows and adopt the black veil to-morrow morning. The ceremonies will be private, and no one outside the church, not even the members of Miss Drexel's family will be present. Archbishop Ryan will conduct the services. Miss Drexel, or Sister Catherine, as she will be known hereafter, brings with her $7,000,000 and will found the order of the Blessed Sacrament, the object of the order being to educate the Indian and the negro.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Feb. 12.—Miss Kate Drexel, or Sister Catherine, made her final religious profession and took the black veil of the Roman Catholic order of the Blessed Sacrament at 7 o'clock this morning in the chapel of Mercy Convent. The ceremony was a very private one with only the church dignitaries, Sisters of Mercy and novices of the new order present. At the conclusion of the ceremony a repast of dry bread and black coffee was served, of which all partook quite heartily.

The Astor-Willing Wedding.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Feb. 17.—The marriage here to-day at the residence of the bride's parents of Miss Ava Lawle Willing, daughter of Mr. Edward S. Willing, and John Jacob Astor, son of William Astor of New York, was attended by only the immediate friends of the two families. The ceremony was performed at the residence of the bride's parents at 1:30 p. m., and only the two families and intimate friends were present. Rev. Dr. William McVickar, rector of the Protestant Episcopal church of the Holy Trinity, was the officiating clergyman. A floral chancel composed of potted plants and cut flowers was arranged in the drawing room. Lispenard Stewart was the best man, and the six bridesmaids were Miss Grace Wilson, Miss Beatrix Chapman, Miss Ethel Cram of New York, and Miss Mabel Ashwest, Miss Cyntra Hutchinson, and Miss Willing, a cousin of the bride. Miss Willing's dress was of white satin and an exquisite old lace veil was fastened in her hair by a tiara of diamonds, the gift of the groom. The dresses of the bridesmaids were of pink faille. Immediately after the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served, at which only those who witnessed the marriage were present. At 3 o'clock a reception, for which three thousand invitations had been issued, was held.

THE SUCCESSION PROVIDED FOR.

John Jacob Astor the Sixth and His Happy "Pa" and "Ma."

It has come to pass that the birth of a heir to the millions of an American family of plutocrats is an event of news to the world at large, just as the coming of a first son to royal pair in a monarchical land is cause for national rejoicing. In this case we know that the Astor millions will be kept in the family for another generation at least. The happy parents, Mr and Mrs John Jacob Astor of New York, who appear side by side

A daughter was born to Colonel John Jacob Astor, at 840 Fifth Avenue, New York city, on Monday. Colonel and Mrs. Astor have a son, William Vincent Astor, who is 11 years old.

JULY 8, 1902.

Jacob Astor the sixth.

NOVEMBER 21, 1891.--

John Jacob Astor's three-weeks-old son has been christened William for his grandfather. Grandma Astor was one of the sponsors at the christening and Lispenard Stewart was the other.

MARCH FOURTH IN 1861.

Delightful Spring-like Weather and Tree-Planting in Hartford.

Thirty years ago yesterday the day on which Abraham Lincoln was inaugurated President of the United States for his first term, was a bright, cheerful sunny day. The air was balmy and spring-like. The previous day, Sunday, had been warm, and people in Hartford sat in their houses with doors and windows open. Spring had opened early; almost all frost was out of the ground in the vicinity; the mud had settled, and the roads were dry, almost dusty.

In commemoration of Lincoln's inauguration Mr. Jonathan F. Morris, of this city, then as now an earnest republican and patriotic citizen, dug up from beside a high board fence on the north side of Buckingham street a small young elm tree and at the hour the inaugural ceremonies were in progress at Washington, planted the tree in front of his residence on Wethersfield avenue. The tree continued to flourish with the spread of republican principles and the growth of the country and now stands, a large healthy growth, in front of the residence of Mr. Charles L. Lincoln, No. 25 (old No. 19) Wethersfield avenue. The tree is known as the Lincoln elm.

By comparison with yesterday's weather that inaugural day in 1861 was—but comparisons are generally odious and he who remembers that pleasant bright sunny day and lived in Hartford over yesterday can make his own comparison and then decide for himself whether the genuine old-fashioned winter is a thing of the past.

assisted by John C. Morris his nephew

HARTFORD, MONDAY, MARCH 23, 1891.
A SECRET MARRIAGE

Between Two Young Persons Well Known in Hartford Society.

The marriage of R. S. Dennis, son of Rodney Dennis of this city to Miss Cecile Mieliez, adopted daughter of Hon. C. M. Pond of West Hartford, is announced.

The circumstances of the marriage are of a romantic nature. A year ago Mr. Dennis and Miss Mieliez planned a clandestine marriage. They went to New York and were wedded by an official in the City Hall. Shortly afterwards they returned to Hartford, but told no one of their marriage.

Young Mrs. Dennis upon the advice of a physician a short time ago went to the mountains of New Hampshire. About the same time the groom relinquished his position with the Hartford Trust company and went to Memphis, Tenn., having obtained employment there in a bank. A few weeks ago, a child was born to Mrs. Dennis, and the circumstances of their secret marriage were made public.

The young couple have, for a number of years past, been intimate friends. Both were graduated from the Hartford High school in the same class—that of 1886. The bride is a young lady of many personal charms, and has always been popular. She is of French parentage, being the daughter of Mieliez, a well known florist of Springfield, Mass.; but twelve or fifteen years ago she was adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Pond, and has since lived with them.

Young Mr. Dennis who is about 23 years of age, had, subsequent to his graduation from the High school, been prominent in the younger circles of Hartford society.

Alleged Negligence in Recording a Marriage Leads to Another Wedding at a Critical Time.

HARTFORD, March 28.—A social sensation has been caused here by the announcement of a marriage that took place last week in a nearby town under rather peculiar circumstances. The bride and groom both occupy rather prominent places in local society and there is a singular story connected with the event.

A few weeks ago the bride, who is the eighteen-year-old daughter of a well-known family, was discovered to be in a delicate condition. The girl's parents were horrified, but the girl stoutly proclaimed her innocence and protested that she had been secretly married about a year ago to a young man who has been generally regarded as her accepted lover. The girl had no documentary evidence to show that she had been married and her excuse for having kept the event secret so long was that she was afraid of parental displeasure.

Unfortunately the lover was out of town at this crisis and could not be found. The girl's parents made her give a circumstantial account of the alleged wedding, which, she said, was performed one night in a neighboring town while she and her lover were ostensibly attending a local theatrical performance. The father went to the town in question and looked into the matter, but could find no records of a marriage, and he began to suspect that his daughter had been the victim of a bogus ceremony. There was nothing to do for it but to wait for the young man to return to town. When he arrived he, too, claimed that a marriage had been performed, but as there was apparently no evidence to substantiate it, he proposed that he and the young lady again journey to the same town and have another ceremony performed. This suggestion was carried out and the girl's father assured himself that everything was straight this time. There is considerable speculation as to whether the alleged marriage of a year ago ever took place. If it did there was a remarkable case of official negligence in

Mr. C. C. Adams was a victim of the slippery pavements to-day. He was walking along Mahoning avenue and fell in such a way that the right leg was fractured, the outside bone breaking between the knee and ankle. Ready hands soon assisted him to his home and Dr. Sherwood responded to a call. The surgeon reports that Mr. Adams will very likely rapidly mend. Several other very bad falls upon icy walks occurred to-day, but no others resulted seriously.

WARREN, MARCH 5, 1891.
MISS BENNETT'S 100TH BIRTHDAY.

She Becomes a Centenarian To-day—Life of the Oldest Woman in Brattleboro.

Miss Asenath Bennett, Brattleboro's oldest resident, will celebrate her 100th birthday in a quiet way to-day. Born in Dummerston March 9, 1791, she was one of five children of the late Stephen and Ruth Bennett, who came from Mansfield, Ct., being among the earliest settlers. They both lived to be over 80, while the centenarian's brother, Orrin, died but a few years ago at the ripe age of 93. Miss Bennett's cheerful Green-street home is adorned with numerous articles of her handiwork, though about 10 years ago she was compelled to give up sewing. Until within a few months she has occupied her time in making scrap-books and even now takes great pleasure in this work and manifests no little interest in her selections of subjects. A great variety of pictures have been furnished her by neighbors and friends and she has carefully selected and preserved from the newspapers many cuts of centenarians, together with their biographies. These scrap-books, numbering more than a score, are artistically and neatly arranged, and afford a ready reference to important events. She takes a lively interest in current topics and is a habitual reader of the newspapers.

Although she has not been "down street" for 20 years, preferring a quiet life at home, she appreciates frequent calls from her neighbors and is able to go about the house unattended. Her eye-sight is as good as that of many people at 60. She has an abiding fear of accident from falling; two, at least, of her aged relatives having died of broken limbs. She is fond of a joke and is remarkably quick at repartee, being particularly happy in her conversation Saturday night, when surrounded by some of her friends. Referring to the congratulatory letters which she was receiving, "I have one particularly interesting one from the Chicago Gen'l Agent and Collector for Western Building, Loan and Investment Society of Chicago, Ill., dated March 1st, 1891, in which he says that the above company offers to issue one of the strongest Co-operative Banks in the world, and would be pleased to see any one who wishes to join.

Died Sept 92 aged 106 yrs

10/400 6 ms

EAGER-MARCY-In Hartford, Thursday, March 19, at the residence of the bride's parents, by the Rev. George Leon Walker, D.D. Caroline Curtis, daughter of Frederick A. Marcy, to Charles Eldredge Eager of Brookline, Mass.

The marriage of Miss Carrie C. Marcy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick A. Marcy of this city, to Charles Eager of Boston, took place on Thursday at the home of the bride's parents on Capitol avenue. Only the two families were present at the ceremony. After their return from the wedding tour, Mr. and Mrs. Eager are to live in Brookline, Mass.

The Hartford Courant.

TUESDAY MORNING, MARCH 24, 1891.

The engagement of Miss Carrie Knous, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Knous, to Mr. Lewis D. Parker has been announced.
THE SOUTH CHURCH CHOIR.

Miss Leigh and Miss Keeney to Retire in April.

Miss Jessie E. Leigh, who succeeded Miss Lottie Korn as soprano in the South Church choir, has resigned to take effect April 1, and Miss Marion Keeney, the contralto, will also retire at that time. Miss Keeney has sung in the choir for more than ten years. She will be succeeded by Miss McReynolds, the contralto of the South Baptist Church.

A LOSS TO MUSIC IN HARTFORD.

Mrs. Lancy to Leave This City to Sing in Boston.

It is reported on seemingly good authority that Mrs. L. C. Lancy, who for the past seven years has been the soprano of the fine quartette at the Center Church, will retire from that position to accept a position in Boston. This is cause for genuine regret, not only by the people who hear her voice on Sundays, but by the large number who have admired her highly artistic work in concerts. With her beautiful voice and fine style she will be sure to take high rank.
OLD WOOLEN MANUFACTURER.

Mr. Thomas Scholfeld Nearing His One Hundredth Birthday.

Mr. Thomas Scholfeld, now a resident of Lyme, but formerly of Montville, will be a hundred years old if he lives to the 21st day of this month.

Mr. Scholfeld was born in Yorkshire, England, on March 21, 1791, son of John Scholfeld, the pioneer in the woolen manufacturing business in the United States, who built and put into operation the first wool carding machine made in this country. He came to this country with his father in 1793, being then only two years old. His father, John Scholfeld, first settled at Byfield, Mass., where he put into practical operation woolen machinery made by his own hands, which was the first successfully operated in the United States in the manufacture of woolen cloth. Mr. John Scholfeld and his family, consisting of his wife and seven children, four sons and three daughters, removed from Byfield about 1798, and located at Montville, where he was a successful woolen manufacturer and where he died in 1820.

Mr. Thomas Scholfeld, the centenarian, has been in the woolen manufacture from his youth up to the year 1884, when he went to live with his daughter, Mrs. James Bingham, at Lyme, his wife having died in 18. He made the first piece of satin that was manufactured in the state of Connecticut. He is now enjoying a good measure of health, and retains his faculties to a remarkable degree. He has always been a great reader, and still enjoys reading.

On his one hundredth anniversary his friends propose to visit him at his residence in Lyme and celebrate with him so notable an event.

Cards of invitation are out for the marriage of Mr. Harry Ethan Billings of this city to Miss Mary Emma Jones of Bridgeport, on Thursday evening, April 2, at 6:30 o'clock, at No. 176 Park avenue, Bridgeport. Mr. Billings is the second son of Alderman Charles E. Billings.

BILLINGS-JONES WEDDING.

At 6:30 last evening Mr. Harry Ethan Billings, son of Alderman Charles E. Billings, of the Billings & Spencer Company, this city, and Miss Mollie E. Jones, of Bridgeport, were united in marriage. Miss Jones is the daughter of Mr. S. B. Jones, and the ceremony was performed by the Rev. R. G. S. McNeille, pastor of the South Congregational church, of Bridgeport, at the home of the bride's parents. The bride wore a gown of white faille brocade, with a pendant of diamonds, pearls and moonstones, a gift from the groom. The bridesmaids, Miss Agnes Swan and Miss Edith Jones, wore dresses of Nile green cloth. The maid of honor was Miss Lillian Jones, sister of the bride, and Mr. Frederick Church Billings, of this city, was best man. Messrs. Charles S. Robbins, Henry Sherman Redfield, and Frederick Forrest Small were ushers. The ushers wore white enameled pins, in the shape of a fleur de lis, the gift of the groom, and the bridesmaids carried beautiful hand painted fans which the bride herself had decorated.

Among the many beautiful bridal gifts were a silver tea set of seven pieces from the groom's mother, a large etching from the ushers, a silver set from Mr. Frederick Billings, an onyx clock and ornaments from the employees of the Billings & Spencer Company, an etching from the foreman of the Billings & Spencer Company, a maltese diamond ring from the groom, a piano lamp from Miss Mamie and Mr. Louis Billings, and a check for $500 from the father of the groom.

The house was profusely decorated with flowers. In the evening there was a reception, at which guests were present from Hartford, New Haven and New York. The 9:36 train carried the bridal couple away on their wedding trip. On their return they will reside in this city, and for a time will occupy apartments at the Hotel Capitol. Mr. Billings is well known in Hartford and is connected with the Billings & Spencer Company.

An Easter Wedding.

Last evening there occurred at No. 176 Park avenue a most brilliant wedding. The contracting parties were Miss Mollie E. Jones, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Seth B. Jones, and Mr. Harry E. Billings, second son of Mr. C. E. Billings of Hartford. The details of the wedding were most admirably arranged. The bridal party passed through a ribboned aisle, from the library through the reception room and hall into the front drawing room, where the ceremony took place, the couple standing in a bower of palms, under a floral heart. Rev. R. G. S. McNeille led the procession, followed by the groom and his brother, Mr. Frederic Church Billings, who acted as best man. These in turn were followed by the four ushers—Messrs. Charles Sedgwick Robbins, Frederick Forest Small, Henry Sherman Redfield of Hartford, and Mr. Allen P. Nichols of Pomona, Cal. Next came the two bridesmaids, Misses Agnes Swan and Edith Jones of this city, followed by the maid of honor, Miss Lillian Jones, sister of the bride. Last of all came the bride, leaning upon the arm of her father. She wore a charming gown of white faille and satin brocade, with veil of tulle, fastened by a wreath of lilacs. She also wore a pendant of diamonds, pearls and moonstones.

BILLINGS-In this city, July 5, a son to Harry E. and Mary E. Billings.

Died Jan 14, 1892.
See also May 9.

Ex-Secretary Thomas F. Bayard's Daughter Married.

WILMINGTON, Del., April 3.—Count R. A. Lewenhaupt of Sweden was married at noon to-day to Ellen, daughter of the Hon. Thomas F. Bayard. The ceremony took place at Delamore Place, the Bayard home-stand, in this city. The Right Rev. Bishop Leighton Coleman officiated. The bride wore a complete white costume, with veil and orange blossoms. Miss Bayard was maid of honor, and A. U. Sheldon of Cleveland was best man. A wedding breakfast followed the ceremony, after which the count and countess proceeded at once to their new home, at No. 1,017 Adams street, no bridal trip being taken.

Count Lewenhaupt is the oldest son and heir to the extensive estate of the Lewenhaupt family of Sweden. The head of the family, the groom-elect's father, is prominent in the political affairs of Sweden, and stands near the king. He is an extensive ship builder. The son came to America to study the methods of ship building and is at present with the Harlan & Hollingsworth company of this city.

The marriage engagement of Miss Sara W. Hills of this city to Mr. Frank W. Hartshorne of New York has been announced.

The Hartford Courant.

SATURDAY MORNING, APRIL 4, 1891.

Mrs. H. W. Garfield, mother of Mrs. E. J. Bassett of Charter Oak avenue, passed her eighty-sixth birthday very pleasantly on Thursday. All her immediate relatives were present to extend congratulations, except one son from Chicago. She received about twenty letters from her friends from abroad, with many kind wishes for continued good health and many happy returns of the day.

Mr. Charles R. Forrest has bought back from Mr. James M. Thomson the lot on the corner of Asylum and Gillett streets that he sold to him a while ago. Mr. Forrest's large and unique house is now approaching completion and apparently he prefers to have no other very near it, as he gives Mr. Thomson a bonus for the lot he was about to build on and pays all the expenses that he had incurred for plans, digging, contracts, etc. Asylum avenue is now so largely built up that the fate of each large vacant lot

BIG FIRE IN ELIZABETH.

The Largest Structure in the City Ablaze To-day.

ELIZABETH, N. J., April 13.—A fire

A BAD BLAZE AT ELIZABETH, N. J.

The Post-Office and Other Buildings Destroyed—Loss $250,000.

A fire broke out at Elizabeth, N. J., yesterday which at one time threatened to destroy the main business blocks of the town. The fire originated in Clew's picture-frame establishment, and was confined to Clark's arcade, the largest structure in the city, containing the post-office, headquarters of the New York and New Jersey telephone company, 3d regiment armory, the district court, several stores and many law and other offices. Nothing could be saved except some of the stock of the stores on the ground floor. The total loss is $250,000. All the post-office furniture and much of the equipment were consumed, including $600 worth of stamped envelopes and 160,000 postal-cards. The letters were thrust into mail bags and carried to a place of safety. All the books, checks, papers and money orders were saved. The roof and top story of the First national bank building was also burned. Clark's arcade was six stories high and cost $150,000.

DAY-SMITH in Jacksonville, Fla., April 16, by the Rev. R. H. Weller, assisted by the Rev. V. W. Shields, Thomas Mills Day, jr., and Anne Perkins, daughter of Mr. D. P. Smith.

HARTFORD, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 15, 1891
WEDDINGS TO-DAY.

SEVERAL LOCAL NUPTIAL EVENTS.

A Fashionable Ceremony Scheduled for This Evening.

At noon to-day the wedding of Chauncey B. Andrews to Miss Belle Owen took place at the fourth church. The services, which were performed by Rev. H. H. Kelsey, before a large gathering of friends of the bride and groom, were simple and attractive. The bride wore a gown of pearl colored amazon cloth trimmed with faille silk, with hat and gloves to match. She entered the church on the arm of the groom carrying a large bunch of white roses in her hand. The ushers, Messrs. Albert Harris, George Warfield, Sherman H. Tillotson, and Edwin C. Gillette, preceded the bride and groom through the center aisle to the pulpit. Mr. and Mrs. Andrews will make their home in New Britain.

Married at St. Patrick's.

This morning at 10 o'clock Miss Nellie Mulligan and Mr. Joseph C. Ryan were married in St. Patrick's church by the Right Reverend Father Hughes. The church was well filled with friends of the bride and groom. The bridal party entered the church by the center entrance and were escorted to the altar by the ushers, Messrs. J. F. Moran, P. H. Carroll and R. F. Carroll of this city and M. A. Barlow of New York. Charles F. Gorman was best man to the groom and Miss Annie Mulligan, a sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. The music throughout the ceremony was rendered by the church choir under the direction of Professor E. J. Dooley. Mr. and Mrs. Ryan after an extended trip to Washington, D. C., will reside in Hartford. The bride is a niece of Superintendent Mulligan, for thirty years superintendent of the Connecticut River railroad at Springfield.

Howard-Perry.

Wingate C. Howard, formerly a reporter on the Hartford Telegram, was married at Farmington to-day to Miss Perry of that place. The wedding took place at the home of the bride and was attended only by the intimate friends of the contracting parties. Mr. Howard is now cashier of the Middletown Plate company. He is well known in Hartford. William Trumbull of New Haven, so in the late Dr. David Trumbull, the famous missionary at Valparaiso, Chile, was married last Monday at Waterbury, Conn., to Miss Anne Leavenworth Train. Mr. Trumbull is a lawyer in New Haven.

William S. Case, son of the Hon. William C. Case of Granby and a member of the law firm of Case, Bryant & Case, will be married next week Wednesday to Miss Elizabeth N. Nichols of Salem, Mass. The wedding will be at Salem, and will be a very quiet one, on account of the recent death of the bride's father. Mr. Case was graduated from Yale in 1885.

Thomas Mills Day, jr., son of Thomas M. Day, will be married to Miss Anne Perkins Smith of Jacksonville, Fla., on the sixteenth of this month. The ceremony will be performed at St. John's Episcopal Church of Jacksonville. Mr. Day is a graduate of Yale in the class of '86 and of the Yale law school in the class of '88. He is at present connected with the Jacksonville Tampa & Key West Railroad.

Horace Greeley's Daughter Married to an Episcopal Clergyman To-day.

PLEASANTVILLE, N. Y., April 23. --Miss Gabrielle Greeley, daughter of the late Horace Greeley was married at 10 o'clock this morning to Rev. Frank Montrose Clendenin at the St. John's Protestant Episcopal church. Rev. B. Thall, rector of the church officiated. The church was crowded with well known people from New York and other places, and the residents of Pleasantville. The church was tastefully decorated, the work having been done by friends of the bride. Rev. Thomas McKee Brown of the church of St. Mary The Virgin, New York city, gave the bride away. The only maid of honor was Miss Chambers.

SEPTEMBER 24, 1905.
lain of East
Rev. Alex ter, acted prettilly tri of St Peter's, West Chester, has re-ses, this d tired from service in the ministry, per-Miss Geele
haps finally, since he has tuberculosis and emony the nervous breakdown. Dr. Clendenin married Horace Greeley's younger daughter, Gabrielle, in 1881; he has been a strenuous sort of churchman and a pretty vigorous citizen for reforms besides. He and Mrs. owes it to the public to get well.
rectory of St Peter's church in Westchester village.

Lakeville, April 29.—The wedding of Mrs. Gertrude Meredith Olmstead and Frank E. Randall is to occur at the residence of the late ex-Governor Holly here this afternoon. Mrs. Olmstead is a granddaughter of the late ex-governor. Mr. Randall is a well-known New York lawyer. It will be remembered that a fine bronze bust of Mrs. Olmstead's father was unveiled last year in Washington Square park, New York. The bust was the work of J. Q. A. Ward, and was paid for by contributions of engineers all over the world. The inscription on the pedestal refers to the
AFTER FIFTY YEARS.

Notable Golden Wedding Celebration to be Held at Andover. SPECIAL TO THE POST.

Willimantic, April 27.—To-morrow at Andover the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Bissell E. Post will be observed. A large number of invitations have been sent out in this and adjoining states and the response of acceptance have been general. Mrs. Post was Miss Eliza Kellogg of Glastonbury. Three years after their marriage they went to Andover and have been settled there ever since. The Post family is one of the best and most highly esteemed families in this section of the state. Six children have been born to them. The two elder sons fought for the Union in the late war. One Thaddeus Welles Post died as a prisoner at Andersonville; the other, John H. Post, is now a well known business man of Hartford. The one daughter, Mrs. James H. Marsh, resides in Andover. There are three younger sons, Edward K., employed by the Consolidated road. Colonel George D. Post with C. E. Longley & Co., in New Haven and formerly aide de camp on Governor Waller's staff and Robert Post, manager of the paper mill in Westpost. Four generations will be represented at the golden wedding and Mrs. Oliver North of New Haven, who was bridesmaid in 1841, will also be present.

The clergyman who then married

Arnold, Constable & Co. Putting a Road Through the Talcott Property.

Within a few days, Arnold, Constable & Co. of New York have come into possession of the Caleb M. Talcott place on Farmington avenue. They held a mortgage on the property to cover a claim of $10,000, but an underlying mortgage had been held by the estate of a Mrs. Starr from outside of Hartford. This latter mortgage had been foreclosed, whereupon Arnold, Constable & Co. stepped in, bought the property out and out from these parties and assumed all indebtedness upon it. It is understood that $45,000 was the price paid.

They intend to put the property into marketable shape as soon as possible. Already there have been marked out the lines of a street cutting the big estate in two, and running from Farmington avenue south. There will probably be a connection made with Queen street, and a score or more of building lots will be opened.

The Talcott place contains eight or nine acres, with a frontage on Farmington avenue of 400 feet, and a depth (extending to the railroad track) of about 1,000 feet. The property has a varied history. Long ago it belonged to Daniel Wadsworth, who built a summer residence there. Seth B. Grant bought the estate from Mr. Wadsworth, and from Mr. Grant's hands it passed into the possession of Henry B. Beach. It was then owned successively by Alfred Gillette and Hezekiah Huntington. Mr. Huntington sold it to James Bolter and George M. Bartholomew. In 1867 Caleb M. Talcott purchased half of the property from Mr. Bolter and three years later bought Mr. Bartholomew's share. The two purchases cost Mr. Talcott about $54,000.

Two years ago the property was appraised at $69,000.

The fine estate for many years the property and homestead of Caleb M. Talcott, on Farmington avenue, has been sold to Messrs. Arnold and Constable of New York city, who have already commenced making radical change which when completed will pretty much obliterate this ancient landmark. The Talcott property has a frontage on Farmington avenue of fully four hundred feet, with a depth of a thousand, running south to the railroad tracks. It is occupied by the Talcott residence, with greenhouse and other buildings; the rest of the yard being a park with a generous sprinkling of forest and shade trees.

The old residence is to remain in its present location, constituting the corner property on the west side of the new street and Farmington avenue. The new street has been surveyed and staked out, and the great and small trees in its line being cleared off. To the old residents it seems almost a work of sacrilege. The ancient estate has remained undisturbed through all changes and reverses of recent owners, but at last it succumbs to what has appeared to be the inevitable since the events of a year ago, and the present owners are determined to realize all the money they can out of it.

Harry L. Williams, of Yale, who made such a wonderful record in the hurdle race at Berkeley Oval Saturday, is a son of Job Williams, president of the American Asylum for the Deaf and Dumb. He was graduated at the West Middle school in 1883, and from the High school in 1887. He is called the finest amateur hurdle racer in the world.

Mrs. Lawlor, formerly Miss Josie Mansfield, the woman who inspired Edward S. Stokes to kill James Fisk, jr., was married the other day in London to Robert L. Reade of New York.

ANER SPERRY MARRIED.

The Well-Known Real Estate Man Married Mrs. Emily House.

This afternoon, Aner Sperry for nearly fifty years a real estate man of this city, was married to Mrs. Emily House, widow of the late James A. House, for many years a well known leather merchant on Pearl street, near Trumbull. Mr. Sperry, who is a widower, is one of Hartford's oldest and most respected residents. He is 79 years of age. His bride is a handsome woman, of excellent family and social connections, and very popular among her many acquaintances. They will reside at the Sperry home on Ann street. The marriage ceremony was attended only by the intimate friends of Mr. and Mrs. Sperry.

"SON OF HIS FATHER."

A WORTHY DESCENDANT OF JOHN BROWN.

Jason Brown Interviewed by a Post Reporter To-day—Some Significant Utterances.

A tall, bent, old gentleman, with long white beard, and pale blue eyes, is stopping at the City hotel, and attracts general attention when his name is learned. He wears a dark blue suit, a wide felt hat and heavy cow hide boots, and on the register of the hotel he wrote in a feeble hand "Jason Brown, Pasadena, Cal." The old man is one of "John Brown's boys"—the second son of the famous abolitionist who took the government arsenal at Harper's Ferry, and who caused the pro-slavery men of Missouri so much anxiety during the Kansas troubles thirty years ago. The old gentleman was seen by a young man this morning and talked interestingly of the troublous time of which he and his family were so conspicuous figures. During the course of his conversation he gave utterance to the following which, coming from a son of John Brown is not without its significance. "I believe that slavery was a sectional evil, and that the people of the North were as much to blame for its long continuance as the people of the South. Why? Because the old slave states of Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New York and Pennsylvania, when they found slavery no longer profitable sold their slaves to other people of the South, and pocketed the money. To be sure a few liberated their slaves—noticeably the Quakers—We of the North were their holders while the people of the South were their owners, and we, in the war that followed, went down into the Red Sea of blood with the people of the South.

"To-day my sympathies, and those of the remaining members of my family, are largely with the people who have suffered the more because of the war."

Mr. Brown very graphically related his experiences in the Kansas troubles of '55-'56. He said, "In 1855, my father, and my brothers, John, Owen, Solomon, Frederick, and myself, went to Ossawatimie and settled. We were avowed free state men, and so asserted

New York Society Stirred Up Over the Rumor and Can't Find the "Lady on the Case"—She is Miss Lolita Sheldon, of Suffield, Conn.

SPECIAL TO THE POST.

Suffield, April 13.—The New York World of Friday had a dispatch from Chicago which greatly interested those of this town who happened to see it or hear of it. It was to the effect that a formal announcement had been made of the engagement of Ogden Armour, eldest son of P. D. Armour, the beef millionaire of Chicago "to Miss Sheldon, one of the belles of Murray Hill, New York." A part of the dispatch read as follows:

Miss Sheldon was the guest of Mrs. Chalmers P. Schwartz in this city some two years ago, but at that time Mr. Armour did not meet her. It was two months ago when Mr. Sheldon, who is a New Yorker and wealthy by inheritance, arrived at Hot Springs with his daughter. Before a week had elapsed Miss Sheldon had been introduced to Mr. Ogden Armour. It seemed a case of love at first sight, and Mr. Armour, for whom no Chicago lady had any charms, surrendered at once and lost no time in his wooing. After an acquaintance of two months the engagement is announced. Mr. Sheldon is a ten-times millionaire and traces his ancestry back for generations in the English line. He spends his time during the summer months in Suffolk, Conn., where he maintains a cottage upon a picturesque promontory overlooking the water.

The World evidently undertook to discover some of the particulars on the New York end of this interesting engagement and yesterday its society columns contained the following somewhat sarcastic qualifications of its Chicago information.

That certainly was a very highly colored dispatch from Chicago to the effect that Ogden Armour, the eldest son of Philip D. Armour had become engaged to a Miss Sheldon of New York, who was described as the daughter of a man ten times a millionaire, and one of the belles of Murray Hill. The most prominent people in New York society among the Sheldons are, of course, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Sheldon, who was a Miss Fearing, and it is well-known that they have no daughter. The handful of Sheldons otherwise who have any social prominence deny very earnestly that this Miss Sheldon who has been visiting Chicago has any place in their respective families, so that the question who Miss Sheldon really forms a burning one, and particularly so in view of the fact that the Chicago authorities declare that the wedding will be attended by the 400 of New York.

The dispatch was rather high colored in places to be sure but the fact of Mr. Armour's engagement to Miss Sheldon is nevertheless true. Moreover Miss Sheldon is a Suffield girl, the daughter of Martin J. Sheldon of Main street, one of Suffield's wealthiest citizens, though very far from being ten times a millionaire. Although Mr. Sheldon's home is in Suffield and very much of his time is spent here he travels considerably with his daughter, and only heir Miss Lolita Sheldon and they sojourn more or less at New York. Miss Sheldon is an exceedingly attractive young lady whose unusual natural gifts have been greatly developed by travel and other advantageous opportunities. As

The Young Millionaire of Chicago Weds a Beautiful Young Woman of Suffield—A Very Simple but Pretty Ceremony.

NEW YORK, May 13.—One of the most beautiful brides ever seen in New York was Miss Lolita Hughes Sheldon, who was married to John Ogden Armour yesterday in the large corner drawing room of the Murray Hill hotel, at Park avenue and Fortieth street. The mantel was banked with purple and white lilacs and pink roses, and the same flowers were massed in vases and jardinieres about the room. A chancel of palms was arranged at one end across the mirror and window, and there the bridal party stood during the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. F. W. Gansanlas, of Plymouth church, Chicago. The bride, who is tall, with regular features and large dark eyes, wore a superb gown of white satin, with a court train.

The corsage was cut low and arranged with point lace sleeves. Point lace was also draped on the front skirt. A diamond necklace and pendant and several large sprays flashed under the meshes of the point lace veil, which was also caught with diamonds. She carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley, and was given away by her father, Martin J. Sheldon. Miss Grace Murray of Chicago was the maid of honor. She was dressed in cream silk and carried roses to match. The bride had no other attendant, and there was no best man, nor were there any ushers. A wedding breakfast was served in an adjoining private parlor. Two hours after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Armour, having received the congratulations of their friends, left for Boston. Mrs. Armour then wore a handsome gown of pale gray cloth and silk, with hat to match. The couple met and fell in love last winter at the Hot Springs. Mr. Armour is 27 years old and is a member of the firm of his father, P. D. Armour, in Chicago. His father is one of the richest men in America and the bridegroom one of the wealthiest young men in Chicago. Since he graduated from Yale he has settled down to business, seeming to care little for society. He is the oldest son. His father gave him $1,000,000 when he came of age, as a capital, and now he is said to be worth at least $12,000,000, well invested and increasing rapidly. The bride's home is in Suffield, Ct. She has traveled much with her father, who lost his wife when his daughter was quite young. She is a very accomplished woman and is quite a fine horse-woman.

Those who witnessed the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Armour, Mr. Chapin and Miss Chapin of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Armour, Jr., Mrs. Martin, Miss Farrington, Mrs. Sloane, Judge and Mrs. Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson, M of this city. The ceremony was performed at Miss Lynch's house, and the engagement was announced yesterday morning. There was a large attendance of friends. Miss Georgia Kenney, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor, and Mr. F. Carroll acted as best man. The ushers were: Messrs. J. J. Dwyer, P. J. Cavanaugh and P. H. Carroll of this city, and John Kildu of Waterbury. Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast and reception were given at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Kenney, on Buckingham street.

Among the many presents was a handsome marble clock, the gift of the Hartford Wheel Club, of which Mr. Gorman is the president.

His Quite English Country Seat in Brookline, Mass.
[Boston Advertiser, Wednesday.]

The Hon. Robert C. Winthrop received the congratulations of friends yesterday upon the advent of his 83d birthday. Mr. Winthrop did not receive callers, owing to a slight indisposition, caused by the changeable weather.

During the winter and spring Mr. Winthrop lives in his richly comfortable mansion, 90 Marlboro street. In the summer he goes to his estate at Brookline, one of the best of the beautiful and restful country seats in that township. Broad lawns stretch away from the house and delightful landscape views are seen from the windows. The entrance hall is broad and lofty, reminding one of those lordly manors in which the nobility of England pass their lives. Heavy carved oaken beams cross its ceilings. Upon its walls are hung scores of paintings, among others magnificent copies of the famous Allston portraits of George and Martha Washington.

Busts adorn the corners and niches, among which is one of the master of the mansion, from the hand of Hiram Powers. Exquisite bronzes are scattered here and there. In the dining-room hangs a long line of ancestral portraits, laced and wigged gentlemen, with the benign face, clear brown eyes and pointed beard of Governor John Winthrop at their head. Throughout the house are the evidences of refined, scholarly tastes, ancient lineage, wealth, dignity and generous hospitality.

GOLDEN WEDDING.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Lyman Gaylord of Rocky Hill.

WINSTED, May 13.—The golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. E. Lyman Gaylord was celebrated to-day at Rocky Hill. Among the guests were the Hon. N. B. Stevens and wife of Winsted, who were present at the wedding fifty years ago as guests, and the Hon. Reuben Rockwell of Colebrook, who was the groomsman, and Mrs. Mallory of New Haven, who was the bridesmaid.

There were many guests present, including several from Hartford, where Mr. Gaylord has been well known for many years.

Among the presents noticed were a gold headed cane for Mr. Gaylord, presented by Rocky Hill friends. There were numerous other presents, including quantities of roses and other flowers.

A fine lunch was served and the guests were handsomely entertained. The genial host and hostess received hearty congratulations and the best wishes of their many friends present.

LOVELAND-ROBBINS.

A Hartford Man Married at Manchester.

The marriage of Mr. B. W. Loveland of this city and Miss Gertrude Robbins of Manchester occurred at the Center Congregational Church last evening at 6 o'clock. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. S. W. Robbins, father of the bride, and the prayer by Bishop E. G. Andrews of Chicago, an uncle of Miss Robbins. Mr. Frank F. Bishop of this city was best man and Miss Emily Anthony of Providence, R. I., maid of honor. The ushers were Mr. Charles L. Loveland of Chicago and Edward C. Loveland of the same place, brothers of the groom, and Mr. George A. Robbins of Chicago and Dr. F. W. Robbins of Detroit, brothers of the bride. Mr. J. M. Gallup of this city was the organist. The ceremony was performed in the presence of a large number of invited guests, including a large number from this city. The church was elaborately decorated.

LOVELAND — ROBBINS.—In Manchester, Wednesday, May 20, in the First Congregational church, by Rev. S. W. Robbins, father of the bride, assisted by Bishop Edward G. Andrews, of New York, Benjamin Walter Loveland of Hartford, and Miss Clara Gertrude Robbins of Manchester.

STARR—STERNBERG.—In Newington, at Grace church, May 20, by Rev. Jared Starr, Edmund Starr and Miss Anna B., daughter of Miss Mary Ruth Chambers and Herbert Warner.

A charming home wedding took place at 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, at the residence of Francis Chambers, 58 Imlay street. The bride was Miss Mary Ruth Chambers, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chambers, the groom, Herbert Otis Warner, son of Mrs. and the late Otis Warner, formerly Hartford residents. The marriage ceremony was in the library. The bay window was decorated with potted palms, ferns and blossoming hydrangeas, the mantel was banked with maiden hair ferns and daisies, and bowls of buttercups made a bright corner, here and there. Rev. James W. Bradin, rector of St. John's Episcopal church was the officiating clergyman. The bridal party entered the room in the following order: Rev. Mr. Bradin, Mr. Warner with his best man Robert Griswold, Miss Ethel Wilcox, maid of honor; Miss Chambers attended by her father. The bride's costume was white faille Francaise and crepe de chine, with train and veil, and she carried a cluster of lillies of the valley. Miss Wilcox's gown was white India silk with frills of yellow chiffon, heart shaped neck and sleeveless, with shoulder knots and bouquet of daisies. The wedding gifts were abundant and beautiful. When the congratulations were over a wedding supper was served by Besse. Mr. and Mrs. Warner left on an evening train. They will reside in Hartford at 79 Pearl street. The guests present were: Mrs. Otis Warner, Miss Frances Doolittle of Woodbury, Mrs. Henry Allender of Greystone, Charles L. Loveland of Chicago, Mr. and Gardner A. Reckard of New York, Mrs. Robert Sugden, Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Dickinson, Miss Lucy J. Pease, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Booth, Miss Booth, Miss Edith Booth, Miss Fanny Booth of New Britain, Mrs. Leander Buncie of Kensington, Frank D. Rood, Mrs. F. D. Rood, Masters Harold C. Rood and Allan Bulkeley Rood, David Rood and Miss Rood, Miss Harriet Warner, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Loveland, Mrs. L. B. Wilcox, Miss Wilcox, Mrs. Louise M. Shelden, Mrs. Sheldon, Mrs. Henry

MARRIED IN MAINE.

Wedding of E. J. Hoadley and Miss Ray Buxton of Portland.

E. J. Hoadley of this city and Mrs. Ray Buxton of Portland, Me., were married Tuesday at the home of Charles W. Allen, brother of the bride, in the latter city. Rev. Dr. Blanchard officiating. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Neal and Miss Kitty Neal of Boston, Mrs. Conant of Boston, Mrs. Buxton and Mrs. A. A. Lufkin of Yarmouth, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Gage, Miss Louie Gage, Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Bailey, Miss Annie Bailey, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Marks, Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Davis, Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Dewey, Mrs. J. W. Deering, Mrs. E. R. Fowle, Mrs. Ella Graham of Denver, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. White and others. There were many handsome wedding gifts, consisting of solid silver, china, etc. Mr. and Mrs. Hoadley are on a trip thorough Canada, and will go as far as Washington, D. C. Mr. Hoadley is a merchant in Hartford and after their return from their wedding journey the couple will make their home in the city.

WARNER—In this city April 15, a son to Mr. and Mrs. Herbert O. Warner.

Married at Middlebury.
MIDDLETOWN, May 12.—Dr. C. Purdy Lindsley of New Haven and Mrs. Laura Dixon Patterson of St. Louis, Mo., were quietly married at the Church of the Holy Trinity in this city this morning. Bishop John Williams, a very intimate friend of the groom, performing the ceremony. No guests were present. Immediately after the ceremony Dr. and Mrs. Lindsley left on a wedding tour. They will live in New Haven.

The Republican.

SPRINGFIELD, THURSDAY, MAY 21.

W. W. Tapley—Miss Mary E. Russell.

A beautiful home wedding was that of William W. Tapley, son of George W. Tapley, and Miss Mary Evangeline Russell, which took place early last evening at the house of the bride's father, George A. Russell, 375 State street. Both Mr Tapley and Miss Russell have grown up together as near neighbors since early childhood and both have been active in the interests of the State-street Baptist church, with which their parents have been so prominently identified. So this festive occasion called out not only a large gathering of Baptist church people, but also many of the prominent people of the city, who have been intimately acquainted with the two families for many years. There were also many present from out of town, and scores of young companions of the bride and groom, bringing life and gaiety to the occasion. Rev W. H. P. Faunce, pastor of the Fifth-avenue Baptist church in New York, formerly pastor of the State-street Baptist church in this city, came especially to take part in the ceremony, offering prayer and the benediction, while the marriage itself was performed by Rev James Grant, the present pastor of the church.

As the guests were ushered into the dwelling, they were met with a fine floral display, every room on the lower floor being trimmed with a mass of roses. These gave a rich fragrance to all the surroundings. In the hall-ways were many potted plants, furnished by Gale, who had the decorations in charge, while all about were strewn roses, the American Beauties, the Woottons and the Brides giving a rich effect in red and white tints. The large parlor at the right of the hall-way had the distinctive feature of being decorated with Bride roses, which were hung around the pictures and mantels in every available place, while the bay window in the front of the room, where the ceremony took place had large banks of the same flowers placed along the sides. Then the pink shades of Mermets held sway in the music-room just off from the parlors, while the delicate Perles bloomed in the dining-room at the rear of these apartments. By a flight of improvised steps the guests were ushered beneath a canvass pavilion, all aglow with a rosy light. This effect was produced by the electric candelabras giving light of 1000 candle power, and beneath this canopy supper was served by Barr, a long decorated table being placed at the end and small tables in the other portions, all holding a profusion of roses.

The marriage procession entered the parlors promptly at 6.30 o'clock, while the Philharmonic orchestra, stationed on the veranda, played a wedding march. First came James P. Anderson of Wilmington, Del., accompanied by Rev James Grant, then entered, Raymond Russell Bill, young son of James A. Bill, Jr., and the little maid of honor, Gertrude Russell, sister of the bride, both being only three years old. They strewed roses in the path of the bride, who appeared in a gown of cream armure silk, cut en train, lace front of white pearl and silver and Princess back with V front, bodice and veil. Behind the bridal couple followed the bridesmaids, Miss Nellie F.

Grace Potter of Newton, daughter of the late Rev A. K. Potter, once pastor of the State-street Baptist church. Finally entered the ushers, who were Harry Chamberlain, Henry Norris, Fordis C. Parker and Harry V. Brewster. The ceremony was performed as the bridal couple stood within the floral bower of the bay window, and a reception followed lasting until 9 o'clock. During this time the guests were given abundant opportunity to inspect the presents, which completely filled two rooms in the second story. There were displayed many sets of delicate china tableware, silver teaspoons and silver knives and forks, parlor lamps, rich and rare vases, candelabra, parlor and drawing-room lamps, two onyx clocks, a piano-lamp presented by Mr Tapley's partners in New York, a mirror and candelabra given by the Oxford club, and a large array of chairs, pictures and other furniture befitting a home. After the ceremony Mr and Mrs Tapley left for a 10-days' trip, and when they return they will board at 58 Pearl street, giving receptions at the house of George W. Tapley, 349 State street, on June 9 and 16. Among the guests present from out of town were Mr and Mrs Thomas Sweatland of Providence, R. I., Miss Sheffield of Westerly, R. I., Miss Griswold of Chicago, George K. Tapley of Boston, Henry W. Merrill of Shelburne Falls, Mr and Mrs Robert Russell, Mr and Mrs Henry Russell, Miss Newton, Mr and Mrs Rufus Mosher, Mr and Mrs Henry A. Chase, John Chase and Miss Kittie Chase, Mr and Mrs A. J. Rand and Miss Newton and Miss Flanders, all of Holyoke, Mr and Mrs Emerson Gaylord of Chicopee, I. A. Whitcomb of Boston, partner in the Raymond & Whitcomb excursion company, and wife, the Misses Luther of Providence, R. I., Mrs A. K. Potter of Newton, Mrs Amos Rugg of Lowell, Rev and Mrs W. H. P. Faunce of New York, Miss Lena Edson of Lynn, Miss Weston of Dalton, Miss Brownell of Worcester, Frederick Russell and the Misses Russell of Bristol, Ct.

H. S. Hyde, Jr.—Miss Morrell.

Purple and white flowers adorned the front pews and chancel of Christ church when the marriage of H. S. Hyde, Jr., and Miss Maude Morrell was solemnized last evening and the air was filled with the fragrance of white lilacs and lilies of the valley. Friends of the young couple had searched the suburbs for miles and brought in wagon loads of lilacs, including the white variety, and these were banked in profusion about the church. Hanging from the pulpit were clusters of the delicate blue wisteria, and the decorations ended in a few palms on each side of the chancel rail. The ceremony took place at 7.30, Rev J. C. Brooks officiating, and the pews were filled with friends and relatives. These members of the Unique club of young ladies, in which the bride, Miss Maude Morrell, was active, were given seats of honor together: Miss Lillian McKnight, Miss Emily Bryant, Miss Alice Haile, Miss Bessie Barton, Miss May Hubbard, Miss S. Eva Smith, Miss Helen Morgan, Miss Anna Marsh and Miss Grace Dwight. The notes of the wedding chorus from "Lohengrin" were the signal for the bridal procession, and the boy choir filed in, singing the well-known words. Following them was the groom, accompanied by the best man, his brother, Jerome W. Hyde. Up each side aisle marched the ushers, a little in advance of the bridal party in the center aisle. The ushers were Roger Morgan, Philip C. Powers, E. L. Graves, W. C. Marsh, Thomas W. Hyde, H. C. Hyde and Henry J. Beebe, Jr., of this city and Alfred Leeds of Stamford, Ct. Up the center aisle the maid of honor, Miss Harriet Hyde, daughter of L. C. Hyde, walked alone, and behind her the bride was escorted by Alexander Fullerton, her grandfather. She wore a cream silk dress, trimmed with duchess lace, and carried a bunch of lilies of the valley. After the ceremony a small reception was given to the bridal party and relatives at the residence of Mr Fullerton, 64 Temple street, the bride's home. There were many presents, the groom's gift to his bride being a necklace with diamond pendant. The ushers were also given heart-shaped charms

The marriage of Edward Standish Bradford, Jr., son of Mayor Bradford, and Miss Sydney Howe of Worcester was celebrated yesterday noon at All Saints' Episcopal church in that city. The bride is the daughter of the late James H. Howe, who was a wealthy and respected citizen of Worcester, and her mother was own sister to the mayor. There was no one present at the ceremony from this city except Mayor Bradford and his family, but a number of friends from other places were there, including Mr and Mrs Baldwin of New York, Mr Flaverly and Miss Flaverly of Providence, Judge Durfee of Providence, ex-chief justice of Rhode Island, and his son, Samuel Durfee, and also Mr and Mrs Rhodes of East Greenwich, R. I. The best man was H. N. S. Bradford, brother of the groom, and the ceremony was performed by Rev A. H. Vinton, the rector of the church. After a reception at the bride's home, Mr and Mrs Bradford started on their bridal trip, and they will make their home in St Louis, where Mr Bradford is employed by the George R. Dickinson paper company.

THE KNOWLTON-LADD WEDDING.

Judge Marcus P. Knowlton of this city and Miss Rose M. Ladd, formerly teacher in the Springfield high school, were married at the residence of the bride's mother on Spruce street in Portland, Me., yesterday forenoon. Rev Mr Tyrie of Lawrence performed the ceremony, only the near relatives attending. Miss Ladd is the daughter of the late Cyrus K. Ladd of Portland, and made many friends in this city during her residence here. After a brief wedding journey Judge Knowlton will bring his bride to his State-street residence.

LIEUT. PENROSE HONORED.

RECEPTION AND PRESENTATION BY THE SIGNAL CORPS.

A Unique and Successful Entertainment at the Armory Last Evening.

The First Signal corps is nothing, if not original. Its entertainments have always possessed this distinctive feature and the reception to ex-Lieutenant Morris Penrose last evening was no exception to the rule. The affair was held in the officers' quarters at the armory. Two rooms were occupied for the evening by the members of the corps and their lady friends. In one room tables were set out for whist, and in the other a light supper was provided in the tasteful manner peculiar to Besse, the popular caterer. Both rooms were profusely decorated with the national colors and the Signal flags used by the corps. Each whist table was spread with a flag and a further military appearance was obtained by the stack of arms at one end of the large room.

The entertainment was arranged to show an appreciation of ex-Lieutenant Penrose and his service of two years in command of the corps. To Lieutenant Penrose the command owes its present proficiency and its high standing in the regiment and the brigade. Drive whist took up the first hour of the evening. There were five tables, each designated by a card bearing a letter in the telegraphic or signal code. Partners were chosen with small flags. The tally cards were very neat and bore the roster, menu and space for whist scores. A border was formed of the motto of the code, "Ready, aye Rready," in the Morse signs. Ten hands of whist were played. Miss Blakeslee won the first prize—a copy of "Sheridan's Ride" in an edition-de-luxe.

Miss Grace Potter of Newton, daughter of the late Rev A. K. Potter, once pastor of the State-street Baptist church. Finally entered the ushers, who were Harry Chamberlain, Henry Norris, Fordis C. Parker and Harry V. Brewster. The ceremony was performed as the bridal couple stood within the floral bower of the bay window, and a reception followed lasting until 9 o'clock. During this time the guests were given abundant opportunity to inspect the presents, which completely filled two rooms in the second story. There were displayed many sets of delicate china tableware, silver teaspoons and silver knives and forks, parlor lamps, rich and rare vases, candelabra, parlor and drawing-room lamps, two onyx clocks, a piano-lamp presented by Mr Tapley's partners in New York, a mirror and candelabra given by the Oxford club, and a large array of chairs, pictures and other furniture befitting a home. After the ceremony Mr and Mrs Tapley left for a 10-days' trip, and when they return they will board at 58 Pearl street, giving receptions at the house of George W. Tapley, 349 State street, on June 9 and 16. Among the guests present from out of town were Mr and Mrs Thomas Sweatland of Providence, R. I., Miss Sheffield of Westerly, R. I., Miss Griswold of Chicago, George K. Tapley of Boston, Henry W. Merrill of Shelburne Falls, Mr and Mrs Robert Russell, Mr and Mrs Henry Russell, Miss Newton, Mr and Mrs Rufus Mosher, Mr and Mrs Henry A. Chase, John Chase and Miss Kittie Chase, Mr and Mrs A. J. Rand and Miss Newton and Miss Flanders, all of Holyoke, Mr and Mrs Emerson Gaylord of Chicopee, I. A. Whitcomb of Boston, partner in the Raymond & Whitcomb excursion company, and wife, the Misses Luther of Providence, R. I., Mrs A. K. Potter of Newton, Mrs Amos Rugg of Lowell, Rev and Mrs W. H. P. Faunce of New York, Miss Lena Edson of Lynn, Miss Weston of Dalton, Miss Brownell of Worcester, Frederick Russell and the Misses Russell of Bristol, Ct.

H. S. Hyde, Jr.—Miss Morrell.

Purple and white flowers adorned the front pews and chancel of Christ church when the marriage of H. S. Hyde, Jr., and Miss Maude Morrell was solemnized last evening and the air was filled with the fragrance of white lilacs and lilies of the valley. Friends of the young couple had searched the suburbs for miles and brought in wagon loads of lilacs, including the white variety, and these were banked in profusion about the church. Hanging from the pulpit were clusters of the delicate blue wisteria, and the decorations ended in a few palms on each side of the chancel rail. The ceremony took place at 7:30, Rev J. C. Brooks officiating, and the pews were filled with friends and relatives. These members of the Unique club of young ladies, in which the bride, Miss Maude Morrell, was active, were given seats of honor together: Miss Lillian McKnight, Miss Emily Bryant, Miss Alice Haile, Miss Bessie Barton, Miss May Hubbard, Miss S. Eva Smith, Miss Helen Morgan, Miss Anna Marsh and Miss Grace Dwight. The notes of the wedding chorus from "Lohengrin" were the signal for the bridal procession, and the boy choir filed in, singing the well-known words. Following them was the groom, accompanied by the best man, his brother, Jerome W. Hyde. Up each side aisle marched the ushers, a little in advance of the bridal party in the center aisle. The ushers were Roger Morgan, Philip C. Powers, E. L. Graves, W. C. Marsh, Thomas W. Hyde, H. C. Hyde and Henry J. Beebe, Jr., of this city and Alfred Leeds of Stamford, Ct. Up the center aisle the maid of honor, Miss Harriet Hyde, daughter of L. C. Hyde, walked alone, and behind her the bride was escorted by Alexander Fullerton, her grandfather. She wore a cream silk dress, trimmed with duchess lace, and carried a bunch of lilies of the valley. After the ceremony a small reception was given to the bridal party and relatives at the residence of Mr Fullerton, 64 Temple street, the bride's home. There were many presents, the groom's gift to his bride being a necklace with diamond pendant. The ushers were also given heart-shaped charms

The marriage of Edward Standish Bradford, Jr., son of Mayor Bradford, and Miss [unclear] of Worcester was celebrated

DR. J. GRANT LYMAN'S ERRATIC CAREER.

DECEMBER 3, 1906.

CHARGES MADE AGAINST HIM IN HIS LATEST SCHEME.

DR. J. G. LYMAN IN TROUBLE AGAIN

MAY 23, 1915.

Exploiter's Latest Role Is Played In Boston.

"LORIMER" WAS HIS "STAGE NAME"

LYMAN SENTENCED

June 1916
Serve Year and Six Months in Atlanta Penitentiary

Dr. J. Grant Lyman, convicted of forging the mails to defraud investors in oil and mining stocks in which he dealt under the firm name of John H. Putnam & Co., was sentenced to serve one year and six months in the Atlanta penitentiary at New York yesterday.

Ten hands of whist were played. As Blakeslee won the first prize—a copy of "Sheridan's Ride" in an edition-de-luxe.

The old Phillips home in North Andover, where the bishop-elect passed much of his boyhood, is a venerable gambrel-roofed building, built in 1782 by Dr. Brooks's great-grandfather, the Hon. Samuel Phillips—Lieutenant-Governor Phillips—one of the founders of Andover.

Dr. J. Grant Lyman has had a meteoric career. He married a sister of George M. Brown, formerly proprietor of The Linden in this city, and who was wealthy in her own name. Dr. Lyman, for a time, about six years ago, operated somewhat extensively in Wall street and had a beautiful home in New York city. Later he went into the promotion of certain zinc and lead mines in the far west, the outcome of which were certain court proceedings. About that time his name figured extensively in the New York newspapers and among the stories written about him was the importation of a $20,000 automobile which was held up for a time because of non-payment of duty. In 1900 he went into the horse racing game, on the running tracks around New York and collected a stable which included some fast ones. Among others he was interested with Willie Shields who was later associated with E. R. Thomas, the millionaire turfman. At one time a number of his horses were attached and in the papers it was stated that George M. Brown of this city was the owner.

Former I

Senator Squibb's secretary. Mr. the flowers in of newspaper, a valuable aid to W. or—Spokane man.

Mr. Dillingham of this city, of the newspaper.

Conklin

William Eugene in the Trinity last evening.

The judges were Judge W. F. Henney and the Rev. L. A. Lampher of Wethersfield. The prize awarded is a complete set of Hudson's Shakespeare. Mr. Conklin is a son of Mr. Henry W. Conklin of this city.

HIS NEW DEPARTURE.

Rev. L. L. Potter to Establish a Wholesale Provision Business.

Rev. Lester L. Potter, formerly pastor of the Park Congregational church of this city, is about to form a business co-partnership and engage in the wholesale flour and provision trade.

A short time ago the public was somewhat surprised to learn that Mr. Potter had resigned his pastorate, on account of ill health in his family. Shortly after his resignation had been accepted he entered into the firm of Payne, Cornwall & Co., wholesale provisions, on Allyn street, Mr. Potter being the partner in the firm. He has now, determined, however, to form a partnership with either Mr. Payne or Mr. Cornwall, just which gentleman was not learned. From this it may be inferred that Mr. Potter intends to permanently retire from the ministry.

Major E. V. Preston, wife and daughter, and Miss Annie M. Holbrook, daughter of Mr. C. M. Holbrook, leave for New York to-day. They will sail for Europe.

The Hartford Post.

HARTFORD, THURSDAY, JUNE 4, 1891.

Emma H. Brown, Daughter of Frank S. Brown and Dr. John Grant Lyman of Rochester, the Principals.

No more beautiful wedding has ever occurred in this vicinity than that last evening of Miss Emma H. Brown, daughter of Frank S. Brown, and Dr. John Grant Lyman of Rochester, N. Y. The wedding was celebrated at the elegant residence of Mr. Brown, Water-Nook, Wethersfield, and was the society event of the season.

The large and spacious piazzas of the house were enclosed and lighted by lanterns, making a splendid promenade, while the interior of the house was simply beautiful. There were flowers everywhere, while the mantels, mirrors, window seats, etc., were completely filled with roses.

The magnificent drawing room was the place in which the ceremony was performed and this was a marvel of beauty. From the western door an aisle made by white ribbons led to the eastern end and here there had been erected what might well be called a chancel, which was an arch of evergreens and roses, banked about by elegant flowers of all kinds and descriptions, while under the arch were flowers and on the floor two white satin pillows.

At precisely 7:30 o'clock in the presence of relatives and intimate friends the bridal party entered the room. First came the ushers, W. R. Sloane of Rochester, N. Y., Dr. Ely of New York, C. F. Sawyer of Dover, N. H., and John T. Fenn of this city. The ushers were followed by the bridesmaids, Miss Mollie McDowell of Portland, Me., Miss Minnie Benton of Manchester, Miss Alice Lyman of Rochester, N. Y., and Miss Hattie Clark of this city. Immediately following came the maid of honor, Miss Anne A. Brown, sister of the bride, and then came the bride, upon the arm of her father. The party was met at the altar by the groom, accompanied by his best man, Robert R. Earle of Herpimer, N. Y. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. George Leon Walker of the Center church, the Episcopal form being used. During the ceremony Mendelssohn's wedding march was performed by Colt's orchestra, which was hidden back of the altar.

At 8 o'clock a reception was held which was attended by many society people of Hartford and other places. Among those present from Hartford were: General and Mrs. L. A. Barbour, Mrs. Charles A. Jewell, Miss Charlotte Jewell, David Mayer, Dr. and Mrs. Kellogg, Dr. Ed. Kellogg, Mrs. H. H. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Dexter Allen, Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Walker, Ex-Governor Sill and Miss Sill, Mrs. Daniel Morrell and Miss Morrell, Milo Hunt and Miss Hunt, Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Smith and Miss Lizzie Smith, Pliny Jewell, Walter Sanford, Rev. Frank R.

Major E. V. Preston, Mrs. Preston and H. K. Wood, Miss Preston will sail Tuesday from Boston on the Saxonia for Liverpool and will be absent from home for two months.

MAY 2, 1903.

Mrs. Hugh O. Teatecost, Mr. and Mrs.

At Denver, Col., 15th, twin daughters to Theodore and Florence Ward and Holland, and granddaughters to Mrs. Josiah G. Holland formerly of this city.

Invitations have been issued for the marriage of Theodore Holland, son of the late Dr J. G. Holland, to Miss Florence Olmstead, daughter of Jasper D. Ward of Denver, Col., which is to take place at St John's cathedral in that city June 3. Mr Holland passed his boyhood in this city, and was a graduate of Williston seminary in 1878, and of Yale college in 1882.

THE MARRIAGE OF DE J. G. HOLLAND'S SON.

The Denver (Col.) Republican of June 4 gives the following account of an event interesting to many Western Massachusetts people: Theodore Holland led to the hymenal altar yesterday Miss Florence Ward, one of Denver's most beautiful and accomplished young ladies and the daughter of Judge J. D. Ward of the firm of Ward & Reuter. The ceremony was performed at St John's cathedral at 6 o'clock p. m., Bishop Spalding officiating. A large gathering of the friends of the young people witnessed the proceedings. The father of the bride gave his daughter away amid the elegant profusion of flowers that decorated the cathedral and altar. The bride's gown was a beautiful one, being made of white satin and trimmed with lilacs and orange blossoms. She wore a long veil that fell in waves of white over her rich dress. She wore a diamond pendant, the gift of the groom. The first bridesmaid was Miss Jessie Ward, the sister of the bride. She was attired in a pink crepe dress, trimmed with white lace and gold. She wore a veil and carried pink flowers. Miss Isabel Hill, the second bridesmaid, was dressed in a similar costume. Mrs. J. D. Ward, mother of the bride, was attired in a costly dress of brocade satin, old rose in hue and en train. The ushers were Messrs Seelye, Cuthbert, Salisbury and Robinson. Neville Hughes acted as best man. After Bishop Spalding had pronounced the young couple man and wife, the carriages were driven to the home of Mr and Mrs Ward at Lincoln and Nineteenth avenues, where a reception was held. Mr and Mrs Holland kept the direction of their tour a profound secret, and no one but themselves, therefore, will know where they spend the honeymoon until their return. The groom is a young man of riches and a lawyer by profession. He is the son of J. G. Holland, the eminent editor, poet and author, who wrote "Bitter Sweet" and other celebrated literary creations.

THE CANNON-THOMPSON WEDDING.

The wedding of Harry Le Grand Cannon and Miss Elizabeth Thompson took place yesterday in St Thomas's church at New York. The ceremony was performed by Rev John Wesley Brown, rector of the church, assisted by Bishop Henry C. Potter and Rev E. D. Tibbitts of Albany. After the ceremony a reception was held at the residence of Mrs. Enah.

CUMMING MARRIED.

Miss Florence Garner the Bride—But a Few Present.

LONDON, June 10.—Sir William Gordon-Cumming was married at 11 o'clock this morning in the fashionable Holy Trinity Church at Chelsea to Miss Florence Garner, daughter of the late Commodore William Garner of New York City. Lord Thurlow gave the bride away. Major Vesey Dawson of the Coldstream Guards was the best man. The Rev. Robert Eyton officiated. The marriage was practically secret. Only twelve people were present at the ceremony. Lady and Sir William Gordon-Cumming left the city just after the wedding for the bridegroom's estate, Altyre, near Ferno, Scotland, where they will spend the honeymoon.

The bride and bridegroom after the ceremony breakfasted with Lord Middleton, Sir William's brother-in-law. The latter attributes the verdict entirely to the summing up and the charge to the jury.

Lady Gordon-Cumming is the eldest daughter of the late Commodore William Garner of New York, who was drowned in July, 1876, with his wife, through the capsizing of Mr. Garner's yacht Mchawk off

At her home at 117 Washington street, Miss Lucy Mather Brace was married last evening to Joshua V. Allen. The bride is the daughter of the

A PLEASANT HOME WEDDING.

Marriage of Miss Brace and Mr. Allen Last Evening.

One of the prettiest wedding ceremonies that ever occurred in Hartford was celebrated last evening at the Brace residence on Washington street when Miss Lucy Mather Brace was married to Joshua Wilson Allen, the assistant registrar of the Hartford Theological seminary and son of John Allen.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Graham Taylor of the seminary, in the large drawing room which was beautifully decorated with flowers, an exquisite panel of laurel being placed directly above the spot where the couple stood. The wedding party was preceded by two little pages—Masters Frederick Starr Collins of this city and Frankie Forbs of New York, who were dressed in white sailor suits. The bridesmaids, Miss Allen of this city and Miss Ray of Brooklyn, appeared in pink embroidered tulle and brocade and the maid of honor, Miss Carrie Powell, wore a yellow dress of the same material. The bride's dress was of heavy, corded silk with orange blossoms and her only ornament was a four-leaf clover pendant with diamonds.

Mr. Allen was attended by A. M. Well-Haydeman of Friendship, N.Y., and his usher Miss Carrie Meers were: F. W. Wallace of Ansonia, George W. Moseley and P. G. Willet of Buffalo, who were his classmates at Yale; J. W. Buell of Litchfield and L. F. Robinson of this was a delightful party. The bride was escorted by her numerous friends brother-in-law, Atwood Collins.

Rev. Dr. E. P. Parker performed the ceremony. Miss Moseley wore a gown of white silk en train and veil, and carried a bouquet of white roses. The bridesmaids were Miss Townsend and Miss Whitney, Harry L. Hayden, Edgar B. Burr, Edwin E. Moseley, of this city, and C. R. Bailey of New York were the ushers.

The presents were very choice and numerous. The bridal party left the house at 9 o'clock, after which dancing was enjoyed by the assembled friends.

The day was also the forty-fifth anniversary of the marriage of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Moseley. Mr. and Mrs. Hayden will receive their friends Monday and Tuesday evenings, June 29 and 30, at 63 Inlay street.

Miss Delia W. Lyman, daughter of the late Professor Chester S. Lyman, of Yale, and Frederick C. Porter, professor of Biblical theology in Yale Divinity School, were married at New Haven Wednesday night.

Rev. Frank R. Shipman of this city acted as best man at the marriage in New Haven last evening of Miss Delia Lyman to Rev. Frank C. Porter.

At New Haven, Ct., 10th, by Rev Dr Newman Smyth, FRANK CHAMBERLAIN PORTER and DELIA WOOD, daughter of the late Prof Chester S. Lyman.

At Lenox 11th, by Rev W. M. Grosvenor, GEORGE EVANS TURNURE and ELIZABETH GARDNER LANIER.

At Rye, N.Y., 11th, Rev ANSON PHELPS ATTERBURY of the Park Presbyterian church, New York city, and CATHARINE, daughter of the late William P. Van Rensselaer.

At Brooklyn, N. Y., 13th, JOSEPH WARREN JEFFERSON, son of Joseph Jefferson and known on the stage as Joseph Warren, and MAUD BENDER.

The marriage engagement has been announced of Miss Anna Rumrill Dwight, daughter of George Dwight, and Oliver A. Marsh.

on ju and late stor ber begin son day
Van l to inet,
fr. Fe
dutie ng th and hi

A DELIGHTFUL RECEPTION.

Given by Dr. and Mrs. Wainwright at Phalanx Hall.

A thoroughly delightful affair was the reception given in Putnam Phalanx armory last evening by Dr. and Mrs. W. A. M. Wainwright in honor of their daughter, Miss Mabel Wainwright. The number of guests was large. The drill room was beautifully draped with flags, and behind a screen of tropical plants and ferns the orchestra on the platform made music for the dancing, which, with an interval when supper was served, occupied the time until midnight or later. Among the guests were Governor and Mrs. Bulkeley, Senator and Mrs. Hawley, Mrs. Colt, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cheney, Mrs. Frederick Russell, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jewell, Mr. and Mrs. William Hamersley, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Taintor, Mr. and Mrs. G. Wells Root, Edward Stedman, Dr. and Mrs. Williamson Smith, Professor and Mrs. Ferguson, Dr. Samuel Hart, Dr. T. R. Pynchon, Dr. W. R. Martin, Rev. and Mrs. Storrs O. Seymour, Rev. Mr. Braden, Rev. Mr. Watson, Miss Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. Atwood Collins, Dr. and Mrs. P. H. Ingalls, Dr. and Mrs. George C. Jarvis, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Knous, the Misses Knous, Miss Taft, Miss Davis, Miss Cook of Paterson, N. J., Miss Ranlet of Holyoke, the Misses Twitchell, Miss Starr, Dr. and Mrs. Davis, Dr. Johnson, E. G. Lewis, Dr. Taft, the Misses Fitzgerald, Miss Robinson, Miss G. Bulkeley, Miss M. Bulkeley, J. Humphrey Greene, Mrs. P. S. Starr, Miss Carson, Miss E. E. Johnson, Frederick Fitzgerald, Miss Webb, Miss Bessie Morgan, Miss Matson, Miss Annie Bunce, Mr. and Mrs. John P. Gavit, Dr. and Mrs. Howe, Dr. and Mrs. Childs, Dr. Parmelee, Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Jewell, Mr. and Mrs. Pliny Jewell, Miss Taintor, Mrs. Dr. Starr, Miss Emily Cheney, Dr. Johnson, Dr. Knight, Miss Forest, Dr. and Mrs. Bacon, Dr. C. C. Beach, Dr. William M. Hudson, J. W. Lewis, E. M. McCook, R. W. Huntington, Jr., Miss Shipman, Arthur Shipman, L. F. Robinson, S. Ives of New Haven, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. McCray, C. C. Trowbridge, Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Loomis, Charles Noel Flagg, Judge Pardee, Mr. and Mrs. George L. Bulkeley, Grenville Russell, William Watson, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Post, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Skinner, Dr. J. E. Root, Heyward Scudder, Dr. Van Schaack, Horace B. Cheney, I. K. Hamilton, Jr., Rev. and Mrs. Harriman of Windsor.

The papers announce the marriage engagement of Miss Edna Marguerite Ellis of Boston, daughter of the late Gen Theodore G. Ellis of Hartford, and David Dwight Wells, only son of David A. Wells of Norwich, Ct., and now a Harvard student of much promise. The news will interest Mr Wells's friends and relatives in this city, who have been lately pleased by his success in writing short stories, several of which have attracted much attention.

Miss Anita Trumbull was married Saturday afternoon in New Haven to Frederick Van Lennep of New York. The bride is the daughter of the late Dr. David Trumbull of Valparaiso, Chile.

A coaching party from Hartford took supper at the Russell Saturday night. The party was chaperoned by Mrs. E. E. Marvin, Mrs. C. A. Stillman and Mrs. Rathbun, and consisted of the following ladies and gentlemen: Misses Stillman, Hyde, Watrous, Northam, Terry, Rathbun, Grou, Kerzick, Raymond and Messrs. Taylor, Rogers, Stillman, Danneberg, Marvin, Hyde, Morris and PAYNE-In this city, July 19, a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Payne.

1st child

see vol VIII page 70

PAINE-BRADWAY-In Oakland, Cal., June 18, by the Rev. C. H. Hobart, Frederick W. Payne of Hartford, and Ella L., daughter of Dr. J. E. Bradway, of Oakland. No cards.

Mr. Frederick Payne of Hartford Weds a Popular Young Lady of Oakland.

One of the prettiest and most fashionable weddings that has been celebrated in Oakland in some time was that of Frederick W. Payne and Miss Emma L. Bradway, Tuesday evening.

The wedding ceremony took place at the First Baptist Church on Fourteenth and Brush streets, Rev. C. H. Hobart, the pastor officiating, assisted by Dr. E. H. Gray. The ceremony was witnessed by a large gathering of friends of the contracting parties.

The bridal party entered the church at 8 o'clock to the time of the wedding march. The arrangement of the bridal party was novel and very pretty. There was no bridesmaid, but Miss Bessie Weed and Master Bradway Head were the maid of honor and best man respectively, and looked very cute as they marched down the aisle with the bridal party. Six pretty young ladies in pretty toilets were the ushers. They were: Miss Emma Cable, Miss Morgan, Miss Stevenson, Miss Schreiber, Miss Mary Olney and Miss Florence Roberts. The bride looked lovely in a pretty costume of cream white crepe, trimmed with ostrich feather trimmings and orange blossoms. The church was prettily decorated.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at the residence of the bride's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Bradway, 760 Tenth street. The parlors had been transformed into a bower of roses that looked bewitchingly pretty. The bay window was draped with festoons of roses and streamers of ivy. The mantel in the back parlor was a perfect bank of roses and other choice flowers blended harmoniously with prettily draped foliage. A quantity of fragrant pepper branches were used in the decoration, the fireplace being completely filled in an artistic manner with the foliage. Large numbers of choice white roses and La France roses and quantities of snowballs and syringa were used in beautifying the rooms.

As soon as the bridal party and guests arrived from the church the usual congratulations were showered upon the happy couple. A very enjoyable evening was spent in appropriate festivities and general sociability, a sumptuous wedding supper being a feature of the evening.

The bride and groom departed at a late hour. They will take a bridal trip to Del Monte hotel before leaving for Hartford, Conn., which will be their future home. Mr. Payne is engaged in business there, occupying a responsible and lucrative position with the Travelers' Insurance Company. Miss Bradway is well known in the best circles of Oakland socierly known as San Leandro East of Evergreen Park, on Interest at 8 per cent. e balance in Four Equal

MS
875	120x320	ne	ne
875	120x320	ne	ne
850	120x320	ne	ne
825	120x320	ne	ne
800	120x320	ne	ne

What an Educated Indian Says About It.

Mr. Frank Wood of Boston turns over to the Evening Transcript a letter just received by him from a friend in South Dakota. The writer of it, Dr. Eastman, is a full-blood Sioux who was graduated at the Boston Medical School last summer. Here is the letter:—

PINE RIDGE AGENCY, S. D., Jan. 3, 1891.

Dear Mr. Wood—I will send you a short letter. Thursday morning I visited the field of battle, where all those Indians were killed on the Wounded Knee last Monday. I went there to get the wounded, some who were left out. The soldiers brought with them about twenty-five, and I found eleven who were still living. Among them were two babies, about three months old, and an old woman, who is totally blind, who was left for dead. Four of them were found out in the field in the storm, which was very severe. They were half-buried in the snow. It was a terrible and horrible sight to see women and children lie in groups dead. I suppose they were of one family. Some of the young girls wrapped their heads with shawls, and buried their faces with their hands. I suppose they did that so they wouldn't see the soldiers come up to shoot them. At one place there were two little children—one about one year old, the other about three—lying on their faces, dead, and about thirty yards from them a woman lay on her face, dead. These were away from the camp about an eighth of a mile. In front of the tents, which were in a semi-circle, lay dead most of the men. This was right by one of the soldiers' tents. Those who were still living told me that that was where the Indians were ordered to hold a council with the soldiers.

The accounts of the battle by the Indians were simple, and confirmed one another. The soldiers ordered them to go into camp, for they were moving then, and told them that they would give them provisions. Having done this, they (the Indians) were asked to give up their arms, which was complied with by most of them; in fact, all the older men; but many of the younger men did not comply, because either they had no arms or concealed them in their blankets, and then an order was given to search their persons and the tents as well, and when a search was made of a wretch of an Indian, who was known as Good For Nothing, he made the first shot and killed one of the soldiers. They fired upon the Indians instantaneously. Shells were thrown among the women and children, so that they mutilated them most horribly. I tried to go to the field the next day with some Indians, but I was not allowed. I think it was a wise thing not to go so early. Even Thursday I thought I would be shot. Some of the Indians (friendly) found their relations lay dead. They wailed and began to pull out their guns. My friend, Louis de Coteau, was with me, but left me when they acted in this manner. Before we left the hostiles appeared, so we did not take in all the wounded. Those we could not carry away we left in a log house, and gave them food.

I am busy in taking care of the wounded. I shall write in a day or so again. My love to all. Affectionately yours, CHARLES A. EASTMAN.

A LETTER FROM ELAINE GOODALE.

Her Account of Things at the Pine Ridge Agency.
(New York World.)

It is a singular fact, and one which does credit to human nature, that the old Indians are always just and generous. He who fights the Indian must needs respect his magnificent courage and contempt of death. Those who meet him in council are compelled to respect his dignity and sagacity. My personal experience with Indians has covered a period of seven years. Three years were spent in teaching and studying Indians at Hampton, Va.; three years more in organizing a day school and doing missionary work in an Indian camp on the Missouri river, with intervals of travel over the reservations in the company of Indians, and the last year has been devoted to the official inspection and superintendence of all the government school work among the Sioux. I learned the Dakota language four years ago and have found it invaluable in the work.

The present crisis in Indian history is certainly unexpected to most of us. We who have been intimately acquainted with the Sioux for the past few years have felt (I can

Elaine Goodale, the philanthropist, and poet, is doing her share to solve the Indian problem. She is going to marry one of them. Dr. Charles A. Eastman, the dusky red man of her choice, seems to be made of a different sort of clay from the "medicine man" we are accustomed to read about. His name would imply that his sympathies were with this section; but this is not so. He was educated at Dartmouth

ELAINE GOODALE'S ENGAGEMENT.

Some Information About the Fortunate Young Man.

(New York Evening Post.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—The news of Miss Elaine Goodale's engagement to marry Dr. Charles A. Eastman is confirmed by a letter written by Miss Goodale herself to a personal friend, in which she makes the announcement.

Inquiry shows that Dr. Eastman, who is about twenty-eight years old, has had a rather remarkable career. He belongs to the Sioux tribe, and grew up amid the surroundings of comparative savagery till he reached the age of fourteen years. His preparatory instruction was got at a reservation school, and he passed from that, for a little while, into Beloit College, but soon traveled East and entered Dartmouth. Here, by his own pluck and energy, he made his way through the full course, and then studied medicine at Harvard. A great many of his white friends have urged him to settle down in the East, and the promise of his building up a practice where their influence would aid him was certainly flattering; but he resisted every appeal, saying: "That is not what I came East and worked for. I have not done this for the mere sake of making money. I have done it because I wanted to help my people. Among them I can do good. I know their language, and can help them as no stranger can." So back he went to the West.

Some of Dr. Eastman's friends are very enthusiastic in the estimate they set upon his character. One of them goes so far as to say that he is as nearly a perfect type of

DR. EASTMAN TO MARRY.

The Sioux Indian Physician Will Wed Miss Elaine Goodale.

Invitations have been received in this city to the marriage of Miss Elaine Goodale, the poetess, and Dr. Charles Alexander Eastman, which will occur at the Church of the Ascension, New York, on Thursday, June 18, at high noon. Dr. Eastman, who is a full-blooded Sioux Indian, was graduated from the Boston University last June. Of his early life the Indian Bulletin says:—

His original name was Ohijesa, meaning a winner, and there seems so far a glint of prophecy in the name, when one observes the difficulties that he has surmounted in his somewhat romantic career. He was born on the Sioux Reservation, in Minnesota, in 1862. His father was the son of a Sioux chief, and joined in the Sioux outbreak of that year, was wounded, captured and condemned to be hanged but his sentence was commuted by President Lincoln. The mother had died at the child's birth, and in the troubled times before the outbreak the baby was carried by some of his tribe through the unbroken forests, hundreds of miles into British America.

Here he lived till he was 11 years old, when his father, who had become a Christian, sought him out and brought him to Flandreau, in Dakota Territory, which was then a civilized settlement. From here he went to several schools, at last entering Dartmouth College, from which he was graduated in 1887. The same year he entered the medical department of Boston University. He has also read law, with the object of fully understanding the constitutional attitude of our government towards the Indian. His purpose in life is said to be threefold. He wishes to place the sanitary condition of his nation upon a higher plane, to teach them their exact status among the peoples of the country, and to act as interpreter for them in their future dealings with the gov-

A Little Gossip About To-Day's Romantic Wedding.

(Boston Transcript.)

Dr. Charles Eastman, who is to be married in New York Thursday, at the Church of the Ascension, to Miss Elaine Goodale, reached Boston a day or two ago, and is now the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wood of Ashmont, with whom he had his home for two or three years. At the ceremony in the beautiful Gothic church on Fifth avenue, which Dr. John Cotton Smith made famous, Miss Goodale is to be attended by her sisters, Dora (who shared her own precocious public honors as a poet) and Rose, one in pink and one in a yellow gown. The bride's dress is white silk. Dr. Eastman was yesterday occupied with selecting articles for his own wedding outfit, and the ethnic romance of the son of a Sioux warrior shopping for his wedding outfit in Boston stores is one which the Sioux himself has cultivated; humor and penetration to enjoy in a third-person sort of a way, as well as with the usual civilized man's appreciation of shopping, an occupation which is, after all, by no means distinctively delighted in by the feminine mind.

Miss Goodale has lately spent a fortnight with friends here, and they say there is no doubt that it is decidedly a love-match. "I was a little anxious, I confess," said one of Dr. Eastman's friends, "before I came to know Miss Goodale, that she was marrying him from some high or public sort of motive or duty or sentiment for her work among the Indians; but I know now there never was a woman more absolutely devoted to a man in this world. She says she 'isn't worthy of him.' She is, of course; but I don't wonder she feels so, for there never was a finer type of a Christian gentleman than Charles Eastman—fine, refined, honorable, upright, delicate and courteous. I think they will be an uncommonly happy pair of people."

Many Boston people have seen Dr. Eastman, and know what a strong, thoughtful, good face he has, below the pompadour of his dark, short, straight hair—Indian of Indians though he is in complexion and conformation of features. Miss Goodale, too, has a strong, serious face, with clear-cut, Grecian profile, and hair brushed straight up from her forehead—the face of a woman of great sense as well as sensibility, and handsome in profile, especially. She has dark hair, blue-gray eyes; she is a little taller than medium height and is rather slender, perfectly strong and healthy, never tired, can ride forty miles at a time horseback over the prairies, and is looking forward with happy anticipation to the home in the "land of the Dakotas," of her warrior of peace—

From the evening star descended,
Star of evening, star of woman,
Star of tenderness and passion!
All its fire was in his bosom.
All its beauty in his spirit!
All its mystery in his being,
All its splendor in his language!
And her lovers the rejected,
Handsome men with belts of wampum"

(for it is undoubtedly true that Miss Goodale has put aside very advantageous offers), will have to believe that she is "happy with Osseo," since she chooses him above them all.

After the wedding in New York Thursday, Dr. Eastman and his bride will go to Lake Mohonk for a few days, then will come to Boston in time for a wedding reception to be given them next Thursday by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wood, at their home in Ashmont.

One of Dr. Eastman's sisters is the wife of a white man. Before going to Pine Ridge Dr. Eastman and his bride will pay a visit to his brother, the Rev. John Eastman, who is a Presbyterian minister in Nebraska, and has a large and intelligent Indian congregation. After this visit they will go to live in the house the government has built for them at Pine Ridge.

Marriage of Elaine Goodale and Dr Charles Alexander Eastman of the Sioux Nation at New York Yesterday.

79

A wedding of exceptional interest in many ways took place at the Protestant Episcopal church of the Ascension, Fifth avenue and Tenth street, at noon yesterday,—the bride being Miss Elaine Goodale, who has for several years been a teacher of Indians and for a year past inspector of the government schools among the Indians in the Dakotas, and the groom Dr Charles Alexander Eastman, government physician at Pine Ridge agency and an Indian of the Sioux nation. To Western Massachusetts people there are special reasons for interest in this marriage because the bride is a native of the Berkshire hills, and she and her younger sister Dora became famous a dozen years ago as the child poets of Sky Farm, and certainly wrote the most remarkable verse ever produced at the ages they had attained, which still holds its place as a part of our literature. Since Sky Farm days, while Dora has continued to write poems for the magazines, Elaine has bidden farewell to that muse, and instead writes only strong prose when the interest of the Indians demands her help. For several years ago she went to Hampton (Va.) institute as an assistant and thence proceeded as a government teacher to the White River agency among the Brulé Sioux in South Dakota, where she stayed for some years and did good service in civilizing the Indian children, and so far as one woman, could showing the Indian men and women that we white people are not all their enemies. It is something like a year ago that Miss Goodale was appointed to the inspectorship which she is about to resign, and which has involved almost constant travel over the wide regions of the Dakotas.

Dr Eastman, whom she has married, studied at Beloit college in Wisconsin and then at Dartmouth, where he was graduated in 1887 with distinction, being the class orator as well as captain of the football team and a capital all-round athlete, and at once one of the most popular and best respected men of the college. His friends liked to call him by his Indian name, Ohoiyesa, which is said to signify "the winner." After leaving college he studied medicine in Boston, and this year was appointed physician at the Pine Ridge agency. It was there that the Indian and the daughter of the Puritans met, in the serious work of caring for the Indians wounded by our troops in the unfortunate and needless conflicts following the "ghost dances" of last winter; so that if there be what many may call a romantic side to the marriage, the two certainly made their friendship in no holiday fashion but in circumstances that ought to bring out the realities of character.

There was nothing elaborate in the preparations for the wedding. The church, with its noble altar painting of the Ascension of Christ by Lafarge, is one of the older and simpler of the churches of its denomination. It was well filled with guests; the chancel was decorated with palms. After the entry of the rector, Rev E. Winchester Donald, who took his position within the altar rail, Dr Eastman followed from the vestry, accompanied by his best man, Dr Crane of Foxboro, a classmate; and the bride, leaning on her father's arm, with her sisters Dora Read Goodale and Rose Sterling Goodale as bridesmaids, came down the aisle to the "Lohengrin" music. The ushers were Redington Dayton, George H. Hitchcock, J. W. Van Santvoord and Edward L. Williamson. Rev Mr Donald performed the ceremony; Henry Sterling Goodale, her father, giving the bride away. In the front pew sat her mother, Mrs D. H. R. Goodale, and her young brother, Robert S. Goodale. As the wedded couple turned to descend, every one was struck with the singular contrast of these types of two races; Dr Eastman tall, lithe, spare, swarthy, black-haired, with a fine head and strongly-marked Indian features; Mrs East-

MARRIAGE CEREMONY AT KEOKUK.

The Wedding as Devoid of Display as Was Consistent With the General's Rank—Public Reception—The Couple Start for the Far West.

The marriage of Gen John M. Schofield, commander-in-chief of the army of the United States, and Miss Georgia Kilbourne of Keokuk, Ia., was solemnized at St John's at noon yesterday being Rev R. of the church. the high rank social promi- ing was devoid features were and his staff intimate friends ing parties wit- tial train beared at the new o'clock in the reception com- Keokuk hotel bands of music. decorated for the predominating. k the wedding ss Kilbourne's as beautifully ak leaves and es. A canopy d from the eing at the door, of Cleveland, id Buell, her Fyffe of Chit Louis and us—preceded B. A. Schofield came next, and was followed by the bride's mother and her son Will, Gen Schofield and Miss Kilbourne, Lieuts Bliss and Andrews bringing up the rear. The bride wore a superb costume of white corded silk with demi-train, Louis Quinze jacket trimmed with crystal pimp and vest of mouselin de soie. A beautiful white bonnet trimmed with duchesse lace crowned the costume. Her hands were encased in white gloves, and she carried a silver prayer book. At precisely 12 o'clock the prelate, R. C. McIlwaine, pronounced them man and wife, the service being according to the rites of the Episcopal church. Rt Rev Bishop Perry, of the diocese of Iowa, assisted in the ceremony.

The audience was probably the most exclusive and fashionable ever in attendance at a wedding west of the Mississippi river. The prominent persons from abroad included Gen Schofield and sister, Mrs Wise, Miss Caroline Wise, Mrs Edward Kilbourne and her daughter, Jennie, Colin and Edith Williams Fyffe of Chicago; Capt C. B. Schofield of Washington, D. C.; Lieut A. D. Andrews, Lieut L. N. Bliss and Mrs Andrews of New York; Rev James Schofield and his two daughters of Independence, Ia.; Mr and Mrs Hiram Barney of New York; U. B. Schofield of Washington, son of the general; C. J. Ball of St Louis, George D. Deval of Kansas City, W. E. Poe, John Squires and R. F. Bradford of St Louis. At the conclusion of the ceremony the bridal party left the church in positions reversed from those when entering. The stately form of the distinguished soldier, decorated with the order of the Cincinnati, the Loyal Legion and Grand Army badges, towered full a head and shoulders above his young wife. A wedding breakfast was partaken of at the home of Mrs George E. Kilbourne, which was as free from ostentation as the preceding portion of the ceremonies. From 12.30 to 2.30 in the afternoon those holding invitations were received at the family residence.

Promptly at 2.45, Co A, 2d regiment, Iowa national guard and Curtis camp Sons of Veterans, preceded by a band, escorted Gen

ABBE—WHITTLESEY—At the Grove, Canaan Conn., June 18, by the Rev. Elisha Whittlesey, assisted by the Rev. Francis W. Bennett, Thomas Abbe, of Abilene, Kansas, and Katherine Cowles, daughter of the officiating clergyman.

PAGE—RIDDLE—On Thursday evening, June 25, 1891, at the Third Presbyterian Church, Pittsburgh, Pa., by the father of the bride, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Cowan, pastor of the church, and the Rev. Dr. White, rector of St. Andrew's Church. Mary Moorhead, daughter of Professor M. B. Riddle, D. D., of the Western Theological Seminary, to the Rev. Herman Page of Boston, Mass.

The Hartford Post.

HARTFORD, SATURDAY, JUNE 27, 1891.

Mrs. Clarence Terry of this city, with her daughter, Miss Nellie, and son, Master Charlie, have returned home after an absence of three years abroad, two of which were spent in a quiet town in Brittany, and nearly a year in Paris. The return voyage was made on the Friesland from Antwerp, and the family are now in their home, corner of Collins and Sigourney streets.

The Hartford Times.

Hartford, Monday, June 29, 1891.

Mr. and Mrs. Mandelbaum depart from Hartford, to-day, where they have been residents for forty years, prominent in the community, highly regarded, and holding evenly the respect of all our citizens. In this long space of time Mr. Jacob Mandelbaum's prudent and sensible conduct in the business community of which he was a leading member has been exemplary, and his ready and efficient services to his congregation have been many, and continued for long stretches of years. Mr. and Mrs. Mandelbaum's bright, social qualities and ready kindness have endeared them to a great circle of friends, who will sincerely regret their departure. They go, first to Sharon Springs for the summer, then to Cincinnati, where their daughter Flora, Mrs. B. Haas, resides. Their sons are to live in New York and engage in business there. Joseph M. left on Saturday, Benjamin goes next Friday. Their youngest son, Dr. Fred S. Mandelbaum, is house physician of Mt. Sinai Hospital, New York, the second largest in the city, and will, at expiration of his term, settle in that city.

COOK — RICHARDSON — In Framingham, Mass., June 30, at St. John's church, by the Right Rev. Bishop Huntington, assisted by Rev. Arthur Hess, Rector of the parish, Dr. Ansel Granville Cook of Hartford, and Annah Huntington Richardson of Framingham.

William Ellery Hills returned Saturday evening from Geneva, N. Y., he having been graduated from Hobart college last week, taking the degree of bachelor of science. He also captured the first prize in English literature. Mr. Hills will on July 15, sail for Europe on the steamer Majestic, to remain abroad about six months. He will travel in company with his uncle, J. Coolidge Hills, and expects to be in Egypt with President Potter, of Hobart college, who is a brother of Right Rev. Bishop Potter of New York.

J. Coolidge Hills and William E. Hills of this city were passengers on the City of

Hartford Man Honored. 99
Rome, which arrived day. J. C. Hills Dr. Charles W. Stiles of Washington eight times, and D. C., a son of the Rev. Samuel M. Stiles of this city, has been elected a member of the faculty of the medical department of the Georgetown (D. C.) University. He has also been engaged to deliver, at the university this winter, a course of lectures on embryology are as related to the engagement of Professor Hadley's daughter to Prof. Arthur T. Hadley of Yale.

Yesterday's New York Herald has the following under a New Haven date:—

The announcement was made this week of the engagement of Professor Arthur Twining Hadley of Yale to Miss Helen, daughter of Governor-elect Luzon B. Morris. Miss Morris is a charming young lady, both beautiful and talented, and very popular in Connecticut's best circles. Professor Hadley is the son of Professor James Hadley, the noted Greek scholar, and is himself a perfect master of the Greek language, which he could speak fluently when a child. He graduated from Yale in 1876, when he was only 20 years of age. He was valedictorian of his class, and is the youngest graduate receiving that honor, with the exception of Professor Tarbell of Harvard. Professor Hadley studied in Germany for a number of years, and began as tutor of Greek and German in Yale, receiving a professorship two years ago. He was the first labor commissioner appointed in this state.

MORRIS-HADLEY.

Marriage of Judge Morris's Daughter to Prof. Arthur T. Hadley of Yale.
SPECIAL TO THE POST.

NEW HAVEN, June 30.—Late this afternoon Miss Helen H. Morris, second daughter of Hon. Luzon B. Morris and Arthur T. Hadley, professor of political science in Yale university were married at the father on P. Dwight of Y. Smyth of the ding was ve mansion of J. ly decorated nearest relation Hadley a ent at the ce Beautiful w ceived, nota Morning club member, and lege club, in a brilliant ligh plished and h fessor Hadley member of Y and during term as gove sioner. The Professor and Europe on the They will for Professor ties at the un

A HARTFORD

Success Mr. Charles school gradu natural scienc years, has met success. He ha University the laude. A syno pared by Mr. sis known) only within the last five years. incorporated in Several deaths have occur-d in this city career abroad h from this cause within a comparatively recent period. Dr. Stiles' case was investigation is spoken of at the last meeting of the City Medical Society. By permission Dr. Stiles will s Thence he will natural science there he will go March and April will spend May in June.

The Hartford Courant.

MONDAY MORNING, MAY 23, 1892.

VERMIFORM APPENDIX REMOVED

Delicate Operation Successfully Performed Upon Dr. C. W. Stiles.

Dr. Charles W. Stiles, formerly of this city, now of Washington, D. C., has recently been the subject of a very critical and delicate surgical operation for the removal of the vermiform appendix or "death-trap." The operation, which was a complete success, was performed by Professor Halsted of Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, a celebrated specialist in abdominal surgery. Dr. Stiles is doing well and will probably soon be able to return to Washington to his duties in the bureau of animal industry of the department of agriculture.

Appendicitis, which is the name given to inflammation of the appendix, tends to the formation of abscesses, which generally break into the abdomen, but sometimes into the liver, the bladder, the chest or the veins. If they break into the abdomen peritonitis follows. An examination of the appendix in the case of Dr. Stiles revealed the formation of two abscesses, one of which would have broken into the abdomen and caused death within a week; yet he has had several attacks which have passed away with no serious results, owing to the abscess forming in that part of the appendix where the discharge was not into the abdomen. In his case the walls of the appendix had thickened and contracted, and a stricture had formed, which in the course of time must have resulted in death.

Cases of this nature are of much scientific interest and practical importance. What is now known to be appendicitis was a few years ago supposed to be colic and surgical skill has attempted the removal of the appendix (a useless appendage so far as pared by Mr. sis known) only within the last five years. Several deaths have occurred in this city from this cause within a comparatively recent period. Dr. Stiles' case was spoken of at the last meeting of the City Medical Society.

Dr. Halsted, who performed the operation on Dr. Stiles, was one of the surgeons in attendance upon the wife of General Hawley during her critical illness several months ago.

During the present year eleven operations of this character have been performed at Johns Hopkins Hospital, all of which have been successful.

Charles W. Stiles Appointed to an Important Scientific Position.

Dr. Charles W. Stiles of this city has just been appointed helminthologist. Since taking the degree of Ph. D., magna cum laude, at the University of Leipsig, Germany, several months ago, he has been studying Koch's methods in Berlin and pursuing further investigations under Pasteur in Paris, and also under Balbiani in that city. He leaves Paris this week for London, going thence to Edinburgh, and is to sail from Glasgow on the 13th inst., accompanied by his aunt, Miss Josephine White, and his sister, Miss Josephine Stiles, who have been abroad for about three years.

Mr. Charles W. Stiles, son of the Rev. S. M. Stiles of this city, who has been pursuing his biological studies in Europe for the past five years, is now in Paris taking a course at the Pasteur University. He has accepted a fellowship at the Clark University at Worcester, Mass., and will return home in August. Some of Mr. Stiles' original work in bacteriology has attracted the attention of eminent European scientists.

Dr. Charles W. Stiles, his sister, Miss Josephine Stiles, and their aunt, Miss Josephine White of Philadelphia, returned from Europe on the steamer State of Nebraska, which arrived in New York on Tuesday. Dr. Stiles will remain in the city at his home on Washington street, until about July 8, when he will leave for Washington, D. C., to assume his duties as government helminthologist.

An Honor for Dr. Stiles.

C. W. Stiles, Ph. D., formerly of this city, has been elected corresponding member of the Societé de Biologie of France, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Professor Leidy of Philadelphia.

The Societé de Biologie of France is one of the most active scientific societies of Europe. The membership is limited to forty active members chosen from France and forty corresponding members chosen from the world at large, the new members being elected as vacancies occur by death of the former members. The Societé de Biologie ranks as the first society in France next to the French Academy, to which it is considered a stepping-stone. Dr. Stiles is at present the only member from the United States. The German members are Professors Virchow, Du Bois Reymond, Von Helmholtz and Leuckart.

HONORS FOR A HARTFORD BOY.

Charles Washburn Clark Appointed to a Prominent Federal Position.

The State Department at Washington has appointed a Hartford man—Charles Washburn Clark, son of Rev. Dr. Clark of Washington street—to be junior counsel in the great international arbitration which is soon to be commenced in Berne, Switzerland, to determine the amount of indemnity which Portugal must pay the American and British governments for the illegal seizure of the Delagoa Bay railway in Southeast Africa two years ago.

This is one of the leading diplomatic questions of the period, and it is no small honor for a man of Mr. Clark's years to be chosen to serve with Colonel Robert G. Ingersoll and other eminent lawyers, both English and American, in a case where the damages claimed run to many millions. Mr. Clark has been relieved of his duties as secretary of the American Legation in Switzerland during the time required for the arbitration—probably several months. The United States is interested in the matter from the fact that the principal owner of the railway, Mrs. Katherine Albert Mc Mundo, is an American, although living for many years in London.

81

HARTFORD, WEDNESDAY, JULY 1. 1891.
Two Newtons Married.

Burton D. Newton was married last evening to Miss Sarah Newton, daughter of J. P. Newton, the Asylum street marketman. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. George M. Stone, at the residence of the bride's parents on Sigourney street, in the presence of a limited number of relatives and friends.

FORTY-FOUR STARS.

The Revised Flag of Our Country.

The proper United States Flag has now forty-four stars. Up to July 4, 1891, the number was forty-three, Idaho having been admitted July 3, 1890, just in time for the revision. The law is that on each Fourth of July as many stars shall be added as new states have been admitted since the preceding Fourth. The official flags in this city are now being put in proper shape. The regulation flag has the top and bottom rows of stars consist of eight each and the intermediate rows have seven each. With forty-four in all, they come out just even—six rows, two of eight and four of seven.

A ROYAL WEDDING AT WINDSOR.

THE GRANDDAUGHTER OF VICTORIA

Married to Prince Aribert of Anhalt in the Presence of a Brilliant Company—Emperor and Empress of Germany Among the Guests.

Princess Louise, second daughter of Prince and Princess Christian of Schleswig-Holstein, and granddaughter of the queen of England, was married to Prince Aribert of Anhalt in the historic St George's chapel at Windsor castle, at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, amid a scene of splendor and with most imposing ceremony. Not since the marriage of the late duke of Albany has the castle been crowded with so many distinguished people, and not since that event has the chapel been so crowded with members of the royal families. The decorations of this chapel royal were grand in the extreme. The stalls of the knights of the garter were set aside for some of the most important guests and the Bray and Rutland chapels were fitted up as retiring-rooms. The route followed by the procession was the same as that taken at the wedding of the duke of Albany. This route, down Castle hill, was lined on both sides with troops and at the castle guards of honor, composed of Life guards and Scots guards, were mounted at every available point. The royal standard of Great Britain, from the highest tower of the castle, floated proudly over the whole, while here, there and everywhere were dazzling uniforms, gorgeous staffs and state carriages, containing diplomats, statesmen, generals, admirals, princes of minor degree and high church dignitaries. Down Castle hill the Eton boys on the sward on the left ran with the carriage of the royal family as they were driven down from Henry VIII gateway, and cheered like a pack of young demons let loose for the occasion.

The first part of the procession was formed by the carriages containing the bridegroom's family. The second section consisted of 12 state carriages, which conveyed to the chapel the emperor and empress of Germany and the imperial party, with the prince and princess of Wales, the duke and duchess of Edinburgh, the duke and duchess of Connaught, Prince Henry of Battenberg and his wife, Princess Beatrice, Princess Louise and the duchess of Fife. The Prince of Anhalt, the bridegroom, wearing a German uniform, with his attendants, formed the third section of the procession. The queen of England, with mounted by life guardsmen, magnificent horses, arms, cuirasses and helmets flashing brightly, formed the fourth joint of this attractive procession. The state carriages alone, with their gold and velvet trappings, outriders in scarlet uniforms and pickers, prancing steeds and coats of arms were alone worth traveling a considerable distance to see. The queen was greeted everywhere with the wildest acclamation of loyalty. The bride, accompanied by her father, Prince Christian of Schleswig-Holstein, and by her brother, had already driven from Cumberland lodge, their residence, to Windsor Castle, and as the queen started for St George's chapel the bride and her two male relatives followed. As each and every member of the imperial or royal families reached the chapel Royal their arrival was heralded by a resounding blast from the trumpets of the state trumpeters, whose crimson and gold uniforms gave them a most gorgeous appearance.

The wedding guests were received at the chapel doors by the lord chamberlain, the earl of Latham, who ushered them with much ceremony to their places about the altar. In front of the altar a dais was erected and was covered with a blue velvet carpet, with the order of the garter and the royal arms handsomely interwoven in its center. Upon this royal carpet were velvet and gold seats for the members of the imperial and royal families. The banners of the knights of the garter, all renewed for the occasion, overhung the seats of the other important guests. Besides plants and flowers there were no other decorations inside the chapel, for any further ornamentation would only have served to detract from the natural beauty of the ancient church edifice. The prince of Wales entered the chapel, having upon his arm the empress of Germany, who wore a sea-green moire antique. They were followed by the emperor of Germany escorting the princess of Wales, whose bodice was sparkling with German and English orders and who wore splendid diamonds. The emperor and the princess of Wales were followed by the queen of England, who wore a simple black dress, plainly, though gracefully made. Upon her head the queen wore a beautiful diamond coronet, but with this exception there was little or no ornamentation about the queen's attire.

After Queen Victoria had been escorted by the lord chamberlain to the seat of honor, close to the altar, the bridegroom, in company with his two brothers, appeared and was led to the altar by the lord chamberlain. About 10 minutes later the bride arrived, supported by her father and brother. The bride's dress was of cream white satin of most exquisite texture. It was bordered with orange blossoms and the skirt was draped with Honiton Duchesse lace, which was designed by the late prince consort for the queen and which was afterward worn by the bride's mother, the Princess Christian, just 25 years ago, for Prince and Princess Christian will celebrate their silver wedding at Cumberland lodge to-morrow. The train of this handsome dress hung gracefully from under the basque in plain straight folds, and was what is known as the sabot, or well-rounded shape, its border of white buds and green giving it a very effective appearance. The bodice was equally handsome. It was of white satin, with sleeves of Honiton lace similar to that on the skirt. A garle of orange blossoms and myrtle blossoms, hanging down in two long ends, hid the juncture of the bodice and the skirt and fell gracefully over the satin train. As jewelry, the bride wore a necklace of diamonds and pearls, the gift of her parents. The wedding veil was the one worn by Princess Christian upon the occasion of her marriage. The bridesmaids were, Ladies Emily Cadogan, Edith Ward, Mabel Egerton, Elizabeth Meade, Esther Gore and the Honorable Beatrice Bridgeman. They wore handsome white satin dresses draped with delicate white crepe de chine and caught up with bows of frosted silver. All wore small ostrich plumes in their hair and hand silver girdles around their waists.

The archbishop of Canterbury performed the marriage service, which was most simple, and made only a brief exhortation. The bridegroom's responses were given in a clear, firm voice, but those of the bride were indistinct. The bride was given away by her father, Prince Christian. After the service Mendelssohn's "Wedding march" was played, and the wedding ceremony was concluded. The marriage register was later on signed in Windsor castle. After luncheon at the castle the bride and bridegroom left for Cliveden.

After the benediction the queen advanced and kissed the bride. The emperor insisted upon the same privilege, and then the bride was kissed by all the princesses. The procession was then re-formed and returned to the castle, the queen preceding by a private door so as to be in readiness to receive the couple. Here there was a pretty scene in the green drawing-room. All assembled to sign the register, the queen's signature following those of the emperor and empress. On the route to Chiveden, the duke of Westminster's residence where the couple will spend the honeymoon, the bride in a white bergoline traveling dress was greeted with the usual showers of rice, satin slippers and flowers. A grand banquet at the castle closed the day, which differed from that on Saturday in that the emperor was not the chief attraction, yet his presence made itself felt, the queen treating him with marked courtesy. A noteworthy incident occurred in the chapel on the arrival of the queen. The emperor and empress bowed low and the queen did the same, but the queen, whose age privileges her to sit at every ceremony, declined to be seated before the emperor and a little contest of courtesy took place. Finally the emperor, knowing that it was painful to the queen to stand, took her by the hand and compelled her to be seated. In the evening the queen drove through Windsor to see the decorations. The emperor and empress meanwhile walked to Frogmore house. A Venetian fete and a display of fireworks were given on the Thames last night.

JULY 10, 1891.

GEORGE S. BOUTWELL AND WIFE (who was Miss Sarah Adelia Thayer) were overwhelmed with congratulations on the occasion of their golden wedding anniversary, celebrated in their pleasant home at Groton, Wednesday. The afternoon reception called together a notable company of men who had been a part of Massachusetts history, including ex-Gov William Claflin, Dr George B. Loring, Judge E. Rockwood Hoar and Francis W. Bird. The sage of Walpole and John B. Alley are the surviving members of Gov Boutwell's council of 1853, and Col Daniel Needham of Groton and Col W. H. Williams of Worcester, the two living members of Gov Boutwell's staff, were also present. There was a local veteran present also worthy of mention, John W. Parker, who was a clerk in Mr Boutwell's store nearly half a century ago. The neighbors turned out in force, for Groton has always had pride in her chief citizen who has been governor, United States senator and member of the cabinet, not to speak of lesser honors in abundance. Then there were messages from prominent men all over the country, including this cordial word from Senator Dawes: "We send you 50 congratulations on '50 years of joys and honors." It was a pleasant event, fitly honored, and the hearty good wishes born of the anniversary extend all over the state and beyond its borders.

A Home Wedding Yesterday.

The residence of Mr. Weston W. Walker, on Capitol avenue was the scene of a quiet wedding yesterday afternoon, when a party of Boston and New Hampshire friends witnessed the nuptials of Marshall W. Jones of Newton, Mass., and Miss Annie Merrill of Boston, but formerly of Gardner, Maine.

The bride is the daughter of George W. Merrill of Gardner, Maine, and a cousin of W. W. Walker of this city. Mr. Jones is a Boston marble dealer. The marriage ceremony was performed at 2 o'clock by Rev. H. A. Hanaford of Winchester, N. H. The bridal party left for New York and Chicago on the 7:30 o'clock train. They will make Boston their home.

The Hartford Courant.

THURSDAY MORNING, JULY 30, 1891.

BARBOUR-NEWELL.

Marriage of a Hartford Boy in Providence.

The Rev. Clarence Augustus Barbour was married on Tuesday evening at the Fourth Baptist Church of Providence to Miss Florence Isabel Newell of that city. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Robert M. Martin, assisted by the Rev. Thomas S. Barbour, the brother of the groom.

The best man was John B. Barbour and Miss Lillian A. Newell was the bridesmaid. Edwin H. Bingham of this city, Morris L. Messer of Charlestown, N. H., and Appleton P. Williams, Benjamin S. Webb, Charles H. Forbes and E. Merle Bixby, all of Providence, were the ushers.

Mr. Barbour was a Hartford boy and is well remembered in this city. He is the son of the late H. H. Barbour and a half brother of Joseph L. Barbour, and was graduated from the Hartford Public High School in the class of '84. He studied in Brown University and went from there to Rochester to complete his education. Mr. and Mrs. Barbour will reside in Rochester, N. Y., where Mr. Barbour has recently been ordained pastor of the Lake Avenue Baptist Church.

Mrs. Leverett Brainard and part of her family are now occupying their cottage "Charlmerum." Mr. Brainard and the Misses Brainard were heard from Thursday by cable. Mr. Brainard was at Carlsbad, Germany, where he will remain one month, and the young ladies will continue their travels in Germany. Mr. Brainard and his daughters are accompanied by Miss Sarah Morgan of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Miss Kate Tyler, of Hartford. The party will sail for New York August 19 by steamer, "City of New York."

THE BISLER-SEELYE WEDDING.

A quiet home wedding took place at the residence of ex-President Julius H. Seelye on College street in Amherst yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock, the bride being Miss Elizabeth J. Seelye, eldest daughter of the ex-president, and the groom being Rev James AMHERST, Mass., Aug. 4.—The Rev. James W. Bixler and Elizabeth J. Seelye were married at 5 o'clock this afternoon at the bride's home, her father, ex-President Julius H. Seelye of Amherst College, performing the ceremony. Following the wedding ceremony a largely attended reception was held. The presents were numerous and costly. The Rev. Mr. Bixler was a graduate of Amherst in '82, has preached in Haverhill, Mass., and has been associate pastor in the Rev. Dr. George Leon Walker's church at Hartford. He was recently called to the pastorate of the South Congregational Church at New London.

and Mrs Walker, Rev H. A. Bridgman of Boston, Dr Brady and Mrs Brady of Northampton.

84

AUGUST 4, 1891.

SOLEMNIZED AT THE HOME OF THE BRIDE'S PARENTS.

Miss Jennie B. Judd, youngest daughter of Mr. Henry C. Judd, and Mr. Leonard D. Fisk were married this noon, at the Judd residence, No. 7 Highland street. The ceremony was performed in the parlor, which was transformed into a perfect bower of roses, palms and smilax. The guests, which embraced only the intimate friends of the bride and groom, were gathered about, while the Rev. Dr. E. P. Parker pronounced the words, which made them husband and wife.

The wedding was exceedingly quiet, though without doubt one of the prettiest home weddings of the season. Miss Judd was unattended by bridesmaids or maid of honor. Mr. Leonard C. Daniels assisted Mr. Fisk as best man.

There were a great many presents, all valuable and beautiful. The list includes solid silver, rare cut glass, jewels, pictures, etc. From Mr. Judd the bride received a handsome check.

After the ceremony the guests sat down to a wedding breakfast.

The house and grounds were beautifully arranged with potted plants, ferns, smilax and roses. The parlor, where the ceremony was performed, was festooned with smilax and pink roses, while in the library the prevailing tint was yellow. Handsome beds of yellow dahlias were arranged in other rooms and the entire lower floor was lovely with the profusion of the floral decorations. The wedding presents were generous and many of them of most exquisite workmanship. Gold, silver and cut glass prevailed. The bride wore a pretty traveling suit. Leonard C. Daniels was the best man and, while entirely informal, the wedding was a very pretty one.

About eighty friends sat down to the wedding breakfast, soon after which Mr. and Mrs. Fisk took the 2:24 p. m. train for New York. They sail for Europe on the City of New York this morning at 6 o'clock and will remain abroad three or four months. The couple have the best wishes and congratulations of a host of friends in this city.

Mr. Fisk's Purchase.
Leonard Daniels Fisk has bought of Martin Bennett the large lot on the corner of Farmington and Prospect avenues, and will build a family residence in the spring.

John and Isabella Beecher Hooker cordially invite their friends to call on them (without presents) at No. 234 Pearl street, Hartford, Conn., from 3 to 9 o'clock, Wednesday, August 5th,—the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage.
1841—1891.

While it was at first intended to make the anniversary, in view of the generous size of the rooms, a formal reception, it is now hoped that it will take the shape of an old-fashioned tea-party, and one of the features will be the presence of the grandchildren of the family friends. At 5 o'clock all the little ones will be served a supper in the lower hall of the building, and at 6 o'clock the older folk will sit down to supper in the lower hall. Mr. and Mrs. Hooker will receive seated under a tastefully-arranged bower placed in the large hall, thus preventing the fatigue incidental on standing for so long a time. Above the platform will hang portraits of representatives of both branches of the house, among them likenesses of older members of the Hooker stock, of Mrs. Stowe and Henry Ward Beecher, a portrait of Mrs. Hooker as a bride at 20, painted by the Rev. Jared Flagg, father of the Hartford artist, Charles Noel Flagg; another of John Hooker at the time of his silver wedding, the painter being Matthew Wilson, and an oil painting of Mary Hooker Burton, who may be regarded as the patron-saint of the City Mission, the picture being the work of Caroline G. Rogers of Troy.

General Hawley will act as master of ceremonies, and will no doubt make appropriate remarks at the supper. Music will be furnished by Messrs. Richard and William Wander. During the evening the guests will be handed a card upon which are printed the words of Dr. Bacon's fine hymn beginning, "Oh God, Beneath Thy Guiding Hand," which will then be sung by the company.

Another interesting feature of the occasion will be the presentation of a bride's loaf to Mrs. Hooker by the Equal Rights Club of Hartford; this is in recognition of the fact that Mrs. Hooker has been president of the Connecticut Woman's Suffrage Association since 1869, and Mr. Hooker its efficient and faithful treasurer. The presentation will be made by Mrs. Collins, the mother of Dr. Peltier.

In one of the two parlors will be gathered the representatives of the lady managers of the World's Columbian Commission, of which Mrs. Hooker is a member; in the other the distinguished woman suffragists who will be present. Among those of the former who will come may be mentioned Mrs. Trautman of New York, first vice-president of the commission, Miss Buselle of New Jersey, Mrs. French of Massachusetts and Miss Daily of Rhode Island. Of the suffragists, Susan B. Anthony, Rachel F. Avery, Caroline G. Rogers, Mary C. Howell, all leading members of the National American Woman's Suffrage Association, will be on hand to offer felicitations to their old-time and long-lived friends. The Rev. Edward Beecher and wife will also be in attendance.

Letters of regret have been received from Mrs. Livermore, Frances Willard, Eliza A. Connor, Robert Collyer, Grace Greenwood, Parker Pillsbury, President Palmer of the Columbian Commission and others.

This anniversary of an old and honored Hartford family, which on both sides of the house is so well represented and adorned in the persons of Mr. and Mrs. Hooker, after a half century of good works and gracious living, is an event of unusual interest, and doubtless a host of friends will give them a royal greeting and hearty congratulations next Wednesday.

General and Mrs. Hawley, who have been at Woodmont for the past five weeks, like it so much that Mrs. Hawley has bought a lot and will put up a modest little cottage there. The lot is on Brighton bluff, Vieu de l'Eau avenue. The location is a prominent one, facing the east, on a line running between the Bonsilene and Pembroke Hotels, overlooking many of the cottages and commanding a broad and extensive view of the Sound.

THEIR GOLDEN WEDDING.
INTERESTING CELEBRATION BY MR. AND MRS. HOOKER NEXT WEEK.

Distinguished Guests from All Parts of the Country—Details of the Reception.

The social event of next week will occur on Wednesday afternoon and evening, when John and Isabella B. Hooker will receive their friends at the City Mission Rooms on Pearl street. The occasion will be the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding. In addition to the hundreds of invitations sent to people in this city, one thousand have been mailed to those living in other places in this country and Europe, and the response has been such as to assure the attendance of a large number outside Hartford. The invitations, all in Mrs. Hooker's handwriting, read as follows:—

The Golden Wedding of John and Isabella Beecher Hooker.

THE RECEPTION AND THE GUESTS.

Well Known Men and Women Who Were There—A Simple and Characteristic Observance of the Anniversary.

The Hooker golden wedding reception, which took place yesterday afternoon and evening at the City Mission rooms on Pearl street, was unique and one of the most noteworthy social gatherings which ever occurred in Hartford. Seldom has a more distinguished company of people been brought together in this city, and in addition to this the whole occasion was marked by a cordiality, spontaneous good-fellowship and unconventionality which made it enjoyable and significant. The arrangements were noticeable for good taste and felicity of effect, and reflect great credit on the ladies of the City Mission, aided by Mrs. George Warner and Mr. and Mrs. William Lorenz. Down stairs, Wright Hall was used for a supper room, two long tables being spread with sandwiches, cake, fruit, ice cream and coffee, and the entrance hall was prettily fitted up, as was the business office. Ascending the steps, the large reception hall was given up to the inflowing guests. At the farther end of this spacious room Mr. and Mrs. Hooker sat in a dais over which evergreens were tastefully draped, while the dates 1841-1891 were prettily worked below the greenery in rustic lettering. Mrs. Hooker wore a dress of silver-gray silk, with point lace overlaid with gold, the gown having been made for her silver wedding, and her queenly and beautiful appearance was subject of common remark throughout the reception. Beside Mr. Hooker sat the venerable Dr. Edward Beecher, and his wife occupied a similar position with regard to Mrs. Hooker. The walls were gracefully hung with golden-rod, nasturtiums and black-eyed susans and other blooms. The Lucy L. Church parlors, opposite the large hall, were devoted to a family picture gallery. Here hung portraits of John Hooker, of Isabella when a young wife, of Mr. and Mrs. Hooker, parents of John, the latter painting being retouched by the skillful hand of Mr. Charles Noel Flagg, so that the dear old lady's face looked benignant under silver hair, and of John Hooker's grandfather and grandmother, these last being drawings. The west wall showed a crayon of Mrs. Stowe, a painting of little Isabella Hooker, daughter of Dr. E. B. Hooker, by a Japanese artist; on the south wall were two handsomely framed diplomas, certifying to the election of Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Hooker to a membership in the Columbian Commission; and in the east parlor was a large portrait of Henry Ward Beecher.

Shortly after 3 o'clock the invited guests began to arrive and by 4 a large number of people were distributed among the various rooms and halls. The number steadily increased up to 6 o'clock, when there was quite a thinning out, the nearer family friends, however, and the relatives, remaining. About half-past 5 Mrs. Virginia T. Smith, in behalf of the Equal Rights Club of Hartford, made a speech, presenting a bride's loaf covered with fifty shining gold dollars. This cake was afterwards cup up into small pieces and placed in envelopes which were for the asking for all who wished this souvenir of the occasion. Mrs. Hooker rose and responded. She stated that Mrs. Collins, who had intended to make the presentation on which she sat on—it settled them—old friends, the Hookers, a little taffy now than epitaphy hereafter. Mrs. Hooker referred to the warm response which made all her work and anxiety over the reception doubly repaid, and she was followed by Mr. Hooker, who made a characteristically witty reply. He said he had been wishing all along that he had married in April so that the reception might be already over, but now that it was here he enjoyed it. Instead of advising young men not to have golden weddings he wished he might have one once a year. He was heartily applauded. A cordial invitation was extended by the Hookers to all who could to remain through the supper hour and to listen to some quartette singing by Messrs. Wander, Maercklein, Wright and Buddick. All these gentlemen rendered a number of songs with good effect, and Mr. Wright of the Center Church gave several bass solos, his fine voice being much appreciated and applauded. A unique feature of the evening was the presence of John Hutchinson of the famous old-time Hutchinson family of singers, who was introduced by General Hawley and who gave in a voice still clear and sweet some favorites of long ago, among them the banner piece of the Hutchinsons, "The Old Granite State." After supper for an hour there was a lull in the attendance and an excellent opportunity was offered to circulate more freely, to meet and greet the many famous and fine looking men and women who fell into groups, sat or stood or walked from room to room. Then the numbers began to swell and from 8 to 9 the rooms were crowded with a brilliant assemblage composed of Hartford's leading citizens and of many from abroad known throughout the land. Shortly before 9 o'clock General Hawley addressed the company, saying that the reception would close by the united singing of the hymns printed on cards which were handed to one and all, and by remarks and a prayer by Dr. Edward Beecher. At the top of the card in gold letters was to be read: "Golden Wedding Hymns, 1841-1891, J. H. and I. B. H." The hymns selected were Dr. Leonard Bacon's "Oh God, Beneath Thy Guiding Hand" and Fawcett's "Blest Be the Tie that Binds;" the hundreds present took hold with a will and the result was hearty and inspiring. Then the aged Dr. Beecher, who only a few years ago miraculously recovered from a serious accident, spoke with beautiful simplicity. It was, he said, a time of the loving sympathetic communion of friend with friend, of family with family, of warm social intercourse. But the sunshine of God was needed over and above this sunshine of friendship, and he believed that the Divine leading was to be seen in the coming of Thomas Hooker to Connecticut, in his founding Hartford, and in the honorable and blameless lives of these his descendants who were there present. He followed his happy little address by a heartfelt prayer and then gave the benediction, after which the gathering rapidly broke up.

Thus closed an evening which it is safe to say those present will long remember for its delightful informality and its atmosphere of genuine brotherliness. It was just the kind of a reception which draws people together in an critical spirit and it was a testimonial of the respect and love in which the leading representatives of this old and honored Hartford families are held by their fellow citizens and the country which they have made better.

Among the numerous friends from out of town who attended may be mentioned the following: William M. Evarts and Miss Evarts, William Lloyd Garrison, John Hutchinson, the Rev. Thomas K. Beecher, the Rev. Charles E. Stowe, Dr. Edward Beecher and Mrs. Beecher, Miss Grace King, Miss Helen Clark of Poet Lore, Mrs. Frank Osborne, regent of the Daughters of the Revolution of Illinois, the Hon. Lynde Harrison and Mrs. Harrison of New Haven, Judge V. B. Chamberlain of New Britain, Professor Brown of New Haven, J. L. Hunter of Milwaukee, B. H. Bill of Rockville, Mrs. W. F. Rogers, president of the Equality Club of Meriden, the Hon. S. W. Kellogg and Mrs. Kellogg of Waterbury, Mrs. Julius Gay of Farmington, Dr. Bulkley of New York, and Colonel and Mrs. Frank Cheney of South Manchester.

The World's Columbian Commission at Chicago was represented by Mrs. Ralph Trautman, first vice-president; Mrs. John Pope and Miss Ellen A. Ford of New York, Miss Mary E. Busselle of Newark, N. J.; Mrs. Jonas H. French of Boston, Mass.; Miss Charlotte Field Dudley of Providence, R. I.; Miss Frances S. Ives of New Haven and Miss Conzine of St. Louis, secretary.

85

STANDARD

Hooker Golden Wedding.

Mrs. Grace Munson Wheeler of New Haven celebrated her ninety-ninth birthday yesterday. Ex-Mayor Lewis, J. D. Dewell, Colonel N. G. Osborn and gentlemen representing M., and D. S. Thomas called and presented elegant easy chair in New Haven, Feb. 18.—Mrs. Grace Munson Wheeler, aged 99 years, 6 months and 4 days, died at 5 a. m. to-day at her residence, 87 Wooster street. Old as she was Mrs. Wheeler's mental faculties were almost as keen as they were half a century ago. Her illness extended back two months.

Mrs. Wheeler was born in New Haven, the daughter of Major William Munson, for thirty-three years surveyor of the port. Her husband, Captain Stephen Wheeler, who participated in the war of 1812, died twenty-two years ago. On Mrs. Wheeler's 99th birthday a delegation from Hiram lodge, F. and A. M., presented her with an elegant plush rocking chair, in remembrance of her father, who was a prominent Mason. The funeral will occur at 2:30 Saturday afternoon. Burial in Grove street cemetery.

Celebrating Her 100th Birthday.

Milford, Mass., Aug. 7. — Miss Hulda Arnold is celebrating her 100th birthday to-day. She was born in Leicester, Mass. Her health is good and her faculties well preserved.

TO WED A PASHA.

The Sequel of a Chance Meeting in Egypt—The Khedive's Gift.
(New York Sun, Tuesday.)

The marriage of Miss Emma Walraven Comfort, the only child of Major Samuel Comfort of the Standard Oil Company, to Crookshank Pasha of Cairo, Egypt, will occur at noon to-morrow at Beechwood, near Philadelphia.

In her childhood Miss Comfort was in a Paris convent. Six years ago she entered Vassar College, and graduated in the class of 1889 with highest honors in mathematics. That summer she accompanied her parents on a trip abroad. After a journey through Europe they went to Egypt, and almost immediately upon their arrival they attended one of the state balls at which the Khedive was present. The American girl was presented to the Khedive, and shortly afterward was the guest at a dinner tendered to Henry M. Stanley, where she met the young Pasha.

The bridegroom, Henry Crookshank, is the son of an English general who was killed in the Indian service. Harry Crookshank, only 16 years old at the time, entered the German army medical corps. He served during the Franco-Prussian war, and received an emblematic ring from the Empress Augusta. After attaining honorable distinction in the Russo-Turkish and Bulgarian wars he studied medicine. Eight years ago he accepted the appointment of director-general of prisons in Egypt.

In the official report Dr. Crookshank is commended for his energy in providing for 6,700 men and women prisoners by rebuilding prisons and affording the prisoners outdoor work.

The pasha has just arrived at the Hotel Marlborough. He has never been in America before. He expressed a desire to visit the prisons here, especially Sing Sing. His time is much engaged and he will start for England on Saturday morning with his wife. He expects to take a grouse hunt and go back to Cairo.

The first bridal gift to arrive is from the Khedive. It is a jewelled necklace made by the court jeweller of thirteen different colored scarabees in amethysts and cornelians. They represent the beetle, which was held sacred by the Egyptians as an emblem of immortality. The workmanship on each

9891

OVER 99 YEARS OLD 1892

Death of Mrs. Grace M. Wheeler of New Haven.

He Located in Middletown When a Young Man and Manufactured Ivory Combs Away Back in the Forties.

SPECIAL TO THE POST.

Middletown, Aug. 20.—Samuel Stearns is 91 years old to-day. He was born at Waltham, Mass., August 20, 1800, and was in the seventh generation of a family which had uniformly given their first born boy the name of Samuel. He has followed the time honored custom and has one of the same name to succeed him in family and in business.

During the earlier years of his active life, which have less interest to us, he was engaged in house building in the vicinity of Boston.

In the year 1826, he came to Middletown where his younger brother Edwin was already in business, and went into company with him under the firm name of E. & S. Stearns on the corner of Main and Court streets, where the business is still conducted by his son.

SAMUEL STEARNS.

In the manufacture and sale of fur and cloth caps, leather gloves and mittens they employed four cutters and a force of from eighty to ninety girls, part of whom occupied the upper stories of their store, and others who took the work to their homes. Another branch of their business was the manufacture of feather fans of various sizes and qualities, for which the feathers, by the hundred thousand, had to be washed by hand, and girls in private houses with suitable tools wired, and put ivory or bone handles to the feathers, finishing the fans with gay silk floss and ribbons all ready to be hung on the arm of the purchaser. Of this latter article they made 36,000 a year, which were sold in New York chiefly to Claflin & Mellen. Besides all these they kept hats, boots and shoes, rubbers (when invented), and all else in that line.

Some idea of the extent of their business may be learned from the fact that they employed four men with teams to travel through the country even out into New York state selling their goods. The partners also kept a team and went out alternately on trips of ten or twelve days for the same purpose.

About 1840, Mr. Stearns with his brother Edwin became associated with Buckland and Clark, who had a flourish-edge of the city), for making combs but needed more capital and help to make it more profitable. They engaged in this partnership for fifteen years and did a business of $100,000 per annum. At the beginning there were but four other factories of the kind in the United States, and ivory could be bought for eighty cents per pound, and when they sold out to some of these at the close of their business, ivory had risen to $4 per pound, and there were fifteen factories in the business.

For the sale of these Mr. Stearns made various trips extending from the Penobscot on the north, to Washington on the south, and as they had the sale of the entire product of the factory they made money rapidly from that part of their business.

After the death of his brother Edwin, which occurred September 4, 1867, Mr. Stearns continued the business alone under the same firm name for a while, and subsequently in the name of G. Stearns & Son, until 1876, when he retired, since which time it has been carried on by Samuel Stearns, Jr.

Mr. Stearns has been married twice, his first wife having been Esther Markham Oliver of Boston, by whom he had five children, of whom only one, Mrs. Mary E. Hurlbut, a widow, is still living, and is at the family residence in Broad street.

In 1836, he married Sarah, one of the daughters of Judge Augustus Cook of Center street in this city, whose other two daughters married respectively William S. Camp of this city and Peter Lanman of Norwich. By his second wife, who died of consumption April 8, 1871, he had seven children, of whom only one, Samuel, Jr., is still living. Thus, out of twelve children, only two survive.

In business, as may be inferred, Mr. S. was industrious, energetic, neat and the soul of honor. His word was prompt, quick and in everything as good as his bond. By his industry, strict integrity, and fair dealing, he acquired a competence, so that on his retirement from business, he has been independent, and a noble example of all young men who wish success.

In politics, Mr. Stearns has always been a consistent Democrat, positive and settled in his opinions, but gentlemanly in their expression, and conceding to others the same freedom of thought which he claimed for himself.

In his church relations he has been an honored member of the Universalist church for more than half a century and was for more than twenty-five years one of its active committee. He has done more to build it up and support it than any other one man. In 1839, he and his brother-in-law, William S. Camp, built the church in its present location and performed daily manual labor as well as giving direction to others, and enlisting aid from many who had no relations to the church, and when a few years since it was to be remodeled, he undertook to furnish new stone steps, and a broad sidewalk around the entire corner which now remains as one of the best walks in the city, a credit to the church and to the energy of its author.

For many years, nearly all since its organization, Mr. Stearns has been a director of the Central bank, and has faithfully attended their semi-weekly meetings.

AUGUST 25, 1891.

A HUNDRED YEARS OLD.

Mrs. Catherine Chapman Gould of East Granby.

Mrs. Catherine Chapman Gould of East Granby celebrated her 100th birthday on Sunday. In honor of the day special services were held at the church, conducted by the Rev. C. B. Strong of West Suffield. Mrs. Gould was unable to be present, owing to feebleness, but several of her friends called on her at her home. A dinner was given the invited guests in the church basement after the services.

Mrs. Gould was born in Southington August 23, 1791. She was always prominent in church work and always interested in mission work. In 1814 she married Gurdon C. Gould, Mr. and Mrs. Gould having six children; Miss Mary E. Gould, 68 years old, is the only one living, and she takes care of her aged mother. Among those present at Sunday's exercises were Mr. and Mrs. James A. Fortunate Young Lady.

Miss Hattie Porter Soon to Come Into Over Half a Million.

Within a few days a young lady, born and reared in Hartford, will come into possession of a property that will make her, perhaps, the richest unmarried woman in Connecticut.

A number of years ago, Solomon A. Porter died, leaving a very valuable estate, which, by the terms of his will, was to be divided among his two children, both daughters, when each had attained the age of 25 years. The elder daughter, Mrs. Valentine of New York, was given her portion of the estate several years ago, and same day this week, the younger daughter, Harriet Porter, will be given her portion, as she recently reached the age of 25 years. The Security company of this city, was, by the will, made curator, and the treasurer of that company will report to Judge Freeman, of the Probate court, that he has over $600,000 to pay over to Miss Porter. She has for some time past, been living in New York with her sister, although she frequently visits in Hartford.

HONOR TO A HARTFORD MAN.

H. C. Yergason Elected President of a Cincinnati Bank.

Mr. H. C. Yergason, formerly of this city, was last week elected president of the Merchants' National bank of Cincinnati, one of the soundest and largest banking institutions in that city. Mr. Yergason was born at Windham, Conn., in 1839, was clerk in the Windham bank for a year and a half, and then entered the Farmers' and Mechanics' bank in Hartford, where he was discount clerk for nine years.

In 1868 he was elected cashier of the Merchants' National of Cincinnati and now after nearly a quarter century is elected to the high position of president.

His very many friends in this city will be pleased to hear of his success.

Garland-Smith.
(Boston Journal.)

The residence of Mrs. Harriet B. Smith on Sumner street, Newton Centre, was, Thursday evening, the scene of a very pretty, but strictly private wedding and reception, and the contracting parties were Captain George F. Garland, commander of the missionary ship Morning Star, and Miss Sarah L. Smith, who has been a missionary at the Gilbert and Marshall Islands in the

Miss Mary Lincoln is Now Mrs. C. B. Isham.

LONDON, Sept. 2.—The marriage of Miss Mary Lincoln, daughter of the United States minister, the Hon. Robert T. Lincoln, to Charles B. Isham of Chicago, took place at 2:30 p. m. to-day at the Brompton Parish Church. A number of fashionable English people and Americans, mostly intimate friends of the Lincoln family, filled the church. After the marriage ceremony the most intimate friends of the two families partook of a wedding breakfast at the United States minister's residence in Cromwell Gardens.

Miss Lincoln, leaning upon her father's arm, was met at the church door by the officiating clergyman and the boy choristers who preceded the bridal party up the aisle to the altar-rails, where the groom, attended by his best man, Maj James C. Post, military attache of the United States legation, was in waiting. The bride wore a white satin gown, a beautiful lace veil and a splendid diamond necklace, the gift of the groom. In her hand Miss Lincoln carried an ivory-covered prayer book. Mrs. Lincoln and her daughter, Miss Jessie Lincoln, had entered the church some time previous to the entrance of the bride. They occupied the front pew on the right of the aisle. A wedding

JONES—JONES—In New York city, Thursday, September 2, by the Rev. D. Parker Morgan, D. D., Rector of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, Sara Post Jones, daughter of Edward Anthon of New York, to Lewis Quentin Jones of Hartford, Conn.

The Republican.

SPRINGFIELD, THURSDAY, SEPT. 3.

Rev Edwin H. Byington and Miss Sophia W. Janes, daughter of R. S. Janes, were married in Eastern-avenue church at 3:30 yesterday afternoon. The little church, which Rev Mr Byington is about to leave, after a successful pastorate of three years, was filled to the doors, many standing in the aisles. The King's Daughters had decorated the building with green and white, clusters of hydrangeas lining the platform, while festoons were hung from the chandeliers. The ushers were Rev Howard A. Bridge-man, editor of the Congregationalist, who was the groom's classmate at Amherst college, Roderick Byington, the groom's brother, and Thomas Janes, brother of the bride. The ceremony was performed by Rev Orville Reed of Montclair, N. J., Mr Byington's brother-in-law, assisted by Rev David Allen Reed, who offered prayer. A pretty feature at the close was the shower of flowers from the children along the path of the couple as they left the church.

WELLS-TOLMAN.

Dr. Herbert C. Tolman and Miss Mary E. Wells Married Yesterday.

SPECIAL TO THE RECORD.—The pastor of the church read the marriage service. The following gentlemen were ushers: Professor F. J. Muller of Yale; F. L. Swift, Brooklyn, N. Y.; R. E. Taylor, Hartford; and Philip Evans, Jr., of New Haven. Dr. Tolman is a graduate of years and after finishing his course took up advanced linguistic studies. He has recently received an appointment to a professorship in the Wisconsin State university. Mr. and Mrs. Tolman left immediately after the wedding for their home in Madison Wisconsin.

The groom was accompanied by a friend of the United church. The chancel was beautifully decorated with golden rod. The bride wore a traveling costume of light grey and walked with her young sister who was charmingly attired in white silk and carried roses. The groom was accompanied by

LY 17, 1892.

That the first great-grandson of Abraham Lincoln has come into the world ought to interest the American people. His name is Lincoln Isham and he is too young to know anything at all, not to mention his distinguished lineage, which in time may prove more of a burden than a help to him. The widow of Gen Grant has sent the young man a silver cup.

AUGUST 25, 1891.

A HUNDRED YEARS OLD.

Mrs. Catherine Chapman Gould of East Granby.

Mrs. Catherine Chapman Gould of East Granby celebrated her 100th birthday on Sunday. In honor of the day special services were held at the church, conducted by the Rev. C. B. Strong of West Suffield. Mrs. Gould was unable to be present, owing to feebleness, but several of her friends called on her at her home. A dinner was given to the invited guests in the church basement after the services.

Mrs. Gould was born in Southington August 23, 1791. She was always prominent in church work and always interested in mission work. In 1814 she married Gurdon C. Gould, Mr. and Mrs. Gould having six children; Miss Mary E. Gould, 68 years old is the only one living, and she takes care of her aged mother. Among those present Sunday's services were Mr. and Mrs. James

A FORTUNATE YOUNG LADY.

Miss Hattie Porter Soon to Come Into Over Half a Million.

Within a few days a young lady, born and reared in Hartford, will come into possession of a property that will make her, perhaps, the richest unmarried woman in Connecticut.

A number of years ago, Solomon A. Porter died, leaving a very valuable estate, which, by the terms of his will was to be divided among his two children, both daughters, when each had attained the age of 25 years. The elder daughter, Mrs. Valentine of New York was given her portion of the estate several years ago, and same day this week the younger daughter, Harriet Porter will be given her portion, as she recently reached the age of 25 years. The Security company of this city, was, by the will, made curator, and the treasurer of that company will report to Judge Freeman, of the Probate court that he has over $600,000 to pay over to Miss Porter. She has for some time past, been living in New York with her sister, although she frequently visits Hartford.

HONOR TO A HARTFORD MAN.

H. C. Yergason Elected President of Cincinnati Bank.

Mr. H. C. Yergason, formerly of this city, was last week elected president of the Merchants' National bank of Cincinnati, one of the soundest and largest banking institutions in that city. Mr. Yergason was born at Windham, Conn. in 1839, was clerk in the Windham bank for a year and a half, and then entered the Farmers' and Mechanics' bank in Hartford, where he was district clerk for nine years.

In 1868 he was elected cashier of the Merchants' National of Cincinnati and now after nearly a quarter century elected to the high position of president.

His very many friends in this city will be pleased to hear of his success.

Garland-Smith.
(Boston Journal.)

The residence of Mrs. Harriet B. Smith on Sumner street, Newton Centre, was Thursday evening, the scene of a very pretty, but strictly private wedding reception, and the contracting parties were Captain George F. Garland, commander of the missionary ship Morning Star, and Miss Sarah L. Smith, who has been a missionary at the Gilbert and Marshall Islands in the

Miss Mary Lincoln is Now Mrs. C. B. Isham.

LONDON, Sept. 2.—The marriage of Miss Mary Lincoln, daughter of the United States minister, the Hon. Robert T. Lincoln, to Charles B. Isham of Chicago, took place at 2:30 p. m. to-day at the Brompton Parish Church. A number of fashionable English people and Americans, mostly in-

LY 17, 1892.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 16, 1917.

Miss Parker of Hartford a Bride; Marries Lieutenant Smith, U. S. A.

—[Photograph by Nunzio Vayana.]

MRS. SYDNEY REED SMITH.

A marriage of wide interest in which a daughter of one of Hartford's most prominent families and a brilliant young playwright who is also a newly commissioned army officer, were principals, was that of Miss Margery Sweet Parker of this city, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Darling Parker of No. 623 Prospect avenue, and Lieutenant Sydney Reed Smith, U. S. A., of Canaan, N. Y., son of Harry B. Smith of New York city, which took place at camp at Plattsburg, had as best man a fellow officer and his collaborator in the composition of the musical comedy, "Love o' Mike," Lieutenant Luke G. Thomas of New York. The ushers included three other officers, Lieutenant Robert Gilmore, Lieutenant Almet H. Jenks and Lieutenant Malcolm Kilduff, all of New York. Lewis Pond Parker of this city, brother of the bride and William McMillan Adams of London, England, Gladioli in various colors were

She died Sept. 1, 1894
Aged 103 yrs

reuter by per mat
PARKER-KNOUS—In the South church, Hartford, Sept. 9, by the Rev. Edwin P. Parker, D. D., Lewis Darling Parker, of New York, and Miss Carrie Isabel Knous, daughter of Mr. Jacob Knous of this city.

PARKER-KNOUS.

Marriage of Dr. Parker's Son to Miss Knous at the South Church.

The South Church was filled with a fashionable audience last evening to witness the marriage of Lewis Darling Parker, the second son of Dr. E. P. Parker, to Carrie I. Knous, daughter of Jacob Knous. Eleven hundred invitations had been issued and among those present were many of the most prominent people in social, professional and business circles in the city. The church was beautifully decked with flowers, the pulpit being entirely covered with golden rod. The ceremony was performed by the father of the groom. Mr. John M. Gallup at the organ played Mendelssohn's wedding march as the bridal party entered the church. The bride wore a heavy white silk robe with long bridal veil. The ushers were Walter Gurney Scott and Norman H. Scott of New York, J. Woodhull Adams of Newark, N. J., James S. Bryant, Morris Penrose, Harris Parker, Robert P. Parker and Buston Parker of this city, the last three being brothers of the groom. There were no bridesmaids.

Following the ceremony there was a reception at the residence of the bride's parents, on Prospect Avenue, the invitations to which were limited to the intimate friends of the family and the young friends of the bride. The house was decorated with flowers, ferns, smilax and potted plants, and around the veranda, on the outside, were hung colored Chinese lanterns.

Emmons's orchestra furnished music. In an upper chamber were to be seen the wedding presents, which were numerous and elegant. Among those present at the reception were:

Governor Bulkeley and Mrs. Bulkeley, the Hon. Henry C. Robinson and Mrs. Robinson, Miss Robinson, Lucius F. Robinson, Henry S. Robinson, the Rev. Dr. Harris and Mrs. Harris of New Haven, Treasurer William L. Squire of the Consolidated road and Mrs. Squire, Horace Barber and Mrs. Barber of Warehouse Point, Miss Cheney, Miss H. B. Cheney, Howell Cheney and Lieutenant Charles Cheney of South Manchester, Judge N. Shipman, Miss Shipman, Arthur D. Shipman, Robert W. Huntington, jr., Miss Jillson, Mrs. Andrew Clark, Miss Mary Clark, W. E. Collins and Mrs. Collins, Samuel G. Dunham and Mrs. Dunham, the Rev. J. H. Twichell and Mrs. Twichell, C. E. Dustin and Mrs. Dustin, F. G. Whitmore and Mrs. Whitmore, T. O. Enders and Mrs. Enders, James B. Cone and Mrs. Cone, H. W. Conklin and Mrs. Conklin, Miss Conklin, Harry S. Conklin, William P. Conklin, Colonel H. S. Redfield, Henry Osborn and Mrs. Osborn, Charles E. Chase and Mrs. Chase, Miss Plimpton and Miss Grace Plimpton, Miss Mary Bulkeley, Miss Buck, Miss Burnell, Miss Taft, Miss Fannie Brown, J. D. Browne and Mrs. Browne, Miss Browne, Miss Brainard, Miss Goodwin, Miss Ranlett, A. S. Cook, F. C. Pratt, F. C. Billings, E. Kent Hubbard and Louis D. Hubbard of Middletown, Francis R. Cooley, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Baker, H. C. Judd and Mrs. Judd, John Knous and Mrs. Knous, Miss Grace Knous, Franklin F. Knous and Mrs. Knous of New York, W. H. Burtenshaw and Mrs. Burtenshaw of Detroit, Mich.

Mr. and Mrs. Parker left on the 9:35 p. m. train for a short wedding tour, after which they will go to Savannah, Ga., where Mr. Parker is engaged in mercantile business.

Charles O. Abell, of Spring street, has left Hartford to fill a desirable position in Boston. His many friends will regret his departure. He has been in the Travelers' Insurance company for seven years and has been assistant superintendent of the Center Church Sunday school. Mrs. R. K. Abell will remain for a short time with her brother, the Rev. E. P. Hammond, 25 Atwood street.

Frank B. Wilson, secretary of the Jewell Pin Company, and Mrs. Wilson, left yesterday for Denver to spend the winter in Colorado, acting upon the advice of Mr. Wilson's physician.

Their Reunion at the Allyn House Yesterday.

Despite the mud under foot and the clouds overhead, forty-seven of the pupils of

CURTIS SCHOOL PUPILS.

Re-Union Held at the Allyn House this Afternoon.

Many cherished memories were recalled and the past in its olden halo lived again at the parlors of the Allyn house to-day. The occasion was the reunion of the pupils of Professor P. W. T. Curtis. The parlors were filled and it was evident from the most casual glance that the professors' school could not have existed very many years since. Twenty-five years ago the school was affection and respect in which the late teacher was held by his pupils. Monsieur Alverzual, the instructor in French, was one of the staff that was frequently named to-day.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis D. Parker of Prospect avenue, who are at their country home, Bonnybrook Farm, New Lebanon, N. Y., celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage last Saturday in an informal way. Mr. and Mrs. John C. Willson of Gillet street were their guests for the week-end.

Professor Curtis died in New Haven about three years ago. Mrs. A. P. Pitkin and Miss Agnes W. Belden of New-

CURTIS SCHOOL ALUMNAE.

Informal Reception at Newington—Those who Were Present.

The informal reception yesterday of the pupils of the late T. W. T. Curtis's School at No. 106 Asylum street at the concur in voting the same.

Mr. T. W. T. Curtis's School.

From 1861 to 1867 T. W. T. Curtis taught a private school for young ladies at No. 106 Asylum street, Hartford. Then years ago about fifty of the old pupils enjoyed a pleasant reunion at the Allyn House and formed an alumnae association. It was hoped at that time to have frequent reunions. Last month a committee appointed ten years ago met for consultation. It was then decided that the reunion ten years ago having been a perfect success there should be no attempt to repeat the same, but that an invitation should be extended to all the old members to be present at an informal reception to be held at the house of Miss Agnes W. Belden of Newington in the near future. It has since seemed best on account of the many meetings to be held this month to hold this reception on Thursday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock and it is hoped that many of the old pupils will be able to be present. A special invitation has been sent to Mrs. T. W. T. Curtis of New Haven and the Rev. A. F. Sherrill, D. D., of Torrington, former teachers of the school. The time of the trolley cars leaving and arriving was stated in last evening's TIMES. Arranged, after accepting an invitation to meet with Mrs. E. H. Sears in her country home at Collinsville next year, or if more desirable at her home in Hartford.

OCTOBER 4, 1901.

Mrs. Addie Sill Tomlinson, Mrs. John Fairman, Mrs. Jennie Bennett Taintor, Mrs. Louise Wolcott Batchelder of Springfield, Miss Harriet A. Wilcox of Berlin, Miss Emma Bronson, Mrs. Emma Fuller, Mrs. Nina Hastings Pierson, Mrs. Lizzie Hatch Curtis, Mrs. Lillie Ames Sill of Collinsville, Mrs. Allyn Belden, Mrs. Nettie Col-Bissell Lane, Miss Fiege Hub-Phillips, Mrs. Emma Mosely Hotchkiss Gil- of New Britain, Meriden; Miss or Locks; Mrs. iden, Mrs. E. Mrs. J. H. D. S. Kel-; Mrs. Mary lie Hotchkiss rkins Coffing, ray, Miss Lydia Cuatis, Mrs. Kellogg Sage, Fannie Judd Mrs. Pierce ie Allyn Bar- Sill Belden,

90
PEMBER—NEVERS—In this city, Sept. 16, by Rev. George Leon Walker, at the home of the bride's father, Elisha Hart Pember of Boston, Mass., and Hattie Hosmer Nevers, daughter of Mr. George Nevers.

The marriage of Elisha Hart Pember to Miss Hattie Hosmer Nevers, daughter of George Nevers, occurred this noon at the home of the bride No. 7 Buckingham street. The wedding was a quiet but a very pretty one. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Walker and a large number of friends were present. The bride wore a traveling dress. The following gentlemen were the ushers: Messrs. Nason, Brown, Sugden and Holcombe all of this city. After the ceremony there was a short reception before the bridal party left. There were numerous valuable presents from the friends of the young people here and in Boston.

Mr. Pember is a Hartford man but is now in business in Boston. Mr. and Mrs. Pember will be at home to their friends after October 1 at 16 Chester Square, Boston.

Clapp-Pitkin.

The marriage of George I. Clapp, of the firm of Clapp & Treat of this city with Miss Almeria H. Pitkin, daughter of Mrs. Leonard Pitkin of Avon street, was solemnized at 6:30 o'clock last evening at St. John's Church in the presence of a large gathering of their friends. The Rev. J. W. Bradin performed the ceremony. The chancel was handsomely decked with potted plants and palms. Miss Pitkin, who was attended by Miss Jennie Lincoln of Meriden as maid of honor, wore a white silk gown with full train and veil, and carried a bouquet of white roses. The maid of honor wore cream silk with lace and the bridesmaids, Miss Bertha Smith of this city and Miss Vay Clarke of Portland, Conn., were similarly costumed. They each carried bouquets of pink roses. The ushers were J. Wells Loomis of Westfield, W. Hall Stevens, Irving C. Treat and Joseph P. Pitkin of this city and the groomsmen were Henry M. Clapp of Boston. Following the ceremony a brief and informal reception was held at the residence of the bride's mother, for relatives and a few intimate friends, at the conclusion of which the newly-wedded pair left for a trip south. Among the large collection of presents was a City Guard clock given by friends of the groom who formerly served in the company with him.

A LONG BETROTHAL.

Prof. Francis Wayland's Brother Married After a Forty Years' Engagement.

Rev. Heman Lincoln Wayland, D. D., of Philadelphia, and Frances Mary Green of Providence, were married in Providence Thursday after a betrothal of forty years. Rev. Dr. Wayland is a son of Dr. Francis Wayland, the famous president of Brown university, and was graduated at Brown in 1849, and is a brother of Professor Francis Wayland of New Haven, dean of the Yale Law school.

He knew Miss Green when she was a young girl and when she was eighteen sought her in marriage. They were in love with each other, but Miss Green's mother would not consent. The consent has, in fact, been withheld until within the past year. Rev. Dr. Wayland is now over sixty and Miss Green sixty-one. They were married by President Andrews of Brown university and Rev. Leighton Williams. The bride is a sister of Arnold Green, a lawyer of Providence.

Oldest Triplets in the World.

Arrangements are being made in Torrington to celebrate the 70th anniversary of the birth of the Grant triplets, which occurs on Wednesday of next week, the 23d inst. Their names are Matthew, Daniel and William. It is intended to make the celebration a public one, the exercises to be held in the town hall. They are probably the only triplets in the world who have reached the age of 70 years.

THE TORRINGTON TRIPLETS.

Unique Celebration Last Evening.—Judge Andrews at the Banquet.

Torrington, Sept. 24.—Chief Justice C. B. Andrews, of the Supreme court, presided over the banquet given last evening in honor of Matthew, Daniel and William Grant, triplets, born in Torrington 70 years ago. Addresses were delivered by many prominent citizens.

The Torrington Band gave an open air concert and at 7:30 the exercises began in the opera house. An old folks' choir of twelve voices sang old-fashioned music—such pieces as North Salem, Greenwich, Bridgewater, Majesty, Turner and Rainbow. The Torrington Band also played and a male quartette sang modern music. Addresses were delivered by G. H. Welch, who was master of ceremonies and the prime mover in the celebration, E. J. Peele and Judge Fyler. Letters of regret were read from the late Judge Henry S. Barbour, of Hartford and Rev. M.

THE OLDEST TRIPLETS.

Grant Brothers Celebrate Their Seventy-First Anniversary Quietly.

HARTFORD, September 23.—The noted occasion was the Grant brothers of Torrington, the oldest triplets in the world, passed their seventy-first anniversary today.

No especial celebration was made, like the one of last year, the brothers only re-banquet in honor of a few friends who dropped in to Conley's Inn. They congratulate them. They are farmers and are still in vigorous health.

The Grants are cousins of the late President U. S. Grant and are hale and hearty farmers.

One of the Grant Triplets Dead.

Winsted, Nov. 2.—Matthew A. Grant, 75 years of age, a life-long resident of Burrville and one of the famous Grant triplets, died suddenly of paralysis today. William Grant is the only one of the Grant triplets now living. Previous to the death of Daniel Grant, which occurred nearly three years ago, the Grants were the oldest triplets in the world.

Birthday of Deacon Potter of Thomaston Celebrated.

Deacon Tertius D. Potter celebrated his ninety-ninth birthday September 25, relatives and friends to the number of thirty assisting in making it a pleasant occasion. They came from Great Barrington, Mass.; Brooklyn, N. Y.; Stamford, Plainville and Bristol. Mr. Potter was born in 1793 in a house standing where he now lives. He enjoys good health, spends much of his time reading and can do so without glasses. Nearly every day he can be found cutting wood for exercise. He remembers back seven generations. Four generations were present on the 25th and were photographed. Deacon Potter received several presents; one a cane made of timber from the oldest house in Waterbury, engraved T. D. P., 1793-1891. Five sons were present, one being absent in the Black Hills; also several grandchildren and one great grandchild.

THE COURANT is Deacon Potter's favorite paper. He used to ride to Thomaston for it when it was brought through town by "post"—Mr. Eggleston on horseback, with a horn to signal his coming. The old supplements he now often reads.

Daniel A. died Sept 4, 1892

OND OF P. 28.
Mrs. Duclos Sells Her West Hartford Property.

THE COURANT's Newington correspondent writes that Mrs. Duclos has exchanged her residence in West Hartford and her farm in Newington for some real estate near Albany, N. Y. Mr. and Mrs. Turner, who have occupied her farmhouse there for a year or two, expect to go with Mrs. Duclos to New York state next month. Mr. Turner will there take the position of coachman. Mrs. Duclos will carry with her her nineteen pet cats and nineteen dogs. The house she will occupy was built by a millionaire, who afterwards failed and was obliged to dispose of his property. It is said to be an elegant residence.

SEPTEMBER 28, 1891.

THE PETS OF MRS. DUCLOS.

All the Dogs, Cats and Canaries Must Migrate.

THE CATS HAVE ALREADY GONE.

A Remarkable Collection, and One Full of Interest—There Are Also Canaries and Fine Horses and Cattle.

It was stated in THE COURANT some time ago that Mrs. H. P. Duclos, who has for some years past owned and occupied a home on Highland street in this city, had exchanged that and her property in Newington for a beautiful place near Albany. Her new home was known as Brightwood, and is situated in Valencia. It was built by a then millionaire and cost many thousands of dollars. It is a veritable palace in its make up, all its details being of the most modern pattern, convenience and beauty governing all its appointments, cost being a minor factor. Some idea of the magnificence of the house can be gathered from the fact that the fittings and finishings of the music room alone cost more than eighteen thousand dollars. A fine billiard room and other social rooms are scarcely less sumptuously fitted. Reverses overtook the gentleman whose money was so freely expended for his own enjoyment as well as that of his friends, and he was obliged to give up the palace and retire to less pretentious quarters. A Mr. Rogers became its owner thereafter, and it was with this gentleman that Mrs. Duclos made the exchange. Mrs. Duclos is probably the most ardent admirer of animals in this country, if not in any country. Many Hartford people, beside her personal friends, know her by sight, having seen her riding behind her favorite span of blacks, usually accompanied by Miss Phila Miller, a schoolmate, who has been for years her constant companion.

From a pair of Mexican dogs, which her late husband secured on one of their pleasure trips to that far-away country, Mrs. Duclos has a family of fifteen or more animals of various degrees of attractiveness, some of them as bright as new buttons. Beside these inferiors she has a magnificent great mastiff—a sort of home protector—and a handsome Irish setter. She also has some nineteen pet cats and a number of birds. At her farm at Newington she has had some blooded stock (the cows being full-blood Jerseys) all of which go to her new home.

Mrs. Duclos obtained possession some days ago of the New York state property, and for a week past her live stock belongings have been in the various stages of transfer to their new home. The cattle, some of the horses and the swine were sent on by express. The cats have also gone, and Mrs. Duclos going out to settle them and make them at home in their new quarters. These queer pets were transferred in baskets. Curious people thought the party were en route to one of the numerous country fairs, some of the more inquisitive plying the attendants with questions. The dogs are to be taken along by easy drives across country in the family carriages, probably within the coming week. Mr. Stephen Bull of the Hartford Life and Annuity Company, and Mr. DeWitt C. Preston, friends of Mrs. Duclos, will accompany the party.

Some idea of the lady's love for her pets may be learned from the royal manner in which they are to be treated in the American palace which is to be her and their home. The cosy little house formerly occupied by the gardener has been assigned to cats, and upon their arrival, they were ushered in there and left for the night, the kind-hearted lady paying them a visit in the early morning. It goes without saying that upon her first visit she found them almost anything but satisfied, a couple being perched upon a mantel-shelf, others on the window-sills, and still others in equally unsatisfactory places. But Mrs. Duclos's presence soon quieted them, and they were quite at home by next day. They are not to be allowed at large for a month, in which time they are expected to become attached to their grand new quarters.

But what of the dogs, queries the reader—and quite likely he will think of the comfortable, modern-built barn as a grand place for them. But he is away off in his guessing. The beautiful billiard-room, fitted up in a princely way as it is, has been assigned to these little rascals who seem to have so thoroughly ingratiated themselves into the affections of their mistress, and whether the ruthless winds howl, the snows blow, or the rains in torrents fall, these products of the animal kingdom will be disporting themselves in a grandly-fitted room that would be a desirable annex to any retired money-king's parlor.

The bird pets are only four in number and they have hitherto occupied a comfortable cage built for them at no inconsiderable cost. In the new home they will be assigned to a room that the millionaire builder designed for his guests—and the reader need not bother his imagination as to whether this is a well-appointed room or no.

In a couple of weeks at least all these pets, the nineteen cats, the seventeen dogs, the four canary birds, the beautiful Jerseys, and other farm stock, and the handsome coach team, will be occupying quarters in their new home, where they will pass the remainder of their lives, with the assurance that when that is spent they will be buried with a degree of elegance befitting their lives, and, if it be that the great-hearted mistress survives them, their graves will be kept fresh with fragrant flowers, as have been the graves of pets already buried.

Mrs. Duclos's early life was somewhat romantic. She was the daughter of Mr. John Parker Francis, well-known as the founder and for many years proprietor of the water cures at Brattleboro, Vt. Before the war these establishments were a rendezvous for southern people, many of them spending their summers there. The war of course shut out all this patronage and in the end the thriving institutions went the way of many another business venture, the large buildings having since been converted into tenement buildings.

It was while her father was the successful head of the Brattleboro establishments that Mrs. Duclos, then Mary Francis, met Henry P. Duclos, a wide-awake young man a few years her senior. While she was yet in her fifteenth year the two were married.

Life had been somewhat easy with him, owing to the indulgence of a fairly well-off father, and he did not immediately tie up to any successful business. Later he conceived the system of insurance now so successfully practiced by the Life and Annuity Company of this city, into whose then sluggish veins he infused new life, improving his own fortune the while, in the end receiving a handsome royalty from that com-

92
Mr. Duclos died about five years ago, leaving a comfortable estate to his wife. Only one child was born to them during their twenty or more years of wedded life, and it died at eighteen months of age. Since her husband's death she has given much of her time to her pets, her fondness for them having strengthened with her years of widowhood. The dogs are each named after some favorite opera, and each knows its name when called by the attendant. In her early years Mrs. Duclos was passionately fond of music, being an accomplished musician herself, which accounts for the peculiar names.

Mrs. Duclos does not believe in destroying animal life. No animal born on the place is killed, not even a bullock. For a dozen or more years she has abstained entirely from eating meat of any kind.

Along with her peculiar love for her pets has grown a thoroughly fearless regard for other than her own animals. The most ferocious-looking mastiff has no terror for her and it is a curious fact that animals, especially dogs, become at once attached to her. Her little flock of dogs have during the night occupied a room prepared especially for their comfort, heated in winter by a stove, and they always get as much care and watchfulness as a child would.

Although Mrs. Duclos has lived a somewhat retired life for some years past, she has a large circle of friends hereabouts who will wish her well in her new home. Her team of handsome blacks will be missed from the streets, and it goes without saying that Hartford merchants will miss her very liberal patronage in all the departments that go to make up a well-appointed household.

Mrs. Duclos has built a beautiful mausoleum for the remains of her husband and infant daughter, and it is among the most admired of the pieces in Cedar Hill. It is situated on the highest point in the southwest section of the cemetery.

LORD-TILTON—In this city, Christ Church, chapel, Tuesday evening, Sept. 23, Horace G. Lord and Miss Nella M. Tilton, both of Hartford.

VISITING THE INDIANS.

Mrs. Kinney to Make an Extensive Journey West.

Mrs. Kinney, widow of Major Kinney, will start this week for an extensive journey in the West, largely among the Indians located there. She is president of the Connecticut Indian Association and active in the work of the Mohonk conference and is deeply interested in what is being done for the Indians by the philanthropic people of the country.

She will go first to the Omaha reservation and be there the guest of Dr. Susan La Flesche, who is government physician for the Omahas. Then she will go, via Colorado and Salt Lake City, to the Fort Hall reservation in Idaho, which is the scene of the chief work of the Connecticut Association. They have there 160 acres and are putting up buildings that will be finished in about a month. Mrs. Kinney will very likely be there to drive the last nail. She takes out a United States and a Connecticut flag that are to float over the Connecticut Association's buildings.

The stay at Fort Hall may occupy several weeks, and she may then go to Alaska, returning home in November. THE COURANT expects to receive letters for publication from Mrs. Kinney, while she is away, that will, besides their general and their personal interest, be especially interesting to the many Connecticut people who maintain the state association in its work.

Two Daughters of Robert Hoe Surprise Their Family and Friends.

(New York Sun, Wednesday.)

It will be a genuine surprise to friends of the family to learn this morning that Miss Olivia Hoe and Miss Laura Hoe, daughters of Robert Hoe, were married yesterday morning at St. Mark's Church without notice, it is said, to their family.

Miss Olivia Hoe was married to Mr. Henry Lewis Slade of the Calumet Club and the Lacrosse Club, the Rev. Dr. J. H. Ry-lance, rector of the church, performing the ceremony. Her sister was married by the Rev. Richard Cobden to Ernest Trow Carter. Mr. Carter is a young graduate of Princeton, class of 1888, and is a lawyer of 49 Broadway.

The news of the double marriage was certainly a surprise to a number of friends of the family of the brides, to whom it was told last night.

Mr. Robert Hoe, the father of the brides, who is the eminent builder of printing presses, is out of town with his family.

At his residence at 11 East Thirty-sixth street it was said last night that all of the family were out of town. Mrs. Hoe was at the house for a short time yesterday, but had departed again.

The news of the double wedding came to the Sun-office in the shape of these two advertisements late last night:—

CARTER—HOE.—On Tuesday, Sept. 29, 1891, at St. Mark's Church, by the Rev. Richard Cobden, Laura, daughter of Robert Hoe, to Ernest Trow Carter.

SLADE—HOE.—On Tuesday, Sept. 29, 1891, at St. Mark's Church, by the Rev. Dr. J. H. Ry-lance, Olivia, daughter of Robert Hoe, to Henry Lewis Slade.

The notices were Hamill, sexton nothing more, I been directed to did not see the

It was learned days ago Miss O. Robert Hoe, Ernest Trow Carter street.

J. H. Ry-lance, 11 L George W. Hamill, firmly decided were of lawful the ceremony in ing. Yesterday lance found Miss bridegroom was With them were young woman.

These Miss H. and they were t the ceremony sistant, the Rev

Dr. Ry-lance from the pray knelt before him

The work of receiving the signatures of the witnesses Dr. Ry-lance had left to his assistant. He was very much astonished when he turned around presently and found that the "witnesses" were making arrangements to get married themselves by the Rev. Mr. Cobden. Then for the first time Dr. Ry-lance noticed that the young woman who had been a witness was Miss Laura Hoe, a sister of Olivia.

Her escort was Mr. Carter, and in a few minutes the Rev. Mr. Cobden had made them man and wife. Mr. and Mrs. Slade returned the favor by entering their names as witnesses of this second wedding.

Mr. Slade is a son of Jarvis Slade of 11 West Tenth street, and a brother of George P. Slade, treasurer of the New York, Manhattan and Central Real Estate Associations of 110 Leonard street, and one of the managers of the Merchants' Club.

A curious coincidence that the reporters ran across in looking for particulars of the marriage lay in the street numbers of the residences of the persons concerned. The

A ROMANTIC DOUBLE WEDDING.

The two daughters of Robert Hoe, the millionaire manufacturer of printing presses, were the chief figures in a romantic double wedding at New York Tuesday, Olivia, the elder sister, being united to Henry Lewis Slade, and Laura to Ernest Trow Carter. The young men were college chums at Princeton and met the Hoe girls at the commencement exercises in 1888. The young men continued their attentions after graduation, and when last spring the consent of Mr. Hoe was asked to the marriage of Miss Laura and Mr. Carter it was withheld. Mr. Hoe went to Europe, and when Miss Hoe cabled for a decisive answer she received word to wait her father's return. The young women had been away with Mrs. Hoe all summer and returned to New York Tuesday. They left their mother at the house and went out to do "a little shopping." By previous arrangement they met the young men and proceeded to St. Mark's church on Stuyvesant square, where the wedding took place. Both the young men are of good family, and it is believed that the parents will become reconciled to the match.

The Hartford Courant.

TUESDAY MORNING, SEPT. 29, 1891.
LUCINDA H. HAYDEN.

Her Ninetieth Birthday Celebrated - A Wonderful Family History.

There was a pleasant family gathering at the residence of Miss Lucinda H. Hayden at Hayden's, in Windsor Saturday, the occasion being her ninetieth birthday. Oliver Hayden and wife of East Granby, Jabez H. Hayden and wife of Windsor Locks, H. Sidney Hayden and wife of Windsor, and a sister, Sarah N. Power (who resides with her) were present. Their respective ages are 84, 80, 76 and 72. Another brother, Augustus H. Hayden of Charleston, S. C., aged 74, who was present on a like occasion ten years ago, is still living.

Miss Hayden has always lived in the house in which she was born and where her father, the late Levi Hayden, was born. The house was built 154 years ago and a portion of it remains unaltered. It is overshadowed by a forest oak, whose trunk is four feet in diameter, and its branches spread ninety feet.

On her first birthday she had ten living ancestors—two parents, four grandparents, and four great-grandparents. She saw her great-grandfather, Deacon Nathaniel Hayden, when she was two years old, and he was 94, and he when four years old had climbed the knees of his grandfather, Daniel Hayden (born 1640), the first Hayden born in Connecticut—the three lives overlapping each other and covering a period of 250 years—from the first settlement of that neighborhood to the present time. She traces her descent from nineteen of the original, or very early, settlers of Windsor, among them the pastor, his two deacons and several others (besides William Hayden) of the original members of the Windsor Congregational Church, which was organized in Plymouth, England, in 1630. She has had ancestors in that church every generation since, and is herself a member of it.

Physically she was never strong, but is still able to spend most of the day about the house and occasionally rides out. Her mental powers are but little impaired and she still reads with interest THE DAILY COURANT, from the weekly edition of which she 102 Years Old.

A remarkable case of longevity is that of Mrs. Charlotte Robinson, who lives with her daughter, Mrs. Abner, a short distance from the Sheltering Arms, Norwich Town. She was born at South Kingston, R. I., in 1789, the same year that Washington became President, and was placed with a Quaker family when she was five years old. Her maiden name was Perry. She was the mother of eleven children. Mrs. Robinson united with the Second Congregational Church in 1842, and has since resided in Norwich. She has been blind three years, and was 102 years old September 27, 1891.—Norwich Bulletin.

Miss Annie G. Fitzgerald of this city goes to Boston to reside about October 1, having accepted a responsible position on the editorial staff of the Herald of that city.

A charming little story is being told concerning the name of Return Jonathan Meigs, who died in Washington the other day. Mr Meigs's great-grandfather was plain Jonathan Meigs, a citizen of Connecticut. He fell in love with a Quakeress who lived near Middletown. "Nay, Jonathan, I respect thee much, but I cannot marry thee," was the young woman's answer to his suit. So Jonathan mounted his horse and was riding off when he saw a sign on a tree which read: "Return Jonathan Meigs's." He immediately turned back and married her.

The Republican.

SPRINGFIELD, FRIDAY, OCT. 2.
WEDDING IN SOUTH CHURCH.

George W. Benedict of Boston and Miss Anna Louise Bull of Quincy, Ill., were married in South church at 10 o'clock yesterday morning. The Illinois law forbids the marriage of cousins, and although Mr Benedict and Miss Bull were not own cousins, they came under the technical provisions, so the bride's family came East in order to be entirely safe. Springfield was chosen because of the residence here of Rev Dr S. G. Buckingham, who was the pastor of Miss Bull's mother, when a girl, in Millbury. Dr Buckingham accordingly performed the ceremony, assisted by Rev Dr S. H. Emery of Taunton, who was the former pastor of the family at Quincy, Ill. The ceremony was as simple as possible, only a few immediate relatives being present. The bride wore a brown traveling dress. After the wedding a breakfast was served at the Massasoit house and Mr and Mrs Benedict started on the 1.55 train for a trip to the White mountains. They will receive at the bride's home in Quincy October 15 and will be at home at 392 Marlboro street in Boston somewhat later. The wedding party included Mr and Mrs W. G. Benedict and Mr and Mrs William Benedict of Boston, Mrs S. H. Emery of Taunton, Mr and Mrs Lorenzo Bull and Miss Mary Bull of Quincy, Ill., Miss Harriet Blodgett of New York and Miss Harriet Buckingham of this city. The family of Lorenzo Bull is a prominent one at Quincy, and there was romantic interest in the event taking place so far from home.

THE STURTEVANT-COOK WEDDING.

Royal B. Sturtevant, son of Warner F. Sturtevant, and Miss Jennie Frances Cook, daughter of Mrs Harriet B. Cook, were married at the Elliott-street home of the groom's parents at 4.30 yesterday afternoon. Only the relatives and intimate friends were invited and the decorations about the house were simple, consisting chiefly of palms. The ceremony was performed by Rev Wallace MacMullen, pastor of Trinity church, the couple standing in the bay window of the front parlor. The ushers were James Parker Clark, Charles Tapley Winchester, George M. Parks and Charles A. Blodgett, while the bride was attended by Miss Bemis, Miss Emma Bemis, Miss Mary Cook, sister of the bride, and Miss Julia B. Sturtevant, sister of the groom. The bride wore a brocaded satin dress, with veil and carried white roses, while Miss Bemis wore pink china silk, Miss Emma Bemis white china silk, Miss Mary Cook brocaded yellow silk, and Miss Sturtevant a dress of light blue Canton crepe. Three of the bridesmaids carried roses of the color of their dresses, Miss Sturtevant's being a cluster of red ones. An orchestra, stationed in the back parlor, played Mendelssohn's wedding march as the couple descended the stairs, and after the ceremony refreshments were served to the friends, the bride cutting the wedding cake. There were many beautiful presents, the groom's gift to the bride being a star of pearls with a large diamond in the center. Mr and Mrs Sturtevant will visit Washington and other cities on their wedding journey, and will reside at 58 Pearl street on their return.

THE ROBINSON-PERRY WEDDING.

Charles L. Robinson, son of E. C. Robinson of this city, and Miss Gertrude H. Perry, daughter of Capt Edward S. Perry of New Haven, were married yesterday afternoon at St Paul's Episcopal church in that city. Miss Frances Osborne of New Haven was maid of honor, William M. Kimball of this city was best man and J. E. English and W. C. Beers of New Haven with Frank L. Worthy and Joseph F. Pynchon of this city were ushers. The bridal party moved up the isle to the music of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Prof F. A. Fowler, the bride leaning on the arm of her father, and the ceremony was performed by Rector E. S. Lines under an arch of evergreens.

HAYDEN—At Hayden's in Windsor, January 31, Miss Lucinda Haskell Hayden, aged 91.

93

PLATT-COIT—On Saturday, Oct. 3, 1891, at Norwood, N. J., at the residence of the bride's sister, by the Rev. Henry M. Ladd, Harriet, daughter of Samuel Coit, and Edward T. Platt.

The Platt-Coit Wedding.

A Washington correspondent writes to the New York Sun:

Information was received in Washington to-day that Edward Truax Platt, son of Thomas C. Platt, and southern manager of the United States Express Company, with headquarters in Washington, was married in Norwood, N. J., on Saturday to Miss Harriette Coit, daughter of Samuel Coit of this city, formerly of Hartford, Conn. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Henry M. Ladd at the rectory. The minister is a brother-in-law of the bride. The wedding was a private affair, only the members of the immediate families being present. Mr. and Mrs. Platt left for a bridal tour to the North soon after the wedding, and will return to Washington early in November and reside at the Sherman house.

MRS. CLEVELAND A MOTHER.

The Ex-President's Wife Gives Birth to a Daughter.

Just after midnight Saturday morning Mrs. Grover Cleveland, wife of the ex-President, gave birth to a girl baby. The event occurred at No. 816 Madison avenue, the New York residence of the Cleverlands.

In reply to a note that was sent up stairs to Mr. Cleveland, who was at his wife's bedside, he sent down the following answer:—

Baby girl born a little after midnight—large, then healthy and strong, and perfect in every respect. Mother and child doing remarkably well. G. C.

To a reporter Mr. Cleveland on Saturday said:—

"Yes, it is true. My wife was safely delivered of a little girl this morning at six minutes past midnight, and both the mother and the child are doing splendidly. Mrs. Cleveland has rested quietly all day. The child is strong and healthy, and at its birth weighed eight pounds."

Mr. Cleveland said that his wife and child would remain in the city at least two weeks, and would then go into the country for a while—just where he had not decided. He acted as if he were hugely pleased.

Among the telegrams of congratulation was the following from Don M. Dickinson, postmaster-general under Cleveland:—

"Congratulations. Three times three and a tiger."

The democratic Atchison (Kan.) county convention telegraphed congratulations.

Governor Hill was seen at the opera Saturday night and asked if he had sent a telegram of congratulation to ex-President Cleveland. He replied: "The governor has nothing to say on the subject."

RUTH CLEVELAND.

BABY CLEVELAND BAPTIZED.

hat Will be the Name of the President's Daughter.

New York, Oct. 10.—(Ex-)

Cleveland stated yesterday that his daughter is to be named Ruth. This was the name of Mrs. Cleveland's mother and has always been liked by her. Mr. Cleveland said: "I desire especially that my child be made of the extreme and kind in us and our child shown to people everywhere throughout the country. We have received all the numerous congratulations and memoranda. From the President of the United States and from all the humble citizens have come heartily. All this has been very interesting, but since it will be impossible to acknowledge all these messages, I hope this public recognition will be accepted as sufficient."

Ceremony Took Place at the Cleveland Cottage, Lakewood.

Lakewood, N. J., Jan. 9.—An interesting ceremony took place at the Cleveland cottage here Thursday. This was nothing less than the christening of the baby, Ruth Cleveland. Rev. Dr. Wilton Merle Smith of the Central Presbyterian church in Fifty-eighth street, New York, of which Mrs. Cleveland is a member, accompanied by his wife, made their way to the Cleveland cottage.

The baby was arrayed in a handsome dress of Valenciennes lace, a gift from Mrs. Robert W. Chapin, intended expressly for this occasion. On her neck she wore a string of amber beads, the gift of Mrs. Richard Watson Gilder, while a handsome bowl, presented by Mrs. Daniel Manning, widow of the ex-president's first secretary of the treasury, was improvised as a baptismal font.

The Hartford Courant.

MONDAY MORNING, OCT. 5, 1891.

Mrs Frank Leslie, the publisher and newspaper writer of New York city, has remarried at last. The story of how she took the involved business of her late husband's publishing house in hand and turned failure into success is a familiar one. The death of Mr Leslie found his affairs almost helplessly entangled, but with $50,000 loaned by Mrs Thomas K. Smith of Brooklyn the widow saved the day and soon found herself a very rich woman. Rumor has had her engaged many times of recent years, but now comes the unheralded announcement of her marriage to William C. Kingsbury Wilde of London, eldest son of the late Sir William Wilde, M. D. of Dublin. The ceremony was performed yesterday by Rev C. F. Deems. Mrs Leslie has made known a purpose to leave $600,000 to be employed for the benefit of her sex in New York city, but perhaps Mrs Wilde will change the plan. The bride was born in New Orleans and has a very striking and showy presence.

MORRIS-KARRICK—In St. Paul's church, Stockbridge, Mass., Oct. 6, by the Rector, Rev. Arthur Lawrence, Henry Lincoln Morris of this city, and Miss Lucy Hurlbut Karriek, daughter of Mrs. John Walter Karriek, and niece of Thomas O. Hurlbut, Esq., of South Lee, Mass.

The Daily Union.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 6, 1891

STOCKBRIDGE.

A Church Wedding.

The wedding of Miss Lucy Hurlbut Karriek, daughter of Mrs. John Walter Karriek, and Henry Lincoln Morris, son of John Emory Morris of Hartford, took place this noon at St. Paul's church, Stockbridge. The wedding breakfast was given at South Lee immediately after the ceremony. The bride and bridegroom will be at home after November 16 at 4 Columbia Place, Hartford. The father of the bridegroom, John Emory Morris, is the assistant secretary of the Traveler's Insurance company and a former resident of this city.

HOME JOURNAL

Miss Lucy Hurlbut Karriek, daughter of Mrs. J. Walter Karriek, and grand-daughter of the late Mr. Thomas Hurlbut of South Lee, Mass., was married Tuesday, October 6, to Henry Lincoln Morris of Hartford, Conn. The ceremony was performed at noon in St. Paul's Memorial Church, Stockbridge, by the Rev. Arthur Lawrence, rector of the church. The bride, preceded by her maid of honor, Miss Edith Latham, of San Francisco, entered the church on the arm of her uncle, Mr. Thomas O. Hurlbut, who gave her away, and was met at the altar by the groom, attended by his best man, James L. Karriek, of Boston, brother of the bride. Ushers: Messrs. Charles G. Stone and George W. Baker of Hartford, Henry Martyn Clarke and Fred. L. Ferris of Boston. The bride's gown was of Japanese crepe, over white satin with train; her tulle veil was held by pearl pins and a wreath of lilies-of-the-valley, which were also the flowers of her bouquet. Reception and breakfast were given at the home of her uncles, Messrs. T. O. and H. C. Hurlbut, South Lee, largely attended by relatives and friends from Boston, Springfield and Hartford, as well as from the adjoining towns, Lenox, Lee, Pittsfield and Stockbridge. The church and the home were decorated with flowers, palms and autumn foliage. Mr. and Mrs. Morris will reside in Hartford.

Cards are out announcing the marriage of Henry Lincoln Morris of the Travelers Insurance Company to Miss Lucy Hurlbut Karriek on October 6 at St. Paul's Church, Stockbridge, Mass.

The Berkshire County Berkshire Eagle.

SOUTH LEE.

Berkshire County has been almost devoid of the usual autumn weddings this year

Miss Frances Brinkerhoff Small, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Forrest Small, and Earl Warren Goodell, son of Rev. Charles L. Goodell and Mrs. Goodell of New York, were married yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the Asylum Hill Congregational Church. The ceremony was performed by the bridegroom's father, Mr. Karriek, and assisted by Rev. William Swan.

1899 ember 19, a daughter of F. Small.

HARTFORD GIRL TO MARRY

Photo by Louis Fabian Bachrach.

MISS FRANCIS B. SMALL.

May 15, 1920

The bride attended Miss Bennett's School in Millbrook, N. Y. Mr. Goodell was a student at Yale, and is associated in business with Mr. Small.

Richard F. Small will be the best man.

1920

BRIDGEPORT SOCIETY

Turns Out With Full Ranks to the Wedding of a Hartford Man.

5 95

Last evening one of the most brilliant weddings which Bridgeport has ever been the scene of, was celebrated at the residence of Samuel Swan on West avenue. The happy couple are his daughter, Miss Agnes H. Swan, and Frederick F. Small of Hartford. The house was beautifully decorated with cut flowers and plants and over 400 friends of Mr. and Mrs. Small were present.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. William Swan of Lambertville, N. J., an uncle of the bride, assisted by Rev. Benjamin Swan, the bride's grandfather. Miss Sadie L. Swan, the bride's cousin, acted as maid of honor. Henry E. Bil-

OCTOBER NUPTIALS.

Swan--Small and Karriek--Morris Weddings.

3 MARRIAGES LAST WEEK.

Engagements, Personals and Society Events.

A social event occurred Thursday at Bridgeport, when Miss Agnes H. Swan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Swan, was united in marriage with Frederick F. Small, of this city. The ceremony took place at the residence of the bride's parents, at 7 o'clock, and was performed by the Rev. William Swan, of Lambertville, N. J., an uncle of the bride, assisted by Rev. Benjamin L. Swan, the bride's grandfather, the Episcopal ritual being used. The colors, yellow and white, were exclusively in the decorations, and the effect produced can hardly be described. The spacious front parlor where the ceremony was performed, the color was white, carnations, lilies and flowers of that shade being set out in relief with green foliage around. The rear parlor was arranged in an equally tasteful manner, the color being yellow. The hall, library and room were profusely decorated with leaves and golden rods. While the ceremony was being performed the couple stood before a beautiful floral altar of palms and smilax. The bride wore a handsome gown of white satin, with a satin brocaded front and lace trimmings. Her ornaments were diamonds. The maid of honor, Miss Agnes H. Swan, the bride's cousin, was attired in a becoming gown of white. Three bridesmaids, Miss Pratt, of Hartford, Miss Lory, of Norwalk, and Miss Apin, of Springfield, were attired in costumes of white. The bride's mother, Mrs. Samuel Swan, was becomingly attired in black dahlia faille with satin brocade, and diamond ornaments. The best man was Harry E. Billings, of Hartford, and the ushers were Howard C. Hurlbut, George H. Barton and Alfred L. Bliss, of Hartford. Harry C. Ives, of Bridgeport. The old English form of a plain gold wedding ring was used to seal the nuptial knot. The ceremony Stockbridge, Mass.

After the ceremony, the bride and groom were entertained at a reception at the residence of the bride's parents.

He Also Rode With Gen Lafayette— Visit to Springfield of Amos A. Parker —His Career.

That elderly man who bought a ticket for Fitzwilliam Depot, N. H., at the union station yestereay noon attracted no special attention simply because his carriage was erect, his step ordinarily firm, his eye clear and his hair brown. Yet Amos A. Parker of Fitzwilliam, N. H., is nearly 99 years old, and by virtue of having graduated from the university of Vermont in the class of 1815 is not only the oldest college graduate alive, but the alumnus who has been graduated longer than any other man in America, not excepting George Bancroft, the historian, who graduated from Harvard in the class of 1817. Mr Parker travels alone and was on his way home after a swing around the circle, his route including Worcester, Stonington, Glastonbury, and Hartford, Ct., and this city, where Monday night he visited his niece, Mrs M. H. Thayer of 689 Main street. Now, in addition to the facts already stated or implied concerning this astonishing old man, whose mental acumen is even less impaired than his physical vitality, there are others fully as interesting.

Knowing that Mr Parker is in his 99th year, one is puzzled to account for his crop of fine, brown hair. A wig, to be sure, but why brown? Simply because the wig was bought 50 or 60 years ago, when the wearer had a right to brown hair. Moreover, the color becomes him now. So much for the wig. A very good-humored and talkative man, he will give you the main facts of his career, of which the most recent in a sensational way was his marriage a few years ago to Miss Julia Smith of Glastonbury, Ct., when both were 86 years old. Miss Smith, it will be recalled, made herself famous by refusing for years to pay taxes because women were not allowed to vote. It was her translation of the Bible, by the way, that interested Mr Parker so much as to cause the marriage. And he had been married before. Soon after graduating he married the college president's daughter, while his second wife was the daughter of Gen McClary.

Even more memorable than the marriages of this country lawyer, who practiced at Keene and Fitzwilliam until he was past 80, were his experiences with Gen Lafayette when that Revolutionary hero re-visited America in 1825. Mr Parker, who was the son of a former United States senator and the nephew of three uncles who died on the battle-ground of Lexington, at that time was on the staff of the governor of New Hampshire. He was sent to Boston with the state equipage to bring the marquis to Concord. It was a wonderful journey for the young man riding with the friend of Washington along the country roads. His reminiscences of the journey and the visit of the general to New Hampshire, are all carefully preserved in book form, entitled "Memories and Recollections of Gen Lafayette." Mr Parker represented Fitzwilliam in the New Hampshire Legislature 14 times, but has not held other elective state offices. He busies himself nowadays in reading and literary work, and in entertaining both friends and strangers with his vast store of recollections. As he boards the train he shows no sign of being unable to reach his century mark.

OCTOBER 9, 1891.

AMOS A. PARKER A CENTENARIAN.

He is also the Oldest College Graduate in America, and the Story of His Life Abounds in Interesting Incidents.

Amos Andrew Parker of Fitzwilliam, N. H., was 100 years old yesterday, yet those of the family circle and the townspeople who tendered him their congratulations at his home saw a tall, erect man, apparently no more than 75 in age. The birthday reception was held at the home of John M. Parker, a smooth, and full in flesh one so old. He walks off at a steady gait, although the stout cane offers some support. The eye is undimmed, and with the aid of glasses Mr Parker still reads like a man of 50 while his penmanship is a marvel of firm and legible tracing. Altogether Mr Parker to-day seems more likely to live to 150 than some men of 70 to reach the mark he has already attained.

A year ago last June Mr Parker was in this city visiting his niece, Mrs M. H. Thayer of 689 Main street. He had been to Hartford and Glastonbury, and after leaving here he proceeded to his home by way of Worcester. He was then nearly 99 years old, yet he traveled alone and invariably felt nettled if any one offered to assist him on his journey. It was while in Springfield on that occasion that another old man, nearly 70, who regarded himself as quite a boy in Mr Parker's company, after showing him to a barber-shop, asked if he should help his companion up the steps. "No," was the answer, short, sharp and cutting, and away the older hastened up into the barber's arms.

Mr Parker was born in Fitzwilliam, where his boyhood was spent on his father's farm. This father was Nahum Parker, a distinguished son of New Hampshire, who, after the death of his two brothers at the battle of Lexington, enlisted in the Revolutionary army. After the war he became an eminent lawyer, a United States senator from New Hampshire, and then for 20 years was judge of the court of common pleas. The son, Amos was fitted for college by the local clergyman and at the academy at New Ipswich. He entered the sophomore class of the university of Vermont at Burlington in February, 1811. During Mr Parker's student life the war of 1812 was at its height, and Burlington a military encampment, even the college buildings being seized for barracks by the British, who were afterward driven from the town after a sharp battle in which 40 cannon were used. Mr Parker was graduated in 1813 and to-day he is, so far as is known, not only the oldest living college graduate, but also the alumnus who has been graduated the greatest number of years from an American college. Rev Herman Halsey of East Wilson, N. Y., was the alumnus whose diploma bore the most ancient date-mark, having been graduated from Williams college in 1811, but since his death in March, Mr Parker has had undisputed possession of that unique position.

For several years after his graduation Mr Parker engaged in business and also spent some time as tutor in the family of a Virginia planter near Fredericksburg. He was admitted to the New Hampshire bar in 1821 and consequently he is to-day the oldest lawyer in the state. His first office was at Epping, but he removed to Concord in 1823, where he became editor of the New Hampshire Statesman. In 1825, in his capacity as aid to the governor of New Hampshire, Mr Parker was appointed to invite and escort Gen Lafayette, then visiting the United States, from Boston to Concord, where a public reception was tendered him. Half a century later Mr Parker, at the request of the New Hampshire historical society, published his recollections of Gen Lafayette and his visit to New Hampshire, from which the following incident is quoted:—

For the evening reception, the capitol and surrounding buildings were illuminated and a vast throng attended. At this levee, I introduced to the general my wife and first born child, announcing his name to be George Washington. He shook hands with the wife, took the child in his arms; impressed a kiss on its cheek; looked at the mother and then at the child, and in a subdued voice full of emotion said: "I am reminded of the loved and the lost!" I knew he was thinking of his own beloved wife; his first born child and his noble friend Washington—all dead.

Mr Parker traveled about 800 miles through the South and West as early as the winter of 1834-5 and his printed account of the journey passed through many editions, reaching the sale of 40,000 copies, a very large number for those days. When the great railway

Amos A. Parker, the celebrated college graduate, now in his 100th year, went from his home at Fitzwilliam this week to Keene on business. Those who had dealing with him state that he performed his part with the vigor and spirit of a young man.

Died May 11, 1893.

of the century was among the first to welcome the horse. He worked with the Legislature and addressed meetings in favor of the construction of the railroad between Boston and Burlington, Vt., and was active in procuring charters for the Fitchburg and Cheshire roads. Mr Parker has been well acquainted with many famous men, especially with Daniel Webster, and he has held more offices and remained in office during a longer period than any other man in New Hampshire. He was a justice of the quorum for 59 years, holding commissions from 14 different governors. He attended 13 sessions of the Legislature; was for two years on the staff of Gov Morrill with the rank of colonel; for eight years was a trustee of the state insane asylum; was first selectman of Fitzwilliam for 10 years and in addition he has been a member of the New Hampshire historical society, a member of the legal association of New York, while a large number of other positions of responsibility and trust have been held by him. Mr Parker sent a substitute and three sons to fight for the Union in 1861. Two of the sons returned, but the third fell in battle and now lies buried in a Mississippi swamp.

The married life of this centenarian is written in three chapters and all make pleasant reading. His first wife was the eldest daughter of Daniel C. Sanders, the first president of the university of Vermont; the second was the daughter of United States Marshal McClanely; and the third was Miss Julia E. Smith of Glastonbury, Ct. It was this third venture into the sea of matrimony that excited so much attention on the part of the public 14 years ago when the ceremony took place, both the principals at that time being 86 years old. Miss Julia E. Smith and Abby, her sister, had been made famous because of their determined resistance to the tax officers. They took the ground that taxation without representation is wrong and therefore women could not be taxed inasmuch as they had no political rights. That famous struggle between two good elderly women and the state of Connecticut took place back in the seventies and Misses Julia and Abby were legally worsted in the encounter, as is well remembered. Both those women were strong, intellectually, and Julia became particularly well known in later life, when the cow and tax episode had blown over, for her translation of the Bible from the original tongues. It was that translation, it was said, that brought Miss Smith and Mr Parker together in their old age. Of that happy marriage Mr Parker has lately written: "It was emphatically an intellectual marriage, and people wondered how I dared to marry such a learned lady, for she was an excellent mathematician as well as linguist. That our marriage was a success, however, nine years of happy wedded life abundantly prove. In March, 1886, she died and I left alone, have returned to my native place and, like the patient patriarch Job, am ready 'to die in my nest.'" During his married life with his last wife Mr Parker, it may be added, lived in Hartford, Ct.

During the influenza epidemic a year ago Mr Parker was one of the victims. He survived the attack and last March he furnished evidence of his unimpaired mental vigor and lively humor by contributing to the college periodical of the university of Vermont, a "dash at the arch fiend," of which the following are the closing lines:—

I may as well state
That, up to this date,
I've seen ninety-eight
Winters pass o'er my head
And yet I'm not dead
Nor in debt to my bed.
By no means!

Mrs. F. W. Plimpton and son have returned from a three months' trip to Europe.

The engagement is announced of Lieutenant Howard A. Giddings to Miss Florence Starkweather, of Denver, Col., daughter of John W. Starkweather, vice-president and general manager of the Denver, Lakewood & Golden Railroad, formerly of this city. price, 79c.

Thomas Schofield's Interesting Life Since Washington's Time.

SPECIAL TO THE POST.

Lyme, Oct. 12.—Thomas Schofield lives in the town of North Lyme, and is still hale and hearty, although he is over 100 years old, having been born March 21, 1791, in Yorkshire, England. He came to this country when he was two years of age, in the ship "Perseverance". His father was a weaver of woolen cloth and although Great Britain at that time had prohibited the emigration of mechanics and the export of tools and machinery, his father, in company with a brother, with no other tools than their two hands, were within a few weeks hard at work building the first hand loom and spinning jenny for use in an American woolen mill, and before the year was ended, their machinery had been set in motion in Newburyport and Charleston. The next year they started their extensive business at Byfield parish. Later it was removed to Montville, in this state. In

One Hundred and One Years Old. Mr. Amos A. Parker, formerly of Glastonbury and Hartford, and now of Fitzwilliam, New Hampshire, at the age of 100 years 10 months, writes in a private letter:

"You may think an old man like me, having no employment at all, must be quite at leisure, and can enjoy life well and be happy. But I am overworked. It is a troublesome thing to be a hundred years old, and the oldest living graduate of any college in the United States. Applications come faster than I can answer, requesting many things, among which are my autograph and picture. I had a plate made and 100 pictures at first; then 100 more, and now have only twenty-five left. I have sometimes tried to get off with a postal card, but it was of no avail; inquiries would come for further information.

"My right arm troubles me some about writing, but if I had a new pair of legs I should be in fair trim for an indefinite time. I am now in much better health than I was a year ago, but how much longer I shall live is a problem I cannot solve, but no doubt I shall live my allotted time. I have no particular anxiety about it; but sure I am I shall die but once."

more than 100 years, it has been his custom to rise very early and work from sunrise till sunset. Before he was 10 years old he was put at work in his father's mill and developed a remarkable talent for repairing and making improvements on the machinery. He has never known what it is to be sick and aside from $10, which he paid at one time for the setting of a broken leg, he has not paid out more than $4 for doctor's bills. His sight is comparatively undimmed and his mind as clear as when he was a young man. When asked to what he ascribed his success and extreme old age, he answered: "I never fretted much, but took things cool and easy." He claims that if it were necessary, he could to-day make good wages by working in a woolen mill. He is able to get around his place and do odd jobs and, taken all together, is a wonder of youth in old age.

The engagement is announced of Miss Julia Curtis Twichell, daughter of the Rev. Joseph H. Twichell, to Howard Ogden Wood of Brooklyn, N. Y. Mr. Wood is a lawyer. He was graduated from Amherst in the class of '84 and was a member of the Amherst chapter of Alpha Delta Phi.

Died Nov 14/1892

MONDAY MORNING, OCT. 12, 1891.
Mrs. Van Deusen of Middletown, widow of Captain Van Deusen, an officer of the war of 1812, celebrated her one hundredth birthday last Saturday.

REMARKABLE WOMAN DEAD

Mrs. Mary Cranston Van Deusen, Middletown's Centenarian Dies of the Grip.—Her Interesting Career. Special Dispatch to THE POST.

Middletown, Jan. 9.—Mrs. Mary Cranston Van Deusen, who was born at Newport, R. I. Oct. 10, 1791, died at her residence on High street in this city this morning at 3 o'clock of grip. She was the widow of Captain William Van Deusen who commanded a company of United States artillery at Fort Trumbull in the war of 1812.

She came to this city with her brother in 1812 and here first met Captain Van Deusen, whom she married in 1830.

Mrs. Van Deusen attended the reception given to Lafayette in this city in 1824 at what is now the residence of Bishop Williams on Main street.

She had a remarkable memory and often delighted her friends with reminiscences of the

ALMOST A CENTURY OLD.

Julia Benson, of Bridgeport, Will be 100 Years Old Wednesday.

Bridgeport, Oct. 12.—In the Bridgeport hospital there is a woman, Julia Benson by name, who will be 100 years old Wednesday.

She Will Be a Centenarian This Week Wednesday.

"Grandma" Julia Benson, as she is called, is a patient at the Bridgeport Hospital. This week Wednesday she will be 100 years old.

When told that her birthday was Wednesday, she said she knew she was almost a hundred years old and remarked wearily:

"I did not want to be 'GRANDMA' BENSON DEAD."

er part of the tires her. In she felt, she reaches, but her which makes Bridgeport, Oct., 27.—Grandma Julia Benson, died at the hospital in this city this morning at 5 o'clock. On October 14 she passed the century mark and her birthday was celebrated by children, grand-children and great-grand children.

Old age was the cause of death. She had been a paralytic for many years and the festivities of the day proved too severe for her as she was obliged to return to the bed from which she had arisen with great effort for the occasion. Mrs. Benson, whose maiden name was Julia Hall was born at Oyster Bay, L. I., and at the age of 30 years was married to Captain Robert Colwell by whom she had six children. After his death she married Captain John Ames, then a pilot on a vessel plying between New York and Norwalk. He was killed by a boiler explosion. Mrs. Ames third choice was Aaron Benson of Fairfield.

After his death she resided in Norwalk until stricken with paralysis when she went to live with relatives. She has been in the hospital since August 2, 1889. old age of 103 years.

Invitations have been issued for the marriage, October 14, of Miss Fannie Lincoln, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Lincoln, to Dr. Robert H. Hamill of Philadelphia. The reception, from 7 until 9 o'clock, will be held at the family residence, No. 25 Wethersfield avenue.

HAMILL—LINCOLN—In Hartford, Oct. 14, at the residence of the bride's parents, by Rev. Dr. Robert Hamill, assisted by Rev. Dr. E. P. Parker, Fannie M., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Lincoln, to Robert H. Hamill, of Philadelphia.

At 6:30 p. m. occurred the marriage of Dr. Robert W. Hamill, of Philadelphia, and Miss Fannie M. Lincoln, daughter of Mr. Charles L. Lincoln, of Wethersfield avenue. This was a home wedding, and was largely attended by society people and many guests from out of town.

Among those present were Messrs. Levrett Brainard, A. W. Jillson, Morgan G. Bulkeley, Nathaniel Shipman, E. P. Taylor, W. H. Bulkeley, Dr. Jarvis, E. V. N. Kittredge, H. W. Conklin, Mrs. N. H. Morgan, Dr. St. John, Miss Hendee, Dr. Segur, the Hon. George G. Sill, H. T. Sperry, Hugh Harbison, Henry H. Robinson, Miss Mary Robinson, W. W. Hyde, W. E. Sugden, Mr. Carlton, W. H. Whitelaw, C. P. and T. W. Lincoln, Samuel Taylor, J. B. Goodrich, Charles Pease, J. H. Phillips, Robert Wadsworth, Miss Mattie Wadsworth, Philemon W. Robbins and J. E. Morris.

The spacious rooms were decorated with palms, smilax, clusters of roses and potted plants. The floors were covered with crash and dancing was a part of the pleasure at the reception.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Robert Hamill, father of the groom, assisted by the Rev. Dr. E. P. Parker, of the South church. The bride was given away by her father, Mr. Charles L. Lincoln. She was dressed in white satin trimmed with lace, and wore a diamond brooch, the gift of the groom. The bridesmaids, Miss Elizabeth Lincoln and Miss Margaret Hamill, wore gowns of pink crepe and carried large bunches of pink roses.

Mr. Samuel M. Hamill was best man, and the ushers were the Rev. Charles I. Junkin, Dr. Thomas G. Ashton, Samuel M. Hamill and Harry Morris.

The wedding presents were very beautiful. There was a costly chest of fine linen from Mrs. Lincoln, and a diamond crescent from Mr. Lincoln. The groom's present was a set of diamonds, the brooch of which Miss Lincoln wore at the ceremony. Upon one large table were displayed the presents of cut glass, while pieces of elegant china, including a candelabra, filled another table. There was a large amount of solid silver, among which was a handsome candelabra with five branches. There were also several costly rugs and pieces of ornamental embroidery.

BOARDMAN—HAYWARD—In this city, Oct. 14, by the Rev. Dr. E. P. Parker, Frank R. Boardman to Susie L., daughter of Andrew J. Hayward.

BOARDMAN—HAYWARD.

At No. 24 Alden street, the residence of the bride's parents, occurred the pretty home wedding of Mr. Frank R. Boardman and Miss Susie L. Hayward, daughter of Mr. Andrew J. Hayward. The ceremony was at 7:30, and was performed by the Rev. Dr. E. P. Parker, of the South Congregational church. The parlors were decorated with flowers and plants. A large number of friends were present. Many appropriate wedding gifts were brought. Among them might be mentioned a beautiful piano lamp and complete sets of china and silver table ware. Mr. Boardman is an engraver at the Calhoun Printing Company's establishment, and is popular among his associates. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Boardman took the steamboat train for New York, for a short wedding trip. They will go on to the James River and visit friends at Washington and Philadelphia.

See Oct 4 Book vol 17 p 114

The Cook-Beckwith, Cent. Mass. formed at Christ Church.

At 6 o'clock last night the marriage of Miss Charlotte Gray Beckwith, daughter of the late Charles Beckwith, to Albert St. Clair Cook was solemnized at Christ Church. The chancel was handsomely decorated with palms, and a large gathering of the friends of the couple filled both the body and the galleries.

The bridal procession, headed by the boy-choir, entered the church from the right of the chancel and proceeded down the middle aisle to the vestibule, where the bride, with her brother, Richard Beckwith, was met.

To the strains of the Lohengrin wedding march, the procession returned to the chancel, where the groom was waiting with the best man, Francis C. Pratt. The Rev. Dr. S. J. Horton of the Cheshire Episcopal Military Academy performed the ceremony. He was assisted by the Rev. Mr. Hensel of Christ Church.

The bride, who was given away by her uncle, Mr. Edward Miller of Danville, Virginia, was attired in ivory white satin, trimmed with point lace, and a tulle veil. The bridesmaids' gowns were of white Japanese crepe, with wide ruffles of white lace around the neck and short puffed sleeves, and white satin ribbon sashes in the Empire style. They carried bouquets of maiden-hair fern. The bridesmaids were: Miss Dexter and Miss Sturgis of New York, Miss Cooke of Paterson, N. J., Miss Leecomb of Brooklyn, Miss Simonds of Warehouse Point, and Miss Mary Bulkeley of this city. The ushers were: Louis Cazenove Dupont of Wilmington, Del., Joseph Wilson Lucas of Philadelphia, Frederic William Wallace of Ansonia, and Henry Seymour Robinson, all classmates of the groom at Yale; Lucius Chester Ryce, Arthur Leffingwell Shipman and Colonel W. E. A. Bulkeley of this city, and Frederick Reed Hoisington of Coventry.

After the ceremony a supper was given for the bridal party at the residence of the bride on Gillett street.

Mr. Cook, who lives at 20 Charter Oak Place, is studying law in this city.

Among those present at the church were: Mrs. Henry Beckwith, Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Philemon Robbins, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Pratt, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Spaulding, Mrs. Simonds, Mrs. Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Whaples, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Judd, Mr. and Mrs. Hills, Mr. and Mrs. Hart, Judge White and Mrs. White, Mrs. Henry A. Whitman, Miss Christine Griffin, Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Hooker, the Misses Goodwin, the Misses Johnson, Miss Clara Cone, Dr. P. H. Ingalls, Miss Lillie E. Robbins, R. W. Huntington, jr., J. L. Bunce.

GRAY-FORD.

Miss Hattie J. Ford and Mr. James Gray were married last evening, at the home of the bride, No. 5 John street. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. J. Aspinwall Hedge, of the First Presbyterian church. The parlors were trimmed with ivy and evergreen and decorated with potted plants. Several cages of canary birds were suspended about the rooms. In the center was an arch of smilax, under which the ceremony was performed. The house was filled with guests and after the ceremony all partook of a wedding supper. There were many beautiful presents.

The bride was attired in a white silk gown trimmed with lace. Mr. John Gray, Mr. F. Westwood and Mr. Edmund Ford were ushers.

Mr. and Mrs. Gray left on the 9:35 train for Brooklyn, N. Y., where they will spend their honeymoon. Upon their return they will live in the Cheney building.

Richard C. Colt of New York, son of the late Harris Colt, was married at Garrison-on-Hudson, Wednesday noon, at the residence of the bride's father, to Miss Mary A. Sloan, daughter of Samuel Sloan, president of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western railroad. Messrs. L. F. Robinson and F. R. Shipman of this city, classmates of Mr. Colt at Yale, were two of the ushers. Others present from Hartford were Mrs. Samuel Colt and Dr. E. K. Root and Miss M. C. Root.

BROMLEY-CORNISH.

Mr. A. Fitch Bromley, the treasurer of the State Christian Endeavor Union, and Miss Annette E. Cornish, a school teacher, were married at 5:30, at the residence of the bride's uncle on Seymour street. The Rev. Dr. Stidham, of the Baptist church, of which Miss Cornish is a member, performed the ceremony. Secretary Hammond, of the Y. M. C. A., was best man, and the maid of honor was Miss Ethel Stidham, the daughter of Dr. Stidham. Master Harry Rapelye, a nephew of the bride, was page. The ushers were Mr. Ernest Root, Mr. E. J. Porter and Attorney John H. Kirkham. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Tomlinson and Mr. Charles Rapelye, of Hartford; Mr. F. D. Rapelye, of Meriden; Mrs. G. E. Brown, of Boston, and Master Charles H. Rapelye, of Springfield, Mass.

The bride was attired in a dress of pale green Lansdowne, trimmed with white lace, with train. She wore a wreath of bridal roses in her hair.

Mr. and Mrs. Bromley left on the 9:30 train for New York. On their return they will reside with Mrs. Bromley's mother, on Seymour street.

The most charming wedding of the season was solemnized at St. Paul's church in New Haven, yesterday afternoon, the contracting parties being Charles L. Robinson of Springfield, Mass., and Miss Gertrude H. Perry, one of the leading society girls of the city. The bride wore a Cleopatra gown of crepe de Chine, trimmed with pearl and diamond ornaments. The bridesmaid was Miss Frances Osborn, and the best man William M. Kimball of Springfield.

Henry Halsey Walker of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Miss Annie Meech Parker, daughter of Henry L. Parker of Norwich, were married in that city last night in the presence of a large audience, in Trinity Episcopal church, by the rector, Rev. Eritt B. Schmitt. The bride was attired in white Canton crepe. The groom is a broker on Cortlandt street, New York, and resides on Classon avenue, Brooklyn. He is a corporal in the Twenty-third regiment. He was accompanied to Norwich by several members of his regiment. Christopher Joost, Jr., of Brooklyn, was the best man, and one of the bridesmaids was Miss Louise Mayo Pettit of Buffalo. The couple will reside on Classon avenue.

MILLER-DREW WEDDING.

A Brilliant Affair at the First Baptist Church in Meriden.

The marriage of Max Elwin Miller of Meriden and Miss Susie D. Drew, the young elocutionist, was celebrated at the First Baptist Church in Meriden on Wednesday evening. The church was crowded to its utmost capacity by friends of the young couple. The assemblage was a brilliant one and represented the wealth and fashion of Meriden. The bride wore a dress of white silk en train, with lace and pearl trimmings, with veil. The best man was Mr. L. A. Miller, brother of the groom, and the bride was given away by her father, Mr. J. D. Drew. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. V. Garton of Cambridge, Mass. The music at the church was very fine and was furnished by Miss Emma Korn of Meriden, organist, Miss Vida Ayer of Hartford, violinist, and Miss Mertie Ludlow of Hartford, pianist. All of the musicians are friends of the bride and artists who have appeared many times with Miss Drew in public. Misses Ayer and Ludlow appeared with her at Worcester, Mass., last Thursday evening, on the occasion of Miss Drew's final appearance in public. The ceremony at the church was followed immediately by a brilliant reception at the home of the bride's father. The house, like the church, was beautifully decorated with plants and flowers.

1903

COOK-In this city, May 26, a daughter, Laura Taft, to Albert S. and Charlotte E. Cook.

A Wedding at Trinity Church, Wethersfield.

Yesterday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock the marriage of Miss Gertrude Hanmer of Wethersfield to John Latimer Way of St. Louis, was solemnized at Trinity Church, Wethersfield. The Rev. William W. Billinger of Brooklyn, N. Y., and the Rev. Louis A. Lanpher of Wethersfield, performed the ceremony. The ushers were Charles G. Stone and Frank Kendall of this city, and Charles H. Hanmer and Frederick C. Hanmer of Wethersfield. After the wedding there was a reception for the relatives of the newly married couple at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Ellen M. Hanmer.

Mr. Way was for many years in the employ of the Travelers Insurance Company at their office in this city. He now is their agent for Missouri, Nebraska and Iowa, with his headquarters at St. Louis. Mr. and Mrs. Way will reside at the Southern hotel in that city.

IVES.—In this city, Oct. 15, by the Rev. J. H. Twichell, Fred. C. Ives to Bertha L., daughter of Wm. H. King.

Lawn Party at Gilead.

A very charming lawn party was held at the summer residence of John L. Way on the evening of the 20th. The fine piazza and handsome grounds were illuminated with Japanese lanterns, and the display of fire works gave to the scene the effect of fairy-land. A large company were present, including many prominent people from surrounding towns. The music was a particularly enjoyable feature of the event. At the close of the evening, the Rev. Mr. Kyle proposed four cheers, one for Mr. Way, one for Mrs. Way, and for Fred and one for Elizabeth, and they were given with a will, showing a high esteem and regard for the family. All went home feeling that one of the good things of Gilead is the coming back to the old homestead of our summer residents.

JULY 22, 1901.

STRONG—LOUNSBURY.—In this city Oct. 20, by the Rev. Joseph H. Twichell, Herbert E. Strong and Miss Jennie Spalding, daughter of Mr. Cook Lounsbury, both of this city.

A Connecticut Girl's Romantic Engagement and Marriage.

Miss Grace Ethelind Warner of Stamford was married at the Church of the Strangers, New York, Tuesday evening, to Lieutenant James Wilkinson Clinton of Passaic, N. J. Regarding their romantic engagement and marriage, the New York Herald says:—

Lieutenant Clinton is a great-grandnephew of the first continental governor of New York, and his family has been prominent in this state and in New Jersey for more than a century. The bride is well known in society circles in this city, Stamford and London, where she spent the last year of her girlhood with her mother.

An element of romance surrounds the wedding. Lieutenant Clinton and Miss Warner were children together, and at the age of ten were betrothed by their respective parents. They were separated a few years later and did not meet again until two years ago, although they had been kept informed of each other's movements. The friendship of their earlier days was renewed and a year ago their engagement was announced to their friends. About one hundred of those witnessed the ceremony Tuesday evening.

WETHERSFIELD.
Cards are out for the wedding of Miss Mary Gertrude Hanmer, daughter of Mrs. Ellen N. Hanmer, to John Latimer Way of St. Louis, Mo., on Thursday, October 15, in Trinity Church, at 5:30 o'clock.

A Hartford Young Man Married at Kingston, N. Y.

Charles Alfred Worthington of this city, son of A. D. Worthington, and a member of the publishing firm of A. D. Worthington & Co., was married at Kingston, N. Y. Wednesday evening, to Miss Eva Carpenter, daughter of Surrogate Oliver P. Carpenter. The Kingston Leader says:—

There were two bridesmaids, Miss Emily Bartlett Smith of Binghamton, N. Y., and Miss Cynthia Ross Otis of Kingston, both intimate friends of the bride. Miss Alice Louise Worthington of Hartford, a sister of the groom, was the maid of honor. The best man was Frank P. Reynolds of Hartford, an intimate friend of the groom. The entire body of the church was reserved for the invited guests. On entering the church the guests were shown to seats by six ushers. The ushers were, Alfred B. Westbrook, Albert K. Hart, Robert R. DeWitt and Oliver Carpenter, a brother of the bride, all of Kingston, J. Benjamin Corbin of New York City and Fred. Langley Worthington of Hartford, a brother of the groom.

The bride, who is a very charming and attractive young lady and one of the most popular and well-known belles of Kingston, was attired in an exquisite gown of white faille silk with duchesse lace and pearl trimmings. Her dress was also trimmed with white flowers. She also wore a bridal veil, reaching the entire length of her train and very artistically arranged. In her hand she carried a bouquet of white rose buds. Miss Smith wore a gown of Nile green embroidered silk mull with gold trimmings. In her hand she carried a bouquet of yellow rose buds. Miss Otis was attired in a dress of pink crepe de chine with chiffon trimmings. She also carried a bouquet of yellow rose buds in her hand. Miss Worthington was attired in a dress of pale blue crepe de chine with lace trimmings. In her hand she carried a bouquet of pink rose buds. The marriage scene at the altar was one of the prettiest and most engaging ever seen in this city.

The newly-married couple received many handsome and costly wedding presents. The display of wedding gifts at the residence of Surrogate Carpenter on Fair street was one of the most extensive and elaborate ever seen in this city. Among the presents a noteworthy one was a beautiful home, completely furnished, at Hartford, the gift of the parents of the groom.

On their return from their bridal tour Mr. and Mrs. Worthington will make a visit of two weeks at the home of the groom at Hartford, after which they will go to housekeeping at their home at 243 Sigourney street, Hartford, where they will be at home after December 1.

Herbert E. Strong Married to Miss Jennie S. Lounsbury.

A very pleasant occasion was the wedding of Herbert E. Strong of the National Fire Insurance Company to Miss Jennie Spalding Lounsbury, at the residence of the bride's father, Lawyer Cooke Lounsbury, on Asylum avenue yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Joseph H. Twichell, who used the marriage service of the Episcopal church. The guests were mostly the family relatives and a few personal friends. The wedding presents were numerous and unusually fine. The bride and groom left at 5 o'clock for a short bridal trip. On their return they will live at 1,207 Asylum avenue.

Smith-Grilley.

A quiet home wedding, which will interest Hartford society, occurred at the residence of the bride's parents in Boston last evening. Andrew T. Smith of Prospect avenue, superintendent of agencies of the Hartford Life & Annuity Insurance Company, was there married to Miss Corrine Delano, daughter of Charles T. Grilley, esq., Worcester Square, Boston. After the ceremony the couple left for a short tour South. Mr. and Mrs. Smith will return to their home in this city early in November.

SMITH—GRILLEY.—In Boston, Oct. 20, at the residence of the bride's parents, by the Rev. Percy Browne, rector of St. James, Andrew T. Smith, of Hartford, and Miss Corrine Delano, daughter of Mr. Charles T. Grilley, Worcester Square.

STRONG—LOUNSBURY.—In this city Oct. 20, by the Rev. Joseph H. Twichell, Herbert E. Strong and Miss Jennie Spalding, daughter of Mr. Cook Lounsbury, both of this city.

Jan 26, 1901

Mrs. A. T. Smith of Prospect Avenue gave birth to a girl baby on Saturday.

1901 Jan 26, 1901

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew T. Smith held a wedding reception at their home on Prospect avenue from 8 to 10 Thursday evening. The house was beautifully decorated with flowers, roses and chrysanthemums being prominent. The young couple were assisted in receiving by the mother of Mr. Smith, and the parents and sister of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Grilley, of Boston. Refreshments were served. Among the large number of guests were the following: Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Knous and Miss Knous, Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Whitmore, Mr. W. F. Whitmore, Mr. and Mrs. James B. Cone, Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Enders, Mr. John O. Enders, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Sanborn, Mr. and Mrs. James M. Thomson, Mr. and Mrs. Burdett Loomis, Jr., the Rev. and Mrs. Storrs O. Seymour, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Hart, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Loomis, the Rev. J. F. Bingham, Mr. H. H. C. Bingham, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Whitman, Dr. and Mrs. Irving W. Lyon, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Russell, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Russell, Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Morris, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard D. Fisk, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Judd, the Hon. H. B. Freeman and wife, Miss Freeman, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Dustin, Mr. and Mrs. George Barton, the Hon. George G. Sill, Mr. and Mrs. Dr. J. E. Root, Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt Peek, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. English, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Kellogg, M. D., Mr. and Mrs. Charles Frisbie, Harrison B. Freeman, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt P. Preston, Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Grilley and Miss Grilley, Mr. Frank Smith, Miss Waldron, of Boston, and Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Stannard and Miss Stannard, of New Haven.

The Scott-Hill Ceremony in Manchester Last Evening.

The marriage of Miss Jennie E. Hill, only daughter of Wilbur F. Hill of Manchester, to H. Walter Scott of Hartford occurred at the Second Congregational Church at Manchester yesterday afternoon at 5:30. The ceremony was performed by the pastor the Rev. C. H. Barber.

The bride entered the church, leaning on the arm of the groom. Miss Edith Drake was maid of honor. The ushers were: N. G. Valentine, Hubert Chapman and David Calhoun of Hartford; Harry Howlett of New York, Charles I. Balch and Frank Spencer of Manchester. The bride wore a gown of white India silk trimmed with chiffon, and carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley with white roses and maidens hair ferns. About forty relatives and friends went out from Hartford on the 5 p. m., train. Mr. and Mrs. Scott will live in the Waverly building in this city.

Cudworth-Johnson.

Henry J. Cudworth and Irene M. Johnson were married at St. James's Church last evening by the Rev. John T. Huntington. The bride wore a gown of dove-colored corded silk and carried a bouquet of pink roses. The ushers were: Arthur L. Whitney of Springfield, and James S. Hubbard, Fred R. Brewer and Charles P. Conail of this city.

SEVENTY YEARS OF MARRIED LIFE.

George Bartlett and Ruth, his wife, celebrated the 70th anniversary of their marriage at the residence of their son in New Haven, Ct., Saturday. They were married in Guilford, Ct., October 24, 1821. Mr Bartlett was 93 years old yesterday and his wife will be 90 if she lives until April. From the age of 11 until he was 70 he sang in the choir of the Guilford Third Congregational church. He never had a headache or toothache, and the only time he was sick was 60 years ago. Two sons and three daughters out of 10 children are left and there are three great-grandchildren in Dakota. Mr Bartlett remembers well the events of the last war with Great Britain. Mrs Bartlett is deaf, but enjoys reading all the newspapers she can find.

CHAPLIN.

The Rev. Francis Williams and wife celebrated their golden wedding October 22. A general invitation was extended to all the Chaplin people and a large number were invited from out of town, which included several ministers. Rev. and Mrs. Williams received their friends at the parsonage from 2 until 3 p. m., where congratulations and good wishes were extended. About 3 o'clock the large company went to the church, where there were interesting exercises. Remarks were made by the Rev. Horace Winslow of Simsbury, the Rev. S. H. Fellows of Wauregan, the Rev. N. Beach of Norwich Town, the Rev. F. M. Wiswall of Windham, the Rev. C. A. Dinsmore of Willimantic. Poems were read and there was appropriate singing. Lunch was then served in the vestry, after which the company enjoyed a delightful social time. The pastor and his wife were the recipients of many useful and costly presents, among them being $175 in money, a purse of $50 in gold by Chaplin friends, $11 by Willimantic friends, a fine etching in frame by Eastford friends. The affair was a decided success and was the most delightful social event in Chaplin for a long time. Rev. and Mrs. Williams are grateful to all their many friends for the many tokens of friendship they received, and for help of the townspeople who gave so much assistance in carrying out this pleasant event.

Eugene Van Schaick's Secret Marriage.

(New York Tribune.)

The following marriage notice has created more than a mild sensation in club circles:—

VAN SCHAICK-PYNE—On Thursday, November 25, 1896, by the Rev. J. B. Strodale, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Miss Sarah Howland Pyne, daughter of the late James Walter Pyne, esq., to Eugene Van Schaick of the city of New York.

Eugene Van Schaick, whose marriage five years ago was thus made public yesterday, is a well-known club man, and has been thought by all but his most intimate friends to be one of the eligible bachelors of the town. He is a member of the Union, Manhattan, Athletic and Knickerbocker Fencing clubs, and is one of the most constant attendants at the last two. His marriage and his remarkable success in keeping it secret for so many years were the absorbing topics of conversation among his friends wherever they met last night.

PEEK-HOUSE.

A Quiet Wedding Celebrated on Collins Street This Morning.

The marriage of DeWitt Judson Peek to Ellen Sterling House was celebrated at No. 208 Collins street this morning at 11 o'clock, Rev. Joseph H. Twichell, pastor of the Asylum avenue Congregational church, officiating. The marriage ceremony was attended only by the relatives of the bride and groom, who left on the 12:24 express for New York and the South. The house was charmingly decorated, chrysanthemums predominating.

The groom is secretary of the Mutual Benefit Life company, of this city, an ex-fire commissioner of Hartford under Mayor Bulkeley, and an aide-de-campe during the term of office of Governor Charles R. Ingersoll.

Cards are out for the wedding of Miss Irene M. Johnson, clerk at Hurd, Mellen & Hewes, to Henry J. Cudworth, a member of the Hartford Wheelclub. The ceremony is to take place October 21, 6:30 p. m., at St. James church.

George and Ruth will be 90 if she lives until April. From the age of 11 until he was 70 he sang in the choir of the Guilford Third Congregational church. He never had a headache or toothache, and the only time he was sick was 60 years ago. Two sons and three daughters out of 10 children are left and there are three great-grandchildren in Dakota. Mr Bartlett remembers well the events of the last war with Great Britain. Mrs Bartlett is deaf, but enjoys reading all the newspapers she can find.

102
BARTON—PRATT—In this city, Oct. 23, by the Rev. E. P. Parker, D. D., George H. Barton to Miss Carrie Seymour Pratt, daughter of Captain James C. Pratt.

A Pretty Home Wedding on the Hill.

A very pretty wedding was that of George H. Barton and Miss Caroline C. Pratt, daughter of Captain J. C. Pratt, at the home of the bride's parents, 700 Farmington avenue, yesterday, at 6:30 p. m. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Parker. The house was handsomely decorated with flowers and the large piazza was closed with

The best of a pretty home wedding took place Bourn, and Thursday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. H. C. Bingham on Steele road, and William honor was adjoining Elizabeth park, when Miss-bridemaids Mary C. Roberts and George H. Bar-Bessie Forbes, ton were married. The ceremony was by her father, performed by the Rev. Dr. William A.

The reception Bartlett of the Farmington Avenue very largely at Congregational church, school class w Miss Roberts, formerly of this city, Mrs. Barton of late has resided in Pendleton, Orestreet until ngon, with her sister, Mrs. Fred E. home on Farm Judd. Mr. Barton is well known in pleted. Hartford, and is connected with the Success

Charles D. friends were present at the ceremony. ford and mor Mary Cornwall Roberts, a niece and severed his co maidensake of Miss Roberts, acted as America Assu maid of honor. Among the out-of-town guests were Mrs. Charles W. the position Gray of Portsmouth, N. H., a sister Greenwich of the bride, formerly of this city, headquarters After returning from a wedding trip York. The Co the Bermudas, Mr. and Mrs. Barton in its fifty-fowill reside at No. 716 Farmington broken recordayene.

the public and its competitors.

KRAMER—SPRAGUE—In this city, Thursday, Oct. 23, at Christ Church, by the Rev. Charles A. Hensel, Rev. Frederick F. Kramer of Boulder, Colorado, and Miss Ada J. Sprague of Hartford.

WEDDING AT CHRIST CHURCH.

Miss Sprague Married to the Rev. Mr. Kramer.

The Rev. Frederick Ferdinand Kramer and Miss Ada Josephine Sprague, youngest daughter of ex-Mayor Joseph H. Sprague, were married at Christ Church yesterday at 5 p. m. The church was gracefully decorated with palms and chrysanthemums.

The Rev. Mr. Hensel, assistant rector of the church, performed the ceremony in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends. The bride wore white Bedford cord, with long tulle veil, and orange blossoms in her hair. William C. Hicks, Trinity '91, acted as best man. The ushers were Edward T. Sullivan and William Prossey, both of the Cambridge Divinity School, William L. Phelps, formerly of Hartford and now an instructor in Harvard, and George W. Ellis, Trinity '94. There were no bridesmaids.

The groom is a graduate of Trinity in the class of '99, and is settled over a parish at Boulder, Col.

The wedding reception in the evening was held for the relatives and ushers only. The presents were very handsome and included a great deal of silver.

Mrs. M. E. S. Kimball and the Misses Kimball of Boston, Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Kimball and Mr. and Mrs. Henry D. Lyman of New York, Mrs. Helen Foster of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Mrs. F. E. Stevens of Boston were among the guests from out of town. Among the guests at the church were: Mrs. C. C. Kimball, George Ellis, Miss Sarah M. Goodwin, Miss Mary Bulkley, Miss Buck, the Misses Mather, Miss Rose Johnson, Miss Matson, Miss Holcomb and Miss Griffin.

SOLD TO A NEW YORK MAN.

The Webster Place on Highland Street Changes Hands.

Mr. W. F. Lines, a retired merchant of New York, on Saturday purchased through the agency of Gladwin & Morse the handsome residence and grounds on Highland street, the property of John C. Webster, vice-president of Aetna Life Insurance Company. The price paid is about $20,000. Mr. Lines will occupy the property about December 1, and intends to spend $3,000 upon it in improvements.

Mrs. Lines is a sister of Henry R. Hovey, bookkeeper for George P. Bissell & Co., First Sergeant Frederick E. Hovey of the

MISS BARTON MARRIES

ENSIGN RISLEY, U. S. N.

NOVEMBER 14, 1912

Pretty Wedding at Home of Captain James C. Pratt on Farmington Avenue—Naval Uniforms Prominent.

Miss Beatrice Barton, daughter of George H. Barton of No. 716 Farmington avenue, and Ralph Green Risley, ensign on the U. S. S. Connecticut, were married this afternoon at 4:30 at the home of the bride's grandparents, Captain James C. Pratt and Mrs. Pratt, No. 721 Farmington avenue. The ceremony was solemnized in the drawing room before a bank of palms and white chrysanthemums. The Rev. Dr. William A. Bartlett, pastor of the Farmington Avenue Congregational church, officiated. The full Episcopal service was used. The bride was given away by her father. The wedding march from "Lo-hengrin" was played by the Beeman & Hatch orchestra. The bridal party entered the drawing room between two rows of ribbons, held from the doorway by a ribbon girl, Mary Elizabeth Gaylord of Saratoga Springs, N. Y., a cousin of the bride, and a ribbon boy, Kennon Jewett, also a cousin of the bride. The ushers entered first, followed by the flower girl, the bridesmaids, the maid of honor and the bride and father. A reception followed the ceremony. The bride was of H gowned in white charmeuse, with duchess lace trimming. She wore her great-grandmother's wedding veil, which was caught with orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley and maiden-hair fern.

The bridesmaids were Miss Olive Sheldon and Miss Helen Loveland. They wore white chiffon cloth, trimmed with petunia satin, and carried bouquets of white roses and maiden hair fern. Miss Agnes H. Barton, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore white chiffon and carried Richmond roses. The flower girl, Esther Gaylord of Saratoga Springs, N. Y., a cousin of the bride, was dressed in white and carried a basket of Richmond roses. The ushers were Robert English and Henry Clay, ensigns on the U. S. S. Connecticut. Ames Loder, ensign on the U. S. S. Nebraska, was best man.

The groom, the ushers and the best man were classmates at the Annapolis Naval academy, class of 1911. All four were in full dress uniform. Only relatives and immediate friends were present.

Ensign Risley and Mrs. Risley will leave early this evening for a wedding trip. The groom is a West Hartford boy.

